John Brown of Campbellford, was the victim of a serious accident Saturday. While engaged in shaving wood with a sharp drawknife the knife slipped and struck him on the leg, just below the knee-cap, lacerating it so badly that it took seventeen stitches to sew the wound up. He was brought to the city Saturday night on the 8.58 train, from Campbellford, and conveyed to Nicholls Hospital in Bellegbem's private ambulance.

The victim of the accident resides near Marmora, but was employed at the cheese factory, near Campbellford.

AT THE REX THEATRE

The management has been very fortunate in securing this week a conglomeration of foreign and American Acts, the likes of which have never been seen in Peterborough. The Modernistas, a team of classy Spanish dancers are new to this country and come well recommended and are bound to please the most fastidious, and the celebrated Cox Family Sextette, who will render their original Playlet "The Italian Music Master," wherein there is introduced the most wonderful harmony singing ever heard in these parts. There will be plenty of refined comedy. The personnel of the Sextette consists of Miss Violet, who is famous as a baritone soloist, the dainty Miss Mildred, known as the girl with the roguish eyes, Miss Josie, as the dashing soprano, Master James, the wonderful boy basso, Baby Elmer, the child comedian, and Prof. Cox, as the eccentric music teacher, promise to make this ensemble one of the best ever, as the Theatre Management have made up their minds to secure for their patrons the best acts that can be procured, regardless of their cost. Do not miss this treat.

PUNCTUALITY AT FUNERALS.

Now that the occasion of offence has for some time passed away, it is not amiss to call the attention of the Ministerial Association to a distinct grievance in connection with the conducing of funerals and to suggest that the hour announced for funerals should be the object of punctuality. Wtih a funeral announced at 2.30 o'clock and the service beginning at three, and even then unduly protracted, undesirable conditions are created. Friends and neighbours desire to pay the last tribute of respect to deceased friends or neighbours, but they do not wish to undergo unnecessary sacrifices to do so. Many men of business, and all are called away from duties at generally the busiest part of the day. Many a business man can spare half an hour for a funeral, who cannot without possible loss or inconvenience spare an hour or an hour and a half. If he desires to attend a funeral at a fixed hour, and makes a business engagement accordingly, he has a ground of grievance, if the service is late in beginning or so long drawn out as to interfere with the arrangement he has made. The minister has the matter in his own hands; he can or should begin the service ata the residence punctually, and thus permit those who are called away, from pressing duties to return to them in reasonable time. If the Ministerial Association desires to do so it can remedy the matter spoken of. The Association has very properly discouraged the Sunday funeral; for one reason because it interferes with the discharge of the other duties of ministers, and it should not, in the spirit of fair play, be averse to consulting the convenience of others whose duties are unnessarily neglected by the dilatory manner of conducting funeral services, without due regard to punctuality.

MR. BRYAN COMMENDS.

A prophet is not without honour, save in his own country. As with prophets ,so it is with the natural advantages which a country enjoys, and also those acquired advantages which are obtained under its laws and customs; it often needs the eye of the outsider to discover the striking benefits of some institution with which the people are blessed. The earnest tribute paid to the Canadian Government Annuities system by Mr. William Jennings Bryan during his address to the citizens of Peterborough should do much to determine the question for those who have not yet taken advantage of the system, the opinion coming, as it does, from one who has made the social problem a life study. He is reported to have said: "I have been trying for years to figure out a similar scheme for the benefit of the citizens of the United States, and I cannot understand why every civilized country does not follow the lead of Canada and encourage the people to put something by for the day when they will be too old to work. "This is true co-operative government," he added. "While other countries have established pension schemes, which are but extensions of Poor Law Relief, the result of which is to pauperise, and not to stimulate thrift, the Canadian government has, by its Annuities Act, inaugurated a scheme whereby thrift is promoted, and the people are provided with facilities which will enable them to help themselves and at the same time preserve their self-respect and dignity."

WIDENING OUT.

The opponents of reciprocity tell us that the reduction of the duty on agricultural implements of 2 1-2 per cent. will smite the industries concerned in their production and play the deuce generally with all the interests of the country, destroy Canadian nationality, kill all confidence in the future and 'hurl' the country into the arms of the United States. We have had many examples of the futility and folly of such hysterical outbreaks, in the great projects of new enterprises that mount into the millions and furnish evidence that the people of enterprise, ambition, and commercial, financial and industrial foresight, see far other things than decay for Canada. The latest important evidence of industrial and capitalistic confidence in the future of the country is the Massey-Harris Company, whose foreign trade has increased so rapidly as to necessitate great increase of manufacturing capacity. This company is trying to secure the site of the present Central Prison or the asylum property, Toronto, for their new buildings. The total cost of the new buildings, exclusive of sites, will be about $250,000. The demand for the expansion of their present facilities has been such that castings have been made for months past in half a dozen foundries scattered here and there. Here we have proof that the Canadian agricultural implent industry in Canada need not fear the competition of the United States or any other country. Canadians have been able to undersell and outsell United States manufacturers in the foreign markets, and why should they not be able to hold the home market with a duty of 15 per cent.!

HOT WEATHER CHURCH SERVICES.

Zeal is a noble quality, but zeal, without discretion, can easily defeat its object. The reverend gentleman, who ,with the thermometer aspiring to the hundred degree mar, keeps a melting congregation an hour and a half in a furnace-like church is practically administering on earth the punishment decreed for the unrepentent in a future state. It seems humanly impossible that a Christian congregation can be in the spirit on the Lord's Day, sitting under a service drawn out under the fiery heat of yesterday, to the length of ninety minutes. No missioner would select a man suffering from a raging toothache, as a promising object of conversation, or counsel, as to the state of his soul, and it does not seem that the ablest sermon, the strongest appeal—especially if it is of the longest—directed to a congregation melting with fervent heat, will overcome the physical suffering and moral boredom which it is apt to engender under such conditions, and produce much good effect. This little remonstrance has no individual application, but is generally directed towards unwisely prolonged services in hot weather. It is hard enough to get the people to church, to submit to oratorical roasting, but when to this is added physical roasting, under hot-weather conditions, clergymen and ministers might reasonably well resist the temptation to prolong church services unduly with the thermometer hovering about the hundred-degree mark. There is no disposition to dictate in the matter of duty to the pulpit; but to reasonably ask whether it is wiser to give a short service and sermon, gauged to the capacity of physical endurance of a congregation or to prolong the service to the point of making a flock weary in well doing and good listening.

QUEEN VICTORIA.

(Montreal Star)

To-day the British Empire pauses in its progress toward the Coronation of King George to unveil a monument to Queen Victoria. It is hard to realise that it is only a decade since the great and good Queen died—just as it was hard to realise at the time that the Queen, who had filled so large a part of the vision of most people then living, was really dead. A monarch who reigns for sixty-three years gains much of the stability of an inajitution in the minds of the people. They come to think that she has always been Queen and always will be.

The influence of Queen Victoria upon her age has been recognized so often that it has passed into an adage. We speak of "the Victorian Era" as we do of "the Elizabethan Era," or the "Age of Augustus". The world marched very fast and very far during her reign; and men, who saw its beginnings would hardly have believed themselves living on the same earth at her death. Great men stood round her throne from first to last and moulded the destiny of the human race. Great soldiers fought under her standard. She bridged in her life the gap from Wellington to Kitchener; she took advice as a constitutional sovereign from Lord Melbourne, from Peel, from Disraeli, from Gladstone, from Salisbury; Tennyson, Browning, Ruskin, Carlyle, Dickens, and a score of other literary lights scintillated in her shadow. Darwin and Spencer thought boldly in the freedom of her age; science flourished and gave to us its best gifts; most of the furnishings of life were invented between '37 and 1901.

From her letters and other memoirs of her day, we have come to appreciate better than we ever did in her lifetime what a part she played in the constitutional development of her country. She was a wise sovereign. She strengthened the position of the British monarchy enormously by possessing the courage and the shrewdness to pilot it through the reefs on which many another royal house has come to grief, though the swift currents of modern thought played upon the British throne as strongly as on any other. She kept a firmer seat in the affections of her people than any predecessor had ever held in their fears or by reason of "divine" or human right. She formed an alliance with the spirit of the age instead of trying to repel or conquer it.

Monuments to her honour rose throughout the Empire long before her death. She had become a tradition while she yet reigned. No monument which can now be erected will be greater than the memory of her which still lives amongst us or the place she must ever hold in British history. She was revered and beloved throughout civilisation: but the affection for her among her own people was of much deeper character as their reverence was the more profound. The heart of the Empire will be in London to-day when the veils drop from the latest monument which is to remind future generations of her greatness.

Mr. Borden, Conservative Leader, And The Farmer Of Canadian West

(Manitoba Free Press)

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier visited Western Canada, last summer, he was waited upon at nearly every country point by delegations of farmers made up chiefly of members of the Grain Growers' Associations, who met before him their views upon current issues in which they were directly interested, and urged action by the Government. These delegations were received with courtesy by the Prime Minister, and the requests were frankly discussed. There was no suggestion by anybody that the farmers in acting thus were guilty of discourtesy. Sir Wilfrid would doubtless have been the first to defend the propriety of their action had it been challenged.

Mr. Borden is coming west next month to address some thirty meetings in Western Canada upon current political questions. The farmers' organizations are preparing to submit him to the same ordeal. Evidence is accumulating, however, that the proposed programme is by no means welcome to Mr. Borden, or, at least, to those of his friends who have charge of the details of the trip. There is a disposition to resent, in advance, the action of the farmers, and an attempt is being made to represent it as partisan in its character. A despatch, which has been sent from Ottawa to Conservative papers throughout Canada, says:

"In the Liberal camp there is also activity. There will be a strong effort made to render abortive the western tour of Mr. Borden. Indeed, Roderick Mackenzie, of the Grain Growers' Guide, has sent out the call ot a number of the Liberal workers who are connected with the Grain Growers' Association to get together and spoil Mr. Borden's meetings

The parties who are active in arranging for the delegations to wait upon Mr. Borden are those who, last year, were equally active in seeing that the case of the Western farmers was presented to Sir Wilfrid. Their action is no more partisan now than it was last year. It may be, conceivably, inconvenient that Mr. Borden should be called upon to deal specifically with the public questions in which the farmers of the West are directly interested, but this is incidental to the position he holds, and he should submit to it with the patient good nature which Sir Wilfrid Laurier displayed a year ago. There is certainly no intention on the part of anybody to spoil Mr. Borden's meetings. They may not be successes, but in that case the responsibility will rest solely upon Mr. Borden and the associated speakers. Unless the leader of the Opposition has very greatly improved in the art of platform speaking, the meetings are likely to be as decorous and as dull as they were in 1907, when he toured Western Canada from end to end and scarcely excited a ripple of interest on the political sea. The speeches on the present occasion will probably be more effective, though in a manner which Mr. Borden scarcely counts upon, because, if he declares the unswerving hostility of his party to reciprocity in natural products with the United States he will make Liberal votes at every meeting he addresses.

Among the matters which the Western farmers propose to discuss with Mr. Borden, not at his public meetings, but at interviews which will be arranged for, are reciprocity with the United States, the lowering of the tariff, subsidies for the chilled meat industry, the building and operation of the Hudson Bay road, and the proposed increase in the British preference. Excepting with respect to reciprosity, Mr. Borden's favourite attitude in the House when these matters have been debated has been to declare that he will announce his policy when he is placed in office. That was the ground he took with regard to the proposal that the British preference should be increased, when a direct challenge to him to declare his position was made in the House of Commons last month; and the same reply was made, not by Mr. Borden, but by another leading member of the Opposition, Dr. Sproule, when the Minister or Agriculture asked the direct question whether the Opposition were in favour of meeting the demands of the farmers of Alberta in the matter of subsidies for the chilled meat industry. In taking this position, Mr. Borden is emulating the historical example of Sir Robert Peel, who, at a political crisis in England, set forth his polisy in the phrase: "Call me in and I shall prescribe." This is a very fine piece of policy if it is effective. It was effective in Sir Robert Peel's case; but it by no means follows, under the conditions which prevail in Canada, to-day, that it will help Mr. Borden to reach the treasury benches.

The weakness of the Liberal Government in the West is that its policies are not sufficiently radical and progressive. Ardent Westerners, in a hurry to get things done, are inclined to regard the Ottawa Government as too cautious. They are, however, not going to make the mistake of replacing the Ottawa Government by a reactionary administration. The signs are accumulating that the Conservative party of Canada has delivered itself, body and soul, to the custody of the special interests, and that Mr. Borden is taking orders from parties whose interests demand a policy of non-intercourse with the United States and high protection all around, against the whole world. That impression is now very strongly held, throughout the West. Four years ago, Mr. Borden was regarded by many as a leader who might prove more progressive than Sir Wilfrid Laurier. That feeling has been replaced by one of apprehension that, if given power, he will use it unworthily in the iterests of special privilege.

By a frank discussion of the questions of the day, during his travels through the West, Mr. Borden might remove this feeling and reinstate himself in the good opinions of the Western people. If he fails to be frank, and takes refuge in wide generalities and vague promises, he will simply confirm the belief now very generally held throughout Western Canada, that he is not a man who is to be trusted with the high responsibilities of the premiership of Canada.

"THE BLACK CROSS"

By OLIVE N. BRIGGS

CAHPTER XXIV.

"Kaya!"

"Velasco! Ah, Velasco! Don't come—don't touch—me!"

He sprang forward.

She was still in the Brunnhilde dress with the helmet on her head and the white robes trailing. The spear lay at her feet. He trampled on it as he sprang, snatching her into his arms: "Kaya!"

His grip was like a band of steel and he wound his arms about her, pressing her to him: "Kaya, my beloved! Open your eyes! Look at me!" He tore the helmet from her head and flung it to the ground. The red-blonde hair fell back, and he kissed her cheek and her curls.

He was like a whirlwind wooing and she like a lily blown by the gale. She lay in his arms. Her lips quivered as he kissed them, but she lay without motion or sign.

"Are you faint?" he cried, "have you swooned? Kaya! It is as if the world had gone to pieces suddenly, and this were chaos, and only you and I—only you and I."

He kissed her eyelids.

"Open them, Kaya, they are blue as the sky."

He kissed her throat.

"It swells like a bird's when it trills, and the sound of it is as a nightingale in the twilight."

He kissed her lips.

"Ah, they are warm; they quiver and tremble!"

His arms were so strong she was pinioned, and she panted as she breathed. He kissed her again and again, as one who is starving and thirsty, and she stirred in his arms, lifting her face:

"Velasco — my husband — my — self! To lie in your arms—it is heaven, and to leave them is hell! Let me go—Velasco! I love you—I love you! Let me—go!"

"So long as the world lasts and there is strength in my body — never! Say you love me again."

"I love you."

"You will never leave me? You will stay with me always while we live? Say it, Kaya! Your cheeks are white like a sea-shell; they flush like a rose when I press them with my lips! Say it, Kaya! You are trembling — you are sobbing!"

"I must leave you, Velasco —. I cannot stay. It is like leaving one's life and one's soul!"

He laughed: "Leave me then! Can you stir from my arms? They are strong. I will hold you forever." He laid his dark, curly head against the gold of her curls, and she felt his breath against her throat.

She opened her eyes: "My hands, Velasco—they are stained with blood—have you forgotten? How can I stay with you when there is—blood on my—hands?"

He pressed her closer: "Give them to me: let me kiss the stains!"

"I am cursed, Velasco, I am cursed! I have taken the life of a man!"

He held his breath suddenly, moving his face until he could see into her eyes. "Ah," he said, "is that why you left me, Kaya, because of the curse?"

"Yes—Velasco."

"You loved me then! It was a lie? Kaya, tell me!"

"I loved you, Velasco, I loved you."

"And now—?"

She clung to him and his arms tightened.

Suddenly he laughed again. "Hark—he cried, "You hear the shouting? They are shouting for you! They are stamping and clapping for you; they are calling your name!" He threw back his head, laughing madly:

"Come—Kaya! Let us go together and peep through the curtain. The first time I saw you, you were there in the House, and I behind on the stage alone, with your violets. Now we are together. You will leave me you say? Come, Kaya and look at the House through the curtain. You are trembling, little one; and when I put you down on your feet you can scarcely stand. You are sorry to leave me? It is like tearing one's heart from one's body while one still lives! Will you tear it, beloved? Come—and look through the hole in the curtain."

He put his arm about her, drawing her forward, looking down at her curls. "You are weak, Kaya; your form sways like the stem of a flower. Lean against me. Let me lead you. It is because your heart is so loyal and true; to kill it will be killing yourself! Don't sob, Kaya. Look through the curtain! Hark at the stamping! Look — dear beloved—lean on my shoulder and look!"

"Ah, Velasco, it is like a great mob; the Kapellmeister is there before the curtain. He tries to speak, but they will not listen! They are calling: "Brunnhilde — Brunnhilde! Is that for me?"

"For you."

"Why should I look, Velasco — why should I listen? My heart is breaking. I cannot bear it—Velasco!"

"Lean on my shoulder; look again. Kaya, put your eyes to the hole. Do you see a loggia above to the left, full of people standing, and in front some one tall and in uniform?"

"No, Velasco—I see nothing!"

"It is the tears in your eyes, Kaya! Brush them away and look once again. Don't you see him—in uniform, tall with a beaked nose, a grey moustache and his eyes crossed?"

"His eyes crossed—Velasco! Are you mad? He is dead! I tell you, Velasco, he is — dead! The Grand-Duke Stepan!—I killed him!"

"He is not dead."

"The Grand-Duke Ste—"

"He is not dead. He lives and he stands there before you—clapping and shouting your name."

She gazed up at him with trembling lips: "There is no curse, Velasco—he lives? There is—no curse—no stain on my hands. Am I mad? No curse of the Cross—the Black Cross?"

"Kaya—my beloved!"

Details That Show Care

Your desire, madam, is to see clothes on your boy at least as good in appearance as those worn by your husband. Is that not so? But how often are you able to gratify this very natural desire? Not very often. Why?

For this reason: With the average manufacturer, the making of children's clothes is more or less of a side line.

With us it's a specialty. That's the difference.

That same difference, however, represents the margin of value which you fail to get when you are content to accept clothes which do not bear the Sanford Juvenile Brand.

One little detail that illustrates the care we give to small things is a loop instead of buttons at cuff of sleeve to permit of letting down, to accommodate the growing youngster, who grows faster in the arms than anywhere else.

The Sanford dealer in your town will be glad to show you this and other advantages of Sanford Juvenile Clothing. Ask to see the new Spring and Summer styles.

AN APPEAL FOR THE DR. BARNARDO HOMES

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The Council of Dr. Barnardo's Homes find it necessary to ask the public to assist them in coming to a somewhat difficult decision. Since the death of Dr. Barnardo five years ago, the sympathy of the innumerable friends and admirers of his work has enabled us, not only to carry on this work, but even to extend it in accordance with his known desire. We have hitherto followed with the utmost strictness his unalterable rule, that no destitute child shall be refused admission; no votes, no influence, no credentials have ever been required for admission to Dr. Barnardo's Homes. A child's destitution, for which it can in no case be itself responsible, has always been the only test.

Now we are faced with this difficulty. Up to the middle of last year the income of the Homes was increasing, as it has always increased, in almost exact proportion to the increase in the number of destitute children who had to be provided for. Then there was a sudden fall, and at the end of the year there was a deficiency of over £38,000. It is not necessary to go into the reasons for this being so—they are beyond your control and they have affected other charities in the country, in many cases to an even greater degree.

The same thing is continuing during the present year. Our income would be considered enormous, but it is insufficient to support the 9,400 children who are now in the Homes. We have practically no endowments, and for permanent relief we must either reduce our expenses or increase our income.

Are we to do the former? We have endeavoured to maintain Dr. Barnardo's tradition of strict economy in everything except the proper plain food, clothing, education and personal training of the children themselves. There are no high salaries to be cut down, no excessive staff to be reduced—we can economise in children only.

This is the question which we have to decide at once. Because we have no endowments, and because the Homes depend entirely on the country's daily appreciation of Dr. Barnardo's work, the matter is urgent; but in six months we could bring our expenditure within our present income, by abandoning the rule which Dr. Barnardo followed for all his life, and which he has left for his successors to follow and maintain.

Is it worth it? Looked at merely as a matter of pounds, shillings, and pence, the thousand destitute children who would be refused admission would, if admitted, be worth to the country in the future many thousands of pounds as honest, hard-working citizens. If left destitute, who can say how much they will cost? Destitute men and women have seldom much future before them—they often have a very extensive past. Destitute children have no past—of their own making—and their future is almost a certainty of an honourable, independent life, if they are given the opportunity, which they can seldom make for themselves, and which the workhouse does not adequately provide. It is a good investment to give it to them, and by every canon of human conduct it is also an absolute duty.

We ask the public to decide for us and to decide quickly. If they are in any doubt, will they come and see for themselves?

I am, sir, your obedient servant,
SOMERSET, President.

FELL FROM A SCAFFOLD—WAS BADLY INJURED

Mr. A. Madden of this city, who was seriously injured while working on a building in Orillia five weeks ago, was brought to the city Saturday night on the 9 o'clock train, and conveyed to his home on Perry street, in Bellegheem's private ambulance. Mr. Madden was employed by Mr. R. Sheehy, contractor, also of this city. At the time of the accident he was working upon a high scaffold, when a portion of it gave way, precipitating Mr. Madden to the ground. He sustained a compound fracture of the leg, and his back was severely injured. He was at once removed to the hospital in Orillia. After having spent five weeks there it was considered safe to have him removed to his home; but it will be some time yet before he will be sufficiently recovered to enable him to be out.

ANOTHER FIRE

Messrs. John and William Arnberg, of Eagle Lake, Sustain Heavy Losses

Word has been received from Mr. William Arnberg at Eagle Lake, north Haliburton, describing the loss to himself and brother John, of the entire place by fire on Friday last. A heavy northwest gale drove a fire clean across their clearing of 40 acres sweeping everything, house, barns, contents, fences. They took some of the contents out of the house, but it was only to have it burned in the field. A threshing machine and all their farm implements were destroyed, besides about $400 worth of logs cut last winter and on the skid-ways. Their uncle John also lost some of his fences, and the fire swept on through the woods for a considerable distance.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

3 BOXES CURED PSORIASIS
Mrs. Nettie Massey, Comeaon, Ont., writes: "Three doctors described my trouble as psoriasis, and one said I could never be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment and am entirely cured—not a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this Ointment enough."

BAD FIRES

A report from Minden says that on the Peterson road in the north of Minden township, a fire got a start and before it had finished it burned two barns and about 20 cords of wood. The barns belonged to Messrs. Fetterly and King, whose farms adjoin. In Snowden township, Mr. Arthur Sholer's dwelling was burned to the ground together with some fifty cords of wood.

180 CHILDREN RECEIVE THEIR FIRST COMMUNION

Some 180 children who had not yet received their first communion, made it yesterday morning. Owing to the new Papal decree of the age for admitting children to first communion, there was an extra large number.

The Rev. Dr. O'Brien said mass, after which the children made their promises, viz.: To receive communion frequently, say their night and morning prayers daily, and abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors.

In the afternoon the children renewed their baptismal promises, consecrated themselves to the Sacred Heart and were enrolled in the scapular of the Blessed Virgin Mary. By the manner in which the children conducted themselves, they displayed an excellent training.

Fell From Lock Gate And Had Narrow Escape

Edward Hogan, the sixteen year old son of Mr. Patrick Hogan, of the Albion Hotel, East City, had a narrow escape from drowning last evening when he slipped as he was crossing the gate of the Ashburnham lock and fell into the water. Fortunately he could swim and he managed to make his way across to the other side of the lock. Here, however, the high and smooth cement wall gave him no chance to climb out of the water and if help had not been at hand his predicament would been been serious indeed. A number of his chums were with him and by lowering a stick to him managed to pull the boy up far enough so as to catch his wrists and eventually got him back to terra firma after he had gone down several times.

Three New Players of Note Have Joined the Ranks and Will be a Valuable Adjunct to This Aggregation of Good Musicians—A Musical Festival To-night.

The Salvation Army Band has again been favoured with a strong addition to its ranks, in the arrival of three more bandsmen. These men are first-class players. They are: Bandsman Manford, who is an expert trombone soloist; he has played in several of the Army's leading bands, viz., Chalk Farm Band, London, Eng., which is noted as being the largest band in the Salvation Army. He has also played in the Toronto Temple Band, New York State Band and Winnipeg Silver Band. He has come to Peterborough to make his home here. Bandsman Deaken is another trombone player, who has played in the Windsor and Hamilton bands. He is a young bandsman of good promise. Bandsmen Powl arrived in the city Saturday night, from Toronto; he is a cornet soloist, and has also played in the Chalk Farm Band, but the fame of the Peterborough Band has drawn him here. He will be a valuable addition to the cornet section.

If There Is A Weak Spot

In Your System or a Faltering Organ it Will be Worse at This Time of Year

Vigor and Energy Run Low in Spring Unless You Use

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

It may be the stomach, the heart, the lungs, the filtering or excretory organs, but if there is a weak point it is likely to show up at this time of year.

The blood is thin and watery. It fails to supply proper nourishment. The all-essential nerve force is lacking, and you feel the effects first in your weakest organ.

Your trouble may take the form of indigestion, you may have neuralgia or twinges of sciatic rheumatism. The cause is the same—weak blood.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will help you as nothing else can, because it supplies in condensed and easily assimilated form the elements which are necessary for the strengthening and invigorating of the various organs of the body.

Every dose of this great restorative organ goes to form new, red corpuscles in the blood—to make the blood rich and red. The faltering organs resume their functions, appetite improves, digestion becomes good, and gradually new energy and vigour find their way to every nook and corner of the body. To keep strong and well this spring use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50 at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

CLOSES THIS WEEK

Japanese Art Auction Will be Over on Saturday

The public is advised that this is the last week of the Japanese Art Auction at the China Hall. The sale closes on Saturday and it is desired to dispose of the stock during the week in order to avoid packing. There will be, therefore, some extra special bargains in sight during the next few days.

REPAINTING LOCKS BRIDGE

As will be seen in another column the Roads and Bridges committee of the County Council are advertising for tenders for the repainting of the Locks bridge. This work has been needed for some time and will be an improvement that will be appreciated. The tenders call for the scraping off of the old paint and the re-painting of the structure, while the county will supply the paint, oil and other material.

If everybody in Peterborough would buy a tin of Tiger Hand Cleaner, we would be unable to supply the demand. It is so superior to all others that you would be forced by your own convictions to buy it ever after. 3-4 lb. tin 10 cents. Easy on sore hands. Contains no grit.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY TO FOWLER'S CORNERS

Tender for This Route Has Been Accepted by the Department and Those Interested Are Advised to Secure Letter Boxes From the Postmaster at Peterborough as Soon as Possible.

Tenders for the rural mail delivery from Peterborough to Fowlers' Corners commencing at Jackson Park and going north to the cheese factory on the fourth line and on to Fowlers' Corners on the fourth line, returning going south on the boundary between Emily and Smith to the second concession, thence to Peterborough, have been accepted by the Department, and rural mail delivery will be established within a short time on the route. Those interested had better obtain their boxes from the postmaster at Peterborough as quickly as possible in order that the courier may commence his duties.

It has been thought best that the route along the boundary between Smith and North Monaghan should be south from the boundary line to the 12th concession, returning to Peterborough along the gravel road. It is probable that on account of the change from the 13th to the 12th line, that it may be necessary to advertise for new tenders. It is felt that more people can be accommodated by the courier returning along the 12th line and coming in the gravel road instead of coming in along the 13th concession. This route will also be established in time.

HOW TO GET RID OF TROUBLESOME CATERPILLARS

Pests Are Unusually Abundant This Year and Will Do an Immense Lot of Damage If Their Inroads Are Not Checked.

"What can we do to get rid of the caterpillars? They are unusually abundant this year and they threaten to defoliate our apple trees." Several enquiries of this nature have been made of the Examiner, which has consulted sets of the editors of Farm and Dairy, an expert on this subject, and he has kindly furnished the following information for the benefit of the Examiner readers, who are concerned about these 'horrid' pests.

In a commercial way a farmer or an orchardist combats the tent caterpillar in the ordinary course of his spraying operations. The insects having biting mouth parts are readily poisoned through spraying a suitable poison of mixture upon their food—the leaves of the trees they infest.

The most common poison used for this purpose is Paris green. An ounce, to an ounce and a half of Paris green, mixed in water and sprayed on the trees will kill caterpillars. The Paris green must be pure, and since there is danger of it burning the leaves it is well to mix a little lime with the Paris green and water in order that any free arsenic may not burn the leaves. Any suitable spray pump may be used to apply this mixture. If it is desired to combat other insects, such as the codling moth, and also prevent fungus growth, such as the apple scab, it is recommended that the Paris green-Bordeaux mixture be used. The formulae for this mixture is blue stone (copper sulphate) 4 lbs.; fresh lime, 4 lbs.; Paris green, 4 ozs., water, 40 gals.

The popular mixture used by the leading orchardists with great success last year, is the lime-sulphur, and lead arsenate wash. These materials may be secured from the druggist and the formula for mixing them is as follows: Commercial lime sulphur, diluted 1 to 35 with water and to this add 2 lbs. of lead arsenate to every 40 gals. of water.

The lead arsenate at the rate of one pound to 20 gallons of water may be used alone if desired only to exterminate the caterpillars.

Since those in the city, who have but a few apple or pear trees, upon which the caterpillars are to be found, probably have no effective means available for spraying any of these poison mixtures on their trees, they will find it more economical and wholly efficient to gather the caterpillars and nests by hand. The caterpillars are all in the nests early in the morning while it is yet cool. They may be readily stripped off by hand and destroyed.

SPECIAL SERVICES IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

The services in St. Paul's church yesterday as conducted by Professor Lowe, were highly appreciated by the congregation. Mr. Lowe spoke four times during the day. He addressed the Boys' Brotherhood at ten o'clock and the Sunday school in the afternoon, and preached morning and evening. The unique thing in connection with the evening service was the use of the stereoptican. This is a comparatively new method of presenting the gospel message in Canada, though it is frequently employed at the evening service in many of the churches of the States. Mr. Lowe will employ the illustrated form of address both afternoon and evening throughout the week. He will begin a series of addresses on the life of Christ, to last for four days. (No service will be held on Wednesday.) The three-fold method of presenting the truth, by voice, by song, and by picture, is very effective. Mr. Lowe's message is the old, old message of the gospel of the grace of God. His manner is quiet earnest, dignified; and there is a complete absence of the manner and method usually associated with the ordinary evangelist. The service for young people is held at 4.15 and will be dismissed promptly at five. The evening service begins promptly at eight and will not last longer than an hour and twenty minutes. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to be present and to share in the blessing of these services.

Prepare For The Holiday

Victoria Day or as we have known this occasion since childhood when we used to say :—

"24th of May is the Queen's Birthday,
If they don't give us a holiday
We will all run away"

Will be the first outing day of the season. If weather conditions are as good as they are promising to-day, thousands of work-tired people will take to the open air—the rivers, lakes and woods to spend the too short vacation and to bask in the shade of the tall timbers, to fish and generally enjoy themselves. The question is, are you ready? To-morrow we offer a few extra specials for the outing wear.

The Daintiest of Mull Dresses $4.75

Not often do you see so dainty and pretty a dress as this for the money—a real Egyptian Mull Dress beautifully trimmed with Hamburg embroidery yoke, pin tucks and lace insertion. Gown is made with kimona sleeves, skirt has deep flounce of folds; shades are sky, tan and mauve. Our special $4.75

Our Pretty Dressy Millinery $4.75

Don't suppose you want to take your best hat to travel in, do you? There is no necessity to spoil it when you can purchase a hat at $4.75—a real stylish neatly trimmed head piece worth much more money, but made up specially for the holiday trade as an extra special. A full table to select from, good assortment, price.. $4.75

Children's Outing Dresses

If you worry over the child's dress which you haven't ready for Victoria Day, you will not enjoy your outing. We have a very fine assortment of dresses for children up to 16 years of age and at almost any price you wish to pay—little ones for 49c up and larger dresses at correspondingly low figures. SALVATION ARMY BAND INCREASES ITS STRENGTH

Three New Players of Note Have Joined the Ranks and Will be a Valuable Adjunct to This Aggregation of Good Musicians—A Musical Festival To-night.

The Salvation Army Band has again been favoured with a strong addition to its ranks, in the arrival of three more bandsmen. These men are first-class players. They are: Bandsman Sanford, who is an expert trombone soloist; he has played in several of the Army's leading bands, viz., Chalk Farm Band, London, Eng., which is noted as being the largest band in the Salvation Army. He has also played in the Toronto Temple Band, New York State Band and Winnipeg Silver Band. He has come to Peterborough to make his home here. Bandsman Deaken is another trombone player, who has played in the Windsor and Hamilton bands. He is a young bandsman of good promise. Bandsman Powl arrived in the city Saturday night, from Toronto; he is a cornet soloist, and has also played in the Chalk Farm Band, but the fame of the Peterborough Band has drawn him here. He will be a valuable addition to the cornet section.

The band now numbers thirty-seven players, which, with the songsters, are giving a musical programme to-night, consisting of the following selections:

If There Is A Weak Spot

In Your System or a Faltering Organ it Will be Worse at This Time of Year

Vigor and Energy Run Low in Spring Unless You Use

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

It may be the stomach, the heart, the lungs, the filtering or excretory organs, but if there is a weak point it is likely to show up at this time of year.

The blood is thin and watery. It fails to supply proper nourishment. The all-essential nerve force is lacking, and you feel the effects first in your weakest organ.

Your trouble may take the form of indigestion, you may have neuralgia or twinges of sciatic rheumatism. The cause is the same—weak blood.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will help you as nothing else can, because it supplies in condensed and easily assimilated form the elements which are necessary for the strengthening and invigorating of the various organs of the body.

Every dose of this great restorative organ goes to form new, red corpuscles in the blood—to make the blood rich and red. The faltering organs resume their functions, appetite improves, digestion becomes good, and gradually new energy and vigour find their way to every nook and corner of the body. To keep strong and well this spring use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50 at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

CLOSES THIS WEEK

Japanese Art Auction Will be Over on Saturday

The public is advised that this is the last week of the Japanese Art Auction at the China Hall. The sale closes on Saturday and it is desired to dispose of the stock during the week in order to avoid packing. There will be, therefore, some extra special bargains in sight during the next few days.

REPAINTING LOCKS BRIDGE

As will be seen in another column the Roads and Bridges committee of the County Council are advertising for tenders for the repainting of the Locks bridge. This work has been needed for some time and will be an improvement that will be appreciated. The tenders call for the scraping off of the old paint and the re-painting of the structure, while the county will supply the paint, oil and other material.

If everybody in Peterborough would buy a tin of Tiger Hand Cleaner, we would be unable to supply the demand. It is so superior to all others that you would be forced by your own convictions to buy it ever after. 3-4 lb. tin 10 cents. Easy on sore hands. Contains no grit.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY TO FOWLER'S CORNERS

Tender for This Route Has Been Accepted by the Department and Those Interested Are Advised to Secure Letter-Boxes From the Postmaster at Peterborough as Soon as Possible.

Tenders for the rural mail delivery from Peterborough to Fowlers' Corners commencing at Jackson Park and going north to the cheese factory on the fourth line and on to Fowlers' Corners on the fourth line, returning going south on the boundary between Emily and Smith to the second concession, thence to Peterborough, have been accepted by the Department, and rural mail delivery will be established within a short time on the route. Those interested had better obtain their boxes from the postmaster at Peterborough as quickly as possible in order that the courier may commence his duties.

It has been thought best that the route along the boundary between Smith and North Monaghan should be south from the boundary line to the 12th concession, returning to Peterborough along the gravel road. It is probable that on account of the change from the 13th to the 12th line, that it may be necessary to advertise for new tenders. It is felt that more people can be accommodated by the courier returning along the 12th line and coming in the gravel road instead of coming in along the 13th concession. This route will also be established in time.

HOW TO GET RID OF TROUBLESOME CATERPILLARS

Pests Are Unusually Abundant This Year and Will Do an Immense Lot of Damage if Their Inroads Are Not Checked.

"What can we do to get rid of the caterpillars? They are unusually abundant this year and they threaten to defoliate our apple trees." Several enquiries of this nature have been made of the Examiner, which has consulted some of the editors of Farm and Dairy, an expert on this subject, and he has kindly furnished the following information for the benefit of the Examiner readers, who are concerned about these 'horrid' pests.

In a commercial way a farmer or an orchardist combats the tent caterpillar in the ordinary course of his spraying operations. The insects having biting mouth parts are readily poisoned through spraying a suitable poison of mixture upon their food—the leaves of the trees they infest.

The most common poison used for this purpose is Paris green. An ounce, to an ounce and a half of Paris green, mixed in water and sprayed on the trees, will kill caterpillars. The Paris green must be pure, and since there is danger of it burning the leaves it is well to mix a little lime with the Paris green and water in order that any free arsenic may not burn the leaves. Any suitable spray pump may be used to apply this mixture. If it is desired to combat other insects, such as the codling moths and also prevent fungus growth, such as the apple scab, it is recommended that the Paris green-Bordeaux mixture be used. The formulae for this mixture is blue stone (copper sulphate) 4 lbs.; fresh lime, 4 lbs.; Paris green, 4 ozs., water, 40 gals.

The popular mixture used by the leading orchardists with great success last year, is the lime-sulphur, and lead arsenate wash. These materials may be secured from the drug gist and the formula for mixing them is as follows: Commercial lime sulphur, diluted 1 to 35 with water and to this add 2 lbs. of lead arsenate to every 40 gals. of water.

The lead arsenate at the rate of one pound to 20 gallons of water may be used alone if desired only to exterminate the caterpillars.

Since those in the city, who have but a few apple or pear trees, upon which the caterpillars are to be found, probably have no effective means available for spraying any of these poison mixtures on their trees, they will find it more economical and wholly efficient to gather the caterpillars and nests by hand. The caterpillars are all in the nests early in the morning while it is yet cool. They may be readily stripped off by hand and destroyed.

Nowadays, whether in leisure or in haste, he knows that its the suit he wants, and he's just as proud of the suit's parentage as are its makers.

Classy, kingly and critical folk who are good judges of just what is correct in clothes, know now that Semi-ready is "better than the best tailor's best," even though it does cost less. The extravagant rich have no monopoly of taste and culture.

SPECIAL SERVICES IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

The services in St. Paul's church yesterday as conducted by Professor Lowe, were highly appreciated by the congregation. Mr. Lowe spoke four times during the day. He addressed the Boys' Brotherhood at ten o'clock and the Sunday school in the afternoon, and preached morning and evening. The unique thing in connection with the evening service was the use of the stereoptican. This is a comparatively new method of presenting the gospel message in Canada, though it is frequently employed at the evening service in many of the churches of the States. Mr. Lowe will employ the illustrated form of address both afternoon and evening throughout the week. He will begin a series of addresses on the life of Christ, to last for four days. (No service will be held on Wednesday.) The three-fold method of presenting the truth, by voice, by song, and by picture, is very effective. Mr. Lowe's message is the old, old message of the gospel of the grace of God. His manner is quiet earnest, dignified; and there is a complete absence of the manner and method usually associated with the ordinary evangelist. The service for young people is held at 4.15 and will be dismissed promptly at five. The evening service begins promptly at eight and will not last longer than an hour and twenty minutes. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to be present and to share in the blessing of these services.

POST CARD COLUMN

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Let the ratepayers watch the supply of water in the tOonabee this summer and they will be better able to form an opinion as to the propriety of going in for a half million dollar power policy at the city's expense. The experience of the last few years is that the river power has been greatly overestimated. The supply of water is not here now as it used to be, whatever the season is. Trenton has voted a $1,500,000 concern and others but not to give them a loan, only a fixed assessment. Loans help the promoters to sell stock on the city's credit, but it is difficult to see what other purposes they are intended for.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

ALL SAINTS' WON FROM ST. JOHN'S

The All Saints' and St. John's teams battled for one hour and a half through the dense heat of Saturday afternoon to make second place in the Church League.

St. John's won the toss and elected to kick with the wind in their favour and the sun at their backs. The pla yrwas up and down the field, but more in St. John's ground. The Saints pressed St. John's hard and unlucky for St. John's one of their men made a foul right in front of their goal, and as the ground was not marked out, no penalty kick could be taken and the Saints got a free kick, taken by Curtis, and scored goal No. 1.

St. John's came right back with some hot shots at Morality, but he cleared well several times and then Abbott got the ball from centre field and went through St. John's defence and scored goal No. 2 for the blue and white.

The half ended with the score two to nil for All Saints.

The second half started out with St. John's pressing the blue and white, but unable to score. Then James, the find of the season for the Saints, took sick and left them with only two half backs, and after many trips St. John's scored their only goal of the game. With a nice piece of work between Bawson and Curtis the Saints tallied another, but the referee would not allow the goal. Then St. John's came back pretty strong. With the good work of the blue and white backs no more goals were scored.

Mr. Belton handled the game and gave good satisfaction. The teams line-up as follows:

All Saints		St. John's
Morality	Goal	Hancox
Rew	Back	Gambles
Robinson		Renshaw
James	Half Backs	Smith
Dawson		Simmonite
Vickers		Worrell
Bowher	Forwards	Edwards
Abbott		Cowan
Curtis		Sharman

Few medicines are of any benefit for rheumatism, but Mr. Sanders tells plainly what Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine did for it. One ounce of salicylate of soda added to one bottle of Nervine makes an excellent remedy for rheumatism, which is now known to be a nervous disease and therefore subject to the influence of a medicine that acts through the nerves, as does Regulars ahd Yannigans Had a Snappy Practice Game on Saturday---Indications Point to a Record Crowd at Riverside Park on the Holiday.

The Peterborough Midland League team had a great work-out on Saturday in preparation for the opening Midland League fixture against Cobourg on Wednesday, the players showing goo dform and proving to the satisfaction of a big crowd of fans who watched the work-out that Peterborough will have a team this season that will have to be taken into consideration before the championship rag is finally passed out. Manager Quinlan lined his Regulars up against the Yanigans and a splendid practice game was played, the Regulars having a shade the better of the argument in the scoring line, although the hitting was light on both sides. Rahmel pitched for the Yannighns and showed speed and "stuff" while Creswell on the slab for the Regulars was not an easy problem to solve. The fielding was good on both sides. The line-ups were:

That there will be a big crowd on hand for the opening game in the league race at Riverside park on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, goes without saying. More than usual interest is being shown in the team and the fact that the League is a home-brew organisation seems to have helped things considerably. The game will furnish a pleasant way of spending the holiday afternoon, and as it is the only important outdoor event of the day, will draw a big bunch of fans and fanettes.

Canadian General Soccer Team Still Undefeated

In a Midland Football League fixture, played in Lakefield on Saturday, the C.G.E. defeated Lakefield by 2 goals to 1.

Although the game was played in the evening, play was slow, owing to the tremendous heat.

Lakefield won the toss and played uphill. Miller kicked off and set Corliss going on the right, and a corner resulted; this was returned to midfield, only to see Dawson go down on the left and pass to Miller who scored, after five minutes' play. Dodds and Cullan got within shooting distance; here, the latter shot, and Jones just managed to turn the ball round the post; from the corner kick the ball travelled to midfield and half-time was called with hte C.G.E. one goal up. In the beginning of the second half, French and Miller, both shot over, but after a rush by the whole Lakefield forwards Hall transferred to see Miller score No. 2.

After this Lakefield swarmed the C. G .E. goal and Cullan shot. McNamee tried to save, but the ball glanced off his foot, into the goal, for Lakefield's tally. Full time was called without any more scoring.

The following were the line-ups:

Lakefield—Rowe, Mitchell, White, Stapler, Hill, Moore, Bell Johnson, Cullan, Dodds, Other.

ST. JAMES' TEAM WON HOLLOW VICTORY

In a Church Football League game on Saturday afternoon St. James and Knox church met on St. James' ground before a large attendance. both sides being well supported. The teams were as follows:

St. James'—Goal, Leader; backs. Gribb and Newton; half-backs, Sparrow, Braun, and Sandiford; forwards. Hotston, Gash, Turner, Bleatley, Hotston.

Referee—Mr. Harris.

Phil Braun, the Saints' skipper, won the toss and decided to defend the south goal, thus having the advantage of sun and wind. The game opened in sensational style, Turner getting possession and beating every one, but the goal-keeper, who made a weak clearance, the ball returning to Turner, who made no mistake play. The game was very fast, the ball travelling rapidly from end to end of the field. Turner had another shot at goal and only missed by inches. Hotston, on the right, was playing a great game, putting in some fine centres, which were well timed and placed with great judgment. The Knox forward lines now got going, and Leader had to handle a scrimmage in front of St. James' goal, ending with the referee giving Knox the benefit of a doubtful goal. This put the Saints on their mettle. Phil. Braun giving a fine display of how football should be played, easily beating three of his opponents; he gave a beautiful pass to Hotston, who, waiting until Turner got up, placed the ball right across the front of goal, Turner sending in a terrific shot, which hit the upright, a few seconds later Gash got the ball and scored with a well-placed shot.

A corner, in favour of St. James' came to nothing, Hotston putting behind; a pretty bit of midfield work was now witnessed both set of halves kicking well, Sandiford, as usual, doing his share in fine style. Bleatley justified his selection by a fine bit of work and he had hard lines in not scoring. Gash took a pass from one of the backs, and, making tracks in record time for Knox goal gave the goal-keeper no chance and added another notch for the Saints'.

St. James' had now got the measure of their opponents, and Bleatley had hard lines in not reaching a pass from Gash, with an open goal. The Knox supporters were doing their best to cheer up their players and shouting for them to try for another goal, which came sooner than was expected, for Leader ran out to try to reach a long shot from McArthur, but did not get there in time, with the result that Knox added a second goal to their credit.

McArthur, the Knox inside right, was not playing with his usual dash perhaps the added responsibilities of married life (he having taken the fatal step last Thursday) weighing heavily upon him.

Hotston, on the left wing, always makes the best of his opportunities, which, by the way, were very few on Saturday. Why he was not fed more is hard to understand. It hardly pays to let a good man be kicking his heels in the air when he could be better employed. He took a pretty pass from Turner, and, sprinting up the field, shot from nearby the corner flag, the ball quite deceiving the goal keeper, thus putting St. James' well ahead.

Bleatley had to leave the field with a slight attack of sunstroke, just before the interval, and half-time arrived with the score 4-2 in favour of St. James'.

On resuming, Knox tried hard to level matters up a bit, but generally found Newton and Gribb in the way. Gribb, as usual, was doing grand work, and saying little. Knox had four corners in rapid succession but failed to do the needful. St. James' at last got tired of giving them opportunities and decided to enliven things up a bit, so they raced the ball down to the other end of the field, the finishing touch having been left to Hotston, who gave the goalkeeper no chance and added the fifth goal for the Saints. Shortly after a misunderstanding between Leader and Braun lead to Knox scoring a very easy goal and shortly afterwards St. James' scored three more to make up for it. The goals were scored by Gash (2), and Bleatley (1).

Considering the heat both teams played well, but Knox were outclassed on all points and the game ended with St. James' pressing.

Result—St. James', 5; Knox, 3.

HAVELOCK TEAM BEAT BETHANY

In a Midland Football League game at Havelock on Saturday before a fair sized crowd, the Havelock team defeated Bethany in a clean, fast contest by 2 goals to 1. At half time Bethany were ahead by 1 goal to 0, DeLong doing the trick for the visitors. Early in the second half Havelock pressed hard on the visitors and Vare and Soden each notched a counter, leaving the homesters victorious. Have lock have five of the 1909 champions on the line-up and at times the team showed some of the old form. Bethany has four new men on the team this year and are just as strong as in former years.

Both teams had good combination at times on Saturday and made some splendid rushes. Both goalers did good work.

Bethany went to Havelock via C. P.R. from Cavanville. C. G. E. will visit Bethany on the holiday and will entertain Havelock here on Saturday. E. E. Brumwell, of Peterborough, was a satisfactory referee. The teams were:

JUVENILE LEAGUE OPEN---THISTLES' EASY VICTORY

The City Juvenile Baseball League got off to a good start Saturday, when the Thistles met and defeated the Northern Lights. The game was featured by the hard hitting of the winning team and the splendid pitching of M. Huycke. The game was not, however, as one-sided as the score would indicate, the Northern Lights having one had innings only, which put them out of the running. Score, Thistles twenty-two, Lights seven. Battery, Thistles M. Huycke. Cavanah and Hill. Lights, Coughlin, Swanson. Taylor. J. J. Thompson umpired to the satisfaction of all.

Two games will be played this week. May 24th. Cubs at Lights at Oval, ten a.m. May 25th Tecumsehs at Thistles at Roverside 4 p.m. All teams that have not sent in their certificates, signed, to the secretary, are requested to do so as soon as possible.

INTER-COLLEGIATE GAMES WITH LINDSAY

The L.C.I. ball team are making arrangements to have the Peterborough high school play here next Saturday the 27th, and in all probability the return game will be played in Peterborough on May 3rd. The Collegiate are contemplating sending a team to Cannington for the 24th, so that they will have no lack of games for a few weeks. The students have an excellent team and should give any aggregation a hard battle, and a good game will be looked for next Saturday.—Lindsay Post.

Connie Murphy of the Petes and T. A.S. ball clubs is playing short stop for Hamilton in the Canadian League. Jerry Edmunds, who was with the Hamilton team, has been ordered to report to Winnipeg on whose reserve list he was.

This furnace is built to keep gas, dust and smoke out of the house.

No matter how cosy your home, an odor of gas, however slight, is unpleasant and sometimes dangerous.

The health of your whole house demands a furnace that will give pure warm air without gas or dust.

Gas cannot escape from a "Hecla" Furnace. Every place where experience has shown that gas might otherwise find an opening has been made absolutely tight by our Patent Fused Joints.

THE FUSED JOINT
In the "Hecla" the steel sides of the radiator are fused by our patented process to the cast iron plates at the top and bottom. This process welds the steel and iron into one piece, making an impossible joint that cannot corrode with the flame, and one that has proven perfectly gas and dust proof, even after years of service.

"Hecla" Furnace

The "Hecla" has other safeguards against gas. The cast iron Combustion Chamber will not burn through and allow fumes from the fire to pass into the house.

The air fots in the door assure proper burning of any surplus gas.

There is a special dust flue to carry the ash dust up the chimney.

The "Hecla" Saves One Ton of Coal in Seven

How steel ribs added to the "Hecla" Fire Pot make this saving is told in our booklet "Comfort & Health."

RUN-DOWN CONDITIONS

Their Cause and Effect

Run-down conditions are caused by a lack of iron in the blood and malassimilation of food. If you are one of the unfortunates who have drifted into this state, change your diet, eat foods that are rich in mineral elements of nutrition, and take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil,) which supplies iron to the blood in the most easily assimilasetd form.

A case is reported from Mattoon, Ill.—Mrs. O. M. Watrous was in very poor health for years. She was weak, all run-down, no appetite, and only weighed ninety-seven pounds. She had doctored for a long time without benefit. Vinol was recommended. She tried it, and in less than a year she was in perfect health and weighed 127 lbs.

Vinol creates an appetite, reestablishes perfect digestion and makes good, pure blood. In this natural manner it builds up the run down, weak and debilitated, and replaces weakness with strength.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte street; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Charlotte streets.

WORST ELECTRICAL STORM IN YEARS DOES GREAT DAMAGE IN DISTRICT

Although the City Escaped Without Serious Damage, the Surrounding Country Did Not Get Off so Lightly and There Were Many Barns Burned.

SOME QUEER PRANKS

Peterborough and the surrounding district was visited by one of the the worst electrical storms in its history earl ythis morning, and from all directions to-day come reports of damage done by lightning. Many barns were struck and burned with their contents and there are many incidents of queer pranks on the part of the electric fluid, mirrors being smashed, castors knocked off beds, stoves shattered, etc., but fortunately no fatalities.

The intense heat—it was 92 in the shade yesterday, according to official figures—culminated at 1 o'clock this morning in a terrible electrical disturbance. For some time while Peterborough and his wife and children were trying to wrestle with the heat and get to sleep, the approach of the storm was indicated by the low growling roar of thunder in the distance. It steadily came closer; then with a violent gale of wind came the rain, while the lightning and thunder were incessant. The "oldest inhabitants" say this morning that they never remember seeing such a continuous display of lightning. For three quarters of an hour the sky was almost continuously illuminated, while there was a constant obligato by the thunder, sometimes with a deep, cannon-like boom, at others with a sharp crackling of a machine gun. The spectacle was beautiful and awe-inspiring, according to the temperament of the observer, and there were some badly frightened people in a good many houses in Peterborough, while the disturbance was at its height. The rain fall was very heavy, being over an inch and one-half, but nobody thought much of the rain while the lightning and thunder were at work. And the worst feature about it is that it has not had any cooling effect on the weather.

The Effect Locally.

Locally the storm did not do as much damage as one would imagine. Two buildings — or at least the flagpoles on them—were struck and shattered. These were the poles on the S. F. Ackerman and Company Harness factory and on the Times office on Hunter street. As far as can be learned no other buildings in the city were struck. The Bell Telephone Company reports a number of phones out of commission as a result of the storm, and there were many electric light fuses burned out, leaving homes in darkness. Short circuits at the power house have the same effect temporarily at least.

Great Damage in the Country.

The greatest damage by the storm was done in the country around the city. The storm seems to have been general in the county and in nearly every section buildings were struck and fires started.

In South Monaghan Mr. Wilbert Wood, lot 12, concession 2, had his barn and stables struck by lighting and totally destroyed, with the con-

ANOTHER VICTIM CLAIMED BY THE OTONABEE RIVER

Percy McNamee, a Member of the Canadian General Electric Soccer Team Loses His Life at Crawford's Grove —Was Swimming and Took Cramps and Sank Before Help Could Reach Him.

A very sad drowning fatality occurred in the Otonabee River last evening about 5 o'clock.

Percy McNamee, residing with his brother, at 367 McDonnell street, went swimming with two acquaintances, H. Corless and J. Mahony, at Crawford's Grove. It was not long, however, before it was noticed that Mr. MacNamee was in evident distress. One of his friends at that time being on the shore, swam to his assistance, but without avail, as he sank and rose no more. The cause of his helplessness is assumed to be cramps.

A search was commenced last night and continued this morning, by some of his associates and fellow employees and about 9.30 the body was recovered by Mr. Wm. Taylor, who had dived repeatedly. The body now lies at Bellegham's establishment, and the funeral will take place on Thursday, at 3 o'clock at Little Lake cemetery.

The deceased, who is in his 24th year, has only been in Canada one month and leaves a wife and two young children in England.

He was a fine all round athlete and had won many prizes for running, jumping, etc., in the Old Country, and his athletic qualities had already rendered him popular in the city. He was employed at the Canadian General Electric Company, and was a favourite member of the C.G.E. football team.

DRANK WOOD ALCOHOL WITH FATAL RESULTS

Jos. Angel, of California, Employed on Construction Work on Trent Valley Canal is Dead and Jas. O'Brien is in a Serious Condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

As a result of drinking a quantity of wood alcohol yesterday, the body of Jos Angel is being sent to his home in California and Jim O'Brien lies in St. Joseph's Hospital in a serious condition. Both of the victims were employed on the construction work on the canal, in the vicinity of Healey Falls.

The other victim, who is in a serious condition and is partially blind from the effects of the alcohol, was brought to the city last night and removed to St. Joseph's Hospital by the Bellegham private ambulance service. He was accompanied by Chief Constable Vanderburgh, of Healey Falls.

Church Struck By Lightning And A Panic Is Result

Special to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, MAY 23.—While services were in progress last night in the Roman Catholic church at St. Cerile De Macham, a village on the Gratineau line of the C.P.R., the edifice was struck by lightning and many of the congregation were stunned and otherwise injured. The building caught fire and a panic was the result. The parish priest, Rev. Father Carron, succeeded in partially staying the rush, but many were injured in hte jam in the entrances. The church, convent and presbytery were completely destroyed with a loss of forty thousand dollars.

SHAREHOLDERS HOLD INDIGNATION MEETING

Special to The Examiner.

MILTON, ONT., MAY 23.—The shareholders of the Farmers' Bank from nearly every county in eastern and western Ontario were represented to-day at an indignation meeting, held in the court house. Eighty shareholders were actually present, but they held proxies for four times that number. There were many pitiable figures amongst them. Some of them had lost all their small fortunes through the collapse of this institution, and are obviously too old to start life afresh. William Laidlaw, K.C., addressing the audience in his shirtsleeves, said the Government should deal generously with the unfortunate shareholders, who assume the double liability and pay the shareholders fifty cents on the dollar. The suggestion was made that a fund be raised to fight the double-liability.

MINDEN, MAY 23.—Friday last was very windy and the weather being dry fire sprang up from unexpected sources and burned furiously. Near Peterson road, in the north of Minden Township, a fire got a start and before it had finished burned two barns and twenty cords of wood. The barns belonged to Messrs. Fetterly and King, whose barns adjoin. In Snowdon township Mr. Arthur Strolar's dwelling place and all its contents and about fifty cords of wood were burned.—Lindsay Post.

THE GREAT ALFALFA.

The remarkable length of root and the extraordinarily early and rapid growth of the alfalfa plant in spring is well illustrated in an alfalfa plant received this morning (Tuesday) by the editors of Farm and Dairy from Mr. George F. Marsh, (lately of Peterborough, but now on his farm at Clarksburg, Grey county, and to be seen at the Examiner office where alfalfa is grown abundantly.) This alfalfa plant measured three feet eight and a half inches in root and had over 20 inches of top which had grown already this season.

This habit of early growth is one of the important and valuable characteristics of alfalfa. In late seasons, and in fact in any season, its growth far outstrips that of red clover, and should fodder be scarce, as it often is before grass is ready to pasture, the new alfalfa may be used for soiling stock, or if one cares to take a chance on losing the stand, the early alfalfa may be pastured.

Alfalfa has been popular for many years in the section of Grey county in which Mr. Marsh has his home. After leaving Peterborough some weeks ago for his farm, Mr. Marsh wrote back that he was surprised at the large area in his district now devoted to alfalfa growing, although he was aware that many of his neighbours had considerable acreage devoted to the crop.

Our readers will be interested to learn that through our special campaign this past spring alfalfa has become surprisingly popular with our farmers in Peterborough county, a great number of whom have grown considerable alfalfa this spring for the first time. Those of our farmer readers who as yet have not done so should place themselves in a position to profit from the Alfalfa Competition, which has been especially arranged for the farmers of Peterborough county. Entries should be sent in forthwith to the Secretary of the Competition, care of Farm and Dairy, Peterborough. No entry fee is required and competitors have everything to gain, so we anticipate keen interest and a large list of entries in the contest that involves so much.

BUSINESS METHODS.

The Woodstock Sentinel Review joins the Toronto Star in condemning the "indecent haste" with which the legislation guaranteeing the bonds of the Canadian Northern Railway was put through the House. The former says:

"The Toronto Star, one of the ablest and most independent of the journals in this country supporting the cause of Liberalism, characterizes as "indecent haste" the manner in which the Canadian Northern bond guarantee has been rushed through the House of Commons. The expression is scarcely a bit too strong. As the Star points out, the measure was first announced on May 8th, and on May 17th, it received its third reading.

Both sides were fully responsible for the failure to give so important a matter its due consideration. Certainly a large measure of responsibility rests upon the Opposition. It has taken up the time of the House for one weary week after another seeking to block the progress of a measure of reciprocity, which, but for the necessities of party politics, would be welcomed alike by both parties, a measure which means the realization of the policy which both parties from before confederation have advocated. Before the announcement of the terms of the proposed agreement Conservatives were declaring their willingness to hold up both hands for such an arrangement. If it could be secured. But just as soon as such an agreement became a possibility, the Opposition, for party reasons, undertook to monopolize the whole time of the House in an effort to discredit it and check its progress.

For weeks past there has not been an idea expressed in regard to reciprocity that had not been already expressed again and again; yet the fight was kept up until time and patience and energies were exhausted, and when a matter of so much importance as the pledging of the country's credit for the financing of a railway came up, it was allowed to go through with scarcely a word of explanation.

There may be some force in the contention advanced; but is it not just possible that the prompt adoption of the bond guarantee may be an example of the way public business can be done—promptly and at the same time efficiently. Because months have been wasted in frivolous obstruction, futile and time-killing discussion of the reciprocity agreement, that is no reason why in the course of nine days, a simple business proposal could not have been maturely enough considered. Two parties to a business agreement, will, with good will on both sides, in the course of a few hours, decide a monotonous business matter; but, if one of the parties to the agreement insists on taking an obstructive stand, days may be easily consumed with little progress. While the Star may be justified in referring to the "indecent haste" in adopting the C. N.R. guarantee measure, the "indecent haste" is perhaps only relatively apropos—applicable only as a contrast to the dilatory and unbusiness-like methods that apply to much of the legislation in the House of Commons. This "indecent haste" may easily be an example of doing public business, on the same principle of common sense and expedition that is applied, without any loss in the way of lack of thoroughness, in thousands of everyday business transactions, performed according to the demands of common sense business methods.

A LEVIATHAN IN THE ST. LAWRENCE.

It is a far cry from the birch bark canoe which frequented the harbour of Montreal two hundred years ago to a monster of the White Star Line.

The Big White Star Liner "Teutonic" arrived at Quebec on Saturday en route to Montreal on her first voyage to Canada, with over 500 cabin, and nearly 900 third class passengers, a record list.

The fine lines and graceful proportions of the ship are quite a contrast to most vessels coming into this port.

The "Teutonic" is the longest steamer ever seen in the river, having an over-all length of 582 feet, and with her powerful engines of 18,000 horse power, capable of developing a speed of 20 knots an hour, it is expected she will win the blue ribbon honours on the St. Lawrence route.

The "Teutonic" will carry cabin passengers in one class only and third class passengers. The cabin accommodation has been greatly enlarged, and a fine Ladies' Room has been added to the public rooms, which also include a spacious and beautifully decorated Lounge and a Smoking Room. The Staterooms are large and airy, and the Promenade Decks are broad and extensive.

The Third Class has also been rearranged and all passengers will be berthed in closed cabins, while the former Second Class Dining Saloon has been converted for their use, and a fine Lounging Room has been provided on deck.

The "Teutonic" has been a popular favourite on the Southampton-New York run, where she is to be replaced by the giant "Olympic" and judging from the list she is bringing out on her first trip to Canada, that popularity will cling to her in this trade.

The wonderful growth in travel to and from Montreal is bringing great changes in the facilities provided for passengers by the big steamship lines, and new and larger vessels are being diverted to the St. Lawrence every year. Thousands of tourists prefer it to any other route, as it reduces the actual ocean voyage to less than four days, while the trip on the river and through the broad expanse of the gulf is a panorama of scenic interest not to be found elsewhere.

SASKATCHEWAN ADOPTS SINGLE TAX.

(Calgary Albertan.)

The province of Saskatchewan has taken a forward step, which will mean much to the development of that province. By a vote in the legislature, which was practically unanimous, the legislators decided in favour of the passing of a single tax measure.

The new act makes it optional with the municipality, but it permits any municipality which is so disposed to introduce the single tax providing for exemption of taxation upon buildings and improvements. It provides for a reduction of 15 per cent. yearly, and it is probable that with this legislation the entire province will be under the single tax within a very few years.

The legislation is very wise. The gradual reduction is better than one big sweep, for in that way business conditions will not be too greatly shocked at the beginning.

It is to be hoped that Alberta will have similar legislation at an early date. The single tax is necessary to the prosperity of a new country.

PUBLIC MEN AS PREACHERS OF RIGHTEOUSNESS.

(Brantford Expositor.)

While the press of Canada is singing the praises of Hon. W. J. Bryan, because that gentleman has had the courage to come out as a defender of the "old-fashioned" theology, and of all other good causes, we have the mayor of New York expressing his belief in God, Bible-reading and the church-going habit. What he says is briefly, but tersely, put as follows:

"Why do I believe in the Father, God? Because I cannot help it. I simply know there is a God and that settles it with me. I have absolute confidence in Him, and am willing to submit to whatever He wills in respect of me. You ask "What good comes from reading the Bible?" An immense deal of good. It soothes you and makes you content and charitable.

I might add that it educates you and gives you a good literary style, and that is another matter. Going to church gives people steady habits, and makes them prudent and careful, and makes them vote carefully. Church members make a stable nucleus for society."

Commenting on the above, The New York Times refers to the profound undercurrent of religious sentiment which maintains its steady course amid the fiercest contests of politics, business and social life, and which permeates the American existence to a wonderful degree. It adds:

The best citizen, the most conscientious voter, the surest pilot in business affairs, is the man who recognizes the relation between the soul and its God. Seldom has the religious element in life been characterized with such practicality tempered with becoming reverence, as by Mayor Gaynor.

A clerical reader of The Expositor wants to know why there is no man prominent in the public life of Canada to-day, on either side of politics, who is willing to take the stand that Messrs. Bryan and Gaynor have taken. Why is it?

THE ADVANTAGES OF RECIPROCITY ARE TEMPERATELY PRESENTED

(Henry Miles in Pharmaceutical Journal)

The Reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada, which is now before the representatives of the two peoples assembled at Washington and Ottawa, is creating a great stir in commercial and political circles of both countries. As far as Canada is concerned it should be accepted, and our statesmen who have reached this commercial bargain with the United States should be applauded for their satisfactory work. If the approval of both countries is given there is no doubt that the names of Fielding and Paterson will be handed down in history, as having done an immense service to this Dominion. The only doubt to-day is as to acceptance upon the part of the United States. We fear it may not be ratified in that direction. It is almost too much to expect of our neighbours that they will ratify an agreement that carries a really mutually profitable character. The United States has always heretofore beaten all competitors in trade or international bargains. All have been distinctly one-sided and with the preponderance of advantage with the country of the Stars and Stripes. This present Reciprocal proposal can easily be argued will bring great advantage to the peoples of both countries—the larger advantages bearing in the direction of Canada. To the United States it offers a cheapening of the necessaries of life—cheaper living—and to Canada a larger, nearer and better market for the natural products of this country. While tending to encourage the outlook of cheaper living in the United States, particularly in the Northern, Eastern and Northwestern State it may possibly enhance the cost of living in Canada as a whole; against this Canada will become richer and better able to meet any advance in the prices of the necessities of life that may be affected by a large export demand for same. It is the first important tariff measure ever proposed by a Canadian Government, purely for the benefit of the great mass of the Canadian people. The farming community, as a whole, have always come last in tariff consideration. The manufacturer and the city populations have come first invariably. Capital has governed the country in the interest of the few and the consumers have had to pay the bill. The building up of the country has been even too much based upon the protection of article and of class. Now we can look for a new trade—a vast commerce in products of the soil and that too, without affecting our industries. Some people suffer with any and every change made in our tariff. Few can suffer materially with the changes now proposed. This Reciprocity pact will benefit millions of Canadians and that, too, without destroying the activities of the cities—the manufacturers or industries of the Dominion as they at present exist. The cry that has been raised that our lines of trade must be maintained East and West is puerile. Example cannot be given in this wide world where the points of the compass are made necessarily to govern the channels of trade. We have a great market right beside us — to the south. The barriers that exist should be taken down to the extent of this present proposition, and gladly, too, while we are able to applaud the Government for maintaining its obligations and the faith of the country with the manufacturers who have relied upon a stable tariff.

The main objection to reciprocity in natural products is the fear that reciprocity in manufactured products may follow. Why stand in the light of the whole country on such feeble pretext? To call the reciprocity proposed "commercial union" is surely wrong. Call it giving the backbone of the country a chance. To question the loyalty of any Canadian because he favours free trade in natural products with the United States the nearest and best market for foodstuffs perishable and otherwise is absurd and to fight against a good, sound business proposition of this sort on the bald claim that "it is the thin edge of the wedge for annexation" is not easy to civilly characterize. Politics actuate many—self-interest governs a host. These interests are more blatant than the toiler in the field and forest. Give the country, as a whole, a chance, by all means. It will bring us greater prosperity and greater importance—as a producing and trading country—and no one is to be really hurt even if we see looming up more important railway lines North and South. The loyal subjects of King George will be just as loyal and true, and Canadians will continue to be just as proud of their National existence and history. The Montreal Board of Trade has recorded opposition to this Reciprocity on a vote of 60 to 40 members, probably the other 1,500 members might record other figures if they could be got together—a very large majority would certainly be found in favour of the agreement. In any case common sense and business sagacity will guide the Government and Parliament throughout this matter. There is no strong, general, real sentiment and business argument against it. The majority of Canadians have full confidence in Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Transcontinental was thought to be his crowning effort for the benefit of his country, but the possibilities in connection with a good trade agreement with the United States may easily make a greater and more lasting record than even the gigantic steel linking of the Atlantic and Pacific across our beautiful Dominion.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

YOU all probably read in the newspapers a few months ago of the sensational and tragic shooting of David Graham Phillips, the novelist, by a semi-sane crank.

Have you also, I wonder, read any of the stories and essays of this author, which have been published in various magazines since his death?

If you haven't, I think you should—"you" meaning all American women, especially wives and wives-to-be.

I'll tell you why.

David Graham Phillips had evidently been studying the question, "Why is marriage a failure?" very deeply, and he had come to a conclusion. This conclusion is set forth in all of his later works. Whether it is right or wrong, I don't know, but it certainly is interesting and suggestive. This is the sum of it:

American women of the middle class are not doing their part in the partnership of married life. The average woman considers that she is bestowing a sufficient boon upon a man in marrying him and does not realize that she has just as definite obligations after marriage as he.

This, according to Mr. Phillips, is a totally wrong point of view. He considers that the woman should go about her business of running the home as smoothly and successfully as possible, of getting the greatest possible efficiency out of the money supplied, of being a first-class mother, and as attractive to him as possible, just as seriously as he goes about the business of earning a living, and that a failure on her part to do her duty is just as flagrant as a failure on his part to support her.

"It is painful to an American girl of any class to find that she has to earn her position as wife. The current theory, a tradition from an early and woman-revering day, is that a girl has done her share and more when she has consented to the suit of the ardent male and has intrusted her priceless charms to his exclusive keeping. According to that same theory it is the husband who must earn his position, must continue to earn it."

* * * * * *

"The woman, emerging from a girlhood o falarm lest she should never be able to achieve the married state and finding herself actually a Mrs., feels that she has completed her life work. She fancies she need do nothing more. She begins to relax, to wane, to go to seed mentally and physically, none the less though she conceal mental deterioration under the cheap and lazy "culture" claptrap, and physical deterioration under the paint, powder and dressmakers' devices for faking up a decently appearing body."

* * * * * *

After speaking of the difficulty the undowered middle class girl has of finding a worth while husband, Mr. Phillips concludes:

"The remedy? The independence of the middle class girl—her economic independence. Not by means of the dowry or of the divorce with alimony; for the dowered or alimoniously divorced woman only fancies she is independent. But real independence, ability to do things practical, useful, to perform salable services—that sort of education will make her fit to marry, and worth marrying."

Again in his novel "Enid" the husband and wife who suddenly discover after two years of married life that they do not love each other, are discussing the situation.

Says the man: "You may not realize it, but you are degraded by taking money you don't earn."

"'Ah,' and she laughed in mocking scorn, 'you want me to earn my board and clothes—I—your wife.'

"He smiled amiably. 'I simply say', he tossed the end of the finished cigar out the window and rose, 'that in the future I'll expect as good service as I could get at a hotel for the same money.'"

Now please do not think I am saying that this is the only possible point of view on the American marriage question, and that the American wife is always a shirk.

By no means.

You and I and everybody know plenty of women who bear their half, and more than their half of the burden.

But that the other kind of woman exists in the middle class and that the accusations Mr. Phillips hurls at her have at least some truth in them, I do believe, and I contend that his idea of equal obligations has at least a suggestive germ of thought in it for all wives and wives-to-be.

INSPECTION OF 57th REGIMENT WILL TAKE PLACE TUESDAY NIGHT

The regular weekly drill of the 57th regiment Peterborough Rangers, was held last night. It was intended that there should be a march out, but on account of the inspection next Tuesday night, it was deemed advisable to participate in battalion drill, an exercise which was performed with zea by them all. The battalion drill was held in Central Park, and lasted for the greater part of the evening, after which company drill was performed. The extreme heat made it rather uncomfortable for the men during battalion drill, but afterwards the drill was thoroughly enjoyed.

The order for the week was as follows:

Headquarters,
Peterborough, May 22.

Orders by the Officer Commanding 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers:

No. 1.—Detail of duty for the week ending 30th of May, 1911. Captain for the week, Capt. Higgins; next for duty, Capt and Brevet. Major Mills. Subaltern ofr the week, Lieut. Hall; next for duty, Lieutenant Rackham.

No. 2—The regiment will parade at the armouries at 7.30 p.m. sharp next Tuesday, 30th May in drill order, for inspection, by Col. Benson, officer commanding the divisional area.

No. 3—Leave of absence from parade is hereby granted to Major Davidson, Capt. McPherson and Lieut. Comstock.

D. WALKER, Capt.-Adjt.

PARALYZED LIMBS

To-day it is sleeplessness, headaches, digestive trouble, and irritability. Next thing you know some form of paralysis has developed. Mr. Alex. Honsburger, 10 Moore Street, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "Nervous trouble developed into paralysis of the limbs so that I became helpless. Doctors failed me, but after using ten boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I resumed work, and now feel better than I did for 20 years."

THE WEATHER

The thunder storm which passed over this district early this morning, was accompanied by many vivid flashes of lightning and crashes of thunder. The rainfall was heavy—one inch and 4-100. Yesterday's highest temperature was 93 degrees in the shade, which is probably a record for so early in the season.—W. P.

Pudding Sauce with the real Vanilla flavor

Unknown to themselves, most people for years have been using imitation Vanilla, because ordinary extracts are made from cheap substitutes. But to taste the real Vanilla flavor, put a few drops of Shirriff's True Vanilla in your pudding sauce. The flavor is exquisite. So delicious you'll always use Shirriff's True Vanilla—the real thing, made from the finest Vanilla beans grown in Mexico. Surpasses all others in strength, flavor and bouquet.

HASTINGS

Special to The Examiner

HASTINGS, MAY 20.—A large representation, consisting of about twenty ladies, drove to Warkworth, on Wednesday, to attend the annual district convention, which was held in the Methodist church in that town. The weather was all that could be desired and the Company reached home early in the evening, well pleased with their outing.

Rev. C. W. Barrett was in Campbellford on Thursday attending the annual district meeting.

Mr. Wm. McConnell also attended being a delegate from Hastings circuit.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. D. Cook was the hostess of a farewell party in honour of Miss Annie Jamieson, whose marriage takes place on Wednesday, the 24th inst. During the course of the evening, Miss Jamieson was presented with a handsome cut-glass set, and a nicely worded address, to which she made a most suitable reply. Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable evening spent together. Miss Annie has been a member of the Methodist church choir for a number of years and the other members regret very much her removal from their midst.

Messrs Milton and Wilbert Beavis drove to Peterborough on Friday and delivered their fine span of greys to their recent purchaser.

Mrs. R. Johnson has moved her household effects to Peterborough, where she intends to reside.

What Is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

It is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain, and as none but sound, clean grain can be malted, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has for its base the most carefully selected grains of the field. It is predigested liquid food in the form of a medicinal whiskey; its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

It is a gentle, invigorating stimulant and tonic that influences for good every important organ of the body. It is a remedy that should be in the family medicine chest.

What Does It Do?

It builds up the nerve tissues, tones up the heart, gives power to the brain, strength and elasticity to the muscles and richness to the blood. It brings into action all the vital forces; it makes digestion perfect and enables you to get from the food you eat all the nourishment it contains.

It strengthens and sustains the system, is a promoter of good health and longevity, makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous.

It is a wonderful remedy in the prevention and cure of nervousness, typhoid, malaria, all stomach troubles, diseases of the throat and lungs, and is recognized as a medicine by doctors of all schools.

All liquor dealers, or direct, $1.25 a large bottle. Refuse substitutes and imitations; they are impure and dangerous. Medical booklet and doctor's advice sent free.

CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Made Safe by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Granitville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. Chas. Barclay, R.F.D., Granitville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing woman's ills such as inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

WORST ELECTRICAL STORM IN YEARS

tants, which included nine pigs and eighty or ninety hens and a quantity of wheat.

Mr. George A. Wood, South Monaghan, had his house struck. It was not set on fire but was very badly damaged.

The house of Mr. Robert Thorn, lot 16, concession 6, South Monaghan, was struck and the chimney knocked off. The family were stunned in bed, but were not injured.

Barn Burned in Deure.

In Douro an electric bolt struck the barn on the farm occupied by Mr. James Vickery and the structure, with other outbuildings, were totally destroyed. A binder, plough and other farm implements were destroyed. The fire could be plainly seen in the city.

Lightning hit the barn on the property of Mr. Samuel Edwards in Douro near the Canal Bridge, knocking the gable off the structure, doing damage to the amount of $50. The barn was not, however, set on fire.

Smashed a Mirror.

Not satisfied with this exploit, the electric fluid next paid a visit to Mr. Edwards' house, where another illustration of its mysterious operations was given. Lightning struck a large mirror in the dining room, shattering it into minute fragments. Mr. Edwards was standing a few feet away from the mirror at the time, but felt no shock. The queerest part about the incident, however, is that it was impossible to tell where the lightning made its entrance or its exit.

From Lakefield come two instances of unusual performances by lightning. The fluid struck the chimney of Mr. Samuel Bickell's residence and came down into the house knocking a castor off the bed. The occupants were badly shocked but not seriously injured. Stove pipes were knocked over and other minor damage done.

Lightning also visited the home of Mr. Jos. Wallace in Lakefield, striking the kitchen chimney and shooting down through the stove, shattering it badly. The occupants were not hurt and no other damage was done.

It is reported that a barn belonging to Mr. Rosborough in Smith was burned.

The barn of Mr. Bruce Douglas, living a mile from Warsaw, was struck but little damage was done and the structure was not set on fire.

Th home of Mrs. Wm. Smith, 30 Aberdeen Ave., narrowly escaped being struck by the lightning last night. The lightning struck the grounds a few feet from the house at the back, tearing a hole three or four feet deep. Fortunately, however, no damage was done.

Since the above was written the Examiner has learned, among the many places visited by lightning last night, was the home of Mr. A. E. Donoghue, of 33 Sophia street. Mr. Donoghue was the victim of a very thrilling experience. The lightning struck the chimney and came down the stove-pipe, blowing the top off the stove, which was within eight feet of Mr. Donoghue. Besides blowing the top off the stove, it struck the ground in the yard at the back of the house and tore up the ground to a depth of two or three feet. Mr. Donoghue stated to an Examiner reporter to-day that when the bolt struck the stove the room was filled with a blinding blaze of fire. He said that he felt the shock for several minutes, but was not hurt. No other damage resulted.

397 George St., Peterboro C. B. ROUTLEY 262/4 Queen W., Toronto

Here is an interesting Peterborough scene of over forty years ago. The above picture shows a group of buildings which two score years ago stood on the site of the present post office, and it is likely were there when the man, whose skeleton was dug up a few days ago, was buried, a few yards to the rear. They were destroyed by fire in 1869.

The structure to the right of the picture was an hotel, at that time tenanted by Mr. Ted Cavanagh and adjacent to this was the hotel yard: Looking by the side of this building and directly in line with the sign post, the tower of St. Paul's church is plainly visible. The hair dressing saloon in the centre of the picture was occupied by Lewis Meyett, a brother-in-law of Messrs. Primeau, the present Hunter street barbers.

The next building was the office of Dr. McCullough, while to the extreme left of the picture a brick building is seen. This was a small saloon kept by Mr. Henthorne, wherein it was the custom at that time for persons to meet for a drink, and a small kind of cake or biscuit, which was better known by the nick-name of "Choke-Dog."

The growth of that great soil crop, Alfalfa, will be general, if it takes as deep root in the farmers' affections as it does in the soil.

The general growth of plant life has been phenomenal this season, and that serves to illustrate the tremendous thriftiness of the alfalfa plant. In an article on another page, general reference is made to the great advantages of alfalfa as a farm crop. The Examiner has on exhibition at its office, specimens not only of the deep rooting character of alfalfa, but of its lusty top growth, which has reached this season the great length of twenty inches, with thirty or forty main stems branching, or shooting into a hundred or more, springing from a single root. A root of three feet, eight and a half inches, is needed to pump sustenance into so great a top. Alfalfa thus seems to bid defiance to dry weather that ruins any shallow-rooted plant, and to reach soil elements at a depth where no other plant, except, perhaps, the mallow, or Canada thistle, can penetrate. The farmer that does not know alfalfa of course does not grow it. But the farmer who knows it, grows it, and find it one of the most profitable fodder crops for man, beast and fowl—and even human beings—that can be placed in the soil.

When Blood Was Impure

The Old-fashioned Doctor Brought Relief by Bleeding

To-day We Keep the Blood Pure by Using

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

The doctor of a century or two ago was accustomed to free his patient of an excess of poisoned blood by the cruel process of bleeding.

We would not stand for that heroic treatment to-day, because we understand better the work of the liver and kidneys and how to awaken them to their duty of filtering poisons from the blood.

These are the only organs of the body which filter poisons from the blood, and so cleanse the system of the foul waste matter which causes pains, aches and dangerous diseases, and there is no way you can so quickly bring the liver and kidneys into action as by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Don't imagine that a liquid medicine is necessary to purify the blood. The supreme test is, "Does the treatment awaken the action of the liver and invigorate the kidneys?" Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are unique in their combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels, and on this account wonderfully successful as a means of purifying the blood.

The whole digestive and excretory system is cleansed and invigorated by this treatment. The appetite is sharpened, digestion improves, and the tired, languid feelings of a poisoned system give way to new health and vigour. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

HUNTING AND FISHING EXPEDITIONS AND SUMMER SUPPLIES.

People will now be turning their thoughts to their special list for their summer cottages or hunting expeditions. Every article to go in the "Midget Larder" must be absolutely worthy of its place, otherwise it is sure to get crowded out. The article to place at the top is surely Oxo Cubes. They are so extremely handy, and each Cube is measured to be exactly the right size for a cupful, and moreover each Cube contains the right proportion of both its stimulating and nourishing properties of rich beef. The flavour is so delicious and the Cubes so satisfying that they may well be relied on to form the regular daily beverage when one is up country. Moreover they may be kept for an indefinite length of time.

In taking Oxo Cubes with you you avoid all risks of breakage and all trouble of messy corks and bottles, which was entailed by the old fashioned way of bottles and jars.

MORE TARVIA

A number of men employed by the city were engaged in putting more Tarvia on the street yesterday. The work had been delayed on account of the rain. The block on Simcoe street, between Water and George streets, will be given a coat of the preparation. The Tarvia so far has given entire satisfaction, and it is thought that something has at last been discovered that will overcome the dust.

POLICE COURT

A man from the country was arraigned before his Worship Magistrate Dumble in the Police Court this morning on a charge of being drunk and disorderly in a public place. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was discharged, with a warning.

A local woman was served with a summons for non-payment of dog taxes. She did not appear, but a fine of $3.00 and costs, amounting to $4.60, was imposed. His Worship said that if people did not pay the taxes, they would have to stand the consequences.

Dennis H. Skully was served with a summons to appear this morning, but did not put in an appearance. The case was adjourned for a week. The Police are informed that Skully got out of the city when he found out he was summoned.

Other people in the city owning dogs, should take this as a warning and pay the taxes promptly.

POST CARD COLUMN

Peterborough, May 23, 1911.

About one year ago St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society moved into their own quarters on Simcoe street. As your correspondent has been an interested and keen observer of the workings of this noble society, I can confidently state that this move has proved to be one of the best of the many good moves that this organization has made in the interests of moral reform. Never in the grand history of the society have the good results been as noticeable as they have for the last year. The Catholic people in particular are enjoying the fruit of the great work that has been done in the past.

The different commodious departments of the club rooms which are conducted to counteract the allurements of perilous places have experienced so much encouraging patronage that the genial and obliging Patrick Kane found it impossible to accomodate all who would like to take advantage of them and anyone that has been familiar with the past could not help but be struck with the marked improvement in the general behaviour and make-up of those young men. They certainly are something for their church to be proud of and a credit to the community.

This society understands that the average young man cannot be always under the moral restraining influence of his church or home and therefore it surrounds its members with safeguards by supplying some of the harmless amusements. Some may claim that if boys would properly recognise their religious and home duties we would not need to supply those wants. Well, they don't, never did and never will do so; and that's why they are there.

It is pleasing to know that from a financial standpoint, the society never experienced greater success. The present spiritual adviser, Rev. Father McColl, is to be particularly congratulated upon the gratifying condition financially.

It is expected that the purchase of the park down the river is going to prove another great and successful undertaking. It is the intention of the society to sell a number of lots for summer homes in the near future. The athletic ground in connection with the park is reported to be in great shape this spring and a number intend to take advantage of visiting the grounds on the 24th. At the present time Rev. Father McColl has some of the old guard out on a canvass of the city for new members and stray sheep, and they are meeting with considerable success. The practical results of the work done by this society when witnessed by this canvassing committee acts as a stimulus to greater enthusiasm for the cause.—Com.

Peterborough Woman Badly Hurt In A Runaway Thrown Out Of Vehicle

Mrs. George Doig of 222 King St., Peterborough, met with a serious accident this morning, at 12.30.

Mrs. Doig was driven in a rig by Harry Bolton from Peterborough to the third line of Dummer cemetery, where she was to have attended to the grave of her father, Mr. Sandy Ferguson, who died some years since. On reaching the gate Mr. Bolton removed the bridle from the horse to replace it by a halter, but no sooner had the bit been removed from its mouth than the horse plunged wildly, knocking Bolton down and the rig passed over his body, but no injury was sustained. Not so with Mrs. Doig, however, who was violently thrown out and badly injured, while the horse raced madly to the barn belonging to Mr. Fred Payne, and fell on reaching the yard. The horse was not injured, but the rig was a complete wreck.

Messrs. Comstock's ambulance was instantly phoned for and about 3 o'clock it arrived, as also did Dr. Scott. The injured person was attended in the meantime by Dr. Munro from Warsaw.

Mrs. Doig was taken to Nicholls Hospital, at 3.30, where it was found she had sustained several broken ribs and bruised shoulders. Dr. Scott is still in attendance.

The injured lady, who is in her 35th year, has four children: Stewart, aged 15, Hattie, aged 7, Stella, aged 4, and Viola, aged 3.

It is said that the horse, which is always liable to bolt, ran away last week, with a boy in the rig.

RECIPROCITY DISCUSSED AT THE CONFERENCE

Special to The Examiner.

LONDON, MAY 23. — Under the Presidency of Premier Asquith the Imperial Conference the grand convention of the British Empire, got down to serious business to-day. Although the meetings are strictly private it is understood that the subject of Canadian reciprocity with the United States and the proposed peace pact was discussed at a considerable length. Sir Wilfrid was a prominent figure in the discussion and was asked many questions regarding Canada's relations with the United States. Plans for Imperial defence and the preservation of the peace of the world were vigorously debated.

QUALITY OR QUANTITY

Which Do You Prefer?—Newbro's Herpicide Represents Quality

Did you ever have a dealer offer you a large bottle of something and tell you it was a better remedy for the hair than Newbro's Herpicide and cheaper because in a larger bottle?

What? Certainly we knew you had. Many other people have, too.

Wahat would you say to that same dealer were he to tell you a silver dollar was worth more than a five dollar gold piece because it is larger.

Such an attempt being a reflection upon your good sense you would probably say some rather pointed things to him. You would be justified. Your self-respect would demand it.

Well, there are just as many good reasons for the difference in size between those bottles as there are for the difference in size between the silver dollar and the five dollar gold piece.

The truth is that the large bottle isn't half large enough.

There is more virtue in a half pint of Newbro's Herpicide than in a gallon of some so-called hair preparations.

There is a dollar's worth of results in the bottle of Herpicide, but do you know what is in the other?

No? Then why buy it? Your judgment, intelligence and the experience of your friends, if not your own, cry out against it.

You know when you go into that store that Herpicide is what you need and want.

You KNOW that Herpicide is the original scalp prophylactic.

You KNOW that Herpicide kills the dandruff germ.

You KNOW that Herpicide stops falling hair.

You KNOW that Herpicide makes the hair light, fluffy and beautiful.

You know these things in the same way you know that the five dollar gold piece, notwithstanding its size, is more valuable than the silver dollar.

Then insist on having genuine Herpicide.

Send 10c. in postage or silver for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. E., Detroit, Mich. McDermid and Jury, special agents.

All Union Barber Shops will be closed all day to-morrow but will be open until 11 o'clock to-night. G. BROUSSEAU

RECIPROCITY AND ITS EFFECT ON PULPWOOD

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, MAY 23.—Discussing the Canadian reciprocity bill, especially free imported pulpwood, Senator Norris remarked that the United States Senate was undertaking to bulldose the Canadian provinces, but reminded the Senate that the United States needed Canadian pulpwood more than Canada needed anything the United States produces.

She was 54 years of age and leaves one son, Dr. A. Ross Alguir, and four daughters.

SURPRISES AT THE HEX

Judging by the applause with which the audience greeted the acts last night, it was easily seen that the goods were being delivered. The management had promised advanced vaudeville, and they certainly kept their word. From the moment the curtain went up, the audience was kept wondering whether they were in some large metropolis instead of Peterborough. The opening act was certainly a big surprise. The Modernistas team of classy Spanish dancers, resplendent in gorgeous costumes of their native country, the male member displaying a Toreador costume of elegant effulgence, while the Senorita quickly captivated the audience with her graceful dances, making several changes of beautiful costumes; that famous song, "La Paloma" was rendered in their native language and was largely applauded. This meritorious act direct from European music hall, left the audience in good humour for the act which was to follow.

The famous Cox family was certainly a revelation, and it was the concensus of opinion that such harmony singing was never heard here before. Their rendition of the Italian Music Master was a beautiful piece of work, replete with clean comedy, and was vociferously applauded. Miss Violet the wonderful girl baritone, sang that beautiful ballad, entitled, "My heart has learned to love you," in such a splendid manner that the audience insisted on a repetition of the chorus. Miss Mildred, in her graceful tamborine dance was well received, and the quartette singing was highly appreciated. This show bids fair to break the record this week, as the like has never been seen in Peterborough. Baby Elmer, the child comedian, was voted by the audience as being the cutest thing that ever graced the boards, and he will certainly prove a favourite with the little folks.

The following selections were rendered by the quartette, "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "The Mendelssohn Tune," "Stop, Stop, Stop," and "Put Your Arms Around Me Honey." Every song was encored to the echo, and this will certainly prove to be a banner for classy singing and dancing.

MANY ARE PROSTRATED

Heat Wave in American Cities Brings Death—Two Montreal Men Dead as Result of Humidity

24 IN CLEVELAND

Boston, May 23.—The heat blanket which oppressed Boston and all New England yesterday shattered life out of two persons in this city and more than a score of others were prostrated by the sun's powerful rays and a high humidity. Dr. Albert H. Hayes, 74 years of age, collapsed in the Scollay square subway station and died a few minutes later. Seated in a chair near an open window, where she had gone to get some air, Mrs. Elizabeth Hanley, aged 60 years, was found in her home late yesterday, dead.

Cleveland, O., May 23.—Because of the high temperature eight babies died yesterday, making 24 deaths of babies in the last four days attributable to the heat. One woman was also fatally prostrated. There were a number of prostrations. The official temperature was 88, but thermometers in the business streets registered nearly 10 degrees higher.

Troy, N.Y., May 23.—Yesterday was the hottest May 23 in fifteen years and there was many prostrations. One unknown man was overcome while watching a circus parade and died before medical aid reached him. Several others are seriously ill as a result of the excessive heat.

Charles R. Hill, paying teller of the Security Trust Co. of this city, a man about 50 years old, dropped dead while watching the twelfth innings of an exciting ball game. Excessive heat is regarded as the cause.

Pittsburg, May 23.—Showers last night and a slight easterly breeze somewhat relieved for a short period the excessive heat in which Pittsburg and vicinity had sizzled for a week. The official temperature yesterday again scored 92, while hundreds of thermometers in front of business places registered 100.

Six deaths were recorded yesterday, while prostrations are reported almost hourly from half a score of hospitals, besides the police stations.

Heat Deaths in Montreal.

Montreal, May 23.—Sunday was the hottest May day in many years, the thermometer registering 88.5 at McGill, the coolest spot on the mountain, and down town reached 90 in the shade.

John March, aged 71, nightwatchman at the Canada Rubber Works, was found dead in the office there, a victim of the heat, and Francois Xavier Ledoucuer, dropped dead from the same cause.

Hot in Toronto.

Toronto, May 23.—Monday was regarded by most Torontonians as a genuine scorcher, but it was not the unusual heights of the temperature, but its humidity that caused such discomfort and adoption of mid-summer attire. The weather man said no records for heat had been broken this May. The hottest day in May recorded at the observatory was May 30, 1876, when the temperature rose to 93 degrees, eight degrees higher than Sunday. So far this has been a remarkably dry May, there having been up to yesterday but 45 per cent. of the average rainfall.

In May, 1897, the thermometer for about three weeks registered over 90 degrees every day. This is the first recurrance in the fourteen years of such a heated May.

Kingston Swelters.

Kingston, May 23.—Kingston sweltered yesterday under an unusually warm wave. In Princess street the thermometer registered 86 degrees.

Fear for Emperor.

Goedeolloe, Hungary, May 23.—Prof. Neuesser, whose arrival at the Royal Chateau here, where Emperor Francis Joseph is sojourning, caused some alarm, is so satisfied with the emperor's condition that its to-day left for the Austrian capital. His majesty took a three hours' walk in the park surrounding the chateau yesterday morning, and on returning received in audience Baron von Blienerth, the Austrian Prime Minister.

Vienna, May 23.—Notwithstanding the reassuring official reports concerning the emperor's health, there is a widespread feeling that his condition is less satisfactory than reported.

The news that Prof. Neusser had paid a professional visit to the emperor resulted yesterday in a weakening of the Bourse.

Construction Foreman Killed.

North Bay, Ont., May 23.—Charles Forsythe, of North Bay, in charge of a steam shovel on construction work on the Porcupine Branch of the T. & N. O. Railway, came to his death by falling between the van and engine of a work train. He leaves a wife and four children.

MONIS IS PROGRESSING

French Premier's Condition is More Satisfactory—Yesterday Was His Birthday—Receives Congratulations

RACE GOES ON

Paris, May 23.—The physician's bulletin, issued last night, says simply: "M. Monis' condition most satisfactory."

The Premier was permitted to take light nourishment yesterday and Prof. Lanneloughe, at the close of a consultation, said there was no longer fear of complications.

The Premier persistently asks for news of M. Berteaux. The physicians told him that the Minister of War was unconscious, and that there was no hope. The Premier was so deeply affected that it was deemed best not to inform him of the death of M. Berteaux until later.

Yesterday was Premier Monis' 65th birthday and he received the congratulations of his family and friends.

Aviator Frey began his flight from the aviation field at 2.05 yesterday afternoon, but only succeeding in reaching Etampes, where his machine turned turtle in a squall and plunged to the ground. Frey was not hurt.

Gilbert, on leaving Pontlevoy for Angouleme lost his way and landed at Brizay, but later resumed his flight on the first leg of the course.

Garros, the first contestant to reach Angouleme, is repairing his machine for the second stage of the flight from Angouleme to St. Sebastien.

No further starters appeared for the race and a provisional classification has been made for the first stage of the flight to Angouleme. Vedrin is placed first, in three hours 43 minutes; Garros second, five hours and one minute; Gilbert third, eight hours 55 minutes.

Wanted Their Money Back.

Angouleme, May 23.—Vedrine, who made a record-breaking flight from Issy Les Moulineaux to this place yesterday, in the Paris to Madrid aviation race, brought out his machine last evening to give an exhibition for the benefit of a vast throng of people who had gathered to witness the arrival of the aviators. He was not successful in rising, and the crowd became unruly and demanded their money back. Rioters broke the barriers and attempted to wreck the official buildings and Vedrine's machine. It was necessary to call out the troops to rescue the members of the local aero club's committee, which had charge of the affair.

Lightning Fired House.

Sudbury, May 23.—An electrical storm of exceptional violence swept over Sudbury and district Saturday night. At the height of it, lightning struck the house of Robert Gillmore, foreman in the Sudbury Foundry Co. The bolt passed through the window of a bedroom, passed round the wall, hurled a bureau into the middle of the room, and crashed through the floor. Instantly the house burst into flames, and the occupants had only time to rush out in their night clothes.

Gilmour's brother-in-law, Jos. Bannagan, who only arrived with his wife from Scotland last Tuesday, lost absolutely everything.

A C.P.R. train ran down and killed Joseph Smart, about two miles east of Espanola, on Saturday night. A bottle of whisky carried in his pocket was unbroken, though not a bone escaped.

Informer Assaulted.

Hamilton, May 23.—Claiming that he had given the police a tip that led to a raid on an alleged Chinese gambling joint Sunday night, two of Jim Lee's fellow-countrymen last night assaulted him when he entered a Chinese store at 151 North James street. A heavy bowl, hurled by one of Lee's assailants, struck him on the head and inflicted injuries which made his removal to the city hospital necessary. Detectives Cameron and Coulter arrested Lee Kow and Chew Chong on the charge of committing the assault.

Japan is a Hustler.

Washington, D.C., May 23.—The fur seal conference at which the United States, Great Britain, Japan and Russia are seeking to come to terms for a fifteen year close season for pelagic sealing in the North Pacific, has already met with difficulties.

Preliminary to the conference, an agreement was signed between the United States and Canada with respect to the Pribiloff Islands, under which Canada was to receive one-fifth of the catch on the islands themselves as compensation for giving up destructive fishing in the open sea.

Japan has taken offence at the arrangement being made before conference, and the proceedings on Thursday ended in Japan's representatives withdrawing in bad feeling. Another meeting will, however, be held to-day

PLEAD FOR LENIENCY.

Many Societies Ask Commutation For Italian Woman.

Ottawa, May 23.—Petitions praying for executive clemency in the case of Angelina Napolitano, sentenced to death for the murder of her husband at the Soo, are piling up at the Department of Justice. These petitions are from women and women's societies chiefly, and from practically all parts of Canada. The plea is made in some petitions simply on account of the sex of the prisoner, but in most cases the ground taken is that the woman's approaching motherhood would make the carrying out of the sentence itself almost a crime.

So far these petitions have not resulted in any action by the Minister of Justice, for the reason that custom requires first a perusal of the evidence taken at the trial, and copies of the evidence have not yet reached the Department. It is expected that several days, if not weeks, must pass before the notes of evidence are extended and the records have been placed in the hands of the Minister of Justice. The execution is set for August, and it is expected that the child of the condemned woman will be born in July. This is said to have been taken into consideration by the trial judge, whose report will have much to do with the action of the Government. Other Ministers than Sir Alan Aylesworth will likely have something to say in regard to the carrying out of the sentence, as cases of this kind go before the whole Council.

SCENE IS PUT BACK.

Chateauguay Will Be Included In the Historic Pageant.

London, May 23.—The Canadian pageant committee has arranged to include in the Festival of the Empire the scene depicting the battle of Chateauguay, the withdrawal of which has been much resented by Canadians.

It was announced in April that the Canadian committee, of which Lord Strathcona is president, had decided to eliminate from the coronation program Canada's principal contribution to the pageant. This piece, which has been in course of preparation at the Crystal Palace, was entitled "Chateauguay, where Canada was held for the Empire," and was intended to represent the defeat, through strategy, of an invading American force in 1813, by a handful of Canadians.

It was thought that the pageant might wound the susceptibilities of American visitors, and that it might cause a feeling which would endanger the conclusion of the proposed Anglo-American arbitration treaty. Later it was explained that the opposition was not from Americans, but other unnamed parties.

A Secret Directory.

Paris, May 23.—Private letters received in Paris from Lisbon contain the prediction that an attempt to restore the monarchy will soon be made in Portugal, probably before the elections. It is claimed that the movement will be started at Oporto, the second city of Portugal in population and importance, where business is at a standstill as a result of the dockmen's strike.

Alleged Blackmailers.

Hamilton, May 23.—A pair of alleged blackmailers, in the persons of two young and attractive girls of this city, were taken in charge by Detective Sayers here yesterday. A prominent business man complained to the police about the girls, but when they had been apprehended, he refused to appear against them. They were accordingly released after receiving some wholesome advice from the police.

THE REFORM SCHEME

Lansdowne's Bill Passes its Second Reading in the Lords but it May Not Go Any Further

GOVERNMENT'S ACTION

London, May 23.—Lord Lansdowne's bill for the reconstitution of the House of Lords passed its second reading in that House yesterday without division, after War Secretary Haldane announced that the Government would not divide against it. The Secretary said that he welcomed the evidence the bill afforded; the Conservatives were convinced of the need of the reform, but the Government held that the passage of the veto was essential before any steps were taken in that direction. Lord Lansdowne complained that the debate had not elicited any statement of the Government's plans for reforming the House.

The fact that there was no division on the bill prevents the disclosure of the revolt among the Unionist peers against the measure, but the speeches of the Duke of Marlborough, the Duke of Somerset, and Lord Killanin showed it to be considerable, and it is not expected that the committee stage will be proceeded with.

The second reading of the veto bill will be moved in the House of Lords to-day. The debate is likely to last for some days, but in Parliamentary circles it is generally believed that the bill will be given its second reading. Attempts to amend the bill will be made, but the Government will refuse to accept such amendments or disclose its own plan for reforming the second chamber. The Liberals confidently predict that the Lords will ultimately capitulate and pass the veto bill, with the expectation that it will be repealed when the Unionists return to power.

Premiers Dined by King.

London, May 23.—The Imperial Conference was formally inaugurated by a luncheon at Buckingham Palace yesterday afternoon, at which King George and Queen Mary entertained the visiting colonial premiers and their wives and daughters.

Most of the members of royalty, who are now in London were present at the luncheon, as were Premier Asquith and Mrs. Asquith and the officials of the Colonial Office.

King George was markedly attentive to the visiting statesmen.

The conference will open to-day at the Foreign Office, when Premier Asquith, in his address of welcome, will outline the Government's program.

Barbers to Banish "Tips."

St. Louis, Mo., May 23.—A ban was placed on tipping at a mass meeting of bosses and journeymen barbers Sunday.

The action comes as the result of investigation by the officials of the International Union of Journeymen Barbers of America, representing Canada, the United States and Porto Rico.

Barbers have for some time complained because their patrons were joining the ranks of the self-shavers.

Steamer Belleville Aground.

Kingston, May 23.—The steamer Belleville ran aground near Iroquois, but was released by the tug Frontenac of the Calvin fleet, without damage. The vessel was delayed for six hours.

Fell From Tree.

Kingston, May 23.—George Adsit, caretaker of the fair grounds, died in the General Hospital yesterday afternoon from injuries received in a fall from a tree.

Seized Ten Nets.

Brockville, May 23.—George Tener of Gananoque, fish and game overseer, is the busiest official on the St. Lawrence. During the past week he has seized ten nets. Three of these were taken from the head of Howe Island, four near Poole's resort, and three at Fiddler's Elbow.

Tag Day in Berlin.

Berlin, May 23.—Over $2,200 was raised for the Berlin and Waterloo hospital by the ladies' auxiliary on the annual tag day. This is over $100 ahead of last year.

Suffered Greatly From Heart Trouble.

NERVES WERE VERY WEAK.

Mrs. John Farrell, Rose Hill, P.E.I., writes:—"It is with the greatest of pleasure I write you stating the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

"About five years ago I suffered greatly from heart trouble, and my nerves were very weak. After seeing several doctors and using their medicine, I got no relief until a friend told me of your Heart and Nerve Pills. I took two boxes and they effected a complete cure. I can recommend them highly to all nervous and run down women.

"I have advised many others to try them and they have all been cured of the same trouble."

The proper action of the nerves, so important to the well-being of the heart, depends entirely upon the general condition of the nervous system. If there be nerve derangement of any kind, it is bound to produce heart derangement.

In Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is combined a treatment that will cure all forms of nervous disorders, as well as act on the heart itself, and in this is the secret of their success in curing so many cases of heart and nerve trouble.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Comfort and Convenience

If you have never experienced the pleasures of living in a "Sunshine" heated house, let us tell you that it is a comfort and convenience which is fully appreciated.

For an average of seven tons of coal to an eight-roomed house, an even temperature of sixty-five to seventy can be kept up from October to April. Once a is started there is no work attached to its operation beyond placing in coal twice a day, and drawing out ashes and filling water pan every other day. Chains on a pulley fixed in the hall, or room above the cellar, answer the respective requirements for:—Burning Up, or Closing Off.

No caretaker is necessary, no engineer has to be called in. No precautions, beyond following directions, are necessary.

If you can run a stove (and who cannot) you can run a Sunshine Furnace.

Cobourg and Peterborough Will Clash at Riverside Park To-morrow in What Should be the Best Game Seen Here in Many Moons.

Everything is ready for the opening game in the Midland Baseball League to-morrow between Cobourg and Peterborough at Riverside Park. The contest will start sharp at 3 o'clock with J. M. Rosevear of Port Hope handling the indicator. The game is the only sporting event of the holiday afternoon and will provide plenty of amusement for the "stay-at-homes." The Peterborough team will be as follows:

MEMORY HAS VANISHED.

Michael Fraser's Mind is a Blank, Says the Judges.

Toronto, May 23.—The contest between the relatives of Michael Fraser and Mrs. Fraser as to the sanity of the eighty-four-year-old Midland bridegroom, was concluded in the Divisional Court at Osgoode Hall yesterday afternoon. Judgment was reserved in order to allow the counsel for both sides to submit cases to the registrar in support of their argument.

During the evidence it was shown that Michael Fraser was addicted to drink and that he was on more than one occasion so intoxicated as to lose the use of his reasoning faculties. It was, however, shown that he had not been kept under the influence of drugs prior to his marriage to Miss Robertson.

John King, K.C., counsel for Mrs Fraser, several times attacked the action of the court in examining Fraser while in an hotel at Midland. He claimed that it was the first time in history that such a course had been taken.

Prior to the visit of the presiding judges to Midland, they secured information regarding Fraser's actions, both in business and social life during the past year. When questioning the old man it was found that all matters, even those of greatest importance, were complete blanks to him.

"We found," said Mr. Justice Middleton, "that his recollection of affairs had entirely vanished and that he was practically a pensioner on Mrs. Fraser's bounty."

Mr. Justice Teetzel seemed to be of the opinion that Fraser was not of sound mind, and in support of this conviction asked Mrs. Fraser's counsel if a sane man would take a love letter proposing marriage to his solicitor, as was done shortly before the wedding took place.

Mr. King did not discuss the question.

13 WEEKS IN HOSPITAL

Came Away No Better and Then Two Boxes of Zam-Buk Worked Complete Cure

Mr. Fred Mason, the well-known upholsterer and mattress manufacturer of St. Andrew's N.B., says:—"I had eczema on my knee, which caused me terrible pain and inconvenience. The sore parts would itch and burn and tingle, and then when rubbed or scratched, would become very painful. I tried various remedies but got no better, so I decided to go to Montreal and take special treatment. I received treatment at the Montreal General Hospital for thirteen weeks, but at the end of that time I was not cured, and almost gave in. A friend advised me to give Zam-Buk a trial, and although I had little hope of it doing me good, I took the advice. Almost as soon as applied Zam-Buk stopped the itching and the irritation. I persevered with the balm, and it was soon evident that it would do me good. Each day the pain was reduced, the sore spots began to heal, and by the time I had used a few boxes of Zam-Buk I was cured."

For eczema, blood-poisoning, piles ulcers, sores, abscesses, varicose ulcers, bad leg, sore feet, blisters, insect stings, poisoned wounds, cuts, burns bruises and all skin injuries and diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. Zam Buk Soap should also be used for washing all wounds, eczemous patches and sores. All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c. per tablet, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

WAGE WAR ON THE WORMS; CRUSH THE CATERPILLARS

The Plague is Increasing and Unless Prompt Measures Are Taken the Result Will Be Serious Indeed.

SHOULD ACT AT ONCE

Neither the people, perhaps, nor the city authorities, realize to what an extent the tent caterpillar pest is upon us. Richard III, if he were in Peterborough, now, would have plenty of subjects to justify his wail—"Let's talk of graves and worms and epitaphs." We have the worms by millions.

Two gentlemen coming down town to-day at one o'clock saw fifty street maples, with from one to three large clusters of tent caterpillars bunched on the trunks. These worms were evidently taking their siesta after a dinner on leaves. These clumps were seen on at least fifty trees, and the clusters of worms must have contained thousands if not tens of thousands of caterpillars.

It is probable that similar clusters of worms would be found all through the city. One gentleman has three firm, thrifty young maples on the boulevard in front of his house on Gilmour street and on these were found this afternoon five big bunches of worms. The passers-by warned him and he came out with a whisk and dust tray, swept the worms into it and either burned them or buried them, crushing them well before covering in the hole in the ground.

Another way is to crush the worm clusters with the closely worn stump of a broom or fold three or four ply newspapers over the the cluster and have some one hold it and crush the worms underneath the paper; the cleanest and neatest way.

Some persons have been known to load breech-loader shells with gunpowder only, and holding the muzzle o fthe gun close to the worms, blow them out of existence. Morning and evening the worms cluster on some part of a tree all together, and this is a good time to destroy them.

Whatever way is found best, relentless war must be waged upon the worms. They are about us everywhere on nearly every tree, and will be found if we look at the right time. Whatever way is found best, the worms must be destroyed, both for the comfort of the citizens and looking ahead to next year. If we leave a million alive in Peterborough this spring, that means at least 500 million next year. Let everybody recall the devastating pest of caterpillars a few years ago, and if most strenuous efforts at destruction are not made, next year or the year after will be as bad.

Smash or spray with Parish green solution or do anything that will end the life of a caterpillar. By so doing you kill 500 next year for each one. The street trees seem to be particularly infested this year, and it therefore becomes the duty of the city to declare war at once on the caterpillar pest, and every citizen should co-operate.

Positively Negative

Some advertising men—experts—have told us that we shouldn't use "don't" in our advertisements. They tell us to be positive—to say "do." Now we think there are some things we shouldn't do and we also think there are some things you shouldn't do when it comes to your eyes. If you need double vision lenses we tell you positively that are the best because being solid lenses they don't make you look odd; they have no seams or cracks, so they don't collect dust; the reading parts are fused into the far view lenses so they don't fall off as in pasted bifocal lenses. Kryptoks don't give you any trouble. They DO give complete satisfaction when designed, made and fitted by us.

TORIC KRYPTOKS

WAGE WAR ON THE WORMS; CRUSH THE CATERPILLARS

The Plague is Increasing and Unless Prompt Measures Are Taken the Result Will Be Serious Indeed.

SHOULD ACT AT ONCE

Neither the people, perhaps, nor the city authorities, realize to what an extent the tent caterpillar pest is upon us. Richard III, if he were in Peterborough, now, would have plenty of subjects to justify his wail—"Let's talk of graves and worms and epitaphs." We have the worms by millions.

Two gentlemen coming down town to-day at one o'clock saw fifty street maples, with from one to three large clusters of tent caterpillars bunched on the trunks. These worms were evidently taking their meals after a dinner on leaves. These clumps were seen on at least fifty trees, and the clusters of worms must have contained thousands if not tens of thousands of caterpillars.

It is probable that similar clusters of worms would be found all through the city. One gentleman has three firm, thrifty young maples on the boulevard in front of his house on Gilmour street and on these were found this afternoon five big bunches of worms. The passers-by warned him and he came out with a whisk and dust tray, swept the worms into it and either burned them or buried them, crushing them well before covering in the hole in the ground.

Another way is to crush the worm clusters with the closely worn stump of a broom or fold three or four ply newspapers over the the cluster and have some one hold it and crush the worms underneath the paper; the cleanest and neatest way.

Some persons have been known to load breech-loader shells with gunpowder only, and holding the muzzle o fthe gun close to the worms, blow them out of existence. Morning and evening the worms cluster on some part of a tree all together, and this is a good time to destroy them.

Whatever way is found best, relentless war must be waged upon the worms. They are about us everywhere on nearly every tree, and will be found if we look at the right time. Whatever way is found best, the worms must be destroyed, both for the comfort of the citizens and looking ahead to next year. If we leave a million alive in Peterborough this spring, that means at least 500 million next year. Let everybody recall the devastating pest of caterpillars a few years ago, and if most strenuous efforts at destruction are not made, next year or the year after will be as bad.

Smash or spray with Parish green solution or do anything that will end the life of a caterpillar. By so doing you kill 500 next year for each one. The street trees seem to be particularly infested this year, and it therefore becomes the duty of the city to declare war at once on the caterpillar pest, and every citizen should co-operate.

WHY THEY WANT IT.

The Conservative Opposition, it seems, have decided upon a course of obstruction after the re-assembling of Parliament, with a view of forcing a general election before reciprocity is voted upon. One object in this is said to be, the securing of the big campaign fund, which the special interests, the city interests, the protected interests, are providing for the preliminary fight, and will provide for a general election if it is held before the reciprocity agreement is brought to a vote, and adopted. Once, however, the agreement is fixed, the special interests will not "cash in" for a general election, in which reciprocity is not a pending issue. Hence the why they want a general election.

DEATH TO THE CATERPILLAR.

It is probable that the public are not seized by the import and menace of the invasion of the tent caterpillar, which is assuming large proportions this year, the most multitudinous and most destructive of fruit tree, foliage and consequently of fruit trees and fruit. Many will remember a few years ago, when the caterpillar pest was like one of the plagues of Egypt—when caterpillars swarmed over everything. Trees of all kinds, pavements, street and even houses were invaded, and it was impossible to walk abroad without being covered with a "creepy" collection of the omnipresent pest. Trees were destroyed and whole clumps of forest deprived of leaves and tops by the swarming scourge.

We have been free for some years, but this year the caterpillar has come in force. All over the country on the wild cherry tree—on seedling apple scrub growing by the highway fences, are to be seen hundreds of tents swarming with baneful life, millions of worms repining in readiness for their destructive work.

If care is taken, it it a small matter to kill millions in the egg before hatching, but if this is delayed—and it is too late now—the better way is spraying with Paris green solution. Everybody should do his or her share in destroying these pests in the beginning, and later. The township of Douro seems to specially invaded. Last Sunday Rev. Father McGuire, of St. Joseph's, Douro, called the attention of his flock to the duty of uniting to destroy these caterpillars, not only in their own interests, but in discharge of their duty to their neighbour and to the public.

It seems that there is no legislation governing the destruction of the tent caterpillar. In 1910 an act was passed known as the "Fruit Pests Act," dealing with certain specified insects and fruit tree diseases; but the tent caterpillar (Clisiocampa Americana) is not included in the statutory list. This act empowers municipal councils to appoint inspectors, who on reporting the presence of a pest, notifies the head of the municipality, who instructs the clerk to notify the owner or occupant to spray the affected plants or trees. If this is not done by the owner within ten days, the municipality may do the spraying and charge the expense against this property.

If this act, or some other, does not apply to the tent caterpillor, it should be amended so as to include it, for it promises to be a genuine scourge next year. Last year there were a few worms. This year there is a tremendous increase—to millions, and next year, unless strong and stringent destructive measures are adopted, there will be millions and millions, as we had a few years ago. But in the absence of compulsory destruction, the township municipalities might well take it upon themselves to carry on a strong campaign of destruction. Individual owners do not recognize responsibility and will not take action generally enough to insure thorough and effective action. Some of the township roadsides are white with the tents of caterpillars, each tent, yielding thousands of worms. In a few days they will be full grown, and after destroying the trees on which they breed, will attack other trees and invade our houses and be a general scourge and nuisance. Public-spirited reeves of townships have a chance to distinguish themselves and win the gratitude of the public.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

With, perhaps, a half million of foreigners pouring into Canada this year, Rudyard Kipling thinks he should have full absolution for his unfortunate offence in injuring this country, by dubbing her "The Lady of the Snows." This title doesn't scare an iota; if it does, it may serve to keep the rush down to manageable proportions.

In one issue the Toronto News tells a frightened country that reciprocity will prevent the investment of British capital in Canada. In a later issue the News tells us that in spite of reciprocity in prospect, 375 million dollars of British capital came to Canada last year, and that the amount will reach 500 millions in 1911. The opponents of reciprocity have ot steer north by south to sustain their unsustainable contentions.

WON'T HURT ANY INTEREST.

Sir William Van Horne, a retired railway president, but now a capitalist, with the capitalist's narrow and concentrated vision, was "sick and ashamed" at the very prospect of reciprocity. Mr. Charles M. Hayes, a railway president (of the Grand Trunk) is disposed to regard the prospect of reciprocity with favour. He is not afraid that it will injure any Canadian interest. Speaking to a representative of the London (Eng. Times, Mr. Hayes said:

"Nobody, of course, can predict exactly how it will work out in every direction; but, if it is a good thing to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before, reciprocity should be good for Great Britain as well as for Canada and the United States. If the broadening of their market enables Canadian farmers to grow more wheat, the number of farmers will increase and their demand for manufactures from Eastern Canada, such as agricultural implements, clothing, and the like, will increase also. And it should be realized that it is this traffic which pays the railways—not the east-bound grain. I do not see how reciprocity is going to lessen the grain carried on Canadian railways; but if to some extent it does, the deficiency will be more than made up by the increase of manufactures going west. There is general agreement among the Canadian people that their manufacturers should have enough protection ot enable them to hold their own in the Canadian West.

No one that honestly thinks about reciprocity can come to any other conclusion than that it will benefit the agricultural interests of Canada. And if these are benefitted the whole country will derive a corresponding advantage. The railways will do an increased traffic and the farmers will have more money to spend in purchase of the products of our factories. Mr. Hays is a man of business mind, and regards reciprocity as a purely business proposal. He is not afraid of it injuring the Grand Trunk Railway, which it would do if it were not beneficial to the general agricultural interests, and, through them, of all other interests, commercial and industrial, in the Dominion.

NON-PARTIZAN VIEW OF OLIVER CASE.

(The Monetary Times).

One of the penalties of being Cabinet Minister is to suffer personal attack. Whether a man be pure or poisoned politically, he can never shake himself of the taunts of others' viciousness, jealousy and ambition. The Monetary Times has always been, and is, a non-partisan journal, fighting only for the principles in which it believes, and irrespective of politics. We feel the more regret, therefore, in seeing the name of the Honourable Frank Oliver, Minister of Interior, dragged into the mire of supposed scandal. We regard Mr. Oliver as one of the strong men of the Dominion, a man who has actually hewed his way as a pioneer across the prairie and as a statesman through the labyrinth of politics. He will undoubtedly clear himself of the charges made against him.

There is a serious aspect of the Oliver incident, which has not received due attention, and is the relation of a bank to its customers, and in turn, ot curiosity mongers. A photograph is said to have been taken of a certain bank's ledger page, showing part of Mr. Oliver's bank account. If that photograph had really been obtained it would reflect little credit upon the institution guarding the account. The photograph was apparently faked in a clever, although clumsy manner. So far as we can learn, a minor official of the bank which had Mr. Oliver's account, was approached by a certain gentleman, whom we need not name, with an offer of a substantial cash payment and a remunerative and permanent position elsewhere. The bank official whose method of address is usually of the best, was so astounded at the request that his reply may be recorded as a matter of history. The suppliant was told to "Go to h—."

The branch bank manager was informed as to what was happening. In the meantime by some, up to the present, inexplicable manner, certain items of Mr. Oliver's account had been seen, noted, and apparently copied upon ledger paper, then photographed. This was the photograh which Mr. D. R. Wilkie, general manager of the Imerial Bank, stated in the most emphatic terms was not an exact photograph of Mr. Oliver's account, as had been stated. A comparison of the original with the spurious at once reveals this fact.

An investigation is to be held respecting the Oliver charges. No one desires that it shall be limited, except that it shall not pry into private affairs. It is not difficult to draw the line between a man's business and his private matters. Undoubtedly there will be an attempt to bring Mr. Oliver's bank account into the limelight, to analyse it, trace the source and the destination of every debit and credit item, and generally to make public a document which concerns only the bank and its customer. This would be a dangerous precedent. The office boy, the business man, the industrial corporation, all consider their bank account a matter of the strictest privacy. Were it to become known that at the slightest show of caprice, envy or spitefulness on the part of enemies, one's bank account might be exposed to public gaze, the whole country would soon be banking their money in stockings, cellars and mattresses. Only when a man is absolutely proved to be a criminal should his bank account be shown to others than the bank officials and their customers. Even then, the greatest discretion should be observed. It is not a question as to whether or not a man's account is clean. Those who have the most honest accounts would be among the strongest objectors to publicity of their bank account figures.

300 BRITISH SHIPS FOR CORONATION NAVAL REVIEW

Next after the coronation the most notable event of coronation week will be the naval review, June 24, at Spithead. The naval vessels will be anchored in from six to eight lines ranging from opposite Old Castle Point on South Sea Beach to somewhere below the Ryde Middle Shoal to the west. One of the lines will be given up to the visiting warships. The rest will be composed of vessels of the British home and Atlantic fleets with their cruiser squadrons, destroyers and sub-marine flotillas, and their attendant auxiliaries. No attempt is to be made to bring together an armada of surpassing numbers. The effort is rather to keep the display down to actually effective vessels to take part in real war under the most modern conditions. Notwithstanding this the number of British ships arrayed for review by King Edward VII will be far surpassed on this occasion. On that occasion the line, although containing a great number of vessels of living efficiency was rather in the nature of an exhibition of the prowress of naval construction. When it is said that some of the vessels in line were armed with muzzle loading guns it will be seen to what extent it dealt with the antique and the curious in naval construction.

The fleet of this year when compared with even the most advanced vessels of 1902 shows that the progress of the nine elapsed years amounts practically to a revolution. In this year's fleet no less than four varieties of the Dreadnought type of battleship—a type which had not even been dreamed of in 1902—will be in the muster. Two other Dreadnought types might have been represented in the Colossus, Hercules and Orion, but as these are regarded as still being in the trial stage they will not be on parade. In 1902 the ships of the Cressy class were the most powerful type of the armoured cruiser afloat. This class was represented in King Edward's parade by the Sutlej. This year it will be represented by the Euryalus and the Hogue, and it will be the only type of armoured cruiser figuring in both reviews. But in this year's review six types of armoured cruiser, all more powerful htan the Cressy class, will be represented. There will be four new classes of destroyers. The heaviest boat of this class available in 1902 was of only 400 tons; this year the heaviest destroyer present will be of 2,170 tons displacement. The submarines, scouts and auxiliary vessels of 1911 will be all new and the best and most powerful ever built. They will have every modern device of motive power and striking force. It is curious to recall by way of contrast that no single turbine ship and no oil driven vessel was in the navy in the first year of King Edward's reign.

One vessel, typical of the new British navy, which will not be completed and ready to take part in King George's naval pageant, is the armoured cruiser Princess Royal, which was put into the water at the Barrow shipyard on the Vickers company on April 29. The contrast which she presents with the Sutlej mentioned above, hte climatic vessel of ten years ago, is nothing short of amazing. The Sutlej was a ship of 10,000 tons, the heaviest guns that she carried were two 9.2 inch pieces, mounted in barbettes protected with six inch armour. She carried, besides a number of six inch guns, similarly protected. She had a nominal speed of 21 to 22 knots.

Now the Princess Royal will have a displacement of 26,350 tons. She will be armed with 13.5 inch guns, of which she will carry eight, behind nine inch armour. Her contract speed is 28 knots. Her displacement is therefore more than 100 per cent greater than that of the Sutlej; her protection and speed have been increased 25 per cent. and the weight of metal from her broadside is almost nine times as heavy as that which the Sutlej could throw. These figures, in fact, hardly tell the full story of the nine years' evolution. The Princess Royal's guns will be so arranged along her centre line as to give a fire of four guns ahead and eight on either beam. Each gun is nine tons heavier and about seven inches longer than the 12-inch 50 calibre guns in use in the older battleships, including the earlier Dreadnoughts, and their muzzle energy has been increased from 50,000 to 60,000 foot tons, an increase which it is believed will more than counterbalance any improvements that may have been made in foreign armour plate.

The increase in the weight of the projectile and its uch greater bursting charge promise a destructive effect incomparably greater than that of the old shell. In rapidity of fire, also a great stride has been made. The 13.5 inch guns, already mounted in the Royal Sovereign can be fired at a rate of one round in two and a half minutes. In the Princess Royal a round can be fired from each gun in thirty seconds, or one-fifth of the time, owing ot improvements in the breech mechanism. Finally, the armour projection of the Princess Royal is not only increased from six to nine inches as already stated, but it is of an improved quality, owing to secret English processes and has 25 per cent. more resisting power than the armoured plate used a decade ago.

All these classes will be represented at Spithead, as the Lion, the sister ship of the Princess Royal, laid down in 1909 and launched last August, will be ready to take part in it.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

I HAPPENED to be in a neighbour's house the other day when her little daughter came home lugging a most pathetic scrap of a stray kitten.

She had been going through T— street, she explained, and the kitten ran out of a vacant lot and rubbed up against her and cried as if it were begging her to take it home, and it was so terribly thin and she knew it hadn't had anything to eat for weeks, and she asked everybody around there and they said it was a stray cat and so she had brought it home, and it really was starved because when Mary gave it something to eat in the kitchen it just grabbed the meat and ran under the stove and growled. Which headlong little story ended, of course, with the plea "And oh, Mamsie you will let me keep it, won't you?"

"But, Margaret," protested her mother gently, "You know there are so many stray cats and you simply can't take care of all the stray cats in town."

"Ye-es, I know," admitted Margaret sadly, "but," hugging the little scrap of a kitten to her heart and looking up at her mother with a wonderfully sweet light on her eager little face, "but mamsie, I can take care of this one."

It seems to me that all unconsciously the little kitten lover enunciated a great sermon.

"I know I can't take care of all the stray cats in town, BUT I CAN TAKE CARE OF THIS ONE." If each of us fully realized that truth in its application to our own lives, and not only realized it, but lived by it, what a vastly happier and better world this would be.

If each of us, instead of being appalled and oppressed into inaction by our realization of the immensity of the misery and want in the world and our own inability to combat it, all, would simply concentrate on the bit of misery we could help how marvelously that total of trouble would be reduced.

You cannot comfort all the disappointments of childhood, but you can give a comforting penny and a word of cheer to the disconsolate little boy you find weeping on the curbstone, on your way to work.

You cannot attend to all the banana peels on all the sidewalks in town, but you can remove that particular one that stares you in the face.

You cannot find positions for all the tragic army of the unemployed, but surely you can do all in your power to find work for that particular man who asks your aid.

You cannot beguile all your invalid friend's weary hours, but you can beguile that one that opportunity gives you.

Don't be appalled at the immensity of the world's burden. God has not laid that on your shoulders.

But don't shirk the little corner of that burden that's nearest you. That was meant for you and inasmuch as you shirk it, you shirk the whole.

REMOVED ALL DOUBT

A combination of rain and snow, which visited the prairie provinces during the second week of May, removed any and all doubts that might have existed concerning the supply of moisture for the growing grain during the first half of the season. In discussing the benefits conferred upon the west by that storm, The Manitoba Free Press, Winnipeg, said on May 12:

"Strangers have frequently cavilled at what they choose to term 'western exaggeration,' when some enthusiastic soul has remarked that a heavy shower was 'worth millions to the country.' Such a statement, however, might be literally true.

"It is not possible to measure the actual value of the present rainfall to the West, but a few facts are worth dwelling upon. The average rainfall of a large part of the West is below 20 inches, and any curtailment of the average supply of moisture is therefore a serious matter. The average yield of wheat for the past 10 years has been 18.98 bushels, say 19 bushels to the acre. During 1910 the Canadian West was unusually dry, and the average yield, taking all the three provinces into consideration, fell to 15 bushels. A loss of 34,000,000 bushels on the 8,500,000 acres seeded. The average price of wheat, taking all grades, for the first four months of the crop year of 1910 was 87c., so that the lack of rain in 1910 was the cause of a direct loss of $29,580,000.

"It is expected that the wheat acreage of the Canadian West for 1911 will be very close on 10,000,000. The present precipitation, which is both general and thorough, has provided moisture sufficient to carry that great area until the June rains may be expected, and indeed, where dry farming methods have been used, it will probably carry the crop almost if not quite, to the end of June. If the average of 1911 reaches to that of the past ten years, it may be said that the present moisture has added at least 40,000,000 bushels to the probable yield, and, given the average price of the present crop, that would represent $34,800,000, or $23 to every one of the 1,500,000 inhabitants of Western Canada.

"The old song about spring rain says:

'It is not raining rain to me;
It is raining daffodils.'

"The west may paraphrase the song and say:

'It is not raining rain to me,
It is raining dollar bills.'"

TRIED AT LAST WHEN OTHERS ALL FAILED

And Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured the Postmaster

F. Tippins had suffered for years and spent hundreds on doctors and medicines, but found the real cure at last.

Tippins P.O., Que., May 24.—(Special.)—If Dodd's Kidney Pills have a more enthusiastic friend anywhere in Canada than Mr. F. Tippins, postmaster here, we would like to hear from him. And Mr. Tippins is always ready to tell why he praises the great Kidney Remedy.

"After recovering from an attack of Grippe," the postmaster says, "I took a pain in my back. I suffered for nearly three years and it kept growing worse all the time. I was attended by all the doctors around but got no relief, and I got so bad I had to keep to my bed. After spending about $200 on doctors and medicines I gave up all hope.

"One day I told my wife to go and get me a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and that would be the last medicine I would try. After using about half the box I began to feel better, so I kept on taking them. When I had taken two boxes I was able to get up, and ten boxes cured me completely."

ENDORSES TARIFF BILL.

Secretary of War Stimson Sees Great Hope In It.

Boston, May 25.—Henry L. Stimson, the Secretary of War, in an address before the Intercolonial Club of this city last night, endorsed the arguments in favor of the reciprocity agreement made by President Taft, as the arguments of "broad and lofty national interest," and as appropriate to the statesmanship "which, not content with mere lip service to party formulae, recognizes the economic and social facts and tendencies of to-day and makes wide provision in respect to them."

The speaker reviewed in brief the provisions of the agreement and urged its enactment into law on grounds of national and continental policy.

"It has been thoughtlessly suggested that such a trade agreement pointed toward political annexation of Canada. Nothing could be further from the real fact. There can be no surer preventive of agitation for political union than to remove the irritation inherent in trade restrictions. The strongest motive that has led men to urge political union between Canada and the United States has been the belief that in no other way could they secure mutual advantageous trade relations.

"But apart from social and political justification," continued Stimson, the reciprocity agreement stands firmly upon the rock of political benefit. I do not mean that some inconvenience, or even possible hardship, may not be caused to specific individuals or specific localities, but there can be no doubt that in the balance sheet of the whole nation the resulting benefits far outweigh such instances.

CAUSES A RIOT.

Diaz Refuses to Quit and Citizens Make Trouble.

Mexico City, May 25.—Enraged by the announcement that President Diaz and Vice-President Corral would not resign before to-day, spectators from the galleries of the Chamber of Deputies late last night started a riot in the streets that resulted in at least three deaths and the wounding of many persons by volleys fired by police and troops.

In the midst of it all, President Diaz is on a sick bed. It was learned on good authority yesterday that despite recent optimistic reports of his condition the President has shown several degrees of fever for the last five days. He declines to see all visitors, including members of the diplomatic corps, and takes nothing but liquid nourishment. Madame Diaz told a visitor yesterday that the President's principal diet was warm milk. His condition is regarded as serious by members of his family.

Telegraphic reports were received last night stating that demonstrations are in progress in Tehuantepec, Guadalajara and Zacatecas. The federal governor of Jalisico, Manuel Cuesta Gallardo, was driven out. At Zacatecas the troops fired on the mob, killing four. Further details are lacking.

In Hamilton.

Hamilton, May 25.—Hamiltonians observed the holiday in a very quiet manner. Sporting events occupied the centre of the stage, with two road races, and a baseball game being pulled off in the morning, while a baseball game in the afternoon provided the principal entertainment for the citizens. The 13th Royal Regiment, in practically full force, spent the day in St. Catharines, and returned to the city at 11 p.m., while the 91st enjoyed the Scotch hospitality of the inhabitants of Fergus for the day. Both railroads and the steamboats did a rushing business, every train and vessel leaving the city being crowded. The weather was more or less threatening all day, but a light shower at noon was the only rainfall.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies have done for me. For two years I suffered. The doctors said I had tumors, and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. Your Liver Pills have no equal as a cathartic. Any one wishing proof of what your medicines have done for me can get it from any druggist or by writing to me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Another Operation Avoided.

New Orleans, La.—"For years I suffered from severe female troubles. Finally I was confined to my bed and the doctor said an operation was necessary. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial first, and was saved from an operation."—Mrs. LILY PEYROUX, 1111 Kerlerec St., New Orleans, La.

The great volume of unsolicited testimony constantly pouring in proves conclusively that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a remarkable remedy for those distressing feminine ills from which so many women suffer.

You Can Be Appropriately and Modishly Gowned For Every Occasion by Choosing From Our Display of New Summer Dresses

So Say the Women Who Have Already Selected

The fabrics include satin, silk, net and mull—the materials approved by fashion for morning, afternoon and evening dresses.

And that exclusive quality of harmony which is demanded by the well dressed women is further developed in the model of the dress itself. Though each in one way or another embodies the latest style-ideas—yet each is appropriately fashioned and marked by true artistic merit.

Some of the dresses are built along several tailored lines, others reveal lovely bits of lace or other trimming notes.

In each the material is excellent—and to be marked are the little details of finishing, these deft touches—seemingly so insignificant but which lend that indefinable made-to-order look—so desirable.

It is with great pride that we are showing daily such attractive new models.

WATER COMMISSIONERS WANT WATERWORKS PUMP CHANGED

A meeting of the Water Commissioners was held on Tuesday afternoon, when the matter of the unsatisfactory working of the pump at the waterworks plant was discussed. The following members were present—Mr. T. F. Matthews, chairman; W. H. Moore, W. H. Hill, and W. Henderson. Water Works Superintendent. Mr. Lester was present, representing the John McDougal Caledonian Iron Works, Montreal, the Company who built the pump.

Ever since the pump was installed, some fifteen months ago, the Water Commissioners have been dissatisfied with it, on account of a heavy, knocking noise inside, also its inefficiency.

Mr. Lester asked for another four months to try and make the pump work satisfactorily; he was quite sure that he could do this inside the four months, and probably less.

Mr. Moore suggested that the Company be given the four months to do the experimenting. He told Mr. Lester that the Commissioners did not dislike the pump, but they wanted the efficiency.

Mr. Matthews stated that they would rather that the Company would take the pump out altogether.

Mr. Moore was further of the opinion that the Company would go on the same as ever, and have the machinery scattered around the floor, as it had been in the past. He also suggested that it would be better to let Mr. Kennedy's report of the matter stand.

Mr. Lester assured them that if they would give the Company four months longer, they would settle it one way or the other.

Mr. Moore suggested that the matter be left over for a few days, and that the Commissioners consider the matter and let Mr. Lester know. The Commissioners then aljourned.

THE PROPERTY COMMITTEE DISCUSSES IMPORTANT BUSINESS

A meeting of the Property Committee was held on Tuesday evening, with the following members present: Ald. Duncan, chairman; Ald. Bradburn, Ald. Brown, Mr. Matthews also was present.

It was moved and seconded that the Property Committee of the Public Library be authorised to purchase the galvanised iron pipe and 50 feet of hose, also a screen door and screens for the windows, as requested by them.—Carried.

The catch basin was broken off the fountain at the Police Station, and the Chairman of the Committee was authorised to look after the repairing of it.

Tenders for coal will be asked for the city buildings and the fire hall for the coming year. Ald. Morgan was not present, and the motion was made subject to his approval. 70 tons were required last year, and an equal amount was asked this year. 75 tons are asked for the Fire Station.

It was moved and seconded that the matter of purchasing the screen doors for the Isolation Hospital be left with the Hospital Board.

Two tenders for the painting of the Band Stand in Victoria Park, were received. One was from Mr. John N. Watson, and the other from Coleman Bros. Both offered to do the job for $30, so a coin was tossed to see which should have it, and it fell to the lot of Coleman Bros.

The matter of putting boat houses along the river bank, where the old ones were, at the C. P. R. bridge, came in for a great deal of discussion. A plan was presented, and it showed that the houses would be built on the end of Dalhousie St. Ald. Bradburn objected to this. He thought that the end of the street would be much better left open. He would not object to them being put along the shore so much, although he was not in favour of having them put there at all. The matter was left for the consideration of the whole Council.

The City Solicitor will prepare a lease or by-law, regulating the building of the boat houses. There will be certain restrictions. The buildings must be constructed of planed lumber, and be painted. The Committee will allow them to be put there only on the condition that the owners will remove them at any time upon a month's notice being given.

Ald. Brown brought the matter up regarding making a street between Park and the bounary at the west. There should be one connecting Sherbrooke, Bolivar, Patterson and the rest of the streets.

The matter was referred to a meeting of the whole council.

HOW EMPIRE DAY WAS HONOURED IN CAMPBELLFORD

From Our Own Correspondent.

CAMPBELLFORD, MAY 24.— Empire Day was ushered in with fireworks on a gala scale—in the heavens. In the afternoon there were fire works of another description, but no less brilliant, on the High school grounds, when Mr. Owen, M.P. for Northumberland East, took the chair at a very enthusiastic meeting of young and old Campbellford. On the platform with Mr. Owen were Rev. Carey-Sage, Baptist church, Rev. Father Casey, St. Mary's R.C. church, Rev. J. Brown, St. Andrew's Presbyterian, Rev. Mr. Strike, Methodist church, and Rev. A. J. Reid, Christ church (Anglican), all of whom delivered spirited and patriotic addresses. The massed chorus of the various schools rendered patriotic songs at intervals. It was, in every respect, a highly successful celebration not the least commendable feature being the presence of clergymen from the various churches. It was a happy object lesson of the unity that alone can secure the empire's safety. After the speeches rousing cheers were given for the speakers and for His Majesty the king.

SALVATION ARMY PICNIC WAS GREAT SUCCESS

Yesterday, the Salvation Army held their annual excursion to Jubilee Point, per the steamer Otonabee. From the time the steamer left Wolfe street wharf at 8.40 a.m. to the time it landed at Jubilee Point at 12.15, everyone seemed to enjoy the trip. The number of passengers were about 300, including the children. It was a beautiful morning and the air was filled with thrilling strains of music given by the Peterborough Silver Band. The bandsmen did well, considering they were few in number and that a full band was not in attendance. After the steamer landed everyone partook of a nourishing meal and afterwards the afternoon was enjoyed by various and interesting games. A few showers of rain fell during the afternoon, but it did not seem to affect the enjoyment of the children or adults. Many took pleasant walks around the place and delighted in gathering flowers. The children had a great time in racing and playing games, some of the adult taking part. Between 3.30 and 4 o'clock everyone began to make their way to the steamer in readiness to return home. On the homeward journey the band again rendered some music. Among the pieces played were the following: Old Time March, The Wearside March, New England March, Leeds March and Prize March and other old-time and favourite pieces which helped to make everyone happy, and to see the faces of all on arriving home, one could tell that they felt they had a good day's enjoyment.

WHAT IS VINOL?

It Represents Twenty Years' Work of Two Eminent Chemists

After twenty years of study two eminent French chemists discovered a method by which the alkaloids or medicinal elements of the cod's liver might be separated from the useless oil or grease, retaining all the good of cod liver oil and dispensing with the bad, as the oil has no medicinal value. These medicinal elements blended with tonic iron and a mild medicinal wine—make Vinol.

Vinol is not a secret medicine, as its ingredients are printed on every bottle and in all cases where the healing, strengthening influence of cod liver oil is needed, Vinol will give better results, for it contains all the curative medicinal properties of cod liver oil, but without the oil, and it is easily assimilated and acceptable to the weakest stomach.

For all run-down, weakened conditions, and to cure chronic coughs, colds and bronchial troubles, Vinol is unexcelled. We sell it always with the understanding that if it does not do all we claim for it, we will refund the money paid us for it. Mr. Kennedy Is Elected

The Douro nomination for councillor, made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Michael Moloney, was held in the town hall, Douro, on Monday, May 22nd, at 1 o'clock p.m.

Only one candidate was nominated to fill the vacancy on the Council Board, being Mr. Michael Kennedy, farmer, of lot 9, con. 2, Douro, proposed by James Mahoney and seconded by John P. Leahy. Being the only candidate, he was declared elected for the balance of the year 1911.

Mr. Kennedy gave a short address, thanking his mover and seconder for the honour they had bestowed on him, and promised that he would do his best to help promote the welfare of the township.

Douro now has an excellent representative in each polling sub-division which was not the case formerly. He will take his seat in the council on Tuesday, May 30th, when the council will meet as a Court of Revision.

JUDGMENT UPSET

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council has upset the judgment of an Ontario Court, which awarded damages to a man who was injured while riding without authority on a railway train. The Privy Council held that while a railway by its sale of a ticket contracted to safely carry the holder, it had no ticket, and was, in fact, a trespasser, who might have been prosecuted for his act.

The case in point happened on a train which was backing from one station at London, Ontario, to another in a different part of the city, and on which a trespasser jumped on the rear platform to steal a ride between the two stations. There was a collision and the man was seriously injured, resulting in a suit against one of the railways. The trial Judge and Jury acquitted the railway. The Higher Court reversed this judgment and the railway appealed. The Court of Appeals in Ontario sustained the Higher Court, after which it was taken to the Privy Council, and the Lords of the Judicial Committee reversed all the judgment but the trial Judge. The defendant had to pay the costs in all the appeals.

Occasionally it pays a railway to fight a damage claim. It may get the case before a court which gets at the sense of the situation.

The local athletes who went to Belleville yesterday succeeded in getting their share of the prizes, in the running high jump the local men finishing 1st, 2nd, 3rd, Stanley Canniff winning first with a jump of 5 feet 3 in. H. Wood 5 ft. 1 in. was second, and Claude Bartlett was third with 4 ft. 11 in. In the 100 yard final heat H. Wood ran a good third, not a foot separating the three first men. In the 12 lb. shot put Stanley Canniff landed third place with a put of 33 ft. 11 in. The pole vault and other events were not run off owing to the rain which fell in torrents for a while and flooded the grounds.

The Stratton Cup contest opens at Riverside Park Friday evening when the 100 yards dash and running high jump will be the events. This contest is held every year and this year's contest promises to be the best yet held.

COWBOY MINSTRELS

The original Cowboy Minstrels quartette, Messrs. Bert La Mont, Sidney Craven, Ed. Williams, and Geo. F. Allen, are one of the principal features with the Whirling Teview's College Girls, and A Prince for a Day with La Mont's Funmakers, which comes to the Grand Opera House for two days' engagement. These talented artists have just returned from a two years' engagement in Europe, where they appeared in Paroli's Musical Production in all the principal theatres throughout the continent, being well known in this country, having appeared in leading comedy and singing roles, in "The Red Feather," "The Prince of Filsen," and many other of the foremost musical comedies, their appearnce with La Mont's Funmakers inaugurates a new policy in the way of introducing for the first time to the Canadian public the high-class musical comedies at popu larprices. College Girls is one of those bright, bubbling, musical introductions that have gained a strong hold upon all theatregoers, this particular one being far above most and on a par with the class of attractions that one has been accustomed to paying the fifty prices to witness, fun, music, song and revelry being the watchword wth La Mont's Funmakers.

FOUR DRUNKS

There was a very short session at the police court this morning, considering the fact that yesterday was a holiday. Four drunks came up, only one of which was a local man. Three of them were from Bethany. Wm. Mitchell was the first of the three. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $2.

Wm. Muller came next; he could not pay the $2.00 so will spend 10 days on the hill.

Wm. Ownes pleaded guilty to the same charge and was broke. He will spend a ten day term at Castle Nesbitt. It was a case of the three Williams, two williams each, and unfortunately for the latter two, they had spent too much for liquid refreshment.

The other was a local man, and coughed up two green backs for his share of the fun.

No Fires Yesterday

An unusual feature in connection with the observance of the 24th of May as a holiday was the absence of fires throughout the city. This feature was more particularly noticeable by the fire department. Chief Howard says it establishes a precedent as far as his 20 years' experience as a fireman is concerned. On the 24th of May last year the brigade were called out six times.

STETSON'S UNCLE TOMS CABIN CO.

That old, old story, so new to present-day theatregoers, "slavery days" will be realistically interpreted next Saturday, matinee and evening, at the Grand Opera House, by Stetson's spectacular "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Cabin" Company. For this season the members of the Stetson Company were selected especially for his or her adaptability to the roles essayed. The result has been a rarely harmonious whole, it is claimed, which has done much to add to the effectiveness of the production. The scenery, painted especially for this revival, includes a number of handsome scenes, reproduced from pictures of the localities mentioned in the book, as they were at the time when the great authoress first wrote the story more than fifty years ago. Some of the most notable of these scenes are the "Suwanee River by moonlight, cotton fields in full bloom the Ohio River in winter, and the escape of Eliza, carrying her child across the floating ice, the rocky pass in which George Harris made his stand against the men pursuing him and protected his family; the St. Clair plantation home, the levee at New Orleans, showing a slave auction; Legree's plantation, and lastly, the beautiful transformation scene, showing Eva's ascension to the Celestial City. The play has long since been public property and has been played by many poor companies, until the public has come to recognize the fact that none but Manager Washburn has hte great, unequalled organisation, and that is why his Stetson production always brings out the theatregoing crowd.

PURCHASED MILLS

The Campbell Milling Company of West Toronto, have purchased the Central Milling Company Mills at the C.P.R. station, Peterborough. These mills have been in liquidation for some time and the disposition of the property has been in relief of the directors, who have been heavy endorsers for the company. It is expected that the shareholders may receive in the wind up ten cents on the dollar, Hon. Senator Campbell, of Toronto, is president of the purchasing company, and he informs the Examiner that the mill will be run to its fullest capacity. There will be no change in the staff of operators of the mill in Peterborough for the present, though the head office will be in West Toronto. The loss to the shareholders will be practically the stock held by them, as at the most ten cents on the dollar is the largest return expected.

A BUSY DAY

Navigation Company's Steamers Had Big Crowds.

The Peterborough and Lake Simcoe Navigation Company report a busy day yesterday. The steamer Otonabee, Capt. Chas. Gray, took nearly 400 people to Jubilee Point on an excursion, under the auspices of the Salvation Army. The Water Lily, Capt. Wilbert Harris, went the Canal, to Stony Lake, carrying the biggest crowd she ever took up so early in the season. The Manita, Capt. S. R. Pearson, had a capacity crowd from Lindsay on an excursion to Fenelon Falls.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome bracelet of pearls and rubies. The groomsman was Dr. J. Guy, W. Johnson, of Montreal. The house was prettily and appropriately decorated with lilies and lilacs. The happy couple will take a trip to the West on their honeymoon, after which they will reside in Ottawa.

CANADA IS LOYAL

Dominion Will Remain True to the Empire Says Sir Wilfrid in an Eloquent Speech at London

YOUNG COUNTRY YET

London, May 25.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Duke of Connaught, presiding at the Royal Colonial Institute dinner, said that the Imperial Conference undoubtedly worked well, being a consolidation of the Empire, welding the parts into an indissoluble whole. The solution of self-government by the dominions was the most important British contribution to the science of Government. He earnestly hoped that the universities of the Empire would give this a full, definite and compulsory place in their curriculum. He alluded to the marvelous emigration to Canada, and congratulated Canada and Newfoundland in the fisheries award, which had been accepted loyally in the United States. In Canadian naval matters the closest connection with the British navy must and would be the aim of both Governments.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in responding, said that if any doubted he could assure them that Canada intended remaining a nation within the Empire. There was a condition that might be compared with an adolescent, having been no account, and suddenly developed into full vigor. The United States was the country of the nineteenth century, Canada of the twentieth, but Canada overshadowed every country.

By her neighbor there were on the soil of Canada to-day 500,000 who five years ago were American citizens and not loyal subjects of King George. If any one thought that therein lay danger to British connection he must have a poor idea of the value, force and strength of British institutions. So long as the latter spelt freedom and prosperity, so long would Canada remain what it is. Sir Wilfrid assured the Duke of Connaught of a hearty welcome awaiting him, not least from Americans who had taken up their abode in Canada.

Premier Fisher, also responding, said that the best thing he could wish to happen to Australia would be to be along side such a population as was Canada. If Australia had sixty or seventy millions of people of similar ideas on its borders, invasion would not be feared.

Sir Joseph Ward thought that the instructions issued by the Colonial Office to Governors-General through out the whole of their terms should state that they ought not to remain in the bounds of the dominions, but from time to time make an exchange. Why should Connaught remain a whole term in Canada? Why not a few months in Australia or New Zealand?

WOULD VERY OFTEN FAINT AWAY.

Doctor Said That Sometime He Would Never Come Out of One.

Many people may be unaware of having anything wrong with their heart till some little excitement, overwork, or confinement in an overheated or overcrowded room or public building makes them feel faint or dizzy.

If you neglect the warning the slight feeling of dizziness gives you, and fail to take treatment, there will be a gradual progression to something more serious.

There is no reason you should wait till your case becomes desperate before you avail yourself of a perfect cure by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mr. F. S. Chute, Wheatley, Ont. writes:—"It is with gratitude I tell how your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills benefited me. I was very weak and run down, and had headache, nearly every day and would very often faint away.

"In fact, my doctor said that sometime I would never come out of one of them. After taking three boxes of your pills I am glad to relate that it has been a number of years since I have had a fainting spell and scarcely have had a headache. Too much cannot be said in praise of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for in me they have effected a perfect cure."

GIRLS ARE DROWNED

Double Fatality at Toronto Yesterday When a Sailing Dinghy Upset—Turbinia Saves Their Escorts

TOO WEAK TO HANG ON

Toronto, May 25.—Once more a holiday sailing accident has claimed two lives and, once again, it is two young women taken sailing by two young men, and their bodies left in the waters of the lake. The fatality occurred when a hired dingy containing Miss Hazel Hicks, 18 years old, of Shelburne, Ont.; Miss Olive Blain, 23 years old, of Barrie; Harold Clark and C. J. Wolfe of Trinity College, was upset in Lake Ontario. The boat was upset while Clark, who was controlling the sheet and handling the tiller, was attempting to bring the little craft about in a heavy but steady wind.

The story of the tragedy, as told by Wolfe, is that the party left Dean's boathouse at Sunnyside at noon and ran out freely to the point where the accident happened. This was about 12.30. Clark decided to bring the boat about and come up into the wind, hauling in his sheet. Wolfe thinks that the girls did not shift as directed. He ducked his head to avoid the boom and a moment later felt the boat going over.

He threw all his weight to windward to try and maintain the balance, but was thrown into the water. When he came up, one of the girls was clinging to the boat to either side of him.

OLIVE BLAIN.

He was at the middle of the boat and Clark was at the stern. Each of them helped hold one of the girls to the boat and one of them was holding on to Wolfe. They seemed not to be very badly frightened and were calling for help and waving to attract attention.

Wolfe says that the waves were very high and kept them changing positions constantly as the boat rolled beneath them. All were at the open side of the boat as she lay half over in the waves.

After they had been hanging to the boat for about seven or eight minutes, Wolfe was washed off and went under. When he came up the girls were gone. He had no idea that they were about to let go. Clark was very weak and Wolfe was just going to help him when help came. The steamer was seen to alter her course in their direction and shortly afterwards sounded three blasts of her whistle and a moment later lowered away a lifeboat, which took the men off the boat. They were taken to the Turbinia, and from the dock were removed in the police ambulance to the university, where Clark was put to bed in a state of collapse.

Miss Hicks was a student at the Toronto College of Music and Miss Blain a teacher at the same place. Clark is a third year Arts student and Wolfe a third year Anglican divinity man.

When word of the drowning was taken to the girls' boarding-house, messages were sent to Miss Hicks' parents at Shelburne, and to Miss Blain's brother, at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

The bodies were lost in water too deep for dragging and it is likely that the friends will have to wait for the bodies to come to the surface. The spot where they were drowned it outside of the city limits and therefore comes under the jurisdiction of the county authorities.

One of the girls had been out with Clarke sailing on Tuesday night. The other girl met both men for the first time yesterday. Wolfe had met neither of the girls until yesterday. Both men could swim and Clarke is said by Wolfe to be an expert sailor, but Wolfe says that he himself knows nothing of sailing.

Two Drownings at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, May 25.—Eber Jones, son, and Miss Maggie McLeod, sister-in-law of Rev. J. Phillips Jones, pastor of St. John's Park Presbyterian Church here, were drowned yesterday north of Kildonan Park while boating. Jones was writing for his matriculation. Both are well known.

George E. Hunt and his sister Jessie were drowned out of a canoe at Elm Park last evening. Miss Maud Steele and A. J. Hunt were in the canoe also, but escaped. The party had been out at the regatta and were swamped in the waves caused by a sudden wind storm. The bodies have not been found. They lived in the Bottass Block, corner of Portage avenue and Carlton street.

Baby Eczema For Three Years

Three Doctors and Scores of Treatments Failed

The Dreadful Itching Was Stopped and the Sores Healed by

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Here is an illustration of the wonderful control which Dr. Chase's Ointment has over torturing, itching eczema. By its soothing influence it stops the itching, and it heals the sores as if by magic.

Mrs. W. m. Miller, St. Catharines Ont., writes:—"My daughter Mary, when six months old, contracted eczema, and for three years the disease baffled all treatment. Her case was one of the worst that had ever come under my notice and she apparently suffered what no pen could ever describe. I had three different doctors attend her, all to no purpose what ever, and all kinds of balms, soaps and lotions were tried, with no results.

"Finally I decided to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, and to my surprise she immediately began to improve, and was completely cured of that long-standing disease. That was four years ago, when we lived at Cornwall, Ont., and as not a symptom has shown itself since, the cure must be permanent. With a grateful heart I give this testimony to the great value of Dr. Chase's Ointment."

In scores of ways Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful in every home to allay skin irritations and heal and cure sores, wounds and ulcers. 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

LINER ON A ROCK

Steamer Ivernia is Badly Damaged Near Cork But Passengers Escape With No Loss of Life

SAVED BY BULKHEAD

Queenstown, May 25.—The Cunard Liner Ivernia, which left Boston May 16 for Queenstown and Liverpool struck Daunt Rock at noon yesterday during a fog as she was approaching the shore after an eventless voyage.

The vessel is now resting at anchor close to the eastern bank of Kinloch Channel inner harbor with 25 feet of water in her fore compartment. Previous reports were to the effect that she had been beached, but these latter turned out to be erroneous. No one on board the steamer were hurt.

The first that was known of the accident was when the liner passed Roche's Point, at the head of Cork Harbor. The forward part of the Ivernia was sunk deep in the water, her stern was high in the air, and she had a bad-looking list to starboard.

The great hole in the fore part of the liner and the narrow margin, nine feet of free board above the water, sufficiently indicated what a narrow escape the Cunarder had from disaster. The water tight compartments, however, stood the strain well, and the water was confined to the forward hold.

The captain brought his damaged vessel safely into the inner harbor, where she was anchored at the edge of the eastern bank. The passengers, who numbered 750, were quickly landed.

The liner was within a mile of a tender which was waiting to take off the Irish contingent of passengers, when Daunt Rock suddenly loomed up in a dense fog, and before the vessel's way could be stopped the big ship struck.

The passengers were at luncheon at the time of the accident and quickly rushed on deck. The ship only hung on the rocks for a short time, and then slid off into deep water with a large aperture in her starboard bows, through which the water flowed and threatened to flood the liner.

Captain Potter and his officers, however, were prompt to close the bulkhead, and the inrush of water was confined to the forward hold.

The ship's officers were able to quickly reassure the passengers of their safety, and there was no sign of panic on board.

An examination of the steamer shows that the water is penetrating holds Nos. 2 and 3 as well as No. 1.

The Ivernia was built at Newcastle in 1900. She is of 9,058 tons net register, 500 feet long, 64.9 beam and 37.8 feet deep.

Daunt Rock, on which the Ivernia struck, is a pinnacle, with ten feet of water over it, and four and a quarter miles from Roche's Point, the Irish mainland. Vessels bound from the westward take special precautions to avoid the rock.

Hail Breaks Minden Windows.

Lindsay, May 25.—Between the hours of four and five on Tuesday a severe hailstorm covered this village and surrounding section, including the Village of Minden. The window glass of the west side of most buildings was shattered, one house reporting a loss of 16 panes, while damage in Minden is covered by a rush order to Toronto for about 300 panes. Trees were stripped of their foliage and all crops were leveled to the ground. The fruit in this section will be a total failure.

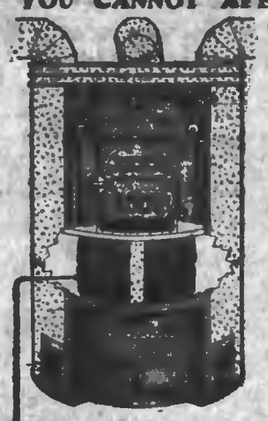
A FURNACE THAT WILL GIVE YOU AS MUCH HEAT FROM SIX TONS OF COAL, AS YOU EVER GOT FROM SEVEN, IS ONE YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO OVERLOOK.



STEEL RIBBED FIRE POT
Constructed to save Fuel
Flanges of steel plate—97 in number—are fused into the Fire Pot casting, increasing the radiating surface three times. This gives the air better access to the source of heat so that the heat is conducted away from the coal as rapidly as it is created and without waste.

The "Hecla" will do this: It is built to save coal at every point, but the big coal-saving feature is the Steel Ribbed Fire Pot. By adding Steel Ribs to the Fire Pot the surface which radiates heat is increased three times.

Every Furnace has flanges or projections of some sort on the fire pot to get more radiating surface, because the heating capacity of the fire pot increases as you increase the radiating surface. But the "Hecla" is the only Furnace that has attained the greatest possible radiating surface and the reason is that where other Furnaces have clumsy cast-iron Flanges, the flanges on the "Hecla" are made of steel plate and fused to the fire pot casting by our patent process.

"Hecla" Furnace

A test extending over three years, demonstrated that this ribbed fire pot made a saving in coal—13½%.

Isn't that worth looking into?

Ask someone who owns a "Hecla."

You will find the "Hecla" the best warm air Furnace you ever saw. You will find that it gives an even distribution of heat—heat that is moist and free from gas or dust.

You will find the "Hecla" a Furnace easy to run. One that does not waste live coals when you shake it down. You will find a Furnace that burns wood or coal equally well.

PETERBOROUGH HAD EASY VICTORY OVER THE COBOURG TEAM HERE YESTERDAY

Manager Quinlan's Team Won in Hollow Fashion by 31 Runs to 9, Getting Twenty-eight Hits Off Two Cobourg Pitchers.

VISITORS VERY WEAK

Manager Quinlan's Stall-feds had an easy time in the opening Midland League pastime at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon, the Peterborough galaxy overwhelming the charley-horsed aggregation from Cobourg by the small majority of 31 runs to 9. As may be gathered from the statistics of the catastrophe, the Petes had something on the visitors all through the massacre, and it was only a question of how soon the locals would get tired of romping around the bases. To tell the simple truth, that Cobourg bunch looked like a team from the Old Ladies' Home, and as the Montreal Star would say in its polished fashion "some of those Cobourg gents should be pitching hay instead of baseballs. In justice to the visitors, however, it must be stated that they were shy half a dozen of their good players, for various reasons, that could not be overcome yesterday, but rather than disappoint the Petes they gathered together the best they could and came along anyhow. Their best under the circumstances was not nearly adequate to the task of holding the Petes, and the game was a massacre. Manager Quinlan's team combed Pitchers Glenn and Holnbeck of Cobourg for twenty-eight safeties, the swats ranging all the way from the loudly exploding home run to the useful single. On top of that the Petes ran wild on the bases, stealing second and third at will, and the Lakeshore bunch obligingly mixed in eleven errors with the biffs. The Cobourg fielding was very weak and the team played in listless fashion throughout. The outfield, with the exception of Burge, only covered what ground they stood on, while the infield was as full of holes as a pair of open-work hose. On top of that the Cobourg twirlers had nothing but a glove, and the result was that the Petes were continually exploding hits through the gaps in the inner defence or floating long drives into the outfield, where the Cobourg gardeners waited until they dropped before going after them. Mike O'Brien had the long hit of the day, the Petes' first baseman dropping the cork centre over left field fence for a homer.

Quinlan was on the slab for the homesters and had an easy task. He eased all the speed and "stuff" off the ball throughout but in spite of that the visitors could do little with his offerings and when he loosened up once or twice he had them swinging like a gate. Although the Petes, under the circumstances found it almost impossible to get keyed upto a concert pitch, they showed that the material is here for a fine ball team and their work pleased the fans immensely. Twelve men were used in all throughout the game, Manager Quinlan sending in all the men he had in uniform. McFadden replaced Bill O'Brien, Brydie took Craig's place, and Rahmel went to shortstop for Wettlaufer in the sixth.

The fielding features were three magnificent running catches of difficult foul flys by Wilder, a perfect throw from the grandstand to third base by Mike O'Brien and a fast double play, Murphy to O'Hearne to O'Brien.

There was a grand crowd on hand, one thousand fans, including many ladies, findin gtheir way to Riverside Park for the affray, and while the big scored was deprecated, the crowd found satisfaction in the snappy work of the Petes.

Jack Rosevear, of Port Hope, one of the most popular umpires that ever handled an indicator in Peterborough, gave the best satisfaction, his work being high- class all the way.

First Innings.

Glenn leading off for Cobourg, gave Wettlaufer first chance and he muffed. A quick throw by Quinlan to M. O'Brien got the runner, and Guy was out on a high foul to Wilder. Guy's third strike was missed, but he was out on the peg to first.

For Peterborough, Murphy stretched a good double into three sacks and was first across the pan. Shaw was hit, stole second and reached third, when Holnbeck dropped a throw. With O'Hearne, who walked went to second, he tallied when Wilder hit for two bags, after M. O'Brien was out on a third bunt strike. Quinlan singled, Craig sacrificed and W. O'Brien struck out. Four runs, three hits.

Second Innings.

A foul fly to Wilder ended Holnbeck, Niles was safe on Murphy's slip-up to O'Brien, but Mike recovered and the runner was captured getting into third on a perfect throw by O'Brien. Burgess missed three.

Wettlaufer flew out to Burge, Murphy died, third to first. Shaw biffed in vain, but was safe when Niles missed the throw. He stole second and scored on O'Hearne's double. O'Brien nailed Doc McFadden's picture with his home run over left field fence. Wilder was out on a fly to Burge. Three runs, two hits.

Third Innings.

Quinlan grounded, second to first, Craig walked, M. O'Brien was safe when Niles fell over himself. Wettlaufer smote the air.

Fourth Innings.

Glenn dropped one in short left and was safe at second on the throw in. Guy walked and made second, Gordon striking out. Glenn went to third and scored on Holnbeck's single. Niles walked, and Guy and Holnbeck came in when Burge hit. Niles went to second and third, Burge stealing second. Quinn wafted again in vain and Niles and Burge blew home. Toms safe at first and second and Hutton struck out. Five runs, three hits.

The locals all had a bat and Shaw and O'Hearne went twice in their half and six runs went up on the scoreboard. O'Hearne, Shaw, Wilder and Quinlan had a single and Craig had a double. Six runs, five hits.

Fifth Innings.

Glen and Guy hit and came home when Quinlan threw to the grandstand on Gordon's attempt. Gordon went to second on the play and made third on a passed ball; Niles struck out, Burge got free transportation. With the bases full, Quinn fell for three swift ones and the best Toms could do was to foul out to Wilder. Two runs, four hits.

Peterborough took three more runs in their half. M. O'Brien struck out, but was safe at first when Niles bungled the throw from Hutton, who let the third strike ramble away. He went to second when Wilder singled, Quinlan struck out. O'Brien came in when Craig's grounder got away from Guy and Wilder followed on a wild pitch. Craig stole second and scored on a hit by O'Brien, who was out and also had stealing second. Wettlaufer singled but Murphy popped one up to the catcher. Three runs, three hits.

Sixth Innings.

Craig and Wettlaufer and W. O'Brien retired, Brydie, Rahmel and McFadden filling up. Hutton flew out to Rahmel, Glenn to Quinlan and Guy struck out.

The local's sixth was agony for the visitors. Murphy's triple, Shaw's and Wilder's singles, doubles by McFadden and Rahmel and a lot of rummy work by the visitors sent seven men across. Shaw and O'Hearne batted twice. Seven runs, seven hits.

Seventh Innings.

Gordon walked and went to second. Holnbeck was out on a long fly to Shaw and Niles grounded to Murphy for a double play. M. O'Brien singled and Craig, running for him, scored from first on Wilder's single to right. Wilder was out trying to stretch his single into a double. Quinlan and Brydie struck out. One run, two hits.

Eighth Innings.

Burge sent up a fly to first, Quinn out, Quinlan to O'Brien and Toms out Murphy to first.

The homsters took seven more on some good hitting and assisted by the half-hearted fielding of Cobourg. The play was tame and the grand stand had become thinned down to only a few o fthe game ones. Seven runs, six hits.

Ninth Innings.

In their dying struggles, the visitors collared two counters, Glenn, Guy and Gordon rapping out singles. Gordon was called out for cutting second base, he and Guy having come in on a wild heave to the fence. Two runs, three hits.

Notes on the Game.

Mike O'Brien may not be an expert photographer, but he took a fine picture yesterday. His swat over left field fence for a homer earned him the splendid baseball picture donated by Doc McFadden for the first homer by a Peterborough player.

Only one fly ball was hit to Peterborough outfield, Bill Shaw taking care of that.

An unfortunate feature was the injury to Bill O'Brien, who was hurt while being tagged out at second in the fifth and had to leave the game.

Murphy hit the ball on the nose, having two nice triples to his credit, while his fielding was splendid.

Wilder made a fine impression on the fans by his all round good work. He caught perfectly, held Cobourg glued to the sacks by his good pegging, grabbed off three foul flys in spectacular fashion and drove out five hits in seven trips to the plate.

Bill Shaw tore around the bases without any regard for etiquette, working the delayed steal, the common or garden variety of theft and other varieties of his own invention.

Dick Turpin was chosen as one of Cobourg's coronation contingent, which explains his absence yesterday. Floyd, Bulger and other good men were unable to play yesterday.

The Petes will practise at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon. A full attendance is expected.

Tennis players will be pleased to learn that it is possible to have tennis racquets re-strung as good as new by leaving them with C.R. Banks 324 George St. Local agent for the famous Bentley and Anderson tennis goods. Call and get book of tennis rules FREE. 3d118-att

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE RED MILL.

"The Red Mill," Henry Blossom and Victor Herbert's comic opera success, was the attraction at matinee and evening performances at the Grand yesterday, and pleased two large audiences with its funny situations and catchy music. James Crowley and William Moore, successors to Montgomery and Stone in the roles of Con Kidder and Kid Conner, proved two high working, clever comedians, who got their stuff over cleverly and were responsible for the heavy gales of laughter that swept through the house. The supporting company was good, the only deficiency being in singing strength, and as a result most of the tuneful numbers with which the score is replete lost much of their charm. The best numbers were probably "Because You Are You" and "Every Day is Ladies' Day With Me." Costumes and scenic accessories were above the average.

ENTOMBED IN WELL

Ayr Man is Overcome by Gas and Party Who Go to His Rescue Also Suffer From the Effects of the Fumes

RECOVERED BODY

Ayr, May 26.—A tragic occurrence marred the holiday Wednesday for the people of Ayr and vicinity, and resulted in the death of F. G. Jones, a well-known resident of the town. The scene of the tragedy was the unoccupied farm of William McKour, fifth concession, South Dumfries. On this farm there is a 75-foot well, with windmill. Something had gone wrong with the piping, and Mr. Jones, who had dug the well about nine years ago, was called upon to make the necessary repair, in which undertaking he was assisted by Mr. McRour, shortly after the noon hour.

Mr. Jones descended into the well a short distance to make a joint on the piping. He had been down only about ten minutes when Mr. McRour heard him utter an exclamation. Looking into the well Mr. McRour could see nothing of him, and he thereupon started descending. He had gone down but a few feet when he suddenly felt that he, too, was being overcome by gas, and he hastily retreated, but was so weak that he had some difficulty in getting out. An alarm was given over the nearest telephone, and help was speedily secured. Mr. P. Numan volunteered to go down and made three unsuccessful trips, each time plainly showing the deadly effect of the poisonous gas. On the last trip he succeeded in fastening a rope around Mr. Jones' body, but it slipped and Mr. Harry Barrett, who also made a previous unsuccessful effort, finally succeeded in effecting the recovery of the body.

Ex-Mayor Huber Poisoned.

Berlin, May 26.—Ex-Mayor Allan Huber is seriously ill at the General Hospital with blood poisoning. Last winter he wore a pair of rubber moccasins as footwear, and it is believed he was thereby poisoned. He was at present promoting an old settlers' reunion for August, but his physician fears he will not live to celebrate the event.

Taboga Had Cattle Cargo.

Panama, May 26.—The steamer Taboga, which it is reported has been wrecked, had a cargo of cattle and was on her regular coastwise trip. The scene of the accident is about 100 miles from the nearest telegraph station.

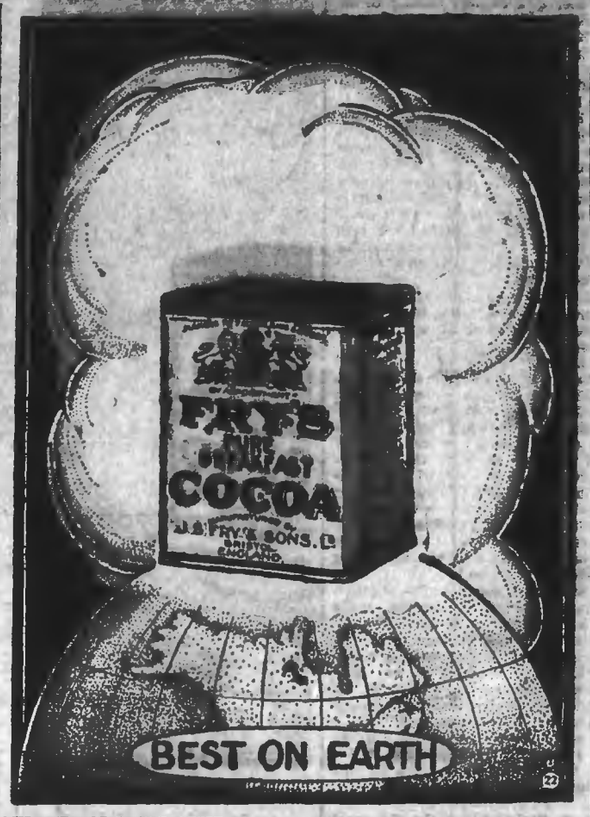
Lynching In Oklahoma.

Okema, Okla. May 26.—Laura Nelson, a negress, and her 16-year-old son were taken out of the county jail yesterday by a mob which had first gagged and bound Jailer Payne. The bodies were found hanging to the timbers of a bridge across the Canadian River.

The Nelsons were charged with the murder two weeks ago of Deputy Sheriff G. H. Loney, who went to search their shanty for stolen goods.

To Welcome Earl Grey.

Berlin, May 26.—Elaborate preparations are being made for to give a royal reception to His Excellency the Governor-General and party on their visit to Berlin, on Monday next. A troop of the 24th Grey Horse will act as an escort, and a hundred boy scouts will be guard of honor. The purpose of the visit is to unveil a monument erected by the Daughters of the Empire to Queen Victoria in Victoria park.



PRESIDENT DIAZ HAS AT LAST RESIGNED POSITION

Mexican President Finally Relinquishes Power—Says That He Will be Vindicated at the Last.

HAS CLEAR CONSCIENCE

Mexico City, May 25.—President Poriforo Diaz, in a letter read by the president of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday afternoon, resigned the Presidency of the Republic of Mexico, and at 4.54 o'clock the acceptance of the resignation by the deputies was announced.

Vice-President Ramon Corral's resignation was also accepted, and Minister of Foreign Affairs, Francisco Leon de la Barre was chosen Provisional President, to serve until a general election can be held.

Everyone had expected an uproar when the announcements should be made, but within the chamber the words announcing the event were followed by silence. The deputies seemed awed by what had taken place.

In the streets, black with people, the news that Diaz was no longer the President was the signal for wild shouting and manifestations.

There was no violence or destruction of property. On the motion to accept the President's resignation 167 deputies voted aye, while no expression was made by Benito Jaurez, a descendent of President Jaurez and Concepcion Del Valle. As their names were called all other legislators rose and bowed their affirmation.

In similar fashion the resignation of Vice-President Corral, now in France, was unanimously accepted, and similarly Senor de la Barre, recently Ambassador to Washington, was chosen Provisional President. Senor de la Barre will take the oath of office at noon to-day in the Yellow Parlor of the National Palace.

Of scarcely less popular interest than the resignation was the assumption of military control of the federal district by Alfredo Robles. Dominguez, Madero's personal representative, insuring the handling of popular demonstrations by a leader of the new regime.

Personally Dominguez commands only a small body of local rebels, but the federal garrison is under orders to make no move whatever without his approval. Senor Dominguez said that he could bring 5,000 organized rebel troops into the city within three hours. Their baggage and horses are aboard trains, furnished by the Government, at Cuernavaca, Pachuca and Thalnepantla.

Dominguez last night said that the troops would remain at their present stations until they should be needed in Mexico City to control the situation.

The President's letter of resignation read as follows:

Sir,—The Mexican people, who generously have covered me with honors, who proclaimed me as their leader during the international war, who patriotically assisted me in all works undertaken to develop industry and the commerce of the republic, establish its credit, gain for it the respect of the world and obtain for it an honorable position in the concert of nations; that same people, sir, has revolted in armed military bands, stating that my presence in the exercise of the supreme executive power is the cause of this insurrection.

"I do not know of any fact imputable to me, which could have caused this social phenomenon, but permitting, though not admitting, that I may be unwittingly culpable, such a possibility makes me the least able to reason out and decide my own culpability. Therefore, respecting as I have always respected the will of the people, and in accordance with article 82 of the federal constitution, I come before the supreme representatives of the nation in order to resign, unreservedly, the office of constitutional President of the republic, with which the national vote honored me, which I do with all the more reason, since in order to continue in office, it would be necessary to shed Mexican blood, endangering the credit of the country, dissipating its wealth, exhausting its resources and exposing its policy to international complications.

"I hope, gentlemen, that when the passions, which are inherent to all revolutionists have been calmed, a more conscientious and justified study will bring out in the national mind a correct acknowledgment which will allow me to die, carrying engraved in my soul a just impression of the estimation of my life, which throughout I have devoted and will devote to my countrymen."

PLAN NOT FEASIBLE

Conference Delegates Oppose an Imperial Council—Premier of New Zealand Presses His Point.

ASQUITH OPPOSED

London, May 26.—The Imperial Conference, which is holding its sessions at the British Foreign Office, yesterday turned down the proposition of Sir Joseph Ward, the Premier of New Zealand, favoring the constitution of an ex-imperial council of state, with representatives of all the self-governing British Dominions to act in an advisory capacity to the Imperial Government.

Sir Joseph Ward's proposal met with no support and was withdrawn after a debate lasting two days.

The first step in the direction of the federation of the British Empire was thus postponed.

At yesterday's meeting of the Imperial Conference a message of thanks was read from the King for the loyal assurances conveyed at the first meeting.

Sir Joseph Ward resumed his speech on the imperial council. The question became more urgent and emphatic, he said, when it was remembered that at least two of the greatest dominions had already embarked on a naval policy of their own. Such action emphasized the need of some imperial council, accredited to co-operate and harmonize the policy of naval defence, a still greater question than that of naval supremacy. He would prefer to call the suggested body an Imperial Parliament of Defence, as defence, above all questions, was one in which every party of the Empire was vitally concerned. It could be treated satisfactorily only by a properly constituted council of state or Parliament. At present the different parts of the Empire had no voice whatever on questions concerning peace or war.

The question of an imperial council of defence was even more important to the United Kingdom than to the dominion, in view of the burden imposed on her navy by the necessities for protection of British ships, goods and people on the sea. The local provision by Canada or by Australia, however good it might be as far as the local portion of the dominions were concerned, would not be adequate. What was wanted was uniformity of system for the preservation of the whole overseas interests.

Laurier pointed to the resolution in favor of the creation of a council. Advisory to the imperial authority, but the arguments of Sir Joseph Ward were in favor of something very different. What Ward proposed was not an advisory council, but a legislature, a body elected by the people of the United Kingdom and the dominions, with power to create expenditure, but no responsibility for providing the necessary revenue, to meet the expenditure. Such a system was indefensible. The body might say five, ten or twenty millions of pounds were necessary, so much for each of the different portions of the Empire, and then the respective Governments would be dumb agents, carrying out the decision. They would simply have to provide the money asked for. Such a proposal was absolutely impracticable.

Premier Asquith said the scheme would impair, if not altogether destroy the authority of the Government of the United Kingdom, in such grave matters as the conduct of foreign policy, expulsion of treaties, maintenance of peace or declaration of war.

As the whole of the representatives were against him, Sir Joseph Ward withdrew his resolutions.

FISHERMAN DROWNS.

Drops Over the Rail of His Boat While Asleep.

Welland, May 26.—Edward Vandervere, a fisherman, was drowned in Lake Erie off Windmill Point, under peculiar circumstances, on the afternoon of Victoria Day. At the time of the accident he was with his brother, who ran a gasoline fishing tug. He was sitting on the rail. His brother thinks he fell into a doze and dropped into the water. He is said to have been a good swimmer. The two men left Port Colborne harbor at noon with a cargo of fish for Buffalo market. They had sold their cargo and were returning home shortly after four o'clock. Aaron was attending to the engines and Edward was sitting on the rear rail steering.

Aaron made the following statement: I noticed that the boat was following her own way, and looking that way saw that Edward was asleep. I warned him up and then I turned to work on the canvas. It might have been half an hour afterward that I noticed the boat dropping again, and looking back saw that he was gone. I grabbed the tilled and turned her over so hard I broke the shoe off of her. I cruised around for over an hour in the hope of picking him up, but there was no trace of him. Quite a sea was running, but not nearly so heavy as we often have been out in.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Louis Neime lost his life at the Helen Mine through earth caving in.

The Railway Claims Agents, meeting in Montreal, passed a resolution in favor of reciprocity.

The Public Works Department will call for tenders for work in St. John harbor approximating five million dollars.

The 14th Regiment of Kingston have a trip to Montreal June 23, to take part in the coronation celebration military review.

Capt. James Moreland, aged 90, who sailed the great lakes for many years, is dead at Kingston. He leaves a wife and four daughters.

Dynamite was found lying under Hydro-electric cables in Toronto. It was probably hidden there by thieves and was not intended to blow up the cables.

Engineers have been sent out to complete the survey for the navigable canal from Winnipeg to the Rocky Mountains by way of the Saskatchewan River.

An aviation pupil named Benson was killed at Hendon, England, yesterday. An aeroplane which he was piloting capsized while he was attempting to make a turn.

It is reported that the trainmen's convention at Harrisburg, Pa., decided to pay Grank Trunk men who failed of reinstatement after the strike $40 a month until they secure employment.

Communication has been established between Cape Breton and Africa, and a message sent from the Glace Bay Marconi station direct to the Eiffel Tower, Paris, has been relayed within one hour to Dakar, on the coast of Western Africa.

Child Perished In Fire.

Ottawa, May 26.—In a fire near Fort Coulongne, Quebec, which destroyed the home occupied by two families named Ladouceur and Kingsbury, a daughter of the former, aged three years, perished. The fire was caused by lightning.

Skyrocket In Church.

Brantford, May 26.—A skyrocket went through the window of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Wednesday night and set fire to a curtain. Caretaker Henderson happened to be passing and rushed in, extinguishing the blaze and sustaining painfully burned hands. Little damage was done.

CONTEST TOO HARD.

Vidrine Alone Will Finish In Paris-Madrid Race.

Madrid, May 26.—With the exception of the crossing of the Alps by George Chavez on Sept. 23, 1910, a feat which ended in his death, the third stage of the aviation race from Paris to Madrid for the Petit Parisian prize of $20,000 and $10,000 additional offered by the Spanish aero clubs, proved to be the most severe test the aeroplane yet has been subjected to, and two of the three contestants, it would now appear, have been forced to abandon the flight.

From the latest despatches reaching the committee in charge it appears that Vedrine alone is likely to finish. He passed over Quintanapalla and crossed the city of Burgos at a great height, but later was forced to descend. He telegraphed to the aero club saying that he could not proceed for some hours and the club authorised an extension of time for the completion of the race.

Gilbert landed at Olasagutia, about 40 miles from Sanebastian, but when he attempted to make a fresh start his machine was capsized and partly wrecked, although the aviator was not hurt. There is little probability that he will be able to repair the aeroplane within the time limit.

Garros is stalled in a mountainous spot near Andoain, six miles from Sanebastian. The nature of the ground makes a restart practically impossible, and, it is understood that he has abandoned the contest.

O.N.R. Changes Plans

Montreal, May 26.—The presence yesterday of D. S. Hanna, vice-president of the Canadian Northern Railway, in Montreal is considered of the utmost significance in railway circles.

It is stated that a general reorganization of the company's system, consequent upon the amalgamation of the Canadian Quebec with the Canadian Northern proper as a transcontinental line, is now in progress, the effect of which will be to switch the centre of gravity, so far as the Canadian Northern Railway is concerned, from Toronto to Montreal. It is in connection with this reorganization that Mr. Hanna has come here, and important changes in the local staff, involving several promotions, may be expected in the near future as the outcome of the visit.

Love and a Laundry Check

The Way Two Lovers Became Reunited.

By MABEL D. CALHOUN

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"Well—I'll—be—jiggered!"

Chris Webb brought his horse to a standstill and stared down at the small square of yellow paper that fluttered before Dixie's dancing hoofs like a will-o'-the-wisp of the daytime. Suddenly he dug his knees into Dixie's shoulders, and as she sprang forward Chris leaned over and caught the flying paper with a practiced hand. Then he scanned it closely and uttered a long drawn whistle.

Plainly it was a Chinese laundry check and represented to its owner a necessary article of wearing apparel that probably lay unclaimed in the wash house of some moon faced Celestial.

A laundry check found on the sidewalk in town is a common occurrence. A laundry check discovered in an obscure canyon in the desert regions of Arizona becomes a matter for considerable interest, especially if one has just convinced himself that this particular canyon has never been trod by the foot of civilized man.

"There isn't a Chink laundry within fifty miles, or I'm a sinner! And I was sure I'd struck a new trail, and after naming that gulley and all to find this!"

Hours afterward when he rolled dustily up to the bunk house and turned Dixie over to the friendly proffered services of Dutchy Fink there was some comment on his extended absence.

"Where's the critter?" asked Henderson, making room for his comrade at the table and passing Webb's cup to be filled.

"Dead," replied Christopher, his strong white teeth biting deep into a hunk of corn bread. "I followed the trail clean off the range into the sand and cactus and then I missed it. After awhile I saw a buzzard high in the air, and I guessed what had happened, so I followed and found the critter under a twisted cottonwood."

"Dead?" questioned Peters.

"Almost. Of course I couldn't leave her that way with that devilish buzzard hanging around, so"—he paused for another draft of coffee.

"So you shot her, Chris?"

"Yep, and then I shot the buzzard."

They laughed indulgently. "You always was soft hearted, Chris," commented Peters, filling his pipe. "Who'd stop to bore a strayed critter after chasing her twenty miles?"

"I would," said Chris in a voice that indicated he was weary of the topic. "Any you chaps got baccy?"

He deftly rolled a cigarette in his lean brown fingers and drew a light from Henderson's smoke. "Which one of you fellows is wearing biled shirts?" he asked lazily.

"Not guilty!" they cried in chorus, and Peters continued. "They ain't a chap had nerve enough to sport a biled shirt on the Three Forks outfit—not since Pinky Fleming was took for a ghost and a greaser shot him dead—right through the biled shirt!"

"Since then biled shirts has been looked on like sudden death," put in Henderson gravely. "No, sir, there ain't nobody on Little Forks wearing biled shirts. Why you ask, Chris?"

"Anybody know where there's a Chink laundry?" demanded Chris patiently.

"I expect there's one in Tucson," suggested Peters. "Seems like a dream—I remember shooting up a Chink laundry there. That was a long time ago," he added hastily.

"Then there ain't a Chink laundry nearer than Tucson?" said Chris.

"How about Cactus Branch?" suggested Redwood from his quiet corner. "Seems I recollect once when I was passing the Lone Horn—I was going to the roundup at the Branch, you know—some of the wimmen folks asked me would I leave a bundle at the laundry there and git a check for it. Being of an obliging nature, I jest naturally said I would, and I'm blamed if they didn't tote out a big, squashy bundle, and me expecting a couple of collars or mebbe a b'iled shirt! Mrs. Traymore—you know Jim Traymore's running the Lone Horn now—Mrs. Traymore says not to lose it, because it's a 'precious thing.' It's nothing but a fancy white dress her sister was expecting to wear to the schoolhouse dance, and the girl had set her heart it should be done up right and nobody but a Chink must do it."

"As I was roped in for the job I bows most polite and says I will leave the check on my way back. Well"—he paused and eyed his companions dubiously—"you all recollect the roundup at Cactus Branch."

"Being as it only happened last week, we have strong recollections," confessed Chris, rubbing his head thoughtfully. "We specially recollect all about you, Redwood, and you sure didn't take the trail by the Lone Horn when you came back, and you ain't been off this outfit since."

"That's right," admitted Redwood gloomily.

"What happened?"

"I left the squashy bundle all right, and the Chink said it would be 4 b'ts, and he gave me a piece of paper covered with turkey tracks, and now I don't know where the blamed paper is unless"— He brightened suddenly and slapped his knee. "Now, I reckon mebbe I made a cigarette out of it. I was short of paper about that time."

Henderson laughed loudly. "You'd have knowed it if you'd smoked that, Redwood. Mebbe we can help you out, because if that girl don't git to the dance, why, I don't know what us chaps will do. I've seen her."

"Is it that bad?" asked Peters sympathetically.

"She's a peacherino!" quoth Mr. Henderson warmly.

Chris got upon his feet and tossed away the end of his cigarette. "What trail did you follow when you came back from the roundup?" he yawned carelessly.

Redwood shook his head hopelessly. "I've been trying to figure that out ever since. I must have got lost, for I was three days getting back here, and I had nothing to eat"—

"You can cut that out," interjected Peters, grinning. "I found you at Bederman's, and that's over to the southeast—somewhere near where Chris has been after his stray critter."

Mr. Webb's air of langour increased. "Then I reckon this young lady can't go to the dance unless she gets this dress what the Chink is washing, eh?" He yawned again.

Redwood nodded. "I reckon it's the only party dress she's got; she seemed mighty particular about it," he said regretfully.

"And she can't get the dress without the check?" persisted Chris sleepily.

"No checkee, no shirtee!" returned Redwood.

"You going to the dance?"

Mr. Redwood smiled laboriously and ran his hand along one leg with a painful gesture. "I reckon my leg's most too stiff this time, so I guess I won't be around tomorrow night," he said.

They laughed heartlessly as they parted for the night.

In his own corner of the roughly partitioned bunk house Christopher Webb pulled the laundry check from his pocket and studied the strange hieroglyphics with thoughtful eyes. "I'll do it," he said suddenly. "I reckon she'll be mighty grateful to the one who brings back her party dress. I expect it's a pretty thing—all frills and furbelows and lacy stuff, like what Annie used to wear." His dark eyes became almost black with a sudden intensity of emotion, and his brown knitted painfully. "I wasn't cut out for a bookkeeper or for city life. If she'd only have seen that my coming into the open was my call to what I could do best, but she gave me the go by, and here I am! I'm a darned sight better off in some ways than I was there in Denver. I've got health and I've got a thousand salted away against the ranch I'll buy some day, but I haven't got her!"

His head drooped a little, and then, as if aware of his weakness, he threw back his shoulders and laughed softly. "No need to keep that other girl away from the party," he said in a low tone as he proceeded to make an elaborate toilet with such facilities as the ranch afforded.

It was past midnight when he let himself out of the door and made his way into the corral. It was the work of a moment to catch up a mount. This time it was a rawboned sorrel with a long raking stride that carried his rider over the trail with remarkable swiftness. At 10 o'clock the next morning Christopher Webb dismounted stiffly from the sorrel and entered the door of a Chinese laundry in the flourishing town of Cactus Branch. In his hand he carried a laundry check, and when he came forth he bore a large and squashy looking bundle, which he placed carefully before him when he remounted.

A brief stop for breakfast and then he was back on another trail, this time the one leading toward the Lone Horn. He knew Jim Traymore slightly, had met him three years before when Chris had first come out into the open, as he called his departure from the city, but he had not seen Jim recently. He had heard that he was married now and taken the Lone Horn.

At 5 o'clock he clattered up to the veranda of the Lone Horn ranch house and shouted in a stentorian voice:

"Laundry!"

There was a delighted shriek from within and light footsteps on the wooden floor of the hall. Then a slender form gowned in pale blue cotton darted across the veranda and held up eager arms for the bundle—a lovely golden haired girl with wistful blue eyes and a sadly drooping mouth, who did not see Christopher Webb's amazed face. She saw nothing save the bundle and a tall, kindly disposed cowboy who had ridden out of his way to oblige her.

"How can I thank you"— she was beginning when Christopher spoke from the shadow of his broad hat.

"Annie!" he said in a low tone.

Annie Lee looked at him for a moment, and then, dropping her head against his knee, she cried softly for awhile. "Elsie married Jim Traymore a year ago," she explained, "and I came out here to visit them. I didn't know where you were, Chris, but I felt somehow if I was out in this country I might be near you anyway. I—have wanted you so!"

When Christopher broke the news to his comrades at the Three Forks he added, laughing, "I reckon that there occasion will demand a biled shirt, eh, boys?"

"So do, so do," urged Henderson eagerly. "Seems like a wedding oughter break that there biled shirt hoodoo."

"You got any laundry checks up your sleeve?" demanded Peters of Henderson. "You speak kind of wishful, like you'd love to wear a biled shirt."

"I expect all of you to wear 'em when—when it's necessary—that is, when I'm married," said the happy Christopher authoritatively.

WHEN BLOOD IS POISON

The blood must be filtered, otherwise you are poisoned. If the kidneys fail the liver is overworked, and becomes torpid. By using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you get both these filtering organs working right, and also ensure healthful action of the bowels. For this reason these pills are an ideal family medicine. They cure biliousness, constipation, chronic indigestion and kidney disease.

Too Precious.

"Makers to his majesty" and "imported" are words that carry much weight to many minds. It is strange what a glory a foreign label can cast upon a commonplace article. The fact of a commodity having crossed the water, however, is not taken quite so seriously today as it was some fifty or sixty years ago. M. C. D. Silsbee gives an instance in her "A Half Century in Salem."

Miss Ann M. Rust was one of the two milliners. She had a large collection of finery, shelves full of handsome ribbons and glass showcases of rich embroideries, besides the inevitable bonnets. Once she imported a quantity of exquisite French caps. The strings were somewhat crushed in the transit across the ocean. The caps were quickly disposed of. An aunt bought one, and Miss Rust innocently observed that a "warm iron would make the creases all right."

"What!" indignantly exclaimed the aunt. "Smooth a crease made in Paris? No, indeed; never!"

A Famous English Clock.

Wells cathedral contains one of the most interesting clocks in the whole world. It was constructed by Peter Lightfoot, a monk, in 1320 and embraces many devices which testify to the ancient horologist's ingenuity. Several celestial and terrestrial bodies are incorporated in the interesting movement and relationship. They indicate the hours of the day, the age of the moon and the position of the planets and the tides. When the clock strikes the hour two companies of horsemen fully armed dash out of gateways in opposite directions and charge vigorously. They strike with their lances as they pass as many times as correspond with the number of the hour. A little distance away, seated on a high perch, is a quaint figure, which kicks the quarters on two bells placed beneath his feet and strikes the hours on a bell. The dial of the clock is divided into twenty-four hours and shows the phases of the moon and a map of the universe.—Harper's.

Wanted a Supply.

"Politics," remarked a Washington official, "is a science as well as a circus. One of the funniest things I ever heard in that connection was about the cowboy delegate to the constitutional convention of Nevada when that territory was about to become a state. In the constitution was the stereotyped paragraph about the new state's having two senators to represent it in Washington. When it was read to the convention the cowboy delegate rose and yelled out: 'What's the use of limiting it to two? We're overwhelmingly Republican, and we can elect as many as we want.'"—Washington Star.

LACE DANCING FROCK.

A Happy Blending of Modern and Old Fashions.

READY FOR THE BALL.

In the charmingly girlish dance frock illustrated are blended the modern and old fashions that are prominent in the season's modes. The rather scant straight skirt is trimmed with three ruffles of graduated widths. It is attached to a bodice veiled with gold net and white chiffon and trimmed elaborately with bullion fringe. A moire girdle defines the waist at the front and sides, while the chiffon tablier at the back is draped in a manner to lend an empire effect to the costume. Hand embroidered silk gloves match the shade of the girdle and the silk foundation of the gown, which is American Beauty color. The little carriage card is of lace and liberty satin.

A Girl's New Year's Resolution.

I'm going to be glad. Who knows what nice things may be just around the corner?

I'm going to be all dressed before I leave my own room and then forget it.

I won't sit bias in a street car.

I won't always tell all I know.

I won't tell my friends of holes in their clothes when they are far from home.

I won't fuss over things I cannot help.

I won't hurry more than half of the time.

I'll try to be pleasant and not lie, but I won't lie to be pleasant. A good natured liar makes every one mad in the long run.

When "in company" I'll talk, whether I have anything to say or not.

I'll try to keep all my old friends and make as many new ones as possible, for some of the old will surely drop out. It is better to be on with the new before you are off with the old.

Last, I'll try to keep some of these resolutions, all the easy ones anyway.

Biggest Sponge.

The biggest sponge in the world is a Bahama, six feet in circumference and two feet in diameter, shaped something like a big, fat biscuit or a bride's cake that failed to rise.

Doctor Told Her She Did Not Have A Pint Of Good Blood in Her Body.

Mrs. Dosithe P. Cormier, Middle Sackville, N.B., says:

"In the spring of 1897 I was all run down, and the doctor told me I had not a pint of good blood in my body. I took different remedies from doctors, but they did not seem to do me any good. After having taken a lot of different other kinds of medicine, and they did not seem to benefit me, I was almost in despair and did not know what to do until my husband met a lady and told her about my sickness and she told him to try Burdock Blood Bitters as she had received the greatest benefit from using it. My husband went and bought me a bottle, and after having taken it I felt better, so I kept on using one bottle after another until I had taken six in all and then I was strong and well. I am positive that my being alive to-day is due to the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. One spring since then I was not feeling very well and had a lot of work to do I thought I would procure a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and after I had taken two I was able to do a lot of hard work all the summer, and I never felt better in my life. In the winter of 1906 I had Pneumonia, and it left me with a severe pain in the left side. Every morning when I would get out of bed I had to sit down for a while it was so painful. After I had used Burdock Blood Bitters the pain disappeared completely. It has also cured me of bleeding piles. I have received so much benefit from Burdock Blood Bitters that you may publish this as it may help others as it has me."

COSTLY PLATE

Senator W. A. Clark, the Montana "Copper King," is said to be the proudest man in all America, for he is rejoicing in the possession of the costliest, most ornate, and the largest silver and gold dinner-service in the world." And a wonderful service it is, with its full table equipment for twenty-four diners, each piece made of the purest silver, lined with sheet-gold gold of great thickness, and the whole service costing $130,000.

But the proud Senator is surely wrong in boasting that his service is the largest and costliest in the world. It is far surpassed in value and splendor by the famous Emperor's service at Windsor Castle, which is used only for crowned heads. Some of the epergnes of this marvellous service weigh several hundredweight, and even a strong man can carry no more than three of its dishes or eight of its plates at a time. It is of silver, richly gilt, and its value must run into six figures.

At Windsor, too, there are five tons of plate, some of it of solid gold, and of a value far exceeding $5,000,000. There is a rose-water fountain of silver, which weighs 2,380 ounces, and a nautilus cup by Cellini, with shell of pearl and mountings of gold and silver, which alone is said to be worth many thousands of dollars.

In America Mr. Pierpont Morgan's plate is valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars—indeed, the plate of the Tudor and Stuart days alone was purchased for six figures in Berlin. Mr. Morgan's collection includes two silver table-ornaments valued at $500,000 each. One represents Diana seated on a stag, with jewelled headdress and trappings; the other is an iridescent nautilus, borne on a gold and silver snail, and on it is perched a Nubian boy in black enamel.

It is not long, too, since a Piccadilly, London, firm completed an order for silver and china to the value of $850,000, designed as the present of a millionaire to an Eastern potentate. The silver included a table weighing 6,000 ounces, a tray eight feet in diameter, and a service, all in solid gold, for a thousand persons—a thousand silver dinner-plates, a thousand smaller plates, a thousand spoons and forks, a thousand silver wine-glasses, and so on.

In English noble houses there are many services of solid gold and silver almost, if not quite, as valuable as Senator Clark's vaunted purchase. And the china is of almost fabulous value. The Duke of Argyll has refused $20,000 for his white and gold Canidron china; Lord Hillingdon's superb hand-painted Worcester dinner-service for twenty-four persons is valued at $6,000; and Lord Dudley has a Coalport game-service worth $6,700, while Lord Rothschild's Dresden and Sevres ware is almost priceless.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S DESK

Is a Token of Goodwill Between Great Britain and the United States

The desk used at the White House by the President of the United States is interesting in itself, apart from its connection with the ruler of a nation, for it is a token of the goodwill existing between Great Britain and the United States. Although occupying so prominent a place in the official residence of the chosen governor, it is not of American manufacture.

It was fashioned in England, and was a present from Queen Victoria to a former President. It was made from the timbers of H.M.S. Resolute, which was sent in search of Sir John Franklin in 1852. The ship was caught in the ice and had to be abandoned. It was not destined to go to pieces in frozen waters, however. An American whaler discovered and extricated it in 1855, and it was subsequently purchased and sent to Her Majesty by the President and the people of the United States as a token of goodwill and friendship.

In an English dockyard the Resolute was at last broken up, and from her timbers a desk was made, which was sent by the Queen "as a memorial of the courtesy and loving kindness which dictated the offer of the gift of the Resolute."

At this desk, itself a representative of the kindly feeling of both nations, the President does the greater part of his writing.

BIBLICAL IGNORANCE

Members of Parliament Who Have Made Amusing Errors

Some interesting stories are told of members of the British House of Commons who were lacking in Biblical knowledge. For instance, in a debate a few years ago Mr. George Wyndham referred to David and the fifty fighting men he had in a cave. "Not David—Daniel," interjected Sir Edward Grey. "I am much obliged to my right honorable friend," continued Mr. Wyndham; "of course I meant Daniel," as the House resounded with laughter and shouts of "Obadiah!"

A little later the same evening Sir Edward again aired his Biblical knowledge by speaking of the feeding of the prophets on bread and water, when Sir William Evans Gordon convulsed everybody by suggesting that the prophetic menu consisted of locusts and wild honey.

Certainly a few lessons on the Bible would have been useful to a good many statesmen, past and present. Mr. Gladstone once committed the atrocity of putting Daniel in the fiery furnace, and made the Psalmist responsible for the words, "God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb." John Bright saddled St. Paul with the well-known aphorism, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness"; and Lord John Russell made a touching reference to Pharaoh and his host struggling in the engulfing waters of the Jordan.

MUSIC HALL'S ORIGIN

It was First a Part of Hotel—Not "Respectable" a Few Years Ago

The King and Queen consented to attend a "command" music-hall performance during their visit to Edinburgh.

How extraordinary such an announcement would have seemed to people thirty or forty years ago, says an English writer. For at that period, and even in much later times, music-halls were not "respectable."

Many of them, indeed, were merely adjuncts to hotels, and not always very high-class hotels at that. At an earlier date still they were just "free-and-easies," where the performers were unpaid, and the chairman was either the landlord or one of his employees.

No charge was made for admission, the landlord relying on his profit on the sale of refreshments, nor were the performers paid as a general rule.

After a while, however, the proprietors of some of the better-known free-and-easies discovered that it was to their interest to fee certain favorite singers. For some reason or other four dollars a week seems to have been the amount generally paid.

Sims Reeves, Jolly John Nash, Jenny Hill, and quite a number of others who afterwards became famous on the concert platform or the variety stage, were content to sing several songs nightly in return for this meagre wage.

To rent a building separate from a hotel and give an independent performance of a similar kind, but plus a small charge for admission, was the next step forward. In this way the music-hall, as distinct from the tavern free-and-easy, came into existence.

One of the first, and certainly the most famous of these very early music-halls, was the Rotunda, in the Blackfriars Road, London. Here appeared as duettists and dancers Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Wilde, the parents of the late lamented Dan Leno.

Meanwhile, many of the tavern concert-rooms were emerging from the chrysalis stage into full-blown music-halls. Thus, the "Grapes" in Southwark became the Surrey Music Hall, the "Great Mogul," in Drury Lane blossomed forth as the Middlesex Music Hall, and so on.

PREACHER MET COLORED BOXER

Rev. Harold Gibson, Sheffield, Took Two Rounds Out of Jim Johnson

The Rev. Harold Gibson, the Sheffield clergyman who, the other day, met in public Jim Johnson, a colored boxer of some renown, is the curate at Christ Church, Attercliffe. His decision to fight Johnson was, he said, purely spontaneous. No one seemed inclined to take up the man's challenge, and this appealed to Mr. Gibson's sporting instinct. They boxed two rounds. "I consider Johnson a very smart man," said Mr. Gibson. "He has tremendous chest and arms and is very powerful. Johnson is rather light on the legs, and probably, in a long contest that would be his weak point. He is a thorough sportsman and took no advantage of me, although he had an easy opening in the first round. He complimented me on my hard hitting and a vicious 'jab' with the left which I have cultivated." Asked as to his boxing experiences, Mr. Gibson said that this was the first match he had had since he was ordained, just four years ago. Unfortunately, they had not a gymnasium in connection with the church. Before he went to Cambridge he had a good deal of boxing practice at Bournemouth, and at the university he was trained by one of the professionals, Coey Fordham.

EXPLORE THE ANTARCTIC

Lieutenant Filchner, leader of the German Antarctic Expedition which left Hamburg for Bremen, and thence for Buenos Ayres, has communicated the following details of his plans: "As to the general objects of the expedition," says Lieutenant Filchner, "these are to explore the innermost recesses of the Antarctic, and in particular to establish the relations of the masses of land lying west and east of the South Pole. Much work of a general scientific character will also be undertaken." Lieutenant Filchner's plan is generally to strike into the Weddell Sea and attack the Antarctic from the side opposite to that explored by Sir Ernest Shackleton. The expedition is timed to arrive at the ice in November, so as to take advantage of the most favorable ice conditions for forcing a way into Weddell Sea.

The ship will follow the outline of Coatsland and establish as far as possible the base of the expedition, where 11 men will be landed and a scientific station will be erected.

From here four members of the party, with Nansen sledges, will make a dash for the south. The ship meantime will work its way along the coast, carrying on coastal exploration. The scientific work of the expedition is to be prosecuted with great vigor. Ice conditions and formations will be studied in detail. Investigations of great advantage to the whaling industry will be carried out. Atmospheric conditions will be studied by means of kites, pilot and captive balloons, and the problems of atmospheric electricity will be closely examined. The expenses of the expedition are estimated at $500,000. The expedition is very completely equipped.

Its ship, the Deutschland, is a converted whaler, with auxiliary steam, of about 300 horse power. She is specially fitted with a view to the comfort of the explorers, both in the tropical and polar regions, and carries a wireless telegraphy installation. Three motor vehicles and one motor boat are being taken out. Dogs are also being carried, and the example of Sir Ernest Shackleton in the use of Manchurian ponies for sledge work is being followed.

Antarctic Postmaster-General

Sir J. Ward, Premier of New Zealand, related at a dinner that when Sir E. Shackleton set out towards the South Pole, he (Sir Joseph) handed him a stock of Dominion postage stamps all printed for use in the far South, and appointed him Postmaster-General of King Edward Land and the Antarctic Regions.

COSTLY PLATE

Senator W. A. Clark, the Montana "Copper King," is said to be the proudest man in all America, for he is rejoicing in the possession of the costliest, most ornate, and the largest silver and gold dinner-service in the world." And a wonderful service it is, with its full table equipment for twenty-four diners, each piece made of the purest silver, lined with sheet-gold gold of great thickness, and the whole service costing $130,000.

But the proud Senator is surely wrong in boasting that his service is the largest and costliest in the world. It is far surpassed in value and splendor by the famous Emperor's service at Windsor Castle, which is used only for crowned heads. Some of the epergnes of this marvellous service weigh severa l hundredweight, and even a strong man can carry no more than three of its dishes or eight of its plates at a time. It is of silver, richly gilt, and its value must run into six figures.

At Windsor, too, there are five tons of plate, some of it of solid gold, and of a value far exceeding $5,000,000. There is a rose-water fountain of silver, which weighs 2,380 ounces, and a nautilus cup by Cellini, with shell of pearl and mountings of gold and silver, which alone is said to be worth many thousands of dollars.

In America Mr. Pierpont Morgan's plate is valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars—indeed, the plate of the Tudor and Stuart days alone was purchased for six figures in Berlin. Mr. Morgan's collection includes two silver table-ornaments valued at $500,000 each. One represents Diana seated on a stag, with jewelled headdress and trappings; the other is an iridescent nautilus, borne on a gold and silver snail, and on it is perched a Nubian boy in black enamel.

It is not long, too, since a Piccadilly, London, firm completed an order for silver and china to the value of $850,000, designed as the present of a millionaire to an Eastern potentate. The silver included a table weighing 6,000 ounces, a tray eight feet in diameter, and a service, all in solid gold, for a thousand persons—a thousand silver dinner-plates, a thousand smaller plates, a thousand spoons and forks, a thousand silver wine-glasses, and so on.

In English noble houses there are many services of solid gold and silver almost, if not quite, as valuable as Senator Clark's vaunted purchase. And the china is of almost fabulous value. The Duke of Argyll has refused $20,000 for his white and gold Cauldron china; Lord Hillingdon's superb hand-painted Worcester dinner-service for twenty-four persons is valued at $6,000; and Lord Dudley has a Coalport game-service worth $6,700, while Lord Rothschild's Dresden and Sevres ware is almost priceless.

PREACHER MET COLORED BOXER

Rev. Harold Gibson, Sheffield, Took Two Rounds Out of Jim Johnson

The Rev. Harold Gibson, the Sheffield clergyman who, the other day, met in public Jim Johnson, a colored boxer of some renown, is the curate at Christ Church, Attercliffe. His decision to fight Johnson was, he said, purely spontaneous. No one seemed inclined to take up the man's challenge, and this appealed to Mr. Gibson's sporting instinct. They boxed two rounds. "I consider Johnson a very smart man," said Mr. Gibson. "He has tremendous chest and arms and is very powerful. Johnson is rather light on the legs, and probably, in a long contest that would be his weak point. He is a thorough sportsman and took no advantage of me, although he had an easy opening in the first round. He complimented me on my hard hitting and a vicious 'jab' wth the left which I have cultivated." Asked as to his boxing experiences, Mr. Gibson said that this was the first match he had had since he was ordained, just four years ago. Unfortunately, they had not a gymnasium in connection with the church. Before he went to Cambridge he had a good deal of boxing practice at Bournemouth, and at the university he was trained by one of the professionals, Coey Fordham.

EXPLORE THE ANTARCTIC

Lieutenant Filchner, leader of the German Antarctic Expedition which left Hamburg for Bremen, and thence for Buenos Ayres, has communicated the following details of his plans: "As to the general objects of the expedition," says Lieutenant Filchner, "these are to explore the innermost recesses of the Antarctic, and in particular to establish the relations of the masses of land lying west and east of the South Pole. Much work of a general scientific character will also be undertaken." Lieutenant Filchner's plan is generally to strike into the Weddell Sea and attack the Antarctic from the side opposite to that explored by Sir Ernest Shackleton. The expedition is timed to arrive at the ice in November, so as to take advantage of the most favorable ice conditions for forcing a way into Weddell Sea.

The ship will follow the outline of Coatsland and establish as far as possible the base of the expedition, where 11 men will be landed and a scientific station will be erected.

From here four members of the party, with Nansen sledges, will make a dash for the south. The ship meantime will work its way along the coast, carrying on coastal exploration. The scientific work of the expedition is to be prosecuted with great vigor. Ice conditions and formations will be studied in detail. Investigations of great advantage to the whaling industry will be carried out. Atmospheric conditions will be studied by means of kites, pilot and captive balloons, and the problems of atmospheric electricity will be closely examined. The expenses of the expedition are estimated at $500,000. The expedition is very completely equipped.

Its ship, the Deutschland, is a converted whaler, with auxiliary steam, of about 300 horse power. She is specially fitted with a view to the comfort of the explorers, both in the tropical and polar regions, and carries a wireless telegraphy installation. Three motor vehicles and one motor boat are being taken out. Dogs are also being carried, and the example of Sir Ernest Shackleton in the use of Manchurian ponies for sledge work is being followed.

Antarctic Postmaster-General

Sir J. Ward, Premier of New Zealand, related at a dinner that when Sir E. Shackleton set out towards the South Pole, he (Sir Joseph) handed him a stock of Dominion postage stamps all printed for use in the far South, and appointed him Postmaster-General of King Edward Land and the Antarctic Regions.

ON THE FRONTIER WITH CALAMITY JANE

STORMY Career of Martha Cannary, Who Filled a Man's Place Among the Gold Hunters and Lived to Avenge the Murder of the "Wild Bill" Hickok, Whom She Admired

IF the plans of the Black Hills Pioneer Society are carried out there will soon be erected in a little cemetery near the flourishing town of Deadwood, S. D., a monument to commemorate the exploits of that famous frontier character Calamity Jane. No man can be a member of the society who did not come to the Black Hills prior to the year 1878. While that bars the two Senators and two Representatives from the State, they are, nevertheless, interested in the movement. Although at the time of her death, in August, 1903, at Terry, S. D., Calamity Jane had in a measure outlived her fame and become a beggar, nothing can now dislodge her from the position she holds in the chronicles of Deadwood. She is destined to be as famous as "Wild Bill" Hickok, the man whom she most admired. At present only a little stone slab marks her grave beside the elaborate shaft that has been raised to his memory.

THE teamsters were in trouble, which is to say that lesser masters in the gentle art of profanity might have listened and learned.

General Crook's command was toiling through the Black Hills in the Sioux campaign of '76. It was hard going, through unbroken wilderness, and the most difficult part of the problem was the supply train.

Quadruple teams of mules strained and tugged at the unwieldy wagons, quivering and lurching under the flicking whips that cracked along the line like rifle volleys. Painfully the toiling caravan crawled up the rock strewn slope. The drivers shouted, raved, bellowed, walking beside their sweating charges and urging every ounce of weight and muscle against the collars.

The wagon master, a huge man, in a crimson shirt which exactly matched his furious, congested face, strode through the confusion, the dominant figure on the hillside. With raucous bellow he lashed the men to greater efforts, abusing them in the identical language with which they abused the mules.

He paused a moment to watch a young teamster who had managed to get his wagon emerged and was swinging the exhausted animals in a vain attempt to start them again. The young fellow was doing his best, handling the reins skilfully and snaking the whip with practised wrist. But the quick ear of the leader detected a false note in the vocal explosions that accompanied these activities. The teamsters expletives were mild shockingly mild to the mind of the wagon master. There was an austerity about, a lack of virulence, an absence of conviction in the oaths that argued a "greenie" hand. No man who swore like that could be a good teamster. The wagon master lunged forward, purple with anger and snatched the whip from the other's hand.

"Here you blankety-blank-blank apology for a blankety-blanked-blank mule driver, what you tryin' to do? Think this here's an umpty-ump hay rack party, or a bumpety-bump picnic?"

He flung furiously at the trembling animals and soon had them under way once more. Then he returned the whip to its owner with further vigorous reflections anent the ancestry, character and abilities of this particular teamster. The young man meantime went on about his work sullenly, his fresh smooth face set hard under the tirade, but answering no word. His silence further exasperated the wagon master.

"Where t'hell did you learn mule drivin', anyway?" he roared.

"With Patrick and Saulsbury," said the other shortly.

"Naw," snorted the wagon master incredulously. "Why don't you say the Overland and be done with it? You never held reins on the Black Hills stage."

"Fix it to suit yourself then," returned the teamster tartly.

The wagon master's ready wrath flared up. "See here, young feller, nobody in my train gets funny with me. I'll show you"——

The young teamster fell back before the big fellow's slouching advance, but did not cringe. With a contemptuous flip of his hand the wagon master made what is technically known as a "pass" at the teamster. At the same instant another mule driver, who had been hovering uneasily in the background, caught the wagon master by the arm and whirled him around, saying something in low tone.

"What?" shouted the wagon master, staring.

The man repeated his whispered phrase.

The wagon master's eyes widened. "Naw," he breathed; "naw."

"Sure. There's two or three fellers knows it."

The wagon master turned again and gazed at the young teamster as he might have gazed at a dodo or some other impossible product. What detracted not at all from his wonder, he found himself looking into the round, black eye of a revolver, which the teamster was holding quietly above the hip.

"Pick it up," said the teamster slowly.

The wagon master's instinct was to reach for his own gun. But there was a steadiness in the drop as held upon him that gave warning of the utter imbecility of such a move. He remembered, moreover, with whom he had to deal, and was promptly overwhelmed with confusion and remorse.

"Madam," he stammered, "I humbly beg pardon. I'm sure I didn't know you. I heard of you, in course, and I'm honored, madam, to meet up with you."

"Pick it up," repeated the teamster evenly.

The wagon master made the best of an uncomfortable position. The line had halted and a number of men were watching the tableau with audible grins. Under the eye of the steady revolver he stooped and regained the hat which he presented with a low bow. Then removing his own sombrero he swept it with Chesterfieldian grace.

"You didn't need no gun, madam," he assured her. "I'm sorry I done what I did. And I will say you're one of the best mule drivers I ever see."

Ready to Shoot Him.

The young teamster nodded coolly and without embarrassment as she returned the revolver to her holster and settled her hat into place.

"Don't try to come it on me," she remarked. "I don't ask no favors because I'm a woman. But if you hadn't picked up that hat I'd 'a' drilled you, sure."

And that is how it became generally known to the members of the detachment that one of the teamsters who took part in that rough expedition which saw constant skirmishing and fought the battle on the Rosebud was a woman. The woman was Martha Cannary, better known as Calamity Jane, the most famous of all frontierswomen.

Calamity Jane was apt to show up in almost any guise and almost any circumstances where trouble was brewing among the Black Hills in those days. Danger and excitement drew her as surely as gold drew most of the early population of that region.

There have been women before and since who played a man's part in affairs, but few have established their chosen rôle so successfully or so definitely as this Jeanne d'Arc of the West. Retaining a woman's gentleness and sweetness at moments when the situation aroused those qualities, she never took refuge behind the barriers of her sex or abandoned a masculine temper when more stern and grim complications arose. She acted the man in a man's time and country because her environment and her nature both prompted to it.

Born in Princeton, Mo., in 1852, she went into the Montana gold fields with her father while she was still a little girl. It was no place and no epoch for women. The red early struggles for the land between settlers, outlaws and Indians were in full swing. The law of the strong hand ruled. Life was rude and hard and violent. But the girl, growing to womanhood took a fierce joy in living that life.

She was naturally a free, adventurous, courageous. Conditions in the hills offered no outlet to such a spirit that might be taken by anything in petticoats. There was no opportunity for a woman of her kind—no place, no need, no work. And so, as a matter of course, she took the only way open to her and became to all intents a man. She adopted the clothing and speech of a man, wore a suit of fringed buckskin and called mules out of their names to a reasonable extent. She carried revolvers, and, what was a great deal more to the point, she knew how to use them. In time she became a dead shot. She learned to ride with the best, and she developed the muscular strength necessary to the task she had undertaken.

At all times she refused to allow her sex to bar her from helping in the big work that goes on on every frontier. In this she had no conscious purpose beyond following her bent. She was not educated. She had no theories to prove or force. She never used herself to draw generalizations on equality. But so far as she herself was concerned she saw to it that a man's share of consideration came her way, at the revolver point if necessary. And she hunted "calamity," because it was in her to be on the ground whenever there was a chance for action and adventure.

She neither boasted nor made any particular effort to conceal the fact that she was a woman. The one thing she insisted upon was her right to meet men on level terms as long as she did a man's share. She allowed no one to control her or to interfere with her in any way, and she sought employment wherever there was an opening for a ready worker, an expert marksman and a good fighter. As a result she was deeply respected and ardently admired throughout the Black Hills region in the days when lawlessness stood up and did primitive battle.

When the presence of Calamity Jane in Crook's command was made known through her encounter with the abashed wagon master there was no thought of turning her away. If her general reputation had not proved her sufficiently capable of taking care of herself, an exploit with which she was generally credited during the preceding winter campaign would have established her in the hearts of the outfit.

One of the first blows struck at the hostile Sioux and Cheyennes after Crook took charge of the threatening situation in the Black Hills was a raid on the village of Crazy Horse, the able Sioux chief. Crazy Horse and his band had made trouble, and on a bitter cold night in March six companies of cavalry and a number of scouts were sent to strike him. He was believed to be encamped near the Big Powder River.

The troops came upon the village just about dawn and the force was arranged for a surprise. Most of the command moved to take positions upon the bluffs to cut off escape, another detachment was told off to cut out the Indians' ponies, and the rest, numbering about fifty, charged the village itself. Captain Egan, famed as a brilliant Indian fighter, led the little cloud of cavalry that swooped down among the tepees in the stinging chill of the morning.

It was a dashing manœuvre, but one that was like to cost the aggressors dear. The Sioux and Cheyennes, though surprised, took to the rocks and, quickly rallying, began to pour a hot fire into the cavalry. The troops replied with revolvers and began to set fire to the tepees, expecting reinforcements and the co-operation of the rest of the detachment from the bluffs. The force had been badly handled, however, and when the reserve began dropping bullets into the village Egan's men were the only sufferers.

The Indians, having taken cover advantageously, now recovered confidence and forced the fighting. The troopers were exposed and their mounts became unmanageable. Several men were killed and many horses wounded, adding greatly to the confusion. The little force now found itself thrown suddenly on the defensive. Having charged to the centre of the village, Egan saw that the Sioux were trying to surround his detachment. He gave the order to dismount and managed to withdraw his men to shelter in the copse along the edge of the ice locked river. The battle continued now on terms exactly suited to the Indians, who crept down from the bluffs and stalked their prey among the dead brush in characteristic fashion.

Saving Egan's Life.

Egan himself was furiously disappointed at the failure of the other detachments to support the attack and exposed himself recklessly. With his men shattered through the copse he was unable to prevent any definite line of resistance, and amid the smoke of the burning tepees, the plunging of the frightened horses and the misdirected firing from above he knew that every chance was offered for the turning of the tables. He was standing erect and peering anxiously toward the bluffs when a Sioux moved about a rock not fifty feet from him and covered him deliberately with a rifle. Egan was unconscious of the danger.

At this instant a small party of the scouts was galloping up upon the left. One of them was well in advance of the others and came into view of the crouching Sioux just as his cheek sank along the stock. A single revolver shot dropped the Indian in a twitching heap. Egan turned at that instant and saw how he had been saved. The arrival of the scouts and of part of the force that should have attacked sooner checked the enemy and forced them again to the bluffs. The entire detachment soon afterward retreated after having destroyed the village.

Egan spoke a brief word of thanks to the scout whose shot had been so timely and thought nothing more of the matter. But it was said, and believed, that the marksman was no other than Calamity Jane, who was not known to the members of the command at that time and had volunteered for the expedition with other unattached Indian fighters.

The adventures of this remarkable woman are not known in full. She was extremely reticent about herself, and undoubtedly took part in many exploits in which her identity was not discovered and which she never afterward spoke of. It is certain, however, that she saw much of the fighting that went on in the Black Hills during the Indian troubles. She did not serve as a humble teamster throughout Crook's campaign, but on several occasions did scout duty, carrying despatches and assisting in the gathering of information.

Calamity Jane was a familiar figure about Deadwood in the early days of that roaring gold town. So far as she had a home for the few years after the Deadwood rush in '75 it was there. She took to miner's boots as readily as she did to stirrups and as kindly to pick and shovel as to bridle reins. She took her share of wealth from the soil and spent it as the others spent it in the feverish recklessness of the time. Gambling was the chief recreation in a place where flour at $1 a pound and shoes at $20 a pair represented the available opportunities for expenditure. Jane gambled as every man gambled, and could back her busted flush with a marble face and a sack of hard earned gold dust.

But the occasions most congenial to her were those upon which border law extended swift and even handed justice to transgressors. The man who materialized strange horses out of thin air or acquired gold dust in questionable ways or offended the code in some other forbidden particular met swift reward in the new settlement. Certain details of these ceremonies always required management, and who so competent to manage them as Calamity Jane?

She was well qualified as a leader and her popularity thrust her forward as the proper person to officiate. A lynching took on a greater semblance to civilized processes, perhaps, when a woman directed proceedings. The individuals to whom these testimonials of public interest were tendered never failed to be highly gratified by the participation of Calamity Jane, and the citizens of Deadwood remarked with approval that her presence invariably induced an edifying state of mind in the culprit.

"Charming lady," said one scamp, as he stood on the barrel with the rope around his neck, "I kiss your hand. It shall never be said that I failed to observe the homage and respect due to one of your tender sex. Some of my friends had arranged a little demonstration for this affair, but I assure you they shall start no rumpus while I am alive to prevent it. Boys," he added, looking over the crowd, "behave yourselves now. If anybody forgets he's a gent, or draws a gun and I hear of it—" Whereupon he nodded and was swung off into eternity with a smile on his lips.

Captain George Bartlett, the famous scout and fighter of Indians and "bad men," who lived in Deadwood at this time, knew Calamity Jane very well. Speaking of her recently he said:—

"She was well known throughout the Black Hills camps, and although a singular character, travelling about alone and engaging in unfeminine enterprises, she was good and kind, always helping those in distress. An analysis of her character would be difficult, for I think there was never another quite like her.

"She was better looking than the average woman, but took no pride in it. She was happiest when she could pass for a man. She was fond of sports, racing and hunting, and was always foremost at a jollification. In quiet times she was to be found about Deadwood, either attending a rough miners' dance or joking with a crowd of men in the saloons. Very boisterous in her ways, she was one of the kindest hearted of persons, ready to share her last dollar with any one needing assistance.

"Whenever excitement was manifest Calamity Jane was to be found at the front. Whether it was an alarm of Indians or the lynching of a desperado she never failed to be present. On such occasions she always wore a man's suit of well made, neatly fitting buckskin and a broad brimmed hat, and she always rode a fine horse.

"Thus apparelled, with her long, glossy black hair tossing about with every motion of the animal, she was a striking figure. She would generally take the lead, would arrange the details of an execution and afterward superintend the funeral.

"Men would follow her into any danger. She could handle a rifle, revolver or knife with the skill of an expert, rode a vicious mustang and seemed utterly without the sense of fear. In short, she was a woman only in sex; a man in mind, heart, muscle and courage."

This calamitous person, by some accounts, was married three times, but the name of only one of her husbands, Burk, has survived. Little is known of him—a fact which the historian has lamented, since the man who could win her love would afford an object of interest. Matrimony, however, was a very trivial matter with Calamity Jane, and she never allowed it to interfere with her love of adventure.

"Wild Bill" Hickok's Career.

Probably the only man she ever really admired and looked up to was "Wild Bill" Hickok, the most notorious of Western "gun fighters." By all accounts "Wild Bill" was a man to inspire admiration in any one who could appreciate an honorable character and a tremendous fighter. All who knew him, including Bartlett, Colonel Cody and writers who were in the Black Hills when he flourished, bear testimony to his honesty and kindliness, while his record for courage is unequalled in the history of the border.

His first great exploit needed the full confirmation it received to appear credible, so extravagantly melodramatic and sensational, so like a delirium of Dumas, were its details. In single combat, armed with shotgun, revolvers and bowie knife, he killed outright eight members of the "Jake" McCandles band of outlaws who had attacked him, and mortally wounded the ninth. A stage full of passengers which drove up just after the fight furnished the witnesses, who certainly were necessary to establish such an affair on a basis of truth.

The country rang with the prowess of "Wild Bill," and from that time on the sole ambition of every "bad man" in the West was to kill him. There was no surer avenue to immediate fame than that offered by the murder of the great "gun fighter." As a result "Wild Bill," who always protested that he was the most peaceable of men and that he only desired to be left alone, had to earn the right to live day by day by frustrating the ambitious. He was shot at from ambush, in the street, in his home, while drinking, eating and card playing. Possibly there never was another man so quick on the trigger as he learned to be, and the notches on his gun numbered more than forty, each representing a fight that was forced upon him.

Such a man as this was the one to capture the masculine imagination and the remaining feminine susceptibilities of Calamity Jane. She worshipped him as the type of all she had striven to be, and even her iron nerves fluttered when he gave her a pleasant word. In the end she was able to render him the kind of service she could have wished.

A little coward hight "Jack" McCall brought the death of the man that so many more daring assassins had failed to kill. "Wild Bill" had cleaned out McCall at poker in a Deadwood gambling hall and the loser demanded his money back, declaring that Hickok could well afford to return it. "Wild Bill" answered that he would be glad to give him any reasonable sum he might need, but refused to turn over what he had fairly won.

"Wild Bill" was sitting, as was his custom, with his back against the rear wall of the room, where he could keep a watchful eye upon the crowd. There was a door in this wall which was supposed to be nailed up. McCall left the place and went around to the rear, where he was able in some way to open the door. Unseen, he shot "Wild Bill" in the back, killing him.

McCall was captured, but in the confusion and excitement contrary counsels prevailed and he was able to beg off from the proposed necktie party. After tearful pleadings he was released, with the understanding that he would never come back to the Black Hills. Border ethics had not yet wholly accepted homicide as a serious offence, and McCall profited for the time being.

But if the citizens of Deadwood were willing to see the murderer go unpunished there was a citizen who had different views. The wrath of Calamity Jane knew no bounds when the news reached her, and she gave thanks that she was what she was, since she needed no assistant for the task of avenging "Wild Bill." She went on the trail of McCall then and there.

Perhaps McCall might have got away if he had been able to hold his tongue. But, once in Cheyenne, he could not resist the temptation to brag of having put "Wild Bill" under the sod. Calamity Jane followed him and ran him down easily, for he had left much gossip in his wake. At her hint the Wyoming authorities arrested him. The territorial officials of Dakota had him extradited, and he was promptly tried, condemned and properly hanged, to the intense satisfaction of Calamity Jane and all other friends of his victim.

With the approach of Eastern civilization, as spread by the railroad, the boiled shirt and the master bonnet, Calamity Jane found Deadwood distasteful. She retreated Westward, clinging to the rough life of the dwindling frontier and seeking scenes unspoiled by gentler influences. She made money and spent it, lived hard, sought the society she knew and remained the free, half savage, wholly untrammelled individual she had always been.

But as the tide of immigration pushed persistently in and even the remoter parts of the Black Hills settled down to reasonably peaceful and humdrum existence there was no place for Calamity Jane. Men no longer looked for a leader for an Indian onslaught or a lynching bee. There were other women in the country now and they frowned upon Calamity, called her a scandal and a shameless hussy, to dress like a man and wear a revolver. Nobody wanted a woman as a teamster or a scout. She had ceased to be a natural phenomenon of pioneer days and had become a curiosity, not wholly respectable and the kind that John had better not be seen talking to or his wife will do a little scalping herself.

Poor Calamity! For one who had been the heroine of hills and plains, who had done things, who had asserted and upheld her ability in making a place for this same civilization, she came at the end to a miserable anti-climax, selling photographs of herself to keep from starving. At times she disappeared, to show up again a year or so later at some town where she might reasonably have expected a welcome, worn, unhappy, unreconciled, friendless. Once, like a glimmer of summer lightning across a chilling sky, she showed a flash of her old spirit.

She entered a saloon in Oakes, N. D., of a winter night in search of warmth and company. Some cowboys began to mock at her, this woman who had faced death a score of times, who alone had dared to nurse an abandoned smallpox patient in the early days of Deadwood, who had fought on stricken battle fields, who had proved her feminine worth and her masculine courage and who was more of a man than any of them. She waited until the foremost said something particularly humorous and punctuated the remark for him by planting a bullet half an inch in front of his toes.

"Dance for the gents since you feel so gay," said Calamity Jane.

And he danced. Oh yes, he danced. For Calamity Jane, in spite of her fifty years, her gray hair and her misfortunes, could have made him into something closely resembling a colander in three shakes, and he knew it. So, once more, she made the man yield to her as an equal what he would have withheld from her as the weaker vessel.

She died in Terry, S. D., in August, 1903. A simple stone marks her resting place near the more elaborate monument of "Wild Bill" at Deadwood, to the envy she would have wished.

There Was a Steadiness in the Drop as Held Upon Him That Gave Warning of the Utter Imbecility of Such a Move.

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

Ascended Up on High Where He Was Before

What Jesus' Ascension Implied For Himself and for the World.

Baltimore, Md., May 21.—Pastor Russell of the Brooklyn Tabernacle preached here twice to-day to large and attentive audiences. We report one of his discourses from the text, "When He ascended upon high He led a multitude of captives" (Ephesians iv, 8-10).

In this week occurs the anniversary of Jesus' ascension. In one sense of the word our Lord ascended (that is, from human nature and the tomb, to the divine nature and immortality) at the time of His resurrection from the dead. He tarried, however, for forty days, with the Apostles for their establishment and instruction—He on the spirit plane, invisible to them, except when he manifested Himself by appearing miraculously in various forms to convince them that He was no longer deceased, and also that He was no longer confined to human conditions — that His resurrection had made Him again a spirit being on the higher plane, where He was before He took human nature for the suffering of death, for the redemption of humanity.

Not alone by His words, but also by His conduct, our Lord taught His followers. They had not as yet been begotten of the Holy Spirit, and hence could not understand or appreciate spiritual things. They could therefore receive instruction only along natural lines. Jesus was raised from the dead a spirit being, far above angels, principalities and powers. Had He then gone directly to the Father without manifesting Himself to His disciples, they would never have been able to understand the truth of the matter.

Hence their lessons were given them largely in pantomime, corroborated by the Master's words, explaining that it was necessary that Messiah should die in order that He might redeem the world, and that it was also necessary that He ascend up on high and reenter upon the spiritual plane of existence, which He had before He came into the world — in order that from that higher plane of being He might be the more capable of filling the great Office of Prophet, Priest, Mediator and King of the world.

Not only, therefore, did Jesus manifest Himself during the forty days, some seven times, for a few moments each time, in various forms, but finally, at the conclusion of the forty days, He ascended in full view of His disciples. This was one way of telling them of His ascension, that He had gone to the Father, that they need not expect to see Him again as formerly.

We are not, however, to suppose for a moment that Jesus ascended a fleshly or human being; we remember, on the contrary, that "flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God," and that "He was put to death in the flesh but quickened in the spirit," and that thenceforth, as the Apostle declares, "The Lord is that Spirit" (II. Corinthians iii., 17).

The Apostles were to bear witness to the resurrection of Jesus; but Judas having lost his place, and it having been given to St. Paul, it was proper that the latter, as well as the rest of the Apostles, should be able to bear witness to Jesus' resurrection. Recounting those who had seen the Lord after His resurrection, in some of the various manifestations, St. Paul says, "Last of all He was seen of me also, as one born before the time."

Jesus appeared to St. Paul in the glorious brightness of His Spirit Being, "shining above the brightness of the sun at noonday," as the Lord Jesus, whom they had known for years. How could they have been enabled to fully identify Him, in His many different appearances, with His former self—their Friend, their Teacher? But to Saul of Tarsus, the revealing in fiery light, above the noonday glare, was very appropriate. It convinced him, in a manner that no human appearance in the flesh could have equalled, that Jesus was no imposter. St. Paul's conversion was instantaneous. "Who art thou Lord?" he asked. "I am Jesus Whom thou persecutest"—still represented in My followers, of whom St. Stephen was one, who you murdered, and others of whom you have been hailing to prison.

It should not cause us to marvel that Jesus ascended as He declared, "up where He was before" (John vi, 62). It should not surprise us that the Heavenly Father gave Him back all the glory and honor which He had before He came into the world—with added glory. It should not surprise us therefore, that the Apostle declares that He ascended, in dignity and station, far above angels, principalities and powers, and every name that is named! (Ephesians i, 21.) On the contrary, it would be both equitable and God-like that the great Jehovah should highly honor His faithful, Only Begotten Son, the First and the Last, the Beginning and the Ending of the creation of God (Revelation xxii, 13). Could we for one moment suppose that our great Creator would allow His faithful Son, or any servant, to lay down life in Divine service, and to suffer loss as a consequence of His obedience? Is it not much more rational to believe, as the Scriptures declare, "Him hath God highly exalted" (Philippians ii, 9).

Pastor Russell called attention to the Apostle's phraseology in the context—that the Ascended One had previously descended, and that the ascending and descending were related as cause and effect. The One who ascended up on high completely filled the highest position in the great, Divine Government of the Universe as Head of principalities and powers, angels and men—next to the Father. Yet, the Apostle warns us that we must not identify the glorified One with the One Who, in obedience to the Father's will, humbled Himself to come down from the heavenly nature and glory to the earthly station where He, as a man, humbled Himself unto death, even unto the ignominious death of the cross.

The Apostle calls our attention to these two extremes—the extreme of humiliation and the extreme of exaltation, both accomplished in the Son of God, the Logos, The Christ.

If some of us at one time misunderstood the Scriptures and supposed that our Lord Jesus ascended to heaven in a physical condition, as a man, we entirely misunderstood the Scriptures—He Who was rich, as the Logos in glory, preserved His identity when He was made poor for our sins, made flesh, that He might be our Redeemer. Similarly, that Redeemer preserves His identity now that He has been made rich again—now that He has been received up to the Spirit Plane of glory, honor and immortality, the divine nature.

To suppose that Jesus went to heaven a man is to mistake the significance of His title, The Son of Man, which He maintains, as identifying Him with His great redemptive work—as one of His many titles. To suppose that Jesus is a human being in heaven would be to suppose that He is still as when in the flesh, "a little lower than the angels," whereas the Scriptures declare that He has ascended far higher, so that all the angels of God, as well as men, are commanded to worship Him. To suppose Jesus in heaven a human being would be to suppose Him out of all harmony with heavenly, spiritual conditions and surroundings.

Moreover, are we not told that the Church of Christ will be changed from the human to the spirit condition in the resurrection, and that this change will make the "elect of God" like their Redeemer, so that they may see Him as He is, not as He was—that they may see Him in glory, honor and immortality, exaltation, and not as the humiliated One, Who was made flesh that He might sacrifice His flesh on man's behalf? When we so thought we forgot the Scriptural declaration that "flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God," hence that all those called to be partakers of the divine nature and heavenly Kingdom with their Redeemer and Lord must be made like Him by the power of the First Resurrection.

The Pastor declared that he had found worldly wise people very skeptical respecting the descent of the Logos, the Son of God, to earthly conditions; but that Christians seem to have more difficulty than the world in comprehending the return, the ascension of Jesus to the spirit plane and its excellent glory. Both points, however, are important, necessary, as the Apostle declares in the context. Whoever is unable to see that the Logos, the glorious Son of the Highest, humbled Himself, divested Himself of the Spirit Nature and took instead human nature, cannot see that Jesus was sinless. And those who cannot recognize that He was holy, harmless, undefiled and separate from the sinner race (Hebrews vii, 26), cannot believe in the sacrifice of Jesus as being a Ransom-price for Adam, to effect his release and that of his race from condemnation.

Pastor Russell went into considerable detail respecting the manner by which the Logos was transferred from heavenly conditions to earthly conditions, and how His purity, His perfection of Organism, His freedom from sin was preserved, notwithstanding the fact that he was born of an earthly mother who was not free from the blemishes of Adam's race. He proffered his hearers, free upon application, a treatise entitled "The Undefiled One," which he believed showed scientifically the process used of God by which the Logos was changed from the higher to the human nature, yet preserved immaculate.

The error of supposing that Jesus is still a man signifies the denial of His word, that He would ascend up where He was before, and the denial of the Apostle's teaching that He has been highly exalted to glory and distinction, the divine nature, as instead of human nature. This error, the Pastor declared, had led to other errors, one of which he cited, namely, the error made by many Christian people of expecting the second coming of Jesus in the flesh—as a glorious man and not as a glorious Spirit, Partaker of the divine nature, and entirely disassociated from human nature.

Thinking of the Lord at His second advent as a glorified man, they associate Him with a material throne and an earthy court. This, in turn, leads other Christian people in an opposite direction. Realizing that such an earthly kingdom would be a step backward rather than a step forward, they deny the second coming of Messiah to establish the Kingdom so long promised.

The proper thought is that Jesus, in the flesh, accomplished the work which the Father had given Him to do, when He sacrificed His earthly life. The Father gloriously rewarded Him on the spirit plane. Now He is waiting for the gathering of His Church, His Bride, His Elect. These are to share in His resurrection to the divine nature and to sit with Him in His throne. Then the Kingdom of Messiah, so long promised, will begin to bless the world, using as its earthly representatives, visible to men, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and all the Ancient Worthies, mentioned in Hebrews xi, 32-40; through whom the blessing will extend to Natural Israel and to all the families of the earth (Acts iii, 19-21).

Our next, in a figurative way, resumes the ascension of Jesus from the earthly plane to the heavenly as the triumph of a great Conqueror. Sin had gained ascendency over Adam and his race, and had brought mankind low to the dust, mentally, morally and physically. Moreover, this victory over many had been gained in a legal manner—through one man's disobedience (Romans v, 12). The Logos divested Himself of His glory on the spirit plane, was made flesh, fulfilled the demands of the Law, proved Himself competent to pay the sinner's Ransom-price, and gave Himself a Ransom for all, "to be testified in due time" (I. Timothy ii, 6). Having finished His sacrificial work He was received again to the spirit nature with exceeding glory and to the right hand of the Majesty on high.

Thus the great Conquerer is seen returning to the heavenly state, acclaimed by the Heavenly Host; and following Him far down the centuries, the prophetic view saw first the Church, the "Royal Priesthood," "His brethren," "His Bride," delivered from the power of sin and death through the merit of His blood. And these were but the first corps of a following host; they were "a kind of first-fruits to God of His creatures," rescued from sin and from death (James i, 18; Revelation xiv, 4).

Later on, stretching down for a thousand years beyond the Church's deliverance, the prophetic pen foretells countless hosts of every nation people, kindred and tongue, to be delivered from the power of sin and death through the merit of Him Who died, "the Just for the unjust." Now the Saviour of the Church, His Bride, He will shortly be the Saviour of the world, its Great King, Great Teacher, Great Priest, Great Mediator.

Then will come the glorious consummation, when all who will have refused Divine grace shall have been destroyed in the Second Death—then shall be heard every creature in heaven and on earth and under the earth saying, "Glory to God in the Highest." Thenceforth there shall be no more crying nor dying, for all the former things of sin and death shall have passed away.

At our Lord's First Advent the "acceptable time" began—the time when God, having accepted the sacrifice of Christ Jesus, became willing through Him to accept the sacrifices of all who desire to become His disciples—to take up their cross and follow Him through evil report and good report even unto death. The entire Gospel Age antitypes Israel's Day of Atonement, and the sacrifices of our Lord and the Church, His Body, are the "better sacrifices," foreshadowed by bullock and the goat offered typically by the Jews (Hebrews ix, 19-23).

This is the acceptable year of the Lord which Jesus declared (Isaiah lxi, 2; Luke iv, 19). God's faithful people of this acceptable day are glad to be invited to "present their bodies living sacrifices, holy and acceptable unto God" (Romans xii, 1). In the end of this acceptable time will come the end of all opportunities to thus sacrifice the human nature and become joint-heirs with Christ and partakers of the heavenly nature.

Then will be introduced a new period styled, in the Scriptures, "Times (or years) of Restitution." The accepting of the High Calling by the Church [illegible] nineteen centuries. And we know how long the "Times of Restitution" will last—exactly a thousand years.

St. Peter tells us just when these "Restitution Times" will begin. They did not begin in his day. They have not begun yet. They will begin as a result of the Second Advent of Jesus, the Messiah, and the establishment of His Kingdom and righteousness. "Times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord and He shall send Jesus Christ, as before was preached unto you, whom the heavens must retain until the Times of Restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began. "For Moses verily said unto the fathers, A Prophet like unto me (of whom I am but a type or figure) shall the Lord your God raise up unto you from amongst your brethren. Him shall ye hear in all things whatsoever He shall speak unto you. And it shall come to pass that the soul that will not obey that Prophet shall be destroyed from amongst the people" (Acts iii, 19-23)—in the Second Death.

HEWING THE WAY TO PROSPERITY

J. Bousfield, Formerly of Peel County, Has Now a Thousand-Acre Farm in the West

J. Bousfield, of McGregor, Manitoba, was born on the farm of his father near Milton, Ontario, about 1860. The father died when the eldest of the family, the subject of this sketch, was fifteen years of age, and on the boy fell the responsibilities that attached to the making of a living for a mother and a family of smaller children on an Ontario farm in the seventies. He seems to have been fairly successful, but felt and responded to the lure of the West, arriving at what they call Dougine, Man., in the year 1881. A homestead was taken up three miles north of the station; four quarter-sections of C.P.R. land added and Mr. Bousfield proceeded in a pretty extensive way for those days to tear up the turf and put it into wheat.

About 1890 one of the quarter-sections was traded for a half interest in an elevator, and Mr. Bousfield went in to work the reform of the elevator system. The life proved too strenuous, and Mr. Bousfield turned his energies into a creamery. Before the first year was over he came to the conclusion that if that venture were to be made go, cream would have to be gathered from a larger area than it commonly came from in those days, so he set about going after more business, and was successful. For eight or nine years the creamery made from $10,000 to $20,000 worth of butter per year. Then came the slump in dairying and boom in grain growing that put most of the creameries in Manitoba out of business—Bousfield's as well as the rest. So he pulled his horses off the cream routes, having by this time not much else in the world in the way of capital, drove the bunch to his present farm, which is a few miles from Macgregor, and shaped ground for a fresh start. A year or two was spent selling farm implements and land, then for the second time he went in for farming on his own account.

This time Mr. Bousfield started with the conviction that stock-raising and grain growing combined was the only farming system to be permanently relied upon, and being right in the midst of a number of old-time breeders, had soon a foundation herd of Shorthorns. Since he has added Clydesdale horses and Yorkshire swine, having made some recent purchases in horses that promise well for the future of the stud. The farm has grown to an area of a section and a half, produces from 8,000 to 10,000 bushels of grain a year, about 200 tons of hay, besides pasture for over 100 head of cattle and horses.—Farmers' Advocate.

THE GALLOWS CHEATED

Some Remarkable Reprieves in the Annals of Crime in Britain—Strange Reasons

More than one murderer has owed his escape from the gallows to the simple fact that it was a physical impossibility to hang him. Some years ago, for example, a prison surgeon in England discovered that a man under sentence of death had a peculiarly malformed throat, making it almost a certainty that any attempt to hang him would prove a failure. He reported the facts of the case to the Home Office, and a reprieve was granted at the last moment on the doctor's report. Prior to the surgeon's examination the Home Secretary had refused to interfere with the sentence.

A similar case was that of an Englishman who had murdered a woman some years ago. This man's spinal column for some inches below the base of the skull was found to consist practically of gristle instead of bone. If he had been hanged his head would have been torn clean away from his body, the horrible idea of which was enough to save the man from the gallows. His sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life, in this instance it being intimated that it was for actual life and not for the usual twenty years after his reprieve.

Charlotte Winsor, the notorious child murderess, was reprieved for an extraordinary reason. It was discovered after she had been condemned that the whole of her trial was illegal on account of a series of omissions in the indictment against her. For a year she lay under sentence of death before the reprieve was finally granted.

But perhaps the most famous case of all in the Old Country was that of John Lee. He killed his mistress, Miss Keyse, at Babbacombe, near Torquay, in 1885. Three times he was placed on the gallows, and each time the drop failed to act. In consideration of the terrible mental strain that the convict must have suffered the Home Secretary commuted the death sentence to imprisonment for life.

Jessie McIntosh, who murdered Jessie McPherson in Glasgow, escaped hanging in a curious way. When she was condemned petitions poured in on her behalf. A tract by a clergyman entitled "A Plea for Jessie McIntosh" actually went through thirteen editions. So great was the public outcry that the Home Secretary hesitated before signing the fatal document ordering her execution. The day was postponed when she should have been hanged, and a secret inquiry ordered. This inquiry was held in Glasgow, and what took place at it was never made public. But the end of it all was that the Home Secretary exercised his prerogative of mercy, and the gallows was cheated of another victim.

SHOT A PRISON INSPECTOR

After Firing Five Shots in a Theatre a Girl Escaped

Details have been received of the shooting of M. Efimoff, prison inspector at Vologda, Russia, where political prisoners were severely flogged. The curtain of the local theatre was being lowered when a girl in the stalls fired five revolver shots at M. Efimoff, an officer and a lady sitting in front were also wounded. Profiting by the panic, the girl, who was dressed in black, escaped into the street by an emergency exit, explaining her flight by crying "The theatre is on fire!" She has not yet been arrested, though the theatre was full of police and detectives were guarding M. Efimoff. She had gone to Vologda from St. Petersburg.

But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it is not to be wondered they get out of order.
Weak back is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney trouble.
Mrs. N. Larmour, Smith's Falls, Ont., writes:—"I take pleasure in writing you stating the benefit I have received by using Doan's Kidney Pills. About a year ago I was terribly afflicted with lame back and was so bad I could not even sweep my own floor. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, which I did, and with the greatest benefit. I only used three boxes and I am as well as ever. I highly recommend these pills to any sufferer from lame back or kidney trouble."

HUGE RESERVOIR FOR OLD LONDON

One That Will Hold a Thousand Million Gallons Has Been Constructed

London will shortly come into the possession of another large reservoir holding a thousand million gallons of water, and covering 120 acres. This new artifical lake, which will be opened in the summer, is situated in Surrey, about twelve miles from the city. It will be one of the largest reservoirs constructed in Europe, and has taken nearly three years to complete. The actual work of building the reservoir has cost about $760,000, the engines, pumps and turbines about $250,000. The connecting river between the Thames and the pumping station, which is a quarter of a mile long, twenty-two feet wide, and eight feet deep, cost, with the pumping station, just about $350,000. Modern methods of building open reservoirs of this character prescribed the laying of ten miles of railroad track on and around the site. Three steam shovels "bit" out a hundred and twenty acres of soil to the necessary depth, and with the aid of 1,200 men, shifted as much as 70,000 cubic yards of earth in a month. The sand and ballast taken out were used to make concrete slabs and blocks for the walls of the reservoir, and the London clay was utilized to make a solid foundation for the embankment, which is over a mile in length. A million cubic yards of earth, sand, ballast and clay were taken out by the steam shovels. With the exception of the concrete lining the inner slope of the embankment wall, the work is ended. This lining will, however, be completed very shortly and the great reservoir will be filled and ready for use.

HIS LIFE STORY A ROMANTIC ONE

The Prime Minister of New South Wales was Born on a British Sailing Ship

The Prime Minister of New South Wales, the Hon. James Sinclair McGowen, has arrived in London to attend the Coronation ceremonies. Mr. McGowen's life story is a peculiarly romantic one. He was born somewhere in the Pacific. It was in the days of sailing ships, and the Western Bride lay becalmed. But in the hour of the future Premier's birth a breeze sprang up, and in three weeks the ship had arrived at her destination. The babe was hailed by the crew as an omen of good fortune, and christened after the captain, whose name was Sinclair. "Captain Sinclair prophesied that I should have a fair wind all my life," Mr. McGowen adds, laughingly. Mr. McGowen's birth was registered at Stepney, as he was born at sea under the British Flag in a ship belonging to the Port of London. Here comes a strange coincidence: Mr. McGowen was never out of Australia till he left for the Coronation, and the taking of the census coincided with his voyage. While on the high seas his name was counted among British-born citizens, and once more the fact was recorded at Stepney. The Premier of New South Wales is a big, rugged man, who has followed his father's trade of a boilermaker. He has been a member of the New South Wales Parliament for over twenty years.

NEARLY DIED OF STONE IN THE BLADDER

GIN PILLS SAVED HIM

513 James St., Hamilton, Ont.

"Five years ago, I was taken down with what the doctors called Inflammation of The Bladder—intense pains in back and loins, and difficulty in urinating, and the attacks, which became more frequent, amounted to unbearable agony. I became so weak that I could not walk across the floor.

My wife read in the papers about GIN PILLS and sent for a box. From the very first, I felt that GIN PILLS were doing me good. The pain was relieved at once and the attacks were less frequent.

In six weeks, the Stone in the Bladder came away. When I recall how I suffered and how now I am healthy and able to work, I cannot express myself strongly enough when I speak of what GIN PILLS have done for me." John Herman. 46

GIN PILLS are sold at 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Sent on receipt of price if your dealer does not handle them. Sample box free if you write us, mentioning this paper. Money back, if GIN PILLS do not give full satisfaction. National Drug and Chemical Co., Dept. B., Toronto.

MOUJIK WEDDING FEAST

Peasants Give Themselves Up to the Enjoyments of the Occasion

When the day's work is done the Russian moujik's recreations are of the simplest. Perhaps he dances, or plays the concertina, or sings some melancholy air. But when a wedding has to be celebrated, and the priest has duly united the couple, the peasants give themselves up to the enjoyments of the occasion.

The writer well remembers peeping into the brightly-lit rooms of a tiny two-roomed log-cabin where such a revel was in progress. The evening was a hot one. In one room, so small that only four couples could with difficulty wheel about, dancing was in progress. The perspiring couples had made up their minds to enjoy themselves. There was a kind of determined-to-see-it-through look on their faces, and evidently they had great staying powers (says a writer in Chambers' Journal"). In the same room, closely packed and lining the walls, were onlookers waiting till a couple should drop out to take their place in the dance.

The second apartment was laid out with refreshments. A side-table groaned with all kinds of dishes dear to the peasant palate. One knife, one table napkin, one fork, did service for the party; but some scorned even these aids, and picked up here a sardine, there a hunch of melon, or tore at a hard sausage.

One tall man was pointed out as the stationmaster of a tiny wayside station near by. He was conspicuous as being better groomed and less savage in appearance than his fellows, and one heard afterwards that the seductive charms of a wedding feast made him forget on that evening his duty as signalman. A freight train waits two hours before a signal at danger, and then—for the signalman is quaffing vodka and dancing at the wedding—the train proceeds. The driver reports at the next town.

Result: Two months afterwards the stationmaster, for neglect of duty in his capacity of signalman, is degraded to a charge at a smaller station.

Japanese Workman Has Carved Greatest Piece of Wood in the World

One of the most marvellous workmen in the world is Hananuma Masakichi, of Tokio, Japan, who has carved a figure in wood so like himself that when the two are placed side by side it is said to be almost impossible to tell which lives and breathes and which does not.

By several connoisseurs in art this wooden figure has been pronounced the most perfect and human image of man ever made. Masakichi has faithfully reproduced every scar, vein and wrinkle to be seen on his own body. The figure is composed of 2,000 pieces of wood, dovetailed and jointed with such wonderful skill that no seams can be detected.

Tiny holes were drilled for the reception of hairs, and the wooden figure has glass eyes and eyelashes in which no dissimilarity to Masakichi's own can be detected.

The Japanese artist posed between two mirrors while modelling this figure, and for some time after its completion he posed frequently beside it to the confusion of spectators, who were often entirely at a loss as to which was the artist. The figure stands with a little mask in one hand and an instrument for carving in the other; the life-like eyes are apparently gazing at the mask, and the face wears a look of intense absorption.

CURT K. OF K.

From what I have seen of Kitchener I am not at all surprised that there is little anxiety for his company at the War Office. He detests circumlocution, and his criticism is apt to be rather withering. Personally, he cares nothing for what is said of him

I know a man on the staff of a paper which criticised him rather outspokenly not long ago who called upon him and asked for a rejoinder.

"Sir," said K. of K., fixing him with a glassy stare, "your editor has said that I'm a fool. My opinion on any subject cannot, therefore, interest anybody, and he must be a pretty sort of ass to think it will. Good-day to you!"

Before he could collect his wits for a reply, my friend, who is himself a keen Territorial, found himself gently but firmly piloted to the door.

"Whew!" he ejaculated, as the front door slammed behind him. "I shouldn't like to be in his regiment!"

GREAT FIND

How John D. Rockefeller Struck Something Not Oil

Mr. John D. Rockefeller's servant once unconsciously played a good trick upon him. The great man had acquired some oil-wells, and his agent had sent him a sample of the product of the first forcing in a bottle. Rockefeller was in a hurry to go out when it arrived, and gave it to one of his men to deliver to the analyst with a note he scrawled.

Now the servant was also in a hurry. He set out to visit his wife, and took letter and bottle with him. Later in the evening he saw what he thought was the bottle on the sideboard, and with a guilty conscience hurriedly took it out to deliver it.

Judge of Rockefeller's amazement when, in the morning, he received the following telegram:—

"Yours is the first find of the century! You've struck paregoric!"

A TREE OF KNOWLEDGE

The Bible contains 3,566,493 letters, 810,697 words, 31,175 verses, 1,189 chapters and 66 books. The longest chapter is the 119th Psalm; the shortest and middle chapter the 117th Psalm. The middle verse is the 8th of the 118th Psalm. The longest name is in the 8th chapter of Isaiah. The word "and" occurs 46,627 times; the word "Lord" occurs 1,855 times. The 37th chapter of Isaiah and the 19th chapter of the second Book of Kings are alike. The longest verse is the 9th of the 8th chapter of Esther; the shortest verse is the 35th of the 11th chapter of John. In the 1st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra is the alphabet. The finest piece of reading was in the 26th chapter of Acts. The name of God is not mentioned in the Book of Esther.

It contains knowledge, wisdom, holiness and love.

ARE MEN THE WEAKER SEX?

An English college professor expresses the conviction that women are gaining the muscular supremacy over the men. He attributes this to their taking a more active interest in outdoor sports, while the men are becoming indolent in that respect, and prefer being spectators to participants in athletic exercises. With their admitted superiority in all the arts and graces, including fluency of expression, and to add to this physical predominance, there seems to be little left for mere man but to plod unostentatiously along in the ranks of the producers, and continue to pass up his gross earnings to his mental and physical superior every Saturday.

In Paris, during 1910, 30,955 marriages took place, while 1,926 divorces were granted.

VETERAN ENGINEER DEAD

Oldest Engineer in Service of G. T. R. is Dead in Montreal

MONTREAL, MAY 25.—Mr. Michael Fennell, the oldest engineer on the Grand Trunk Railway System, passed away to-night at his home in Point St. Charles at the age of 79. He was an engineer before the Grand Trunk was built, and for over fifty years has been employed by that company. Mr. Fennel had driven engines on twelve sections of the Grand Trunk system and had never had an accident. He was known as far west as Sarnia, Stratford and Fort Erie, and as far east as Island Pond, Rouse's Point and Messena Springs. He had the honour of driving the engine which first brought King Edward, then Prince of Wales, into Montreal.

He leaves three daughters, two in Montreal and one in Winnipeg.

NO INDICATION OF GENERAL ELECTION

Special to The Examiner.

OTTAWA, MAY 26.—There is no more indication of a general election now than there was prior to the agreement, which resulted in parliamentary recess. The situation has not altered in any way since the departure of Sir Wilfrid Laurier for England. Associations in certain newspapers say that Opposition leaders have received positive assurance that there will be an early election, but this must be taken cum grano salis. In the first place no Government ever gives opponents a tip of that, and in the second place, no such assurances are possible because they cannot be given by any one save the Premier, who alone has the say.

VEDRINE WINS THE GREAT AEROPLANE RACE

Arrives at Madrid Completely Exhausted After Covering Six Hundred Miles in Four Days---Feat Regarded as the Greatest in the History of Aerial Navigation.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MADRID, MAY 26.—After a chapter of accidents, starting with the killing of War Minister Berteaux of France, Pierre Vedrine of France, arrived at eight o'clock this morning, being the first to finish in the Paris to Madrid aeroplane race. Vedrine w ascompletely exhausted and dropp ed ina faint when his airship was safely moored. Spanish people are wild in their demonstration. He is now in an infirmary, under medical care. He wins prizes aggregating $30,000. The feat is regarded as the greatest yet in aerial navigation. Two other contestants were lost in the mountains and search parties are out. The total disance is six hundred miles. Vedrine's time was four days, including stops for fuel and repairs.

EARLY AND BRISK OPENING TRENT CANAL NAVIGATION

Not only is plant growth, this spring, brisk and early, but canal navigation seems to be "in the same boat." The freight traffic of the Trent Canal promises, by its beginning, to be the most important in the history of these waters. This morning the steamer "Stoney Lake" of the Stoney Lake Navigation Company's fleet, cleared for the north with what is claimed the biggest cargo of freight ever carried northward by canal; and, as a consequence, the smile of Mr. Manager F. G. Young, is broad and hopeful.

The manifest of the Stoney Lake this morning bore the following record: 7,000 feet lumber, 12,000 shingles, 11,250 lbs. of brick, 800 lbs. lime, 3 1-2 tons freight; (Stock) 1 ton, coal (Darcy), 2 tons beer, 3 tons flour and feed, 2 tons freight for Julien's Landing (Reed). This will be a great summer for freight if the pace set at the beginning is kept up.

TURBINE PUMP AT WATERWORKS PLANT WILL BE REMOVED

The Water Commissioners met last evening to discuss the matter of whether they should have the Turbine pump at the water works plant removed. All the Commissioners were present, and Mr. T. F. Matthews presided.

After a great deal of discussion the following action was taken:

The letter was read from Wm. Kennedy, jr., regarding the pump furnished by the John McDougal Caledonian Iron Works Co., L'td., of Montreal.

It was moved by Mr. W. H. Moore and seconded by Wm. Hill, that a reply be sent to Mr. Kennedy, that the Commissioners approve of his action, in the report he made to the John McDougal Caledonian Iron Works Co., L'td., Montreal, upon the pump put in by that Company, and ask him to be good enough to inform the Company that the Commissioners will not take any action to interfere with what he had done in the matter, and that he be also requested to see that the Company acts on his order, at as early a date as he would consider reasonable and that the Commissioners think that by July 1 would be ample time, although they would leave that with him, and also that the John McDougal Caledonian Iron Works Co., L'td., be informed that Mr. Kennedy has been communicated with, and that they will hear from him. —Carried.

Moved by Mr. Moore, seconded by Mr. Hill, that the Collector be instructed to amend the account sent to the Lundav Shovel and Tool Co., for setting a meter by striking out the item of $1.50.

Brockville has much to offer the visitors in the way of attractive scenery, pleasure trips, etc. The 57th will leave Peterborough on the evening of the 30th of June and will spend Saturday, July 1 and Sunday, July 2 in Brockville, returning early Monday morning.

IMPORTANT EVIDENCE IN THE FARMERS' BANK CASE

Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, MAY 26.—The most startling feature this morning at the trial of Colonel Munro, the late President of the defunct Farmers' Bank was the production of a letter from Munro to W. R. Travers, then manager, in which he enclosed two letters, received from members of parliament, names not given, and calling attention to many rumours floating about regarding the stability of the bank, and suggesting that something should be done to allay the fears of the shareholders. The concluding paragraph of the letter said: "I think it would be well to have Dr. W. B. N. pay his indebtedness to the bank, as so many people seem to know of it, and claim he is worth nil. Travers was called as a witness and said the advances were made by him for the Keeley mine without the knowledge of President Munro. Travers said that only one statement had been signed by the President in blank, that was in July, 1910. Fred W. Stair, a shareholder in the bank, said he saw Col. Munro about the ugly rumours he had heard regarding the bank's interest in the Kelsey mine. Munro told him not to worry that the bank was amply secured.

TWO MEN KILLED IN FIGHT OVER CIGARETTES

Fatal Affray in a Boston Cigar Store Results in the Death of Two People---Dispute Over Paying Caused Trouble ---Storekeeper Claims He Shot in Self-Defence.

Special to The Examiner

BOSTON, MAY 25.—Arthur L. Boardman, 50, of 515 Main street, Charlestown, is held by the police, charged with the murder yesterday noon of Arthur A. Munroe, 25, 6 Bishop Place, Somerville, and John Murray, 16, of 527 Medford street, Charlestown.

A dispute over paying for a box of cigarettes is said to have been the cause of Boardman, who keeps a cigar store, shooting the two young men. The slayer claims, however, that he was the victim of a hold-up, and that he shot to defend his property, and repel an assault from Munroe. Last night it was reported that he refused to employ counsel.

It was shortly before noon that the neighbourhood was startled by two quickly-fired shots. Then a man staggered from the little shop and boarded a car, soon falling off, however, while another man dashed into a nearby saloon, ordered a drink and then fell dying to the floor.

Almost at once a great crowd collected about the place where the tragedy occurred. But Boardman seemed cool and collected as he walked to the door of his shop, the still smoking automatic pistol in his hand and surrendered himself to an officer.

After having been taken to the City Square station Boardman told the police that he had known Munroe for some time, that he had frequently noticed that he had been drinking, and that when this was so he and others tried to "pester" him.

He says that Munroe purchased a five-cent package of cigarettes, and, after paying for them, demanded another package. He said that Munroe ordered him to "hurry up" and threatened to take the cash register unless he did so.

"I wasn't worrying about that, for the cash register was nailed down," says Boardman, "but suddenly he cried, "I'll come over the counter and get you,' and made a dash in my direction. I realized that I was no match for him, for he was young and strong, so I reached down behind the counter and pulled my revolver out. He had struck at me once before and as he struck again I fired two shots. He turned and ran and so did the other fellow."

Boardman is about 50 years old.

Munroe leaves a wife and one small child. He was in the navy four years, and since February has been working for the Elevated.

After Murray had been taken to the Relief Hospital in an automobile, word was sent to his mother, Mrs. Mary Murray, but she arrived too late to see her son alive.

TROUBLES OF AVIATORS IN PARIS TO MADRID RACE ONE IS ATTACKED BY EAGLE

Special to The Examiner:

SAN SEBASTIEN, MAY 25.—Attacked by a giant eagle while sailing along the last leg of his flight in the Paris-Madrid aeroplane race, M. Gibert was in grave danger for several minutes to-day.

The big bird swooped down on the aviator, apparently believing that the Bleriot monoplane was some fantastic sort of winged creature which threatened his supremacy as king of the air.

Lunged at His Head.

It landed on the front of the monoplane, and, after reconnoitring for several seconds, finally lunged directly at Gilbert's head. As its claws struck the metal head-piece which he was wearing, the bird fluttered upward and then swooped again. This time it missed the aviator and only cleared the propeller by a few inches.

The swish of the air currents stirred up by the wind from the propeller blades further enraged the bird, and with a shrill scream it pursued the monoplane and made another swoop at Gilbert, trying to strike his eyes with its talons.

Shot at it With Revolver.

Realizing his peril should the eagle manage to strike him and make him lose control of the monoplane, Gibert managed to get his revolver out of the scabbard in which he was carrying it.

His first shot went wide, but the second entered the body of the bird and it fell earthwards.

Gibert lost control of his monoplane for a second, but by superhuman manipulation managed to get it on an even keel just as he seemed about to crash to earth, and then continued his flight unharmed.

However, he was compelled to alight shortly afterwards, having covered only sixty miles from this city. Gilbert, Pierre Vedrine and Roland Garros are the three left in the race for the prizes aggregating $30,000.

Treacherous Journey.

They had perfect weather when they started to-day, but because of the fact that forty of the 270 miles miles left to cover was over mountain ranges and ridges, where treacherous air currents were sure to be encountered, made all fearful of the result at the start.

Garros came down for the first time only eight miles from this city, because of motor trouble. Vedrine broke his machine with 150 miles left to go, but the latest report from him was that he was undertaking repairs. He leads on the initial stages of the journey.

To-Day's Developments In The Stock Markets Examiner's Daily Letter

NEW YORK, N.Y., MARCH 26.—The manner in which the market acted all through the first hour was a decided surprise to the speculative element. Stocks were in scantier supply than at any preceding time during the year and in some issues it was noted that deliveries were very slow. Room traders were among the most urgent buyers and helped an upward movement on which advances ranging from one to about three points were recorded. At the same time there was a resumption of investment buying of matured dividend payers.

Pittsburg, May 26.—A general meeting of steel manufacturers will be held in New York to discuss trade conditions.

The Nevada Cons. Copper Co. declared a regular quarterly dividend of 37 1-2 cents a share, payable June 30, for both.

New York, May 26.—Developments to this writing favour purchases of a conservative character during weakness in the stock market standard list of stocks. There may be more bearish operations but we think further depression will result in an over-sold condition. Fundamental conditions are slowly improving. We would buy the lower priced rails on reactions. Steel, Rg and Un Pac are bear targets, but may be bought with stop order protection when weak.

Consols unchanged at 81 5-16 for both.

C. P. R. for third week inc $339,000 from July 1st inc $8,049,749. Liverpool 1.30 p.m., wheat strong, 5-8 higher. Corn strong, 1-2 higher.

New York, May 26.—London irregular this morning. It is hardly likely that much activity will develop here since the news over night is rather devoid of feature, such as would affect prices. In Mexico, the abdication of Diaz seems to have helped the situation, though it remains to be seen if the insurgents can control the various followings, once the question of division of offices come to a head. The Oregon-Washington bonds have been heavily over subscribed, pointing to a good absorption of the gilt edge offerings incidental to the easy money. The U. S. S. Co., in meeting the cut on bars, is plainly determined not to allow the independents to obtain any advantage, and the possibilities favour a general revision all along the line. Such action would tend to facilitate business since the railroad and other buyers have been holding off in their purchases, because of the "high cost of living." Wall Street is hoping for an early adjournment of Congress. It is thought that the root amendment will pass the Senate, thus practically defeating the measure by making it unacceptable to Canada. The weather in the West is too dry, but there has been no material damage to the crops so far, despite the reports from biased circles. We look for irregularity for the present, but would buy on reactions for quick profits.

NARROW ESCAPE

Home of Mr. Felix Lynch in Otonabee Destroyed by Fire This Morning

ORIGIN A MYSTERY

A fire which broke out in the home of Mr. Felix Lynch, in Otonabee just across the Locks bridge this morning at 3 o'clock, totally destroyed the house and contents and the occupants had a very narrow escape, getting out partially dressed. The origin of the fire is a complete mystery to Mr. Lynch, who is completely at a loss to account for the blaze.

"I was awakened by the roaring of the flames," remarked Mr. Lynch to the Examiner to-day, "and when I looked at the window I saw the illumination through the blind. I thought it was lightning. However, I could hear the flames roaring and realized that something was wrong. I quickly awakened my wife and our three little children and we just had time to get out safely. We only saved what we had on our backs. The fire had got such a good start and spread so quickly that it was impossible to do anything to extinguish it or get out any of our property."

The building was owned by Mr. Lynch and with its contents was partially insured in the Law, Union and Crown Insurance Company.

The Examiner has to apologize to-day for the publishing in this issue of a number of reports of holiday sporting events that should have appeared yesterday, but that were crowded out through lack of space. Such accidents will happen once in a while, and no one regrets them more than the Examiner.

OTTAWA, MAY 26.—Sir Charles Moss, Chief Justice, has been appointed administrator of Ontario during the absence of Hon. J. M. Gibson.

A HOLIDAY YET NOT A HOLIDAY

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, MAY 26.—June 3rd, the King's birthday, was to-day declared a public holiday for the Dominion. It is probable it will be observed by the banks and law courts but it is thought that stores, factories and builders will not consider it a holiday.

Hilliard Lang Was Defeated

BUFFALO, N. Y., MAY 25.—Willie (Knockout) Brennan, the Buffalo welter, defeated Hilliard Lang, the Canadian champion, in their bout before the Magnolia Club. Brennan fought a fairly well-judged ten rounds and just about fought himself out by the time the last gong rang. He carried the battle to Lang continuously, hitting wildly and savagely from every angle, and while he wasted half his blows in the air, those which did land did terrible execution.

JUDGE BARRON'S REPORT

MONTREAL, MAY 16.—It is understood that the report of Judge Barron, covering some scores of cases where Grand Trunk Conductors filed complaints against the Company, has been handed to President Hays, but no details are given out, as to findings.

Special to The Examiner.

QUEBEC, MAY 26.—Bernard Babbidie Darract, whose elopement with his family's governess, caused a wide-spread sensation, embarked this afternoon on the C.P.R. Liner, Lake Manitoba, deported by the Government at the expense of the Company. Miss Benoit has not yet left for the other side, having appealed to the Minister of the Interior.

RATIONAL PARTY LOYALTY.

A subscriber in Mount Forest, in renewing his subscription to the Examiner, writes that he "is well pleased with the paper. Although a Conservative, I am with you on Tariff Reform • • • free trade with the United States is what I should like to see." Here is one man that is not carried away so far by his party feelings, as to ignore his own interests for the sake of joining in the partizan obstruction of some Conservative leaders. There is plenty of opportunities for the display of party loyalty and for waging a legitimate campaign to gain power, without urging the people on the process. The Liberal government is not perfect; and if all its opponents charge against it were justified, the Conservatives, according to their own contentions, have a good cause, a way of winning power without opposing for pure reasons of party—for the sake of opposition—a policy which they have advocated for the last fifty years—a policy self evidently in the interests of the great mass of the population. Party loyalty is possible, consistently with sound principle and due regard for the public interest.

THE CATERPILLAR PLAGUE.

We need the cry, "to arms" against the caterpillar pest, to be raised and heeded. Individual action is not enough; neither prompt nor thorough enough. Thousands of individuals cannot spare the time nor means to enter into the fight. It therefore becomes the duty of the bodies that represent the people—municipal councils—to undertake the work of destruction of the worms, which means the protection of the public. Not only in Peterborough, is the pest in existence, but it is worse in the country. In the city almost every tree has its swarming colony or colonies of worms, which after destroying the foliage, will roam round our houses and crawl on our persons. At the very idea of this personal visitation the fair bodies of our female population become one grand consolidated shudder. Our country highways, which at this season should be things of beauty with the lush green of the bordering shrubbery and small trees, is a crawling nightmare, or rather daymare, of devouring worms, which might be destroyed by seasoning their leaf diet with Paris green. The shrubbery on beautiful Stony Lake is alive with worms, and their presence, if not largely neutralized, will prevent early occupation and destroy the leafy beauty of the islands.

The township authorities as well as the city authorities, should act and act promptly. Every day lost is a big loss. One of the objects of the existence of municipal councils is to act for those they represent. Now is the time, now is the call to act.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If the Mayor wants to worm himself into popular favour, especially with the ladies, he wants to undertake a brisk crusade against the caterpillars.

As Canada is the "brightest gem in the king's crown, so is Sir Wilfrid Laurier the outstanding and outshining figures among his compeers, of the Dominions beyond the seas, at the Imperial conference.

Aerial war ships may be a destructive quantity in war, but so far they are most destructive to the lives of the operators. It is probable that one bird-man is killed for every hundred miles of successful flight.

One need not envy the feelings of two young men taking charge of two young girls on a boating expedition, who returned safe and left their charges drowned at the bottom of the Humber, or other river. But they may not feel badly if their consciences are as dead and honourable feeling as dull as their cowardice is evident.

There seems to be no limit to Canada's subjugation of geographical impediments to transportation. We are well on the way to having two water routes, and a promise of three, to connect Port Arthur and Fort William with Great Britain; and now we are contemplating putting a new navigation sorta in the heart of the Canadian continent. A canoe trip from Winnipeg to Edmonton is among the possiblities of the not-distant future.

The Right Hon. Louis Botha, prime minister of South Africa Union, speaking at the Imperial Conference, was grateful that he was able to declare that concord and harmony had replaced discord, war, tears and blood in South Africa. The provinces were united and working with their hearts, as well as their heads. They looked to the future with the greatest confidence. The first Parliament had shown that they were ripe for union. Thus is again demonstrated the wisdom of the generous British policy of trusting the people with self-government.

An interesting return brought down during the week showed the number of banks that have failed in Canada during the past 42 years, since Confederation. The number is 24, and the total loss to the public was something over $6,000,000. In all cases, except one or two in the early days, note-holders were paid in full. In only ten was there loss sustained by the public. From this it will be seen that the losses during 43 years were a shadow over one-half of one per cent. of the total liabilities to the public of the banks of Canada today.

The consolidation of the heart of the Empire with its far-flung outposts, is a splendid vision, but its realization does not seem to come within the range of practical politics. At the Imperial conference yesterday in London the proposal of Sir Joseph Ward, Premier of New Zealand, for the constitution of an Imperial Council, to represent the self-governing dominions, was voted down by a large majority. It seems to be regarded, that any measure that looks like the absorption of dominion autonomy, in a central body, would be hostile to individual initiative and spirit of enterprise and development.

EMPIRE DAY.

(The Globe)

"Empire Day" was first established by the Education Department of Ontario about twelve years ago. Its purpose was to draw the attention of the school population to the evolution of the political institutions of their country under which they live, and to connect these institutions historically with the British Empire, from which they emanated. The idea has found favour in all the provinces of the Dominion and has been taken up with great earnestness by Earl Meath in the United Kingdom, who has intimated that he expects the day will be celebrated this year by seven million children in the schools of the empire. Of this vast number we hope Canada will contribute her full quota.

"Empire Day," to serve its proper purpose, should be educational as well as patriotic. It should not be a solmen festival, but it should nevertheless be a thoughtful and instructive conservation of the basis of our liberties and the genuineness of our privileges, civil and political.

The British Empire has stood for ages as the exponent of the highest ideals of civilization, and to-day speaks for the liberties of one-fourth of the population of the globe. Nowhere in this vast empire should British ideals of government and human liberty be celebrated with greater enthusiasm than in Canada. "In our halls hangs the armour of ancient knights," who gave us responsible government, and the fullest privileges of citizenship we possess are the material elements of personal comfort and enjoyment.

AN EASY CHOICE.

(Manitoba Free Press)

The magnitude of the task which the Conservative members have set themselves of whipping into line their followers who desire reciprocity will begin to dawn on them when they get away from Ottawa and begin work along the side lines. Dr. Edwards, M. P. for Frontenac, recently had a taste of the dose that will be served up all over Canada to Conservative M. P.'s who represent rural seats. Dr. Edwards is one of the Conservative members who, it is believed, would have supported reciprocity had he been let alone, but under pressure from the party he came out in opposition ot the measure. Wolfe Island, in his constituency, is within a stone's throw of the United States boundary; and the inhabitants have their own ideas as ot whether reciprocity is or is not a good thing. A meeting was recently held on the island, at which Dr. Edwards, M.P., and Andrew Broder, M.P., attacked reciprocity, while D. D. Rogers, ex-M.P., defended it. At the close a resolution was carried unanimously approving reciprocity and censuring Dr. Edwards for his opposition to it. Dr. Edwards' failure ot convince his Conservative constituents will be duplicated in hunderds of places in Canada, particularly in the West. Conservative farmers who know that reciprocity will be good for them and for the country will have to choose between the fetish of party regularity and standing by their principles and their interests. The choice is an easy one.

A DIVIDED HOUSE.

(Montreal Herald)

"A self-governing, self-controlling, self-reliant Canada" is the ideal Mr. Doherty said at Alexandria the Opposition want to maintain, and which he claims acceptance of the reciprocal trade agreement will tend to destroy. Self-government, self-control, self-reliance, are ideals which appeal at least as strongly to Liberals as to those for whom Mr. Doherty speaks. But there are others besides Liberals who feel that none of the three is in any danger if the agreement shall go into affect. There are Conservatives like Mr. Monk and Conservatives like Mr. Haultain.

Mr. Monk has contended from the first that there is nothing derogatory to Canada's control of her own acts and her own destiny in the acceptance of the agreement. Mr. Haultain, who does not see eye to eye with Mr. Monk in all things, agrees with him in this, and has pledged the whole Conservative party of Saskatchewan to it. Had not the Opposition leaders better convince their own natural allies of the justice of their cause before they set about proclaiming themselves better Canadians than those Canadians who happen to be Liberals?

And where it is a question of self-reliance, surely no one who favours the agreement has anything to apologize for. Those who are afraid to allow themselves to trade with the Americans for fear their Canadian spirit might be sapped by it are not exactly models of self-reliance. The people who hold their heads high are those who stand ready to do business with all and sundry on fair terms, and who stand ready also, as the German surtax proved, to stop doing business just whenever the doing it has to be on terms inconsistent with the national self-respect. Canadians are not hot-house products. They can work in the open and take the wind from whatever quarter it comes. And these attempts to frighten them into believing that there is a desperate risk in selling more largely to people from whom we already buy most heavily are hardly in keeping with the appeal for self-reliance.

WHERE ANARCHY REIGNS.

(Toronto Star)

The Toronto World says that there will be a summer campaign for the Dominion House of Commons; but that as the constituencies will be re-distributed before a general election, it will be a campaign upon issues rather than upon men. This is doubtless a correct view, and the leading issue will be reciprocity. The disadvantage under which the inquiring elector labours is the extreme difficulty of holding the opponents of reciprocity to any one position. They hop from point to point with an agility which puzzles serious people.

Mr. Donald McMaster, K.C., a Canadian member of the British Parliament, denounced reciprocity in an address which has been published in pamphlet form, under the title "The Great Betrayal." In this he says that the concessions made by the United States in reducing or removing duties on certain of the natural products of Canada, as for example fish, wheat, and foodstuffs generally, "are concessions that they would have been bound to make in any case, bound from the necessities of their position by reason of the recklessness with which they exhausted their own natural resources, and the necessity for a larger food supply to support their vast and increasing population, now numbering ninety millions."

This was the objection first raised in Canada; namely, that the United States were drawing near to the end of their natural resources, and were now preparing to devour the substance of Canada. But that position has been completely reversed. The Mail and Empire says that "the great problem confronting the United States is that appertaining to the disposal of the surplus from its farms. That country produces millions and millions of dollars' worth more than it can consume." And the Mail and Empire goes on to argue that this surplus will be unloaded upon Canada, ruining the poor Canadian farmer.

What is the elector to make out of the Babel of tongues in which the opponents of reciprocity talk? At one time he is told that the United States is a devouring monster, which, having greedily eaten up its own share of food, is preparing to plunder ours. At another the United States is a horn of plenty, from which surplus food will pour out upon Canada. At one time reciprocity will make food too dear for the city consumer. At another time it will make food too cheap, glutting the farmers' market.

The weather is warm and likely to be warmer before the campaign is over. In mercy to the elector, who will be bombarded with arguments and appeals, could not the restrictionists agree upon the precise manner in which this country is to be ruined by reciprocity? "There is confusion worse than death."

COMFORT ON THE OCEAN.

(Mail and Empire)

A few days ago a vessel on the Atlantic Coast, with 300 passengers on board, collided with another ship, and was rapidly sinking when "wireless" came into play, and a distant passer-by was called to the rescue. The ship went down, but not a soul was lost. This is becoming a common story. Thus one of the terrors of the sea has been overcome. Wireless is the most notable of modern inventions. It places the ship and the passengers in communication with the shore from the hour of leaving port to the hour of arrival at the end of the journey.

Many large vessels now have their daily newspaper, and every ship on the ocean has its clock regulated from the Eiffel Tower at Paris daily, the time of day being that of Greenwich. Anyone who wishes to know where any vessel is at any particular hour can find out from the offices of the Wireless Company at any moment. With communication established with the ships on the ocean, little seems to be needed now in order to add to the comfort of the travellers. Yet the scientific minds are always planning, and something new is always being announced. One of the latest patents is a scheme to make rolling impossible. Hitherto bilge keels have been used for this purpose. These projections steady the ship and prevent the lurches that were common in the old days. The bilge keels are, however, to be superseded by a system of tanks that will support the vessel when there is a temptation to lean to one particular side. The rolling is not to be absolutely prevented by the new appliance, but it is to be very much reduced. It is interesting to note that still another advance is being made in the shape of a vessel with neither boilers nor funnels. It follows that such a vessel cannot derive its power from steam. The propellors, as a matter of fact, are to be operated by explosion engines, or by what is known as the gas engine. A vessel equipped with the gas engine will have less machinery to carry, and will therefore have more room for passengers and cargo. It is also believed that she will be able to make greater speed than the steam vessel can acquire.

The ocean trip is rapidly assuming a new phase. Engaging his room in a floating hotel, the traveller is in constant communication with his home while on the journey. He enjoys all the advantages of city life, including the daily paper, and if any thing happens the ship every vessel in the neighbourhood is called to its assistance. The old song which made the singer pity the land lubber with the "chimney pots" falling down upon him, and with all the dangers of life ashore continually threatening him, will soon lose the element of humour that was once observable in it.

The Hereditary Policy Of Britain In Governing The Land Of The Pharaohs

Sir Eldon Gorst's latest report on Egypt is an indication that the hereditary policy of Great Britain in the Land of the Nile will be adhered to, and that the present British Government does not contemplate any radical experiments in that quarter of the globe. The Kier Hardies and other English public men who argue from the major premise that the British have no business in Egypt, and that the sooner they evacuate the country the better for themselves and the Egyptians, have had no effect on Sir Edward Grey, who is the minister responsible for Egyptian affairs; although their influence upon the more Socialistic members of the Ministry has manifested itself in other directions. "What we have we'll hold" will continue to be the watchword in Egypt.

Not Fit for Government.

The Egyptians are not fit for self-government. Even such share as they are now permitted to take in the administration of the country is beyond their capacity, and Sir Eldon intimates that it would be wise to decrease rather than increase it. He says that the Legislative Council has done some useful work in the past year when non-contentious questions outside politics have been under consideration, but in the first half of 1910 both the Council and the Legislative Assembly "displayed a steadily increasing tendency to become mere instruments of the Nationalist agitation against the occupation." They kept demanding full constitutional government, while their conduct was a convincing demonstration of their unfitness for it. Their object was, according ot Sir Edward Grey, "to bring the English occupation to an end by making our task in Egypt impossible."

Some Good Work.

In the past few months there has been a slight abatement of this obstreperous spirit, and the Council has consented to transact some useful business. It has proceeded to reform the El-Azhar University, and the courts of the Mehkemehs and the Meglis Hasby, which are tribunals administering certain semi-religious matters in accordance with the jurisprudence of the Koran. For this sort of legislation intelligent natives ought to be better equipped than British experts, although the constant supervision of the latter is necessary ot see that a square deal is given. It must be said that where religious questions are concerned ordinary rules of fair treatment to opponents are forgotten, and there is probably no Moslem or semi-Moslem country in the world that would not count it for righteousness to abolish by sword or statute every right or privilege now enjoyed by a Christian minority.

Copt v. Moslem.

It is because of the dogma of British Government that one religion is about as good as another, that much of her Oriental difficulties have arisen. In Egypt to-day, for instance, there are some 10,000,000 Moslems and 700,000 Copts. The latter are Christians, although not much further advanced in civilization than the Mohammedans. At first they welcomed the British occupation, since it was a guarantee that they would not be persecuted by the Moslems. It gave them an opportunity to acquire wealth by trading, a faculty they possess quite as markedly as the Jews. They hoped, moreover, that as the British [illegible] Christians they would favour [illegible] Coptic fellow-Christians as [illegible] the heathenish Moslems. In this expectation they have been bitterly disappointed, and for years have denounced British rule as unjust. The rise of Boutros Pasha a Copt, to the Premiership, soothed them somewhat, and the brutal exultation of the Nationalists over his murder tended to check their sympathy with the Nationalist movement. Nevertheless, many of them have been most active in fomenting discord, and their keener intelligence makes them individually more troublesome than their Moslem fellow-countrymen.

A School Problem.

It is the Copts who are at the present time creating the chief problem of the administration of Egypt, and since the problem concerns religion and education, it was in it the elements of extreme bitterness. It appears that in the Kuttabs, or elementary vernacular schools, which were originally purely Mohammedan foundations, the Koran, which is the indispensable basis of an Arabic education, is the chief text-book. Its presence makes the schools obnoxious to the Copts, who do not hold the Koran in any respect, but, as the Kuttabs are the only elementary schools in the country, they send their children there. Now, they are demanding that their priests shall have the right to enter the schools and give religious instruction to the children, as an antidote to the Moslem virus introduced from the Koran. This demand has been refused, and the Government is occupied in finding a way to remove the grievance.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

I WANT to tell you something about a library which a friend of mine possesses.

It is not a large library—is contained, in fact, in three medium sized bookcases.

It is not a rich library. It has no rare editions or bibliomaniac's treasures.

And yet I consider it a rather unusual library.

In this way—no, I'll let my friend tell you about it himself.

"No, Miss Cameron, this isn't a very large library, but I'll tell you why I'm sort of proud of it. Every book behind those glass doors, except the encyclopedias and the book of quotations and the dictionary, has been read from cover to cover. Yes, Miss Cameron, I read every book thoroughly before I put it there. That's my rule. I don't buy my books by the yard and get my pleasure looking at the titles through the glass doors, the way some rich folks and some others that I know do.

"You see, except for the Shakespeares and the encyclopedias and the Emerson—I have to have all of him because he's my best book friend—I haven't a single set of books. I don't believe in sets. There's some people take a heap of satisfaction in saying, I've got a set of Kipling, and a set of Thackeray and a set of George Eliot, and a set of Stevenson.'

"Well, me—I've got what I like best of all of them, but I haven't got a set of a single one. You see, I haven't time to read everything that those topnotchers wrote, and so it seems to me that it's better to read the best of all of them than all of some and none of the rest. They can't any of them be at their best all the time, and why shouldn't I take the cream of each?

"And the same way with buying. I can't afford all the books of all the authors that I like. I can't afford all of Thackeray and all of Jane Austin, so it seems to me it's better instead of getting a set of Thackeray and letting Jane go altogether, or vice versa, to get 'Vanity Fair' and 'Pendennis' and 'The Virginians' of Thackeray's and 'Sense and Sensibility' and 'Pride and Prejudice' and 'Mansfield Park' of Jane Austin's, because those are my favourites.

"I might want to look up something in one of the other books, you say? Of course, I might, but if I do, I go to the public library. I haven't the means to build up a reference library, so I don't try to.

"How can I afford to have all the books I want? I can't. But I can afford to have all I need. Ever since I've had any salary at all I've put aside three dollars a month for books, and I can just about keep up with myself on that. Do you know what I mean? I can just buy all the solid reading I can manage in that month. See those three books on the table—there's Dickens' 'Nicholas Nickleby'—I haven't read anything of Dickens' for a long time—and a volume of Stevenson's letters and a new book about a method for increasing the efficiency o fthe workman. During the rush season of our business I got a little bit behind myself, and those books are awaiting for me to read them before they go onto my shelves.

"Yes, Miss Cameron, it isn't a very big library, but I certainly do have a sort of proud and friendly feeling for it which I think some of those folks that have the big ones don't."

PARK ST. BEAT KNOX IN CHURCH LEAGUE

The Park street team met Knox church on the former's grounds Wednesday and a clean game followed, resulting in a win for Park street by 3 goals to 2.

Park street won the toss and Knox kicked off with the wind and sun in their favour. Knox kept pressing for the first quarter of an hour, but at last Park street found their legs and kept the ball in Knox half, but nothing resulted in the first half hour till Elliot, Park street's centre, led the forward line and kept them pressing, and Knox goal keeper had some warm shots to save, especially one from Thorne, which was like a shot from a cannon, but the goal keeper put it over the bar. Knox then broke away and two corners resulted, but Marsh was there every time. On a free kick from goal by Marsh, Elliot received and ran well up and passed to Follis, who put in a lovely shot which the goal keeper failed to save. Park street 1, Knox 0. Mid-field play then resulted till the whistle blew for half time.

Park street kicked off and pressed nearly all the time. Marks and Biddle, half backs, both tried long shots, but both missed by inches. Knox then broke away, but was soon repelled by Park street's sturdy Marsh. Smith then took the ball up on the right and put in a lovely centre and Aitkens received and scored the second goal for Park street. Knox kicked off from the centre, but Park street were soon pressing again. Follis received from Elliott and tricked three of Knox's men and scored the third goal for Par kstreet. Knox kicked off again and pressed for a little while, but Collett relieved and Smith ran down and beat all but the goal keeper, who stopped a shot that would have beat almost any goal keeper. Watson received the ball from the goal kick and ran well up the field. The Park street back slipped in front of the goal and E. Hardie quickly sent in a shot—a splendid goal for Knox. With two minutes to go Watson ran up the field again and put in a shot from right wing, which beat the goalkeeper. Park street then went off in a dash the last minute and Elliot had the ball well up for a shot just as the whistle blew for time. Park street 3, Knox 2. Park street were very nicely balanced and with a team like they had yesterday, should hold their own with all the teams.

Following were the line-ups:

Park street— Goal, Laseby; backs, Cuddon, Marsh; half-backs, F. Collett, T. Marks, G. Biddle; forwards Thorne Aitkens, Elliot, Follis, Smith.

Knox— Goal, Dinnie; backs, Skinner, A. Hardie; half backs, Allan, Knight, Pearson; forwards, Sutherland, E. Hardie, Thomson, Watson, Robb.

Bowmanville's Easy Victory

The Bowmanville team had little more difficulty in beating Port Hope in a Midland League game Wednesday afternoon than had the Petes in heading off Cobourg. The score was 26 to 12, in favour of Bowmanville, who led throughout. The plate was swinging for Manager Henry Surphlis, the veteran pitcher of the ort Hope team and when he succeeded in getting them over the homesters pickled his offerings for fair. He was driven to the barn in the second and his successor was not any more successful in stopping the run-getting of the Bowmanville man. Dan. McCabe of Peterborough umpired the game. In the morning Bowmanville won an exhibition game from Port Hope by 7 to 5.

CAMPBELLFORD HIGH SCHOOL WON

The Peterborough Collegiate Institute team journeyed to Campbellford on the 24th and had an exciting game with the Campbellford High School team, the latter winning out in the ninth inning by 6 runs to 5. It was a snappy, well played game, featured by the sterling pitching of Stan Cresswell for the Peterborough Collegiate. The young South-paw fanned eighteen of the enemy and pitched a grand game. The umpiring was all to the bad, according to the Collegiate players. The line-up was as follows:

P. C. I.—Hayes c., Cresswel p., Dixon, 1b., Armstrong, 2b., Sheehy s., Tay 3b., Howden l.f., Stewart, c. f., Corkery r.f.

ALL SAINTS' TEAM WON FROM LEAGUE LEADERS

The following account of the St. James-All Saints' church League game has been received by the Examiner:

In a church League game on the Brinton Meadows on Wednesday morning, May 24th, the little All Saints' took the great big kickers called 'St. James' into camp by the score of 1 to 0. The score should have been about 5 to 0 if the blue and white had got everything that was coming to them from Mr. Belton, the referee. As one of St. James' best supporters said, it was one of the poorest handled games he has seen in Peterborough.

The St. James' forwards started out in nice order, but were soon stopped by All Saints' defence, who played the best game of the season. Shortly after the game started, Gash, St. James' fast forward was coming up the field and tried to mix things up with Dawson, the blue and white centre half, but got too much of the good things and went under the shade tree for half an hour.

All Saints started down the field with a great rush and Dawson scored on the prettiest piece of work that has been seen in the league this season. He shot from about twenty yards out from goal and the ball was travelling with so much speed that many of the onlookers say that Mr. Leader, St. James' goal keeper did not see it.

St. James' came back pretty strong but could not get through All Saints' back line. Curtis, who played the game of his life at outside right, received the ball from the backs and went down with James, and James shot and the back cleared to Abbott, who shot and tallied, but the referee on the advice of the goal umpire thought it wise not to allow the goal. The play was pretty even all through the second half, but no scoring, and All Saints came out with the best game in the Church League won.

All Saints play the Y. to-morrow at the Brinton Carpet Meadows at 2.30 and all the players are asked to be on the field at 2.15 to be ready to play at 2.30 to get the game over to go to witnes sthe Havelock-C.G.E. game at 5 o'clock.

The line-ups were:

All Saints—Goal, Morahy; backs, Rew and Robinson; halves, Hooper, Dawson and Edwards; forwards, Curtis, James, Abbott, Willis and Downer.

St. James— Goal, Leader; backs, Gribb and Brann; halves, Sandiford, Yeates and Sparrow; forwards, E. Hotston, Hodson, Gash, C. Hotston and Turner.

Thistles Beat The Tecumsehs

A very fast game of baseball was played at Riverside park yesterday, when the Thistles and Tecumsehs of the City Juvenile League met for their first game. The game was a pitcher's battle throughout, both pitchers having a nice variety of curves and plenty of speed, five hits only, being allowed in the entire game. Score, Thistles 4, battery M. Huycke, A. Trull. Tecumsehs 0, battery J. Owens, N. Phelan.

Mr. U. J. Thompson umpired to the entire satisfaction of all.

A meeting of the team managers will be held Tuesday next at the Y.M.C.A. at eight o'clock for the purpose of drawing up the second part of the schedule.

INTER-CATHOLIC LEAGUE WILL OPEN TO-MORROW

The Inter-Catholic Baseball League will open to-morrow at Riverside Park when the Central T. A. S. and Sacred Heart T. A. S. teams will meet at 4 o'clock. The game promises to be a good exhibition as the teams are strong and well balanced and will play ball from the drop of the hat. The Centrals team includes a number of former City Leaguers, including Giroux, Corkery and Derocher of the T.A.S. and Hickey of the Strathconas, while the Sacred Heart have Gus Rose who was one of Duke Oldham's West End pitching staff in the City League last year, with Frank Lefave behind the bat. The Central T. A. S. will line up as follows:

The Peterborough Midland League team will have a practise before the game and an admission charge of 10c. will be made covering the whole afternoon's sport.

Sir,—What do you think of this? All nonsense or roguery, is it not?
W. A. BAILEY.

(From the Toronto Star.)

Toronto people who don't own dogs have always maintained that there is something peculiar about the canines which their neighbour's possess, but from recent developments in different parts of the town it begins to look as if the owners themselves will have to admit that the peculiarities are there even if they have long been hidden away.

The present trouble is nothing less than an outbreak of a new disease which has hitherto been thought to be an adjunct to human beings alone. It has not been named yet and Dr. Morphy of the Cat and Dog Hospital is working over time trying to find out what it really is. The disease closely resembles rabies. Four cases have come to the knowledge of Dr. Morphy.

The latest case came last evening when a call came from a Parkdale home to Dr. Morphy. He hurried to the scene and found a very sick dog and a much excited family. The dog was only a few minutes short of jumping in Charon's boat and Dr. Morphy realized that it would be futile to try to postpone the passage across. So while they were waiting for the ferry whistle to blow the family told him what had taken place.

It appears that the dog had the well-known desire to chase everyone out of the house and was as eager as a playful kitten to crawl up the window curtains. This was followed by frothing at the mouth. The next stage was the final kick in, or out.

Dr. Morphy had the remains taken to the hospital, where to-day he started on a post-mortem. He will breed different cultures from the blood, and in ways known to science will determine what the new disease is.

"As far as I can understand it yet, death was caused by a peculiar form of hemorrhage," said Dr. Morphy, discussing the matter with The Star. "It has been always thought that such a disease was confined to human beings, but it looks different now. It is not rabies, I am certain of that. Whether it is contagious or not, I don't know."

Editor Daily Examiner:

With your kind permission, I wish to bring to the notice of your many readers a very special effort we are making in the interests of the local wrok of the Salvation Army.

We have at present a liability of $4,200.00, in the form of a mortgage on our Temple, on which we are paying interest in the way of rental that makes a heavy burden on our ordinary weekly collections.

We have, therefore, started a Mortgage Reduction Fund in conjuction with our annual Self-Denial Effort, with the object of raising at least $3,000.00 to apply on our mortgage, thus reducing very materially our weekly burden of rent.

In addition, to a generous response by several of our friends, two well-known citizens have promised to subscribe $500 and $200 respectively, as soon as we raise $2,300, or sufficient to make a total of $3,000 in all. Otherwise the offers of these two gentlemen will be withdrawn.

As the fund now stands, we require about $300 to meet the conditions of the offers and get the $700. We have secured nearly all the prospective large donations and our only hope now seems to be an appeal to the citizens generally to assist in smaller sums. Every dollar given now will be worth over three dollars to us, as it will help us to raise the $300 still lacking to secure the $700 offered by our two friends, and our total of $3,000.

I would therefore make a most earnest appeal to all our friends to rally to our assistance and send along their donations to Ensign Merrett, 320 King street, or phone 440 if it is desired that I should call. All sums of $1.00 and upwards will be duly acknowledged by mail.

J. H. MERRETT, Ensign.

Little Girl Badly Bitten By A Dog

The little three year old daughter of Mr. Elsworth Jewel, of Fraserville, had a very narrow escape from receiving injuries that might have proved fatal, or probably would have been killed, yesterday, while playing near her home. A large dog owned by Mr. Jewel, for some unknown reason, attacked the little one, biting her on the face and lacerating it in a horrible manner. The brute was driven off by one of the neighbours and the little one rescued. Dr. Russel, of Bailieboro, was called and attended to the injuries. No serious results are anticipated. The dog was promptly shot by its owner.

SERIOUS SKIN ERUPTIONS

Are Ended by Zam-Buk

Mr. William Purser, of 1385 Elgin Avenue, Weston, Winnipeg, says: "As a cure for skin diseases there is nothing to equal Zam-Buk. Some pimples and sores broke out all over my face and defied various remedies, which from time to time, I applied to them. Not only were these sores unsightly but they were very painful. For over two months I was afflicted in this way until I was advised to try Zam-Buk. I found this balm was entirely different to the ordinary remedies. It reduced the irritation and the smarting pain. The sores from first being anointed with the balm, grew less and less angry, and then began to dry off. In a short time they all disappeared."

Finest known remedy for eczema, ulcers, abscess, scalp sores, ringworm, children's rashes, chafings, cuts, burns, scalds, insect stings, sore feet, etc. Also cures piles. 50c. box, at all drug stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Zam-Buk soap, 25c. tablet is splendid for delicate skin and for baby's bath.

Poachers Caught and Made Bold Defiance Behind Masks.

BOBCAYGEON, MAY 24.—Mr. H. B. Parker, our game warden, here, had a thrilling experience one night last week, as he went on his round of duty. He saw a light and he made straight for it, but when he got to it, he was met by several persons who had their faces blackened and were masked. They immediately made for his boat and threatened to drown him, but Harry did not give up the case until they had upset his boat and thrown him in the water. As he could not make out who his assailants were, and was alone he left them.—Lindsay Post.

Paid Their Last Respects

The funeral of the late Percy McNamee took place from the residence of his brother, Mr. D. McNamee yesterday to the Little Lake cemetery, the pallbearers being fellow workmen in the machine shop of the Canadian General Electric Works. The funeral cortege was a large one, about fifty from the department of the Canadian General, in which the deceased young man worked, following on foot.

Rev. Mr. Carpenter conducted the funeral services and referred to the fine character of the deceased and of his many good qualities evidenced by the fact that so many of his fellow workmen, friends and neighbours were paying their last tribute, although in this country for so short a time, about a month.

Mr. J. John and Mr. S. Jay represented St. George's Society and the Sons of England had a number of members present representing Lansdown Lodge.

FIRE AT LINDEN VALLEY

Sad Fire Caused by Lightning at Linden Valley—Barns Burned

Linden Valley, May 23—Last Friday morning Mr. Nelson Weldon had a tree struck by lightning right by the house, damaging their phone and shattering several windows in their residence.

On Saturday night about twelve, Mr. Wm. Sluggett's barn was struck by lightning and a serious fire commenced. With the assistance of their neighbours, Mr. and Mrs. Sluggett finally succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not before one cow was killed and two horses deafened.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA

"My nerves were very bad, and I could not sleep at night, nor could I control my arms or legs," writes Mrs. Robert Bustard, Maxwell, N.B. "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured me of what I believe was the early stage of locomotor ataxia or paralysis. I cannot describe what I suffered, but now I am entirely cured."

BASEBALL

One of the most promising young pitchers in the city is Meredith Huycke, who does the throwing for the Thistles in the Juvenile League. The youngster pitched a remarkable game against the Tecumsehs yesterday, shutting them out and fanning thirteen batsmen. He was remarkably cool in the pinches and in the last innings with the bases full, caused the last two batters to swing idly at the ambient atmosphere.

The Roy Studio got some splendid action photographs of scenes in the Cobourg-Peterborough game on the holiday. Mr. Cecil Smith, of the Studio was on hand with his big camera and snapped most of the Peterborough players. Perhaps the best in the lot is the picture of Mike O'Brien in the act of driving the pill over left field fence for a homer. An enlargement of this picture is on exhibition in the street show case of the studio.

The Peterborough Midland League team will practise at Riverside Park to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. A full turn-out of players is expected as the team must be in shape for its game next week.

The Bowmanville team which defeated Port Hope so easily on the holiday will be the attraction against the Peterboros here on oCronation day. The game will be the big event in the afternoon on the official programme for the day.

OBITUARY

CLARA HILDA HOULIHAN.

Died yesterday morning at 10.30, Cara Hilda Houlihan, aged 2 years, the child of Mr. and Mrs. James Houlihan of 36 Parnell street. The funeral will take place this afternoon to St. Peter's cemetery.

MRS. T. H. G. DENNE.

This morning death came with appalling suddenness to Mrs. T. H. G. Denne at the family residence, Maplehurst. Mrs. Denne was sitting at the table at breakfast at 9.30 with two of her daughters. For some reason she left the table for a moment and had hardly resumed her seat, when she collapsed, death immediately ensuing. She had not been in robust physical condition for some time, but was in her usual health this morning and last evening, when she and her husband were out driving, and she had made an engagement to meet a party of friends at her home this evening.

Mrs. Denne was in her forty-third year and was born in Peterborough, the third daughter — Anna May—of Mr. J. I. Davidson. She was united to Mr. Denne in marriage, twenty-five years ago, about twenty years of which have been happily passed at the beautiful residence, Maplehurst, 361 Park street, at the head of Simcoe street. Mrs. Denne leaves behind her to mourn her loss, her husband and three daughters, Misses Alexandrina (Lexie), Marion and Phillis. Mrs. Denne, was greatly beloved by her intimate friends and by her family, and though she was socially popular, was above all a homemaker, possessing in high degree the qualities that make the ideal wife and mother. Having been born, and spent all her life, in Peterborough, she was widely known and enjoyed the universal respect and esteem. Her sudden taking off will excite the regrets and sympathy of everybody.

Funeral from the family residence, 361 Park street, on Monday afternoon, at two-thirty o'clock.

Impossible To Secure Ferns

To the new members of the Peterborough Horticultural Society who have selected Premium No. 3. I regret to say that it is impossible to procure Boston ferns large enough to be satisfactory to our members, owing to the growers having divided their large clumps to grow on for the fall and winter trade. If there are any members that have selected Premiu mNo. 3 who wish to change to one of the other two options will they kindly notify the secretary, either by 'phone 175 or by postcard. Otherwise I shall be able to distribute good ferns about the middle of August. Some of the members have already expressed their willingness to wait until that time.

FRANK WISE, Secretary.

How Canadians Won Battle Of Chateauguay

The announcement from London that the scene depicting the battle of Chateauguay will be included in the festival of the Empire pageants has been received with satisfaction.

The battle of Chateauguay was fought Oct. 26, 1813, on the Chateauguay River, about 8 miles from Beauharnois. It goes down in history as an occasion when a Canadian force of 800 succeeded by strategy in compelling an American force nearly ten times their strength, to retire in disorder. Buglers, sounding calls, and small bands of Indians yelling from numerous places in the woods, led the invaders to believe they had encountered a large army. Col. DeSalaberry, with a Canadian force numbering only 300, including 100 Indians, learned that General Hampton's invading force of 7,000 or 8,000 was marching toward Lake St. Louis. He advanced to the Chateauguay to a point now known as Allan's Corners, where he constructed a block house. His small force was unexpectedly strengthened by the arrival of Lieut.-Col. McDonnell with 600 men. His regiment formed DeSalaberry's second line.

Americans in Retreat.

On the night of the 25th the American forces had reached the northern bank of the river, and on the following morning Col. Purdy, with 3,000 men crossed to the southern bank.

The Canadian troops at the front line, the 300 men under De Salaberry's command, were attacked by Major General Izzard's columnin of 4000 men with artillery, and made to retract. The United States column drove the retreating force before them for half a mile, when they encountered McDonnell's force, the presence of whom was unknown to them.

McDonnell sent into the woods his buglers with orders to separate and to continue sounding with all their power and the Indians in his force he distributed to yell with all their might leading the attackers to believe they had encountered a mighty force of thousands of men. The pursuers halted and shortly afterwards broke and fled. Purdy's forces on the right bank were met with a well-directed fire from McDonnell's line. They also got alarmed at the incessant bugling and Indian yells from all directions, and retreated, leaving the field to the Canadian force.

HAVE SHUT DOWN

FENELON FALLS, MAY 25.— The retort and charcoal men of the Standard Chemical Company's mills at Fenelon Falls requested a raise in their wages from $1.50 per day to $1.75 and signified their intention of quitting work on Saturday if the increase was not granted. The company shut the mill down on Saturday but for what length of time it will be closed is not certain, neither is it known whether the shut down is due to the request for higher wages or not.

The Standard Chemical Co., which has lately added new members, increased its capital to $8,000,000 and changed its title to "The Standard Chemical, Iron and Lumber Co. of Canada, Limited," has had considerable property destroyed by fire the past week. At the company's plant at Longford 1,500 cords of wood, the charcoal chute and a new office, were burned, at an estimated loss of $10,000. The large factory at Sault Ste. Marie, of 124 cords capacity, was also destroyed by a fire that started in the charcoal sheds. Five hundred men will be thrown out of employment until the plant is rebuilt. There was a good insurance at both Longford and the Soo.

PLAYS FOUR MINUTE RECORDS—This is twice as long as the ordinary record. The great convenience and advantage of four minutes of continuous playing needs no enlarging.

USES CYLINDER RECORDS—Each record is kept in a flannel-lined box with a snugly fitting top. They are therefore perfectly free from dust and are easier to handle.

RECORDS MADE AT HOME—This is the only machine on which records can be made at home. This practice is extremely interesting and makes the phonograph doubly valuable.

THE FAMILY HEARTH

Do not think too much of your dignity. Do anything to make the boys think they are having a good time. In short live with your boys. A little fun and good nature will go far towards turning work into play. When you get a boy so that he will love his home and his parents you will have a strong arm to rest on as you go down the slope.

Home! One is more than ever impressed by the significance of that word, when ,even in the roughest little hamlet, and most desolate looking hut, it may mean so much to those who were born in it. It is a beautiful trait, this clinging to the very soil of one's birth-place, sterile and unattractive as it may be to those who have so much associations.

We do not care how poor a young man may be if he has good health, sound principles, is respectful of sacred things, is temperate in his habits, and is not afraid to work and work hard, and face the world with a determination to succeed. That young man can be trusted with the best and sweetest girl ever reared in a home. Marriage and all that a good, loving wife means, is the developing power of such a man.

Praise the work of your children, no matter how trivial the act. It will give them an honest desire to do better next time.

The stern realities of life, permit only short seasons of recreation, and it is only by planning judiciously the arrangements of time and divisions of labour that a busy mother can insure a child his rightful portion of her company.

Home should be so truly home that the weary, tempted heart could turn to it anywhere on the dusty highway of life and receive light and strength. What a blessing it is when weary with care and burdened with care and sorrow, to have a home to which we can go, and there in the midst of friends we love, forget our troubles and dwell in peace and quietness. Home is the chief school of human virtues. Its responsibilities, joys, sorrows, smiles, tears, hopes and solicitudes form the chief interest in human life.

A true home is a little fragment of heaven let down to earth to inspire us with pleasure and strength for the way.

A great helper to gladness is a happy home. Many of us would never be able, day after day, to face life with its struggles, its duties, its antagonisms, were it not for the renewal of strength, which we get in our home.

If you wish your children to be respectful to you, then you should be respectful to them. The boys and girls who are spoken to in a harsh, rough tone of voice naturally fall into the habit of responding in the same way.

If the mother is in the habit, in her common conversation, of colouring facts, of exaggerating what she hears and relates, can she expect her children to grow up with a love and reverence for the truth?

Parental dignity and authority may be asserted with the utmost firmness, and yet without coarseness of arrogance. In fact it cannot be well asserted in any other way. A rude father or mother is likely to have rude sons and daughters.

Home is the greatest school of life. Few can receive the honours of a college education, but all are graduates of home. The learning of the university may fade, its knowledge, may moulder in the halls of memory, but the simple lessons of home impressed upon the hearts of childhood, defy the rust of years and outline the vivid picture of life. "Mid pleasures and palaces we may roam. Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

Where is the stream of life so dark and unpropitious that the unshine o fa happy face falling on the turbid tide will not waken an answering gleam ?Why, these joyful, good-tempered people don't know half the good they do.

There is sweet music in every home where the heart strings are touched by gentleness and courtesy. The mild word, the gentle answer, the tender act, the patient considerateness, will touch chords of kindness and make sweet melody in the family as everywhere. A desolate, dreary place is a home devoid of those little courtesies which are practised in the best social life.

Kindness makes sunshine wherever it goes; it is the real law of life; the link that connects earth with heaven. Would you live in the remembrance of others after you are gone? Write your name on the tablets of their hearts by acts of kindness and love. The noblest revenge we can make upon our enemies is to do them a kindness.

There is no surer safeguard against the temptations that come to young men and women than a love for home. It has brought bac kand held many a wanderer in a safe place. It is something not only to love home but to know that you love it—and to know that you are happier at home than in any other spot on earth.

There is no rank, no condition that may exempt a manly man from a kind regard for a mother.

Make your homes pleasant to your children and there will be no armies of unemployed marching through the country.

LOCAL TREATMENT FOR WOMEN'S DISORDERS

The health we enjoy depends very largely upon how the blood circulates in our bodies: in other words, if we have perfect circulation we will have perfect health.

There is a constant wearing out of the tissues in every part of the body. The blood flowing through the veins carries off this waste or dead matter, while the blood coming from the heart through the arteries brings the fresh new living tissue, the essence of the food we have digested, to replace what has been carried off. This constant wearing out and expelling of the dead matter and the replacing of it with new matter, atom by atom, goes on day and night, until in about 7 years a complete change has been effected. Thus every man and woman has an entirely different body in every particle of it from what he or she had 7 years before.

It sometimes happens, however, from a variety of causes, that the blood becomes congested in certain portions of the body. This means that the blood vessels in these parts become weakened, and the circulation in that section of the body becomes sluggish and stagnant. The consequence is that the dead matter in that part of the body is only partially carried away, and that but little of the new, vital matter is introduced there to build up and strengthen the tissues and nerves.

This condition invariably exists in all cases of female disorders. The dead matter retained in the circulation, which should have been expelled, causes irritation and inflammation of the delicate membranes, and oppresses the nerve centres. This condition is the cause of the grievous physical and mental suffering which accompanies female troubles.

To obtain relief it is evident that the first thing to be done is to get rid of the dead matter which is being held in the circulation. If this dead matter is allowed to remain there a species of blood poisoning will result and nature will endeavor to get rid of it by forming ulcers, tumors, etc.

The above explanation will also show why ORANGE LILY is so successful in curing this condition. It is a local treatment, and is applied direct to the affected organs. Its curative elements are absorbed into the congested tissue, and from the very start the dead matter begins to be discharged. A feeling of immediate relief, both mental and physical, accompanies it, and the improvement is constant and positive. This feature of the expelling of the dead matter is always present to a greater or less extent, and in some cases it is so marked as to be amazing. The case described in the following letter is not exceptional:

Dr. Cooley—I am thankful to Mrs. F. E. Currah, your Canadian representative, for my health restored by your wonderful remedy. I have suffered for 17 years, but not so bad until 3 years ago. Then I had a doctor, who told me I had a tumor, and could live no more than a year. If I went through an operation I would not live through it. A year later I went for him again, and he gave me up to die. My husband then sent for another doctor, who performed an operation, and it did me much good. I doctored with him 3 or 4 months, but became so bad again that I thought I could live no longer, and I began to long to die. One day my husband came home and threw a slip of paper to me with Mrs. Currah's address and told me a lady had advised him to write to her for a treatment that would cure me. I said it was too late, that I would die anyway. I could not lift a teacup without hurting me. Then the first doctor told me I was worse than ever. However, my husband sent for ORANGE LILY, and the third treatment brought away one tumor. Others followed, until 7 tumors had been expelled, 2 large ones and 4 small ones. I know if it had not been for ORANGE LILY I would have died, for I could not live much longer. I would have thought it cheap at one hundred dollars for a month's treatment, instead of one dollar. It is worth its weight in gold.—MRS. GEO. LEWIS, Huntsville, Ont.

The above letter is published with Mrs. Lewis' permission. All letters received are treated as being sacredly confidential, but occasionally some patient feels so grateful for being cured that she is willing to make the matter known for the benefit and encouragement of her suffering sisters.

ORANGE LILY is a positive, scientific remedy for all disorders of the female functions. As explained above these troubles are of local origin, and require local treatment. It is just as sensible to take medicine internally for female troubles as it would be to take medicine internally for a bruise, a boil or an ulcerated tooth. In all these cases some dead matter is being retained, and the cure is effected by employing local methods for expelling the dead matter. ORANGE LILY has antiseptic, soothing and healing properties, and also tones up and invigorates blood vessels and nerves. I am so anxious that every suffering woman may satisfy herself, without cost to her, that ORANGE LILY will cure her, that I hereby make the following

FREE TRIAL OFFER

I will send, without charge, to every reader of this notice who suffers in any way from any of the troubles peculiar to women, if she will send me her address, enough of the ORANGE LILY treatment to last her ten days. In many cases this trial treatment is all that is necessary to effect a complete cure, and in every instance it will give very noticeable relief. If you are a sufferer, you owe it to yourself, to your family and to your friends to take advantage of this offer and get cured in the privacy of your home, without doctors' bills or expense of any kind. NATIONAL DRUG TO SELL 3700 MORE SHARES

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the National Drug & Chemical Co. was held recently. The financial statement for the last business year was the best so far presented to the shareholders. The most interesting reports were from the Na-Dru-Co. and proprietary departments of the business. The former was established only eighteen months ago, and the manner in which the drug trade and the general public have supported the products of this department has decided the directors to spend large sums of money in still further advertising this important line of medicinal and toilet preparations.

In order to continue the development of this department, and to keep pace with the progress of the country by the opening of new branches, especially in the West, the directors have decided to dispose of 3,700 shares of the seven per cent. cumulative preference stock of the company at par. A large proportion of these shares have been taken up by the directors.

Mine honour is my life; both grow in one;
Take honour from me, and my life is done.

—Richard II., Act I., Sc. I.

There is no word that appears with greater frequency on the pages of Shakespeare than the word "honour." There is nothing that appealed with greater force to the men of the time of "Great Elizabeth" than the idea contained in the word. It was an age of chivalry and daring. Such men as Sir Philip Sidney had honour in excess, if such a thing were possible. They would recklessly throw away their lives rather than have dishonour in the faintest degree tarnish their escutcheon. A man like Drake sailed around the world not for his own glory but for the honour of his nation. To show the white feather in the presence of an overwhelming force would have meant dishonour to the English name, and those high ideals of Drake's made him dare and do against fearful odds.

Honour, so dear to the Anglo-Saxon wherever found, has gloriously won half of his battles. The human trait held in highest esteem by men who use English speech is honour. It, as a guide to conduct, became firmly based in that strangely mixed time that produced the great dramatists of England, in that age of bear-baiting and cock-fighting, of pageant and chivalry. Honour animates even the politicians in England in their struggles for place and power; honour inspires the soldiers in their battles; honour rules the hearts of the boys in their sports—"play fair" is a significant word.

Literature has a profound influence on national life. Shakespeare found an enthusiasm for honour in the men of his time. He so emphasized the beauty of it, so exalted it, as it were, set up so many altars to it in his dramas, that it has become an imperishable heritage of the race. Other writers have touched on honour, but none with so forcible a pen as Shakespeare.

The words of Richard Lovelace, who lived in the early part of the seventeenth century, have pointed out to many the path to duty.

"I could not love thee dear so much Loved I not honour more."

But after all, the idea contained in these words appears a hundred times on Shakespeare's pages. In "Troilus and Cressida" it stated thus:

"Lits every man hold dear; but the dear man Holds honour far more precious dear than life."

In "Julius Caesar" Brutus remarked:

For let the gods so speed me as I love
The name of honour more than I fear death."

A careful reading of Shakespeare's plays will convince anyone that the poet held that

"The purest treasure mortal times afford,
Is spotless reputation."

Wealth, power, honours in the narrow sense of the world, were as nothing compared with a good name.

It is sometimes contended that Shakespeare has no hero. This is hardly correct. He has most decidedly created a national hero in Henry V., and the predominating trait in that daring young warrior's character is his high sense of honour. At home or abroad, in his rude mirth with Falstaff and his comrades, in the austere presence of the lords temporal and spiritual, or on the battlefield amid the clash of weapons and the savage impulses born of the fight, honour sways his action. Could anything be nobler than his words before the Battle of Agincourt:

"By jove, I am not covetous for gold,
Nor care I who doth feed upon my cost;
It yearns me not if men my garments wear;
Such outward things dwell not in my desires,
But if it be a sin to covet honour,
I am the most offending soul alive."

There must ever be a battle between honours in the natural sense of the word and honour; between the inward feeling and the outward show. Loss of honour usually comes about by desire to shine in the eyes of others. Banquo, of the drama Macbeth, is another man of the type of Henry V. Macbeth suggested to him that he had a scheme on foot that would bring honour to Banquo if he would but join him — by honour meaning promotion and power. To Macbeth the pure-souled, truly honourable Banquo replied:

"So I lose none
In seeking to augment it, but still keep
My bosom franchis'd and allegiance clear,
I shall be counsell'd."

All men recognize that honour should prompt their deeds. If every man were animated by this principle preachers and teachers of ethics would be put out of business; the millenium would have arrived. But unfortunately sham honour, wealth and position, too often win the victory over true honour. The substance is sacrificed for the shadow. Like Wolsey a man may sound "all the depths and shoals of honours" without getting satisfaction; but "with a bosom franchis'd and allegiance clear," he is content though poverty be his lot, though death threaten him.

W.C.T.U. ITEMS OF INTEREST

The matter in this Department is supplied by the Peterborough Branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which has arranged for its publication.

RIGHT SHALL RULE.

Short is the triumph of evil,
Long is the reign of right,
The men who win
By the aid of sin,
The nation that rules by might,
The party that lives by corruption,
The trickster, the knave, the thief,
May thrive for a time
On the fruits of crime,
But their seeming success is brief.

We know that the truth shall triumph,
That evil shall find its doom;
That the cause of right,
Though subdued by might,
Shall break from the strongest tomb,
That wrong, though it seems to triumph,
Lasts only for a day;
While the cause of truth
Has eternal youth,
And shall rule o'er the world for aye.

In connection with the great Missionary Exhibit in Mechanics Hall, at Boston, the temperance movement is well represented. This Exhibit is a marvel in its extent and revelations. In connection with it, there are produced twice daily four daramtic scenes from the pageant "From Darkness to Light," in the chorus of which 3,000 trained singers take part. More than 10,000 stewards are enrolled to bive visitors information about the Exhibit, the temperance section of which is described by Miss Frances Stoddart in the National Advocate, as follows:

Very properly the relation of temperance to missions has been portrayed in pictures, models and diagrams prepared under the direction of Dr. Louise Purington, world superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and Miss Ella Gilbert Ives, national superintendent with the assistance of the Scientific Temperance Federation and others.

THE APPEAL OF THE CHILD RACES.

The central theme of the object-lesson lies in the words beneath the picture of Khama, the king of Bechuanaland, who, imploring England to protect his people from the white man's drink, typifies the appeal of the non-Christian races supplicating the Christian nations. He said: "It were better for me that I should lose my country than that it should be flooded with drink."

The reply of the Christian nations is represented by a beautiful painting of an ocean steamer putting out to sea. On her deck is borne, among others, a Christian missionary. The hold of the vessel is cut away, disclosing long rows of closely packed rum and whiskey barrels and casks. Above the picture are the words of Bishop Newman: "The shipboads of rum are the despair of the missionaries." Beneath are the words: "One missionary, 70,000 casks of rum, 10,000 casks of gin." And then Boston gets a glimpse of a bit of her own responsibility—"Exports of rum from Boston in 1910: 1,333,311 gallons."

THREE DRINK VICTIMS A MINUTE.

Another illustration follows the ship across the sea, and a map of Africa in colours shows what has been attempted in the way of protecting the natives from drink. A blac kmargin on the west illustrates the words of Rev. Charles S. Morris that "the west coast of Africa is one long bar-room, from which no less than 2,000,000 savages go forth to die every year as a result of its traffic." Three drink victims every minute of the year!

Follow the drink inland. A photograph of natives at drink is accompanied by testimony taken by a British Committee of Inquiry, which shows that thousands of native children are pawned for drink, and are kept in the position of slaves for ten fifteen, or even twenty years.

The increase of price in the effort to reduce the sale gave the drinking man prestige as a man of wealth able to b uyit. The exhibit shows a model of a grave reproduced from a photograph o fan actual grave covered with a great variety o empty bottles, a frequent decoration of such graves in token of the drink victims' supposed "wealth."—Pioneer.

CATCH-MY-PAL CRUSADE.

The Rev. R. J. Patterson, founder of the "Catch-My-Pal" movement, has just concluded an eight-days' tour in North Wales. Speaking at Llandudno on Friday, Mr. Patterson quickly roused the audience with his fervid account of the origin of the movement. Eighteen months ago, in the ancient City of Armagh, where he had been a Presbyterian minister for eighteen years, he felt that the curse of drink was undoing and nullifying the work he did in the cause of religion; and, infected with enthusiasm for temperance effort by a Roman Catholic priest with whom he was friendly, he tried to think how he could help in the cause. He saw half a dozen men lounging near a lamp-post close to his house. One of them called out, "Your Reverence they (indicating his companions) ought to sign he pledge." He invited them to come together a night or two later as the curfew was ringing and take the pledge. They came and he charged each to go out and fetch in a companion. They did so, and soon a total abstinence society was formed, to which in a little time the title "catch-my-pal" was applied. It spread remarkably, and now there were 400 branches in Ireland, and it was making headway in England and the Colonies. The drink evil was to be solved in the simplest way by abolishing the demand for it. At the close of the meeting a number of pledges were received from persons willing to act as workers in the cause in Llandudno.—Pioneer.

PAUPERISM FROM DRINK.

If you want to promote thrift and prosperity put down the saloon. It is drinking that makes many people paupers.

Lady Henry Somerset states the fact that in one district in Liverpool, in which there are no saloons, there is but one paper in every 1,000 inhabitants. In another district, in which there are 200 saloons, there is one pauper in every twenty-eight inhabitants. It is likely that investigation would disclose similar conditions in the wards and precints of all cities, American as wlel as English.

In North York seven-eighths of the charity cases are estimated to be the result of intemperance; in Worcester, Mass., 90 per cent.; in Albany, 80 per cent.; in Minneapolis, 80 per cent.

Strong drink never helps anybody. It is waste pure and simple. It takes hard-earned cash to buy it, and it isn't worth having as a beverage after getting it.

It impoverishes blood and purse, muscle and money. It is a standing foe to material advance, a menace to health, a corruptor of morals and a pauperizer generlly.—Detroit Christian Advocate.

A Matron's Confession

She Tells How She Gave Up Her Doll For a Lover

By EVELYN D. WILCOX

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Father has never done a day's work in his life. I have often heard him say that to go to a store or an office every day and attend to details such as buying and selling and shipping and financiering and such matters that have no importance except for the time being, dying as fast as they are born, like certain insects, would soon wear him out. But to sit in a library and read immortal works such as the Greek poets and the Latin prose writers—father reads them in the original Greek and Latin—that is a way of spending one's time fitted not for commercial slaves, but intellectual gentlemen.

When I was a child we lived—my parents live there yet—in the country not far from a great city. Father had inherited some property from his ancestors that had been handed down through several generations, and our income, though small, was sufficient for our wants. So father was at liberty to spend his time in a way that he considered profitable. I sometimes overheard people sneering at him for living that life of a drone, as they expressed it, but since I have grown old it seems to me that even the real drones in a colony of bees must have their place in nature's workshop or they would not be there.

Another singular thing about Dame Nature is that, while she requires years to transform a boy into a man, she will turn a girl into a woman in a twinkling. At any rate it was so with me. When I was thirteen I was sitting one morning on the porch at home, my doll being in a chair beside me. Seeing a young fellow—he appeared to be about seventeen—come into the grounds, I seized the combination of china, cotton and sawdust and flung it in an open window behind me. There were some books on a table near by, and, taking up one of them, pulling down the short skirt of my dress at the same time so that it would cover my knees, I pretended to read.

The young fellow came along by the winding walk under the great trees—they had recently put forth that season's leaves—and approached the porch. Though my gaze was bent on my book, I saw not the printed words, but the advancing youth. I have a miniature portrait made of him at that time, and many who have seen it have taken it for an ideal creation. He was tall for his years, and his beautifully shaped head was set on a beautiful neck, his collar being of the open sort, which showed the throat to advantage. His face was a perfect oval, his eyes large and lustrous, his hair falling about his temples in disordered waves.

I have spoken from experience in saying that Dame Nature will turn a girl into a woman in a twinkling. My own transformation did not occupy more than a minute. Within that period I caught sight of the youth, flung away my doll and was in love.

The newcomer paid no more attention to me than if I had been made, like my doll, of sawdust. I was stung to the quick that he did not look at me. He rang the bell, asked for father and was shown into the house. I went upstairs and, stationing myself beside a window overlooking the walk by which he must pass out of the place, waited for him to do so. When he departed I was watching him from behind curtains. He walked with a satisfied step, as though he had come for a purpose and had accomplished it.

I wished to go right down to the library and learn all about the visitor from father, but I feared to show an undue interest in him. I tried hard to wait a long while, but five minutes was all my impatience would allow. Going into the library, I pretended to hunt for a book, at the same time asking as if incidentally:

"Who was your visitor, papa?"

"Julian Trowbridge."

"What did he come for?"

"To ask me to coach him for his college examination. He has applied for admission in June."

"Are you going to coach him?"

"Yes. I couldn't very well refuse. He's the son of my old friend Trowbridge, who was in college with me. Trowbridge has devoted himself to ignoble pursuits and got rich. I pulled him through his graduating examinations."

"Oh, my goodness gracious!" I said to myself, putting my hand to my heart to still its wild beating. Then I asked, "Is he coming here for instruction?"

"Yes, every morning at 11."

And so I should see this young god whom I had suddenly set up in my heart every day till June. If father had known the tumult within me he doubtless would have ordered me to the nursery every morning before his pupil's coming. Father had published a translation of Ovid's "Art of Love" with copious notes, but he did not know enough about love itself to suspect that his own daughter had already been pierced by one of Cupid's arrows. The natural he studied in his library from the ancients; the artificial came to him the moment he left it. His daughter must go to college, and that meant absence of love for seven or eight years to come. That he had right under his own nose but a repetition of what had occurred ever since human beings were born into the world was farthest from his thoughts.

In nature the first step in mating is to build a nest. In my case there was a lot of preliminary work to do. My first great object to accomplish was to induce my mother to procure some dresses that would reach at least to my ankles. After much trouble I persuaded her to engage a dressmaker to come to the house and make me some summer costumes. By day mother would give her instructions as to the length of my skirts and by night I would surreptitiously lower them while they were merely basted. When they were finished mother would scold the poor woman for not obeying her orders.

"How is your pupil getting on, papa?" I asked one day.

"Not at all. He's stupid as an owl. He can't even conjugate the present tense of the verb 'to love.'"

"Not this year."

Father was not looking at me, so I was at liberty to raise my eyes to heaven with a mute thanks and resolved that if the coaching should continue for another year in case the instructor could not teach the pupil how to conjugate the verb "to love" I would do so myself.

For a year Julian Trowbridge came and went for his lessons, taking no notice of me whatever. The next spring I asked father if he thought his pupil would be able to enter college that year.

"Possibly," he replied, "by hard boning, but he has no taste for the classics. I don't see why his father wishes to send him to a university."

"Has he learned to conjugate the verb 'to love?'" I asked.

Father gave me a quick glance. I had changed a good deal within the year and might now have passed for a young lady. But he saw no consciousness of a double meaning in my demeanor and replied:

"Oh, he's got beyond that, of course, but he couldn't yet pass an examination on Caesar's Commentaries."

"He must be very backward," I remarked carelessly, and as I left the room father called to me, "You're far ahead of him."

This gave me an idea. I had met the "blockhead" many times, and he was beginning to treat me with more consideration. One day I said to him: "I think father is too impatient with you. If you'll let me read Latin with you I'm sure we'll be a help to each other."

He accepted my offer, and I told father that he might spend the time he was devoting to Julian in his library, turning his pupil over to me. Father was very glad to get rid of him, and the very next day Julian and I were seated on a rustic bench under a tree with a copy of Virgil between us.

I have boys of my own now, and I surely would not consent to have one of them fall under such an influence as Julian Trowbridge experienced at that time. I had no more intention of teaching him the dead languages than I had of teaching him to fly in the air. Fortunately for him, however, I had inherited my father's ability to learn and to teach them. My object was to teach him to conjugate the verb "to love"—"I love, thou lovest, he or she loves, we love, you love, they love." In short, in my code of instruc-

JUST ONE CURE FOR ANAEMIA

It is Through the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

There is just one cure for anaemia—more rich, red blood. Anaemia is simply a bloodless, run-down condition. Then the body becomes weak from overwork, worry or illness, an examination of the blood will show it to be weak and watery. The common symptoms are paleness of lips, gums and cheeks, shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart after the slightest exertion, dull eyes and a loss of appetite. Anaemia itself is a dangerous trouble and may pass into consumption. It can only be cured by making the blood rich and red, thereby enabling it to carry the necessary nourishment to every part of the body.

It is a proved fact that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured thousands and thousands of cases of anaemia. They are really intended to make new, rich blood and are compounded in the most scientific manner with the finest ingredients for the blood known to medical science. These Pills are not a cure-all. They are intended to cure only those diseases that have their origin in poor, watery blood, and starved, weakened nerves, and the record of their successes in doing this is their constantly increasing popularity in every part of the world.

Mrs. R. Colton, Golden, B.C., says: "As a matter of duty I wish to say a word in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for what they have done for my daughters, one 16 and the other 18 years of age. Both were pale and bloodless and suffered from many of the symptoms of anaemia. They would tire easily, suffered from frequent headaches, were easily discouraged and often fretful. I saw in our home paper the story of a young girl who had similarly suffered and was cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I bought three boxes of the Pills and my daughters started to take them. Before they were done they began to feel better and look better, and I got a half dozen more boxes, and by the time these were used, they were enjoying the best of health, with rosy cheeks and not like the same girls at all. I also gave the Pills to my little boy, who had rheumatism, and they completely cured him."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Train and Track.

Germany maintains an experimental railroad in a forest near Berlin, where different kinds of power and their effect on ties and roadbed are tested.

Dress Hints.

Shape the bottom edge of a skirt exactly with the pattern or it will never hang evenly.

Don't try to use stitching as a trimming unless you know your machine and have a straight eye.

In sewing in sleeves instead of binding the seams use the French seam. It is much neater and is quickly done.

When repairing a rent in a glove it is well to turn the article inside out and then sew it over and over with cotton, not with silk thread.

Broiling Don'ts.

Don't leave the kitchen while you are broiling.

Don't forget that it is better to broil on a hot, dry frying pan than over a poor fire.—Chicago News.

Tree Twigs.

From a twenty-year-old mulberry tree 218 pounds of leaves have been picked in a year.

It requires more than a century for a cedar tree to grow large enough to yield a thirty foot telephone pole.

Some trees are much more unfavorable to the growth of plants beneath them than are others. The worst are the yew and the ash.

Water Pan Is Correctly Placed In The Sunshine

Few people realize the importance of the water-pan. Yet, without the moisture evaporated from the water in the pan, the warm air passing through the registers is harsh and dry. It is hard on your lungs and on your furnishings.

Now, the water-pan must be correctly placed to be of any real use. If it is placed near the bottom of the furnace (see lower illustration) the moisture has a long route (see arrows) to travel before it reaches the pipes leading to the rooms. It must pass alongside the fire-pot and radiator, and the terrific heat from these dries out nearly every particle of moisture ascending from the pan. Very little reaches the pipes or passes through registers.

Now, notice the location of the Sunshine water-pan. It is placed over the fuel door. The moisture takes the short, direct route to the pipes leading to the rooms. You can always have moisture-laden, healthful air passing through your registers, provided you keep the Sunshine water-pan filled with water.

If you value your health you'll have our local dealer install the Sunshine, with a guarantee to heat your house to your entire satisfaction. 46

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

DO women actually enjoy brooding over troubles—both their own and other people's?

I sometimes wonder that when I see a group of women avidly and apparently delightedly intent upon some lugubrious tale of illness or misfortune.

"Yes, isn't it the saddest thing you ever heard? Her son comes home drunk night after night—terribly drunk, too, so that he sings and laughs and wakes up the neighbours. And she such a nice, respectable woman, and a widow, and he her only son. And they say she sits up every night till he gets in, no matter how late it is; just sits there in the dark by the window where she can watch for him. I declare, I almost cry sometimes when I hear him come in."

Doubtless Mrs. R., being a sympathetic woman, really was saddened by the tragedy of the poor little widowed mother sitting in the dark by the window straining her eyes into the night for the boy whose coming she feared as intensely as she longed for it.

And yet, if she were really moved almost to tears, if she really were saddened and depressed by the realization of the other woman's suffering, why then, did she pass along the story, knowing it would probably sadden and depress others?

Why, furthermore, did she tell it twice in the course of the afternoon each new comer arrived?

Why, moreover, did she tell it each time with new and vivid and depressing details, and almost—I truly mean no insult, Mrs. R, you're just like the rest—and almost with gusto.

Why again, did the other women urge her to repeat her story when each new comer arrive?

There were plenty of pleasant things to talk about.

It was a very beautiful day. The crocuses in our neighbour's garden were in bloom. One of our number had just come back from a long journey and another had just seen the brand new baby of an old neighbour of ours.

We spoke of all these things casually, but we dwelt on none of them. It was our neighbour's misfortune that we reserved for that honour.

Of course, you have all noticed with what gusto any bearer of unpleasant news performs his mission.

"There is a diphtheria card on the Jones' door. They say it's the baby, and he's such a sickly little thing, too."

"Did you hear about Mrs. L.? Why she was thrown from her carriage and broke her collar bone and three ribs, and they think she's injured internally."

"Isn't it terrible about Mr. R.? What, haven't you heard? Why, he's stolen several thousand dollars from his bank. It's all in the afternoon papers—his picture and everything. Poor Mrs. R."

Can you deny that the bearers of news of that sort always seem to gloat over the precious morsels.

And yet we say:

"Laugh and th world laughs with you,
Weep and you weep alone."

I should think "weep and you have a delighted audience" would be nearer the mark.

When you have read about the wonders of the ironing board seen in the cut you will think it is the most practical, economical and handiest convenience you have seen in a long time. When not in use as an ironing board it forms the most practical settee that could be imagined. The hamper under the ironing board forms the seat part of the settee and the ironing board the back. For use as an ironing board the wooden knobs are thrust through the holes in the board proper and the stand, and there you are. The underpart forms a convenient hamper either for clothes to be ironed or for those that have undergone the treatment.

Dangers of Pampering.

Overdressing for cold weather and overheated living rooms are often responsible for frequent colds. Medium weight underwear should be worn and the outer clothing adapted to changes in the weather. This does not mean that we should leave off overcoats in the winter time and be uncomfortably chilly in an endeavor to harden the system. Old people especially should dress for comfort in cold weather, but comfort can be had without wearing heavy mufflers around the neck and heavy fur garments in ordinary winter weather.

Value of Bathing.

The morning cold bath is a valuable measure for cultivating a resistance to colds. This should be taken in a warm room, and if the bather is not robust he should stand in a tub of hot water and sponge or spray the body with water sufficiently cold to cause an agreeable glow or reaction after the first shock, but not cold enough to cause blueness of the skin or chilliness and depression following the bath. Rubbing vigorously with a coarse towel will hasten the reaction and improve the circulation. When the cold bath cannot be borne, cool sponging of neck and chest will prove beneficial and protective.

"What became of that cake I baked for you?" demanded the fiancee.

"I sent it downtown to have my monogram engraved on it," replied the fiance.—Kansas City Journal.

The Worst to Come.

Art is long, life short, judgment difficult, opportunity transient.—Goethe.

Origin of the Kindergarten.

Kindergarten (meaning garden of children) is the name given by Friedrich Froebel to a kind of "play school" invented by him about the year 1840. The first kindergarten was opened in that year at Blankenburg, near Rudolstadt, but after a needy existence of some five or six years was closed for lack of funds. But in spite of the protest of the Prussian Government Froebel's idea held its ground and presently intrenched itself too securely to be driven from the field. In 1854 the kindergarten was introduced into England, and to-day the "children's garden" is part of the educational system of most of the leading nations of the world.

Mining For Coffin Planks.

One of the most curious industries in the world is the business of mining for coffin planks, which is carried on in upper Tonkin, a portion of the French possessions in southeastern Asia. In a certain district in this province there exists a great underground deposit of logs, which were probably the trunks of trees engulfed by an earthquake or some other convulsions of nature at a comparatively recent period. The trees are a species of pine known to the natives and also to some extent to European commerce as "nam-hou." The wood is almost imperishable and has the quality, either through its nature or as the result of its sojourn underground, of resisting decay from damp. This quality makes it particularly valuable for the manufacture of coffins, and for this purpose it is largely exported to Europe. The trees are often a yard in diameter. They are buried in sandy earth at a depth of from two to eight yards and are dug up by native labor as demand is made for them. —Harper's Weekly.

How to Cool Things.

A newlywed named Jones was talking to his friend Casey the other day about the heat in his flat and was asking the other for a little advice.

"Do you know my dining room is the hottest place in the world?" began the newlywed. "Do you know of any way I might cool it off?"

"From experience I should say that a very good way to bring about a change in atmospheric conditions," remarked the older married man, "and one that is sure to bring results one way or the other, is to take a friend home to dinner when your wife isn't expecting company." — Philadelphia Times.

His Line.

A charming young member of a woman's literary club, who adds the distinction of being a bride to successful authorship, recently met a gushing stranger at a club reception.

"Oh, Mrs. Blank, I am so glad to meet you. I enjoy your stories so much, and your husband's too." Then adding as an afterthought, "He is literary, too, isn't he?"

"Thank heaven, no!" replied the bride. "He's in the coal business."—New York Press.

Progressing.

"I think Arthur would have proposed to me last night if you hadn't come in the room just when you did."

"What reason have you for believing that?"

"He had just taken both of my hands in his. He had never held more than one of them at a time before."

"The Razor of To-day"

GILLETTE Blades Are Harder—Keener—Smoother—Than Forged Razor Blades

Before the GILLETTE was invented razor blades were all forged. That is, a piece of mild steel was heated and hammered out till it took the form of a razor blade. Every heating, every hammering, changed the hardness of the steel a little—how much, no man could tell, but more in some parts than others, because these parts were hammered out more.

Naturally, to temper perfectly a blade of such uncertain and uneven hardness is impossible.

In making GILLETTE blades we start with an ingot of steel, too fine in quality to stand forging, whose composition we know by analysis. We roll this out to the thinness of the finished blade, then stamp out the blades ready for tempering.

The composition of the steel is not altered by the rolling and stamping as it is by forging, so that each blade comes out not only even in texture throughout, but of the same quality as every other blade. As our patented automatic tempering process tempers each blade through and through in precisely the same way, the finished blades have an even, uniform hardness which cannot possibly be equalled in forged blades.

Two of the hardest, keenest, smoothest shaving edges the world has ever seen are found on each and every GILLETTE blade. Not only is the GILLETTE the safest, quickest, most convenient and only adjustable razor, but it carries the best edge. That is what interests the shaver most.

Standard Sets $5.00. Pocket Editions $5.00 to $6.00.

LONDON HORSE SHOW ❁ PREPARING TO PAY HOMAGE TO KING

LONDON READY FOR BIG HORSE SHOW

Demand for Boxes Is so Large That All Applications Are Now Refused.

PLANS OF AMERICANS

Officers from the United States Army Will Take Prominent Part in the Olympia Programme.

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

MORE than three hundred cablegrams and letters have been received from America asking for the reservation of boxes at the Horse Show, which it has been necessary to refuse for the simple reason that the boxes were sold out long ago.

"Build me a box somewhere," wires one man, but the officials have already built up every available inch of space that they can find. The prices for boxes range from $75 to $2,000 for the show, which means for the afternoon and evening performances for a fortnight. One American cabled an offer of $2,000 for a box and didn't get it, from the Horse Show people at least. They did not have it to give and they cannot take premiums anyway.

These straws show that the show is likely to be the most successful thing of the kind that has ever happened here. It is to run from June 12 to 24, and will, of course, be held at Olympia. The King has arranged to attend it on two different days.

The entries, which are just closing, number 1,800, which is far in advance of any previous record. In the military classes there are 120 British and 90 foreign officers competing. In previous years officers from the armies of only three other countries took part in the events. They were France, Italy and Belgium. This year there will be officers competing from the United States, Germany, Russia, Sweden and Canada in addition.

FROM MANY LANDS.

The French officers, who will number eighteen, will include Captain Crousse and Lieutenant Broudehoux, who were in the winning team of 1909, and Captain Meyer and Lieutenant Horment, who were in last year's cup team.

Germany will be represented by fifteen officers, commanded by Major Graf von der Schulenburg and picked from the crack riders of the German army. It will be the first time that German officers ever have competed in England.

Italy is sending six officers, with Major Pandolfi in charge, accompanied by the Marquis Calabrini, who is Master of Horse to the King. From Russia will come nine officers, including Colonel Prince Napoleon Murat.

The United States contingent will number five officers and they will bring only ten horses, which shows a remarkable faith in their animals and a superb disdain for remounts. Major H. T. Allen will be in command of the American squad.

From Canada the Honorable Clifford Sifton is coming over here with his sons, Lieutenant John W. Sifton and Lieutenant W. B. Sifton, who, with Lieutenant Henry Bate, will form Canada's team for the King Edward Cup.

The Horse Show authorities have set aside the sum of £8,000, which is nearly the equivalent of $40,000, toward the cost of the entertainment of the foreign officers during their stay here. Quarters have been reserved for them at several of the principal hotels, and it was no easy task to get the rooms, either. At one hotel where twenty rooms were really needed only six could be had.

PLANS OF AMERICANS.

The American officers will be quartered at the Great Central, which is one of the best hotels in town and more convenient to Olympia than any of the others. This was done as a mark of special preference to the American cousins. Rooms for the officers from other nations have been obtained at the Waldorf, the Victoria, the Cecil and Meudonnes.

In addition to preparing to spend $40,000 on their guests the Horse Show people are trying to be hospitable in every way they can think of. For instance, they have arranged to provide seats for all of the officers in a stand on Constitution Hill to witness the coronation procession. This is one of the very best locations and one from which the general public is practically barred.

Careful arrangements have also been made that as each contingent of officers reaches its port of arrival it will be met by a Horse Show representative and one or more interpreters, who will conduct the party by special train direct to Olympia. From there, after the usual formal introductions, the guests will be taken to their hotels.

A great deal of attention will be given this year to providing comfortable accommodations for a large number of grooms accompanying each contingent. Each nationality will be provided with its separate mess and the sleeping rooms for each nationality will be separate and distinct. The Horse Show caterers are arranging that the victualling of each contingent shall be in accordance with the national requirements in that direction.

Taken altogether the Horse Show promises to be one of the most brilliant functions of the coronation season. The officials are certainly doing all they can to make it so.

"No," answered Mrs. Wildwest. "The second act takes place six months after the first and the heroine still has the same husband."

England's Pride in Her New Monarch To Be Shown with Warmth at Coronation

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

WITH the Festival of Empire out of the way and the visit of the Kaiser and Kaiserin to assist in the dedication of the memorial to Queen Victoria a thing of the past, all England is talking, thinking and preparing for the coronation of King George V. and Queen Mary. While the ceremony proper in Westminster Abbey will be solemn and noteworthy, only seven thousand persons will see it, while millions will gather to view the pageants and the procession through the city to historic old St. Paul's.

Every foot of space along the route of the procession will be occupied by loyal, cheering English men and women, while the stands—and there will be hundreds of these—will be filled by the well to do, largely American, Canadian and Colonial visitors, who can afford to pay the fancy prices that are being asked by the speculators who control these points of vantage.

Prices for seats on these stands now range from $10 to $125. Nevertheless, most of the seats have been engaged. Windows, too, along the route are commanding high prices, and there is little doubt that many of the shopkeepers and householders will obtain the better part of a year's rent for two days' use of their premises.

All the big hotels, and most of the little ones, are filling up rapidly, and there will be little chance to obtain accommodations if rooms are not booked in advance, as, heeding the warning conveyed by the falling off in the demand, which was the natural result of the extortionate prices asked, hotel managers have reduced rates to something like the figures in Chicago when a national convention is being held.

Of course, this means that coronation visitors will be forced to pay handsomely, but Americans, at least, will not grumble at this, as they are used to doing it at home when "anything big is on." Some hotel proprietors were angry when the papers told the public about the plans to fleece it, as they expected to make the profits of a year in a fortnight; but even these have seen the light, reduced their rates and look as "merry and bright" as the jockey in the "Arcadians."

The military display will be one of the most impressive in the history of the kingdom, and, although the black troops will be conspicuous by slim representation, the soldierly turnout as a whole will be so brilliant and varied that the blacks will be scarcely missed. This military display will be under the direction of Lord Kitchener of Khartoum, and he has been working night and day to make it memorable.

The Duke of Norfolk, who has had full charge of the preparations for the coronation ceremony, has nearly completed his arduous labors. All the claims of noble lords to privileges in connection with the crowning of the King and Queen have been disposed of and everything is in readiness for the great day.

The Duke, as Earl Marshal of England, announces that in the procession in the Abbey the royal standard will be borne by the Marquis of Lansdowne, the standard of union by the Duke of Wellington, the standard of England by Frank R. Dymoke, Esq.; the standard of Scotland by Lieutenant Colonel Berymgeor-Wedderburn (acting for the hereditary standard bearer), the standard of Ireland by the O'Conor Don, the standard of the Principality of Wales by Lord Mostyn, the standard of the Empire of India by Lord Curzon of Kedleston, the standard of the Dominion of Canada by the Earl of Aberdeen, the standard of the Commonwealth of Australia by Lord Northcote, the standard of the Dominion of New Zealand by Lord Plunket, the standard of the Union of South Africa by the Earl of Selborne.

On the night of June 22 (Coronation Day) there will be bonfires on all the hills and London will be illuminated like a veritable fairyland. Its bridges will be ablaze with electric lights and there will be magnificent firework displays in all sections of the city.

Everything seems to indicate that the coronation, with its incidental pageantry, will exceed in splendor even that of King Edward, for although the Peacemaker was dearly beloved of his people, King George and Queen Mary are growing in popularity day by day—the Queen, through her support of British industries and her opposition to all things that are outré, and the King, through his tactfulness and keen judgment of men and affairs. The English are slow to enthusiasm—they want to be certain that the object of their warmth is worthy of it—and the King who is about to be crowned seems to have been weighed in the balance by them and not found wanting, so he and Queen Mary will be the centres of a tremendous demonstration during the two great days of the coronation celebration.

In connection with the popular celebrations society will outdo itself in the matter of entertainments. There will be balls, dances and dinners without number, and some of the more notable of these functions will be given by the American women who are now peeresses of England, and by leaders of Anglo-American society in London.

GUARD AMERICANS FROM CIRCULARS

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

THE directors and managers of the big hotels of London are making efforts to protect Americans from a pestiferous inundation of circulars and advances from racing touts, money lenders, second hand furniture dealers and others of a similar nature.

The annoyance has spread to such an extent that the managers are at their wits' end to fathom how the names are obtained and to end a condition that is distressing to themselves as well as to their visitors.

There evidently is some agency at work that has the inside track on obtaining the names of Americans almost immediately upon their arrival. In fact, at one of the big hotels circulars have begun to arrive by mail when the Americans have been only a few hours in the hotel.

The mystery of the case lies in the stringency with which hotel registers in London are kept from the public gaze. They are private property, and access to them is grudgingly given in some places to none but a few privileged newspaper men and to the employes of the hotel. The evil has grown so rapidly that the privilege in some cases has been withdrawn from not only the newspaper men but from certain of the hotel employes, who for interdepartmental work were furnished with a daily list of arrivals.

Strict orders have been issued in some of the hotels that the registers shall be shown to no one save certain indicated employes.

AMERICANS INVITED TO SEE GREEK PLAY

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

The triennial performance of a Greek play in the original Greek is to be given in the open air Greek theatre at Bradfield College, Berks, this year on June 10, 12, 13, 15 and 17. On previous occasions many visitors from the United States who are interested in the classical drama have expressed a wish to be present at one of the representations. The management will give seats, as far as the limited space allows, to those who signify their wish to be present. The play selected for representation this time is the "Agamemnon of Aeschylus."

GIRL OF SIXTEEN WINS WITH BOOK

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

MISS EILEEN SMILEY, daughter of the late Sir Hugh Smiley, at the age of sixteen is the author of a successful book. It is a humorous work entitled "The Judgment of Paris," and was written by Miss Smiley at the age of fourteen. It received excellent reviews when the age of the writer was unknown.

"The Judgment of Paris" is described as "a humorous account of that notable event and how it happened," which was the verdict of a well known critic to whom it was submitted before publication.

The most modern habits of life are introduced into the Olympic home of the gods of ancient Greece and into their mouths are put the latest catch phrases and the slang of to-day, the effect being very funny.

Pictures of the gods losing heavily at bridge and Apollo making inroads into his father-in-law's cigars are full of humor, for the most part of the anachronistic type, reminiscent of Mark Twain, while Miss Smiley's serious touches are admirable.

Miss Smiley says she is going to wait before writing another book until she can do something "really good."

LONDON CHARMED BY MISS TEMPEST

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

It's been several years now since the public has been privileged to hear Miss Marie Tempest sing more than a snatch of a ballad, and so when at the Hippodrome she appeared in a short play that was nearly all song we raised blisters on our hands demanding encores.

The play is called "The Shearing of Samson" and isn't much of a play, but none of us cared so long as Miss Tempest sang. She was never in better voice and never has she sung more effectively. Comic opera will now be calling her again, but she probably will not heed it.

There are only two characters in the play, a burglar caught departing with a famous singer's jewels. She not only sings them all away from him but gets his watch and trinkets as well. The burglar play is becoming so frequent here that it's a bit tiresome. Mr. Graham Browne, who played the burglar, and Mr. Stanley Lupino, a well known critic, are the authors.

EARLY TO BED IDEA CALLED NONSENSE

London Physician Sees Neither Health, Wealth nor Wisdom in the Proverbial Plan.

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

THE old proverb "Early to bed and early to rise" was very popular with our grandfathers, but, according to a leading London physician, a specialist in mental diseases, there is little truth in the statement that such action will make you either "healthy, wealthy or wise." He says:—

"Go to bed as late as two in the morning if you like, and if you get eight hours sleep it will make no difference in your health. Some people who lead lives of mental activity make the mistake of hurrying to bed at ten or eleven o'clock, because they are obsessed with the idea that one hour's sleep before midnight is worth two afterward. They go to bed, switch off the lights and flatter themselves that they are doing the right thing, but it often happens that they begin to worry and fidget simply because they have gone to bed too soon—in too much of a hurry.

"It's all right for the working man to get well to bed before midnight (his fatigue is purely physical, but with the mental worker there is little physical tiredness; his is mental lethargy—something entirely different. If he comes home at half-past eleven from a theatre or a long day's work he should take at least an hour to go to bed. He should read something light which will not disturb him mentally, then go quietly to rest. For men and women engaged in exacting literary or artistic work the more sleep they can get the better it is for them, and it does not make a bit of difference at what hours they get it so long as they get enough."

HAS TO PAY DUTY ON AN AGED PACK

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

AMERICANS who have returned here from a trip to Germany are of opinion that the inspectors of the New York Custom House can take lessons in making travellers uncomfortable from their brethren in Germany.

Mr. Jacob Heilborn, who has just returned from a trip to the Fatherland, tells of a trying experience. Not content to accept his declaration that he had nothing dutiable, the inspectors emptied out his suit cases and made things very warm for him when they came across a dog's-eared pack of playing cards.

Mr. Heilborn told them he had carried the pack for years, as it is his custom when he cannot find a congenial companion upon whom to unload his fund of good stories to play solitaire. He explained this to the Cerberus, but the guardian of the German gate would have none of it.

"You must pay the duty," was the final word, and having surrendered the amount demanded the pack was returned to Mr. Heilborn with the imperial stamp on the ace of hearts. He thinks that compared with the guards at the gates of Germany Mr. Loeb's young men are exemplars of courtesy.

STEAL DOG OF CHIEF OF SCOTLAND YARD

(Special Despatch.)
London, Saturday

There is an epidemic of dog stealing on at present, and the large number of complaints of loosed of valuable dogs in the fashionable West End is keeping the sleuths of Scotland Yard very busy. As a challenge the Detective Bureau, the dog thieves have stole the favorite bull dog bitch of Sir Melville Macnaughten, chief of Scotland Yard, and despite all the efforts of his force of Sherlock Holmeses no trace has been found of the animal. Mayfair, with its valuable Pomeranians, Pekinese and other fashionable breeds, has been the greatest sufferer.

MUSICAL VISCOUNT CHATS OF HIS ART

Lord Wolverhampton Has Composed Popular Songs, but He Cannot Write Soprano.

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

VISCOUNT WOLVERHAMPTON apparently agrees with Fletcher of Saltoun that others may make the laws if he be permitted to write the songs of his country. Although he has never studied music, and plays only by ear, Lord Wolverhampton is the composer of some very popular tuneful songs, and his two latest compositions, "The Silent Dusk" and "An Awakening," are now being sung on the concert stage and in the high class music halls. Chatting about his hobby recently he said:—

"Ever since I can remember I fiddled about with song writing. An idea strikes me all of a sudden and I just put it down right away. If I leave it or tinker with it I spoil the whole thing. Perhaps 'An Awakening' was the quickest thing I ever wrote. I did it in about five minutes. One of my most popular songs is 'Neath Fading Leaves,' while 'Thy Home and Mine' and 'Oh for the Days,' a duet, have taken quite well.

"A curious thing about my song writing is that for the life of me I cannot write soprano. Tenor, bass and contralto are all right, but soprano gets me.

"What do I think of the modern style of songs? Give the public plenty of sweets and sugar, by way of words and music, and you are all right."

GAMBLING GROWTH ALARMS ENGLAND

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

GAMBLING is on the increase in England. According to reports to the British Anti-Gambling League, organized gambling is making gigantic strides, and this despite the fact that the police have made it very difficult for one to place bets in London and the other big cities of the Kingdom.

It is stated that whereas a century ago there were only twenty bookmakers in Great Britain and Ireland there are now some thirty thousand men getting their living wholly or partly in this way, with a turnover estimated at about $600,000,000 on horseracing and $100,000,000 on football and other sports.

The gambling evil, too, is spreading alarmingly among women and children and is restricted to no particular class of society. There have been forty-six cases of women bookmakers before the courts in the last year. The league has protested to the government against the receipt of foreign lottery circulars and called the attention of the police to the existence of many girls' betting clubs.

To show how deeply the gambling passion has taken hold, the directors of the league declare there are many bookmakers who stoop so low as to take bets for sixpence or a shilling from girls or boys.

When one reflects upon these statements one realizes that New York is far from being as black as it has been painted.

FINDS NEW PORTRAIT OF CHARLES DICKENS

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

Another portrait of Charles Dickens, attributed to Daniel Maclise, was discovered recently by Mr. George Sherland at Gravesend, and it is now on exhibition at the Public Library in that town. This picture is described as one of the finest examples of the work of Maclise, and it shows the novelist as a young man, with the inevitable cravat, and gives to him a sort of spiritual air.

Sell John Bunyan's Copy of 'Book of Martyrs'

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

MESSRS. Sotheby sold on May 26 the identical copy of Fox's "Book of Martyrs," with which John Bunyan controlled himself while in prison in Bedford Jail, and it bears the tinker visionary's autograph on each title of the three volumes.

The history of these volumes is as interesting and romantic as could be wished. In 1720 they were purchased by Mr. Wentner of the Minories, from whom they descended to his daughter, Mrs. Parnell.

Later Mr. Upcott bought them for a friend at Evans' Hall in Pall Mall. They came into the possession of the bibliopolist John Bohn, who sold them to William White, a Bedford bookseller, from whom in 1841 they were purchased by public subscription for £45 ($225) and presented to the Bedford Literary Institute, which is now selling the volumes.

At the same sale was offered a record headed "An Establishment for the New Raised Forces, Begun the 30th of January, 1688." This manuscript consists of twenty-two pages large folio, beautifully written and signed no fewer than four times by King Charles II.

There will be a notable sale at Sotheby's on Monday and Tuesday, June 12 and 13, of autographs collected by Huth. The sale will open with documents bearing the signatures of the four Annes who have been queens of England. Henry VIII. was responsible for two royal Annes, namely, Boleyn and "Anne, the daughter of Cleves," as she signed herself on a state document. Then came Anne of Denmark, wife of James I., who writes to her cousin, the Archduchess of Austria, and, finally, the great Queen Anne who indites a sympathetic letter to Mr. Secretary Harley, signing "your very affectionate friend, Anne R."

HER PITEOUS SCREED.

Katharine of Aragon, another of bluff King Hal's wives, is represented by a piteous screed entirely in her own hand and addressed to her nephew, the Emperor Charles V., and entirely relating to her iniquitous divorce. The same monarch's other Katharine, née Parre, writes to her brother, Lord Parre, Lord Warden of the Marches, on the occasion of her marriage to the King, and signs "Katheryn the quene."

Queen Elizabeth writes at great length to Henry IV. of France to thank him for his portrait, his assurances of friendship, addressing him as "Mon tres cher frère le Roy tres Chrestien," the letter being entirely in her handwriting.

Edward IV. of England and his brother Edmund—afterward killed by Lord Clifford at the battle of Wakefield, in 1460, send a joint letter of creance in Latin to the Duke of Milan and the Pope introducing their messenger Antony of Tours to crave their

AMERICA AS SEEN BY ONE RARE WIT

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

TO see ourselves as others see us is usually irritating, but this picture of the U. S. A. by the erudite editor of the Winning Post is to laugh, as Mr. Joseph Weber was wont to say. He says:—

"The United States of America is the name given to a large republic that stretches from the Atlantic to the Pacific and hopes very soon to include Canada. It consists of forty-five States, four Territories, one District—none of which are ever united—said Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan. It is governed by a President and a collection of Senators. The former usually holds office until he is assassinated or kidnapped, and the latter as long as they are able to play the free and enlightened people of the country to return them. They are also called Grafters.

"The principal industries of the country are millionaires, trusts, freak dinners, cornering wheat and the purchase of British art treasures. There is also a big business done in divorce. The exports of the country are numerous and varied, and include Mormons, Andrew Carnegie, Guinea Gold Cigarettes and 'Jack' Johnson. The only imports of any note are the members of the English nobility, on which a heavy duty is invariably paid. In the early days of the U. S. A. the nobility were conspicuous by their absence. The favorite flower is the Mayflower, and every one proudly claims to have a sprig of it.

"The inhabitants of the country live principally upon canned meats, with occasional intervals of chewing gum and cocktails. As regards the first of the three, they eat what they can and can what they can't. Then the latter is imported to England.

"The earliest mention of the United States comes from Biblical history, where it is stated that 'the meek shall inherit the earth.'"

Oh, you "kin across the sea"!

By the way, the author of the "U. S. A." story is also responsible for such delicious things as:—

"Congratulations to Lord Londesb. He didn't find Dr. Bahai such a difficult nut to crack."

Eh! What! What!!

"Sir George Baring was elected by reduced majority of nearly four hundred votes. Some of the radical trees don't seem to be baring quite so well as formerly."

Cheer, oh!

There are more of the same kind, but even a worm will turn, and a New York man is far from being that.

LONDON THRILLED BY YANKEE 'CONEY'

It Is Called the Joy City, and an American Runs It.

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday

THEY have a Coney Island in London now where, at Earl's Court, the Joy City, as it is called, has opened its doors, and the working folk of London can find nearly every conceivable form of amusement that has made our seaside city famous, and the cost is only a "penny a thrill."

They have the mountain railways, the waltzing swings, the polished bowl, the twin rides, a real water chute, and other Coney Island novelties, and from the manner in which the crowds flock to Earl's Court it is evident that something good can come out of America.

This enterprise is managed by an American, but this is told to you in a whisper, as this is the day of British imperial preference, and no really patriotic Englishman would knowingly ride on a Yankee mountain railway. To overcome this prejudice the press agent is responsible for the statement that "while the ideas are American the novelties are all British made."

SARTORIAL CRITIC SLAPS THE ARTISTS

[Special Despatch.]
London, Saturday.

ONCE more the critic of the Tailor and Cutter is after the artists of the Royal Academy. In commenting upon some of the pictures in the exhibition at Burlington House, he says:—

"There are lapelled coats and waistcoats; there are jackets without buttons and trousers without seams. Some have the breast pocket on the wrong side and others with it far too high. There are black masses below some of the heads that defy identification as to the style of garment the artist intended to portray. The tailor who goes to that exhibition and applies the canons of his art to the portraits will come away disgusted. But," says the sartorial critic, with unconscious irony, "he must bear in mind that it is not every one who is endowed with a tailor's eye."

The tailor critic further says:—

"I came away with the conviction that there was much of the peacock in man. If he gets an office he dresses up like some gilded popinjay, struts and will show off his scarlet and gold, his purple and fine linen, and then rushes off to the painter so as to hand himself down in oils to posterity and convey to them somewhat a wonderful fellow he was in his extraordinary garments. He was arrayed in wool."

According to Mr. J. Akers, the British Commissioner, as the result of an outlay of $81,000 by British manufacturers at the Buenos Ayres Exhibition last year, orders have reached the Old Country amounting to some $15,000,000.

Holding a visitation at Bugsworth and Chinley, an outlying district of the parish of Glossop, the Bishop of Southwell said it was a most unique parish. He knew of no other place where the vicar lived a two-and-a-half-hours' train journey from another part of his parish.

Glass that is unbreakable has been produced for the first time at Baccarat, France. The new process has been successfully applied to the manufacture of lamp-chimneys for use in coal-mines containing much fire-damp. The glass-makers of Baccarat have also succeeded in increasing the elasticity of the glass.

A novel method of cutting down trees has been devised by a Berlin inventor. It consists in the use of a fine steel wire, which is looped about the tree and sawed back and forth by an electric motor. The heat generated is sufficient to burn a thin channel through the wood. A tree 20 inches in diameter can be felled in six minutes.

The organ in the city hall at Hull, Eng., is only surpassed by one other in the surrounding country—the instrument at Colston Hall, Bristol. The Hull organ has five manuals, and among the stops are a complete orchestral set of timpani, besides other percussion instruments; the instrument is an orchestra in itself. Two 10-h.p. motors are used for the bellows. The smallest pipe weighs half an ounce, and the largest half a ton.

A German patent has been secured for the manufacture from the Soya bean of a product to take the place of rubber. The process consists in the reduction of the oil of the Soya bean to a thick, tough liquid through the addition of nitric acid. After further treatment with alkaloid solutions the mixture is heated to 150 degrees, giving a tough, highly elastic product similar to rubber, which can be vulcanised by the same process as rubber.

The menu of a wedding feast in a small Hungarian village is reported from Vienna. The wedding rejoicings started on a Monday afternoon and lasted until Thursday night. There were 1,400 guests, and they consumed an ox roasted whole, eight calves, six lambs, 650 geese, 25 turkeys, 1,200 chickens, 60 pigeons, 3,400 loaves, 400 tins of biscuits, 2 hundred weight of rice, 1,320 gallons of wine, and 100 barrels of beer. Five bands played during the entertainment.

Mme. Rodier, wife of a landowner at Borne, in Holland, had a rather peculiar experience. The good lady, who rejoices in the possession of a large picture-hat of realistic floral design, was sitting dosing in her garden when a swarm of bees surrounded her and settled on the hat. Waking up and realising the danger of the situation, with great presence of mind she went over to an empty hive and shook her hat into it, whereupon the bees took possession. Mme. Rodier escaped scathless.

FROM CARPENTER TO EDITOR

A striking illustration of the versatility of modern man is furnished by the career of Mr. Ramsay Colles. Mr. Colles began life as a carpenter's apprentice, and among the first things he made when he became proficient was a coffin. This he fitted with shelves and drawers, and kept standing in his room at Dublin as a cupboard. Then, in turn, he became manager of a bank, a timber importer, managing director of a cycle company, then newspaper founder and proprietor. Ultimately he became editor of a popular London journal, and devoted much of his time to writing books and editing a series of poetical works.

CHEESE OVER 100 YEARS OLD

In the Alpine regions of the Swiss cantons of Vaud and Valais cheese makers will keep their products for years. They assert that cheese improves with age. At Les Ormontis, in the canton of Vaud, it is customary to make special cheeses for certain family feasts. They are tagged with explanatory labels, and eaten several years later, at other feasts, or even at funerals. Often such cheeses are bequeathed from one generation to another as family souvenirs. At Les Ormontis, in a concealed shelter, there was discovered a cheese dating from 1785. It was as hard as a rock and had to be cut with a saw. It is reported to have tasted "good."

A Soap Lake.

There is a soap lake in Nicaragua. This sheet of water, the Lake of Nejpa, contains a strong solution of bicarbonate of potash, bicarbonate of soda, and sulphate of magnesia. The water, when rubbed against any greasy object, at once forms a lather. It is used as a hair-wash, and enjoys a local reputation as a cure for external and internal complaints.

AN EXPERT BEGGAR

How Lord Rothschild must hate bazaars! At the last one he attended he was badly victimised by a well-known woman author.

"Won't you buy? Won't you buy?" she cried, as he walked past her stall.

"I would willingly," he said, "but really, the articles you have for sale are rather bulky."

Then, catching sight of a little pile of papers, each bearing the author's signature, he added:

"But I shall be proud to purchase your autograph."

With ready wit the lady writer took a slip and scribbled above her name the words: "Received from Baron Rothschild the sum of fifty pounds for charity."

If the baron was staggered he did not show it. Gravely handing her a bank-note for the amount, he said: "Madam, this autograph shall occupy an honored place in my collection."

CROSS ATLANTIC BY MOTOR VESSEL

Eight Ocean-Going Ships, With Oil Heaters, Instead of Steam Boilers, are Under Construction

If everything goes as now planned, the first motor vessel to cross the Atlantic will leave Hamburg for New York early in December.

Eight ocean-going ships, equipped with oil motors instead of steam boilers, are now being constructed in Germany, and they are expected to inaugurate a new era of sea travel. The new ships will be devoid of funnels, so that their appearance will add a new and strange feature to the maritime highways of the world. They will be giant motor boats.

Two motor boats are being built for the Hamburg-American Company; the German Levant Line have ordered a motor ship of more than 3,600 tons; and five motor ships, all exceeding 2,000 tons displacement, are in course of construction for other German shipowners.

Both the motor ships being built for the Hamburg-American Line will be employed for Transatlantic carrying; one of them will make her maiden voyage in December, 1911, the other, a year later. The larger of the two, with 6,500 tons displacement, will be equipped with two oil motors of the Diesel system, each of 1,800 horse power, whereby a speed of 13 or 14 knots per hour will be attained. The smaller of the two, with 5,500 tons displacement, will be equipped with two motors each of 1,500 horse power, producing a speed of 12 or 13 knots.

The advantages of the new motor ships are the economy of the enormous space now devoted to boilers and coal bunkers, the reduction of expenditure on fuel, and the diminution in the number of engine-room hands. The motors of each of the Hamburg-American Company's ships will require only five chauffeurs to tend them; stokers and trimmers, who form such a large proportion of the crews of steamships, are entirely superfluous. Owing to the economy of space and weight due to the absence of boilers and other encumbrances that have become superfluous, the new motor ships will be able to carry considerably more cargo than steamships of the same size.

If these freight motor boats prove a success, the Hamburg-American Line will immediately begin the building of several fast passenger motor boats for their New York service which in magnificence and comfort will surpass any vessel the world has ever seen.

BALLOON ACCIDENT

German Lieutenant Jumped Out When 120 Feet from the Ground

A German balloon which made an ascent from Constance, attempted to descend again near Buchs. The balloon and car drifted against the electric wires of a high-power station, and the car was immediately enveloped in myriads of sparks. One of the passengers, Frits Ultermann, a German lieutenant from Berlin, was so frightened that he jumped out, although the car was over 120 feet from the ground. When picked up he was found to be terribly injured. Both his legs were broken. He had evidently struck the ground feet first, for his feet were crushed, and the bones of one foot were protruding through his boot. The balloon came to earth a few minutes afterwards on the edge of a neighboring wood, and the pilot in charge had his shoulder dislocated.

UNUSUAL VISITOR

Local Man Discovers Deadly Tarantula in Bananas But the Unwelcome Guest Was Quickly Captured

ITS BITE IS FATAL

Mr. A. Goodfellow, of 330 Water street, had the pleasure and notoriety of entertaining a rather unusual visitor to this city for a few days last week. The visitor in question was in the form of a "Tarantula" and came in a bunch of bananas. When discovered at an early hour this morning by Mr. Goodfellow this atrocious looking insect was in a lively mood and was preparing to do some fancy stunts when captured. Its capture was effected by means of a pair of pinchers, which were attached to one of its many legs. It was then loaded into a glass jar and the top put on securely. When seen by an Examiner representative this morning it was in a sullen mood and absolutely refused to be interviewed.

Its general appearance reminds one of a very large spider, it being equipped with eight legs, each about two inches long and two antennes, or hornlike pilaments projecting from the head. The body of the insect is about ttwo inches long and one half inch wide. Mr. Goodfellow also unearthed from the same bunch the skeleton of a similar insect.

The bite of these insects are considered to be extremely dangerous, death having been known to ensue in from fifteen minutes to two hours after being bitten. Their presence in this city seems to be very rare, although an employee of Mr. S. A. Oke, while delivering a bunch of bananas to Mr. Goodfellow this morning, said that they were frequently seen cavorting about in their storage cellar.

TWO MILLION DOLLAR BLAZE VISITS CONEY ISLAND, NEW YORK'S BIG AMUSEMENT PLACE

Two Hundred Buildings Are Burned and Two Thousand Show People Penniless and Out of Work as Result of Conflagration.

NO LIVES WERE LOST

Special Wire to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, N.Y., MAY 27.—Two hundred buildings burned, two million dollars damage was done and two thousand show people are penniless, out of work, and many without clothes, was the result of a fire which attacked America's most famous amusement place, Coney Island, at two o'clock this morning. It is thought no lives were lost, though several people are missing. The fire started in the scenic railway, known as Hell's Gate, and quickly spread to Dreamland, a ten-acre building in full swing, well filled with people, but the many exits in the place enabled all to get out alive. There was great excitement when the flames reached the animals' quarters, in which many dangerous man-eaters are kept, which, if loose, would have caused an awful tragedy. One lion escaped into the equatorial jungle, after diving through the crowd, and was finally killed by mounted police who riddled him with revolver bullets. Sixty valuable animals perished in the fire. After eating up all the buildings ,covering about 200 acres, the fire was got under control.

INVADING THE DOMAIN OF THE OLD MASTERS

New and Artistic Colour Process Applied to Photography at the Roy Studio

The Roy Studio, unremitting in its efforts to provide the very best for its patrons, has introduced a new style of water-colour portrait, which is very near the high-water mark of artistic production. Modern photography has demonstrated that it is capable of wonderful and beautiful results, and this latest advance proves all that is claimed of it.

So much that is loud and trashy, and poor, in colour photography has been put upon the public as art, that it will be a relief and satisfaction to art lovers to see these really meritorious works. The absolutely correct drawing and likeness of the properly made photograph, is retained with all the beauty and depth, and richness of a masterpiece of the fifteenth or sixteenth century added. For anyone who has not been in touch with photography's rapid development it is truly a revelation. Productions in colour are not new to this studio, they having been among the first on the continent to use successfully the wonderful Lumiere process of direct colour photography and many beautiful examples of water colour tinting have been executed. This latest process is the result of years of constant study and experiment.

To all lovers of art and to the public generally, The Roy Studio extends a cordial invitation.

EXTENSIVE ADDITIONS TO THE PETERBORO' CREAMERY

Large and Commodious Structure Erected for Ice Storage Purpose---New System of Cold Storage Installed.

Through the commendable business enterprise of Mr. G. A. Gillespie, a large and commodious addition has been made to the Peterboorugh Creamery, which is located on Aylmer street.

The extension consists of a two-storey brick building in which is installed the boiler and ice cream machinery, including an Emery Thompson ice cream freezer, capable of making 10 gallons of ice in 10 minutes. An ice storage room 25 x 33 x 30 feet high in which is stored 500 tons of ice. This room is fitted up with insulated walls. This permits the ice to be left uncovered all the time.

An ice crusher is installed in the ice roo m.This is driven from the overhead shafting in the ice cream room. The ice when crushed is elevated and delivered to the storage tanks over the refrigerators. The Madison Cooper system is installed, known as the gravity brine system, all of which works automatically.

The tanks into which the ice is delivered are fitted with iron pipe coils which lead down to the ceiling of the refrigerators. These pipes are filled with brine, and when the tanks are filled with ice and salt the circulation commences and according as the temperature rises in the refrigerator rooms, flows continuously into and through the pipes into the tanks filled with ice and salt, cooled and then flows again to the refrigerators. Two immense refrigerators have been installed, one for ice cream and the other for butter. The temperature in these can be held at 15 degrees above zero. The ice cream department will be run under the name of the "Peterborough Ice Cream Co."

These extensions and improvements as a whole will be a great benefit to the Peterborough creamery, as the low temperature now possible for keeping the butter cool, places the creamery in a position to hold their butter when the market is low, until a higher market, which is always assured later in the season, when the early surplus butter is consumed.

The Peterborough creamery will now be in a position to go into the manufacture of ice cream on a wholesale basis, having a plant capable of turning out the finished article in rapid fashion and having a constant supply of cream available at the lowest possible cost. It is presumed that most of the local confectioners will find it more convenient and economical to have their ice cream made for them at the Peterborough creamery, rather than go to the expense and trouble of manufacturing it themselves under the old system.

CELEBRATED EMPIRE DAY AT KING EDWARD SCHOOL

Addresses were given by the Revs. Brown, Riddiford, Webb, Inspector Mowat, and in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Hill, Chairman of the School Board, Mr. Crane addressed the assembly, which dispersed after the singing of the National Anthem.

The outer ring of London, however, shows an increase of 33.49 per cent., with a population of 2,730,002. The night population of the City of London is given at 19,057, a decrease of 26.89 per cent.

The census returns for Ireland show a population of 4,381,951. This is a decrease from ten years ago of 1.7 per cent. The decrease in the male population was 6 and the number of females 2.8 per cent.

GUELPH'S POWER PLANT GIVEN A SEVERE TEST

GUELPH, MAY 26.—Niagara power is now being used exclusively by the Light and Heat Commission in supplying light and power to its patrons. Mr. C. Carter, representing the Lancashire Dynamo Company of Manchester, England; Mr. Tierman, of the Canadian General Electric Company; Mr. Richards, the Commission's electrical engineer; local Manager Heeg and Chairman Carter made a tour of inspection of the whole plant yesterday and found things in first-class condition. The generator sets and transformers were all given the most severe tests, and showed much better results than were expected. The experts pronounced the Guelph plant one of the finest they had seen, and congratulated the Commission on the thoroughness of the work done.

HEBREWS OF PETERBORO' TO HOLD CELEBRATION TO-MORROW RECEIVE NEW BOOKS OF THE LAW

Notable Event in History of the Hebrews of This City---Book is Written on Parchment and Costs $105---Local Rabbi Will Add a Few Words to the Manuscript During the Ceremony.

The nine Hebrew families of Peterborough will to-morrow come into their own as to the fuller congregational enjoyment of religious services.

To-morrow at one thirty o'clock there will be a meeting at 267 Simcoe street, to hold jubilee over the reception of a new Boo kof Law, the counterpart in text, of our Old Testament, but quite different in form. The new Book of the Law or Bible is written by hand and in calf-skin parchment. The work was done in New York and it makes a rather costly, if not valuable document. Its cost is $105, some of the more elaborate costing as much as $500. So it is evident that there is no Bible Society to give our Hebrew brethren, the Bible at a modest price.

The Book of the Law, which will be rejoiced over to-morrow ,will be received in an uncompleted form. There is space left, and a few words of the last chapter of the Book of Prophecy, of Malachi, will be added by Rabbi Blecher of the local Hebrew congregation, to give them a share in the work of engrossing the Bible which will hereafter be a precious possession.

There is expected to be a considerable gathering of Hebrews from the surrounding towns and some from Toronto. After the ceremony of completing the Book of the Law there will be a feast and other forms of rejoicing in keeping with the solemnity and importance of the occasion.

"ONE WAY OUT" IS THE EXAMINER'S NEW SERIAL

New Story Will be Widely Different From Others Published by This Paper, but Will be Found Fascinatingly Interesting.

POINT GOOD MORAL

The Examiner's new serial story, which will commence next week, "One Way Out," by William Carleton, will be found widely different in character from any story the Examiner has yet published and will, it is safe to say, make a more lasting impression and have a greater effect for good than any of its predecessors. At the same time it will be found fascinatingly interesting.

In this remarkable narrative a man tells simply but with dynamic power how at thirty-eight he lost his position in the office of a big corporation; how he learned that the special training of his own office was o' no value in getting him a position in any other office; how at thirty-eight he was already "too old" to get such a position as he had found easily epough at eighteen; how he and his wife and boy in their trim little suburban home were actually confronted with a fundamental problem of how to exist; how he met and solved that problem in a way unexpected and dramatic, though to him and his wonderful wife, Ruth, obvious and natural, by "emigrating" to America; and how in all their struggle they found their lives enriched and inspired by the old adventurous, pioneer spirit of their forefathers.

A few brief chapters from this narrative were recently published in a great weekly magazine and awakened an animated discussion from one end of the country to the other. The Examiner will contain the complete story.

Once in a while a book appears which so profoundly impresses the public mind that it wins its place as a force in public opinion. Such a book, not only on account of its deep human appeal but also on account of its illumination of the present problem of "the high cost of living," is One Way Out.

Here are some genuine letters—only three out of the many—written either to the editor of the magazine in which a few brief chapters from "One Way Out" first appeared or to the author himself. Consider for a moment how deeply impressed the writers of these letters must have been to sit down and let the unknown author know that his narrative had found its way to their hearts.

"Dallas, Texas.

"To the man who wrote 'One Way Out':

"Last night four technically trained college men sat up till 11.30 p.m. discussing your narrative.

"Every man is unmarried, drawing a salary over $1500 per year, with ages ranging between 28 and 32. Every man was vividly impressed — personally touched—deeply affected. Every man was absolutely inspired in a way I've never seen before.

"To-day the ment ion of the story to our Sales Manager—married, approximately $2000—aroused immediate response and the fervid discussion continued for two hours.

"To-day I opened a savings account.

"To-night I shall try and reconcile my upset philosophies to accord with yours.

"You have written a masterpiece. You have analyzed the absurd foolishness and false ideals at the basis of our social system. Emerson is great, but you have written something which is so simple, true, inspiring, yet so grippin gand galvanic in its effect that it stirs real, live, normal, red blood, successful men to action in a manner truly marvelous. I've never met a person, read a book, listened to a sermon which made me think, appealed to the primitive instincts of truth within me as has your narrative.

"You have done a great service to the American people.

"Accept the heartfelt thanks of one reader."

"New York.

"Dear Sir:

"Have just finished the story entitled 'One Way Out.'

"I am a young middle-class American— born in the city of New York, but I have felt like emigrating to America.

"The story is the most well-written, inspiring, instructive, and interesting I have ever read. It rings true. I would like to get a job in Carleton's gang.

"Very sincerely,"

"Ithaca, N.Y.

"Dear Sir:

"'One Way Out" is about the best thing I have ever read. This is so because the author's life has followed out my own convict ions.

"If the author will consent to it, I want to know his name and address, in fact, I almost feel that I MUST know it for knowing one REAL man with the possibility of gripping his hand at some time is worth more than the acquaintance of many males called men.

"I do not ask this for the purpose of publicity, but simply for the sake of knowing another man who is genuinely of my own heart and convictions.

"I trust that you will do what you can for me in this matter, and I thank you heartily for the favour.

"Very truly yours,"

"One Way Out" will commence in the Examiner next week.

AN INVALUABLE MEDICINE

Mrs. W. Arnold, Edmonton, Alta., writes: "Kindly send me a box of Baby's Own Tablets. They have been invaluable to me and I really do not know how I ever would have got along without them. Baby was poorly; his digestion was bad and he was constipated. I gave him the Tablets and they made a fine healthy boy of him. Now, whenever he is cross or troubled with constipation, I always give him the Tablets and they relieve him right away. I tried a lot of other medicine but nothing seemed to agree with him till I got the Tablets. I would not be without them." This testimony of Mrs. Arnold is that of thousands of other mothers. Everyone who ever uses Baby's Own Tablets have words of praise for them. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BREACH OF GAME LAWS

Several Men in Court This Morning on Charges of This Nature and One is Fined for Shooting a Buck in April

HUNTING ON SUNDAY

James Trebilcock, a Rosseath Indian, appeared in the Police Court this morning, charged with being drunk. He pleaded guilty. He stated that he got his supply of liquor at North Bay, and did not intend to get off here. He had been working in the woods all winter at $35 per month, and out of his winter's wages he only had $10.00 left. He could not account for its disappearance. He said that he lost his grip in which were several articles of clothing, etc. He wanted to get away on the boat this afternoon to go home, so arrangements were accordingly made to let him go.

Two North Monaghan men, who live within a cuple of miles of the city, were arraigned before his Worship, Magistrate Dumble on a charge of shooting wild ducks out of season. The date was the 11th of April last. The two men were together when they were caught, and as it happened only one could be found guilty, as only one duck had been shot, and one of them admitted killing it. He was fined $10.00 and costs, amounting to $13.00. He paid the fine. Inspectors John Kane and West, gave evidence in the case.

The accused gave evidence to the effect that they were out after owls and hawks that had been destroying their chickens, and saw the duck sitting on the bank of the river. They were not sure that it was a common wild duck, but fired for sport, with the result as stated. The evidence of the Inspectors and that of the defendants, somewhat clashed, as the Inspector stated that when he caught them, the man who accompanied the one who did the deed, stated that a trapper had given them the duck. His Worship thought that the fact of them having the duck in their possession in the closed season was conviction enough and acted accordingly.

Frank Walker, a young Englishman, was charged with unlawfully hunting for ducks and other wild game, on the 9th of April, the Lord's day. He pleaded guilty, and after the circumstances were explained, he was dismissed. The Inspector stated that the Englishman had only been out to this country about four days when the incident occurred, and that he was ignorant of the laws. The boy stated that in the Old Country it was not against the law to go hunting on Sunday. The case was dismissed.

PROFITS WASTED.

In another column of this paper will be found an article reprinted from Farm and Dairy, which deals with a subject of vital interest to farmers and dairymen. It is universally acknowledged that the average farmer does not get from the cultivation of the soil more than half of what it is capable of producing. The article referred to shows that the same applies to the dairying industry, especially the cheese-making part of it. The importance of utilizing the by products may easily represent the difference between a moderate profit, if not, counting everything ,actual loss and an excellent profit .Without wishing to pun, but to attract attention, it seems that it would pay the cheese makers and milk purveyors to convert the by products into sell products. It is a fact that our local farmers are not deriving the returns they should realize, from their milk, because of the little value given to the whey resulting from cheese manufacture. If they should consult the report of the Danish Swine Commission, they would see that the proper utilisation of by-products of the dairy—chiefly whey, is a large factor in the big success and big profits of both the dairying and swine-raising industries. It is jocularly said that the pork packers, utilize to a profit every part of the pig but the squeal. Farmers and dairymen could profitably follow the spirit of this way of making money out of what now largely goes to waste in the processes of cheese-making. If this matter is intelligently attended to, the cheese factories will not be "doomed." They will rather gather a gilt-edge from increased profits.

CHURCH UNION.

Church Union is as illogical and unnecessary a term as daytime sunlight. The church is one with a single Head, and in this sense, there is already church union. But the church is split into sections—sects. It is the organic union of these that is contemplated. It is a splendid dream, but as far as realization is to be hoped for, church union is to be classified, with such chimerical quests in the physical domain as perpetual motion, the philosopher's stone the universal solvent, the elixir of life and—and honesty in politics. There seem to be insuperable obstacles to organic church union, in the form of irreconcilable differences in ecclesiastial polity, in peculiar forms and spirit of worship, as dear and unsurrenderable to the holders as their belief itself, and doctrinal differences. Organic union argues surrender of individuality of existence, and what each branch of the church regards as essentials, to an extent to be practically impossible. The human element in the separated churches forbids the hope that what may be gained by union, will find compensation in the expected advantages, which, after all, are questionable. If the churches will not cherish and act upon the spirit of mutual surrender in small things, what can be expected of the weightier matters of yielding? A local instance of how irreconcilable and insurmountable are feelings and prejudices, is of recent origin. In this district an attempt was made by two evengelical bodies to rearrange territory occupied by the respective "charges" and "circuits" to secure easier and larger work and avoid useless dispersion of ecclesiastical and pastoral energy. But even in this limited area, even in the comparatively minor issues involved, agreement was found impossible. If, in such small matters in which the mutual sacrifice and surrender were so comparatively trifling, there was failure, what are we to expect of the larger scheme?

But, if church union were practicable, would it be the better for the interests of Christianity and evangelisation? Would an unwieldy mass, like an organically united church, have the same spirit of aggressiveness, the same pliability in moulding itself to conditions and special requirements that is to be found in the separate churches, as they now stand? Would there be the same spirit of righteous rivalry that operates as a spur to zeal? Would the big, dignified body do as good work, in a missionary sense, as under the present condition, in which each church is a vital and active centre of religious propagandism and influence? The churches are to-day doing a great work, and would do a greater, if so much costly and fruitless overlapping of effort were eliminated. In the mission field three or four churches are tilling the same moral plot, which could easily be covered by one, and besides leaves other fields unserved. This involves wasted effort on the part of men and unnecessary expenditure of money, which could be devoted to the establishment of new centres of Christian influence. Church union of lively zeal, in the adaptation of individual effort to better advantage, would be a good thing. But organic church union seems to be as distant as undesirable, in the interests of humanity as related to religious considerations. The world is not ripe for ecclesiastical communism any more than it is ripe for political communism. The individuality of the several churches is as real as the individuality obtaining among men. Each, operating in its or his own sphere, in the way that centuries and years of experience show to be best for their polity and temperament, will have better results than communal effort robbed of the vitality of individuality and healthy rivalry. The churches are doing well now as they are. They can do better by each concentrating effort on the real aggressive work of gospel diffusion and evangelistic effort. If the individual church organizations would confine themselves to the work for which they were organized; if they would give their whole effort to obedience to the divine command to preach the Gospel; if they would cast out the ministerial money changers, who traffic in the temple of the church in the spurious coinage of an emasculated and deformed theology—the real enemies of church union in its best capability and manifestations—the world would be revolutionized and be made far better than could be expected from any scheme of church union that might have the form of great things, but would not have the power, the distinct embodiments of Christian activity and influence, that now bless the world.

Assuming National Responsibility And Trusting To Our Own Strength

Mr. Chapleau used to say there is only one way to govern a country, and that either party in office is likely to deal with great problems pretty much as the other would in its place. It begins to look as though there was much wisdom in what he said. The confident Canadianism shown by the Conservatives in office seems now to be monopolized by the Liberals, in office.

Long ago, when there was good reason to apprehend the kind of trouble that originated in filibustering expeditions, the government of Canada, officered by Conservative statesmen, was not afraid to let the British garrison be withdrawn from Canada and to let the country depend upon its own strength as found in the newly organized militia. Sir John Macdonald, when he was alive, was not for shirking his responsibilities as a Canadian statesman and leaning upon British diplomacy; so much was the contrary the case that he made himself a very unpleasant travelling companion for the British representatives at the Treaty of Washington. It was a Conservative Government made good the right to tax the products of British industries with a view to encouraging Canadian industries. It was a Conservative Government that flatly negatived the suggestion to contribute men or money for agencies of war which should be withdrawn from Canadian and placed under British control. One Conservative government after another avowed its readiness to have Canada enter into just such an arrangement for reciprocal trading with the United States as is at this moment under consideration. In those days, when strong men led the party and it was really responsible for guiding the destinies of the country, things were done in the natural way, almost it might be said the inevitable way, assuming Canada to be a country of freemen, ready and able to bear the burden of the responsibilities peculiar to their situation.

In our day, possibly largely because they are of the party charged with the responsibility, it is the Liberal statesmen who are showing this same rugged confidence in the ability of Canadians to stand alone, and who are going from one project to another, dealing with each in the way it must be dealt with by a self-reliant people. The grant of the British preference, without haggling or huckstering, a free will offering with no string to it, was one example. Laying the foundations of a navy, which should make the double Canadian seaboard the base of its operations and first object of its solicitude, was another. The natural way with such an institution was to make it Canadian from start to finish, from contract to control. Neither Sir John Macdonald nor Sir Alexander Galt would have dreamed of proceeding otherwise; no, nor Sir Georges Cartier either. Granted that there are possibilities foreseen by one set of critics of control being exercised to the detriment of Great Britain's interests, and by another set of that control being too easily parted with, still, the world being just what it is, and it being impossible to eliminate existing facts by merely disliking them, the natural way, the essentially Canadian way, was to proceed upon the assumption that Canada is a nation strong enough to look after her own interests and to exercise her own good judgment whenever the occasion arises. So Canadians are to have a Canadian navy. And the present leader of the Conservative party, before he allowed himself to be bullied by over-eager partisans, made it quite clear that he approved of the natural way.

And now we come to a suggested exchange of products with our American neighbours. For fifty years we have wanted the chance. When it comes, and it has come unexpectedly, the Liberal statesmen welcome it. Mr. Fielding accepts what Sir John Thompson was eager to obtain, leave for Canadian products to enter the American market. He does the natural thing. And he does it in a natural way as acting for self-respecting people, by rendering favour for favour, and neither asking nor taking something for nothing. Neither Sir John Macdonald nor Sir John Thompson would have been afraid to meet such a situation as now arisen in the way it has been met. They would have done what it was natural to do. They, like most other Canadians who have the right spirit towards their country, thought too much of their own and the people's natural spirit to be afraid of its being weakened by a little easing of the ways of trade. They knew, as we know, that Canada's is not and cannot be a hothouse civilization, whose glories would perish if the cold winds of the outside world were let blow in. Fear is no counsel to offer to men of the northern zone. We go on, doing things our own way, and taking the consequences, which are never what the fearful ones apprehend.

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

The City of Peterborough never looked so well—on the outside—as it does at present. The growth this season has been phenomenal, and everything is far in advance of other years at a corresponding time. Many flowers and shrubs that are timed to bloom with the June brides, have anticipated the orthodox date, and everything conspires to give the city a festive appearance. The trees are in full leaf, and throughout the city the brush of the painter has been busy, and homes bright with new garnishing gleam brightly amidst the embowering greenery of the trees. The streets are, as a rule, clean and tidy.

Here and there, however, there are faults of untidiness. Here and there heaps of rubbish, unsightly, and out of harmony with the general tidiness.

This suggests the advisability of the Board of Works converting this spring's splendid spasm of spring cleaning of the streets into a system. One thing that prevents people being tidy, in respect of placing lawn rakings on the streets, is that in the case of small premises there is no other place to put them. Though in principle these heaps of litter are as much out of place and as unsightly on the street as they are upon a lawn, the habit, persisting from time immemorial—an inheritance of the days when culture and the spirit of civic tidiness were deeply overlaid with the problem of daily bread winning, or bringing two ends of household expense within touching distance—the habit of selecting the street is followed. The city could do no more acceptable a thing than to provide for the regular removal of these heaps of unsightliness litter the streets.

This could be conveniently done in connection with a garbage collection system. This we should have in the interests of the public health, both directly and indirectly. Directly, because household operations produce a great deal of refuse that lends itself readily to fermentation, foul smells and exhalations noxious to health. Indirectly; because the garbage heap is a favourite nidus for the breeding of house flies, the most multitudinous and most certain distributors of disease germs known to pathological science—especially the germs of contagious disease. Where the garbage is there will the flies be gathered together and breed.

Peterborough is as good a town as Brockville — as beautiful and progressive, and many of us think more so, in both ways. Brockville, at the last meeting of its Council, passed a by-law to establish a system of garbage collection and disposal. The town is divided into two "beats," and the collection of garbage is a matter of contract. Between May and October the garbage cart makes two visits a week and comes once a week the rest of the year. The cost to each householder is fifteen cents per month, and the result will be a clean town.

It may be asked what relation has garbage collection to civic beauty. Though beauty is only skin deep, the best beauty depends upon sound bodily health, cleanliness inside, as well as outside. We should not only aim at being a tidy city, with clean, beautiful streets and public places, but pure and clean within; not merely make clean the outside of the cup and platter, and leave within the dirt analogue of the Scriptural "rottenness and dead men's bones"—festering garbage heaps, poisoning the air and breeding the disease disseminating fly at our doors. We should avoid the case of the man, the style of whose new house was "Queen Anne in front and Mary Ann in the rear".

We should be able to work a garbage collection system with a street-cleaning system; but en passant, it may be remarked we might improve upon the Brockville method of payment. In place of a fixed fee of so much for each householder, the fee might be graded according to the assessment, or according to the number of rooms, and a considerable proportion placed upon the general pay roll for many who live in lodgings and bonding houses, who get as much benefit as others, proportionately, escape payment under the Brockville system.

This would bring in everybody who benefits, and thus would be applied the principle of co-operation, without which the fullest measure of civic beauty cannot be attained.

We must seek to abolish divided jurisdiction and responsibility and secure unity of action and system.

In default of this our public places are not what they should be. The city has charge of the streets, but there is no ownership of our parks in some cases. Where there is undivided authority and fixed responsibility there is good result. Nicholls Park and Jackson Park are under one authority and they are creditable. Victoria Park, in the hands of the Horticultural Society, is a beauty spot; but Central Park, with four masters, in an advance upon the sad results of attempting to serve two masters. It is doubtful of there is another public place in any city of Canada so centrally situated and the centre of so much concentrated and disgraceful untidiness, ugliness, and neglect. Divided into three sections there is no uniformity of care or culture. There is no uniformity of grass cutting. There is no uniformity of any kind, except the general slatternly and inharmonious result. The turf that should be trim and beautiful, is diagonally bisected by straggling sheep paths, hideously and outrageously unsightly.

We shall never have Central Park a credit to the city and an asset of the city beautiful till we get it placed under some one responsible authority. The four bodies that have a finger in the park pie pull apart, instead of pulling together, and lo the result.

We should have a park commission. In a city the size of Peterborough we can certainly find three men of taste and culture, three men of refined ideas, with a taste for the beautiful and the seemly in regard to public places and the treatment of trees, shrubs and flowers, who would give their service, if they were given authority. Get three of the right men; give them sufficient means; give them a free hand and full responsibility, and then give them "God speed," and you will have reason to give them credit for creditable effects. We must do something to remove the reproach of Central Park, which, in relation to the vicinity of adjacent parks, and the beauty of environing private premises, suggests the antithesis of the jewel and the swine's snout—and a passer-by can make no mistake as to which is the jewel and which the swine's snout.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There is a lot of young Canadians, says the Globe, who have grown to manhood since 1896. They know nothing of the lean years that preceded the advent to office of the Liberal Government. Let them ask their elders if they would like a return of the "good old days" when Foster "lopped the mouldering branches" of the tariff in the vain hope of restoring prosperity, and a Tory Premier, after the desertion of half his colleagues, declared that he had been living in "a nest of traitors."

No Desire for Food

The Stomach Seems Played Out and the Appetite Fickle.

The Digestive System is Overloaded With Poisons—Relief Comes With the Use of

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Weak stomach, loss of appetite, indigestion and all the accompanying symptoms of energy, tend to make the springtime anything but joyous for many people.

The system is full of poisons, the blood is impure, the liver and kidneys have been overworked in an effort to remove the waste matter and have failed. This accounts for the biliousness, the constipation, the backaches and headaches.

How is this condition to be overcome? There is no quicker or more certain way than by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. This treatment gets the liver and kidneys in action at once and ensures regular movement of the bowels.

The poisonous waste matter which has been clogging the digestive system is removed and the organs of digestion are enabled to properly perform their duties.

Appetite is sharpened, you eat your food with a relish, the stomach is strengthened, the vital organs get the nourishment they require, and vigour and energy are restored.

There is no reason for anyone who knows of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to have impure blood or to suffer the annoyance of tired, spring feelings. One pill a dose, 25c. a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

PIANOFORTE RECITAL A SPLENDID SUCCESS

Mrs. Greenslade's Pupils Made Splendid Showing at Recital Held in Rooms of J. M. Greene Music Co.—Pupils, Parents and Friends Attended.

The pianoforte recital of Mrs. Greenslade's pupils, which was held last evening in the spacious rooms of the J. M. Much credit is due the pupils for the excellent manner in which they played their parts, and they not only reflected great credit upon themselves but on Mrs. Greenslade, their efficient teacher.

Miss Greta LeBar, assisted Mrs. Greenslade, and deserves special praise for her excellent assistance. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity, with the parents and friends of the children.

Programme For 57th's Visit

The Brockville Times says:

Three of the officers of the Peterborough Rangers, Major Bennett, Major Clegg and Capt. McLean, arrived in town yesterday on the 10.14 train in the morning, where they were met by Major Patterson, the popular paymaster of the 41st, who drove the visitors around town, assisting them in making arrangements for the visit of their regiment here on the first of July. It is probable that the regiment will camp at the north end of the Bellford athletic grounds. They will arrive in the morning of the first of July, and remain until Sunday evening, the second of July. The band, which is one of the best in the province, will give a concert on Court House avenue on Saturday evening of the 1st July, and a sacred concert on Sunday afternoon of the second. A church parade will be held on Sunday morning, in which the 41st will probably join with the visitors.

The Peterborough corps is a fine regiment of eight companies and will likely arrive about four hundred strong. They wear the regulation infantry red uniform. Meals will be served the regiment at the Strathcona, St. Lawrence Hall, Grand Central, the Commercial and Alden Hotels.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES

Through the kindness of Hon. J. R. Stratton, the Library is now in possession of a complete set of topographical maps of Western Canada and also of a great part of Eastern Canada. These will be of great value for reference work. There are also many maps relating to the Gowganda region.

In the late consignment of books there are many that are of special value to teachers and parents who are in the habit of reading aloud to their children. Chief among these may be mentioned the Children's Hour (9 vols.) These books are filled with matter of the greatest interest to young people and it is a practical certainty that they will be amongst the best used books in the Library when they once become known. They are placed in the juvenile section and can be easily got at by the public.

The Librarian once more requests those who make use of the shelves to bear in mind the fact that much trouble is saved by having books changed before going to seek fresh ones. The amount of trouble that is caused by certain people making a practice of carrying their book into the stack room and leaving them heedlessly about is only appreciated by those who have to rectify the errors caused by their being mislaid.

A propos of this it may be added that as the membership of the Library is now nearly 1700 it can be seen that unless a strict system of changing books is maintained and it can always be maintained by the public loyally falling in with the requirements, a high standard of efficiency cannot be attained.

A set of the late Walter Besant's works has been lately added to the fiction department in order to replace the former set which has reached the limit of its usefulness. This author's works should be read by all who enjoy clean, wholesome literature. They are full of interest and can be read by old and young with equal zest.

A DOUBLE CURE FOR DOUBLE TROUBLE

Father Morrisey's No. 26 Cures Catarrh by a Combined Treatment.

The sudden weather variations in our climate result in a great many cases of catarrh—a troublesome disease usually considered hard to cure, and one which often leads to serious pulmonary and intestinal troubles.

A neglected cold in the head weakens the nasal membranes, so that at every future exposure the trouble returns. At length these conditions are fastened onto the system, and the sufferer undergoes the annoyance and danger of chronic catarrh.

Some doctors confine themselves to prescribing external applications, and thus do not reach the seat of the trouble. Others give internal treatment exclusively, and thus do not promptly relieve the affected parts.

Father Morrisey, the skilled priest-physician, rightly regarded catarrh as a double trouble, consisting of unpleasant local effects and their fundamental causes, the latter having to do with impaired general vitality.

His famous remedy, No. 26, is a combined cure for catarrh. It consists of tablets to be taken three times a day, and an especially compounded salve.

The salve is antiseptic, and quickly heals the inflamed membranes of the nasal passages. The tablets go to the seat of the trouble and restore the system to its usual tone. Together, they cure.

Instead of neglecting a disease that is unpleasant to yourself and to others, and one which often leads to pneumonia and consumption, it is surely the part of wisdom to take timely steps to do away with the effects and at the same time remove the cause. No 26 does just that.

50c. for the combined treatment. At your druggist's, or from Father Morrisey Medicine Co., L't'd, Montreal, Que.

Court Chemong Church Parade On June 18th

The regular monthly meeting of Court Chemong, No. 530, I.O.F., was held in the S. O. E. hall on Thursday evening. The meeting was presided over by Bro. F. C. Rooke, C.R., there being a good representation of the members present. Bro. F. Mullett, D.H.C.R., was present, and presented the Court with a number of applications for membership in the Order, and four of these were duly initiated. The returns from the Head Office show 3,820 applications for March, and more are expected for April, thus bringing the entire membership up to nearly the 250,000 mark. The annual church service came up for discussion when it was unanimously decided that the members attend the service at St. John's church on the evening of Sunday, June 18th, when the Rev. Canon J. C. Davidson will deliver the annual sermon.

A number of candidates will be initiated at the next meeting, on June 8th, to which the members are invited to make full arrangements for the annual church service.

ANNUAL EXCURSION OF ANGLING CLUB

ARE THEY DOOMED?

From Farm and Dairy.

"The cheese factories of Peterboro county are doomed. They will have to give place to creameries." With this statement a recent caller at the Farm and Dairy office (who, by the way, does not wish his name mentioned in this connection, although for the past two years he has had an opportunity of learning at first hand the cheese factory conditions in the county) started in to discuss the local cheese factory business.

"In our cheese factories here," he said, "the whey is a dead loss. A few men only are getting it. Often one man near the factory buys the whey and in other cases where all of the patrons are supposed to share alike in the whey a few men living close to the factory get it; and then the whey is not always in good condition. In cases where the whey is sold patrons do not get enough for it. In fact the price they get scarcely amounts to anything.

TWO REMEDIES

"As a remedy for the existing evil in this connection, cooperative piggeries would help out somewhat, or it would be better to have the whey pasteurized and have it sent back each day to the patrons. I noted with much satisfaction the article of Mr. Reddick's, of the Wooler cheese factory, in Farm and Dairy, May 11th. Mr. Reddick is much in favor of pasteurizing the whey.

"At any rate, let it be known," continued our friend, "that unless some better means of handling the whey is adopted, butter factories are going to come in and oust the cheese factories in this county of Peterboro. At Havelock the old cheese factory was started as a butter factor; this spring, and it is hurting the business of cheese making at other factories around there. At Central Smith also they are working into butter. Mr. Campbell, the maker, I am informed, is taking in either milk for cheese making or cream for butter making as the patrons may send. The competition of the creamery at Peterboro is making it necessary to make butter at Central Smith. In one or two instances elsewhere in the county several small factories are likely to give up making cheese and a creamery will be established in their place.

"In the face of this situation," our informant concluded, "the question naturally arises, 'Is there a market for this butter?' If there is not, we had better stay with the cheese making.

"How will the situation be met? In my estimation it will help a lot to properly pasteurize the whey and send it back to each patron. The dairy farmers of the county are coming to realise as they never did before the feeding value of skim milk. On that account the creamery is bound to become more and more popular. I should like to know what some of the local readers of Farm and Dairy have to say about the situation."

BABY ATTRACTED ATTENTION

People Stopped His Mother On The Street.

"Our eldest boy, Maurice, was born at Cheddar, Somerset, England. We put him on Neave's Food when one week old, and he never tasted anything else until his first birthday. When he was 15 months old, we came to Canada, and we kept Maurice chiefly on Neave's Food until he was nearly two years old. And he is one of the bonniest boys I have ever seen. Hundreds of people have remarked on his size. When he was a big baby, people stopped me on the street and in the stores to ask how old Maurice was and what he was fed on. He is very bright and intelligent, and has never had an illness.

Our youngest child, Douglas, is two years old and we put him on Neave's Food when he was a week old and he did just as well on it as Maurice, and is a fine, strong, healthy boy."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Micah's Picture of Universal Peace. (An International Peace Lesson). Micah iv:1-8.

Golden Text—Nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. Micah iv:3.

(1.) Verse 1—What are your ideas concerning the millenium?

(2) What institution to-day stands as a mountain above every other institution?

(3) When will Christianity probably sway the hearts of the nations so that her beneficent laws will dominate them?

What are the influences at work to-day which make for the Christianization of the nation?

(5) Verse 2.—What can churches and individuals do more than they are doing, to make the nations of the earth Christian?

(6). Verse 3—When will nations begin "to beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks?"

(7) There probably never was a time when the civilized nations were spending as much money on their armies and navies as now, or were more thoroughly prepared for war, what does this indicate as to the coming of universal peace?

(8) What is probably the cost per annum of (1) the standing armies (2) the navies of the civilized nations

(9) If fifty per cent. of the vast sum spent in preparation for war were spent in educating the nations in the folly of war, and in the sufficiency of arbitration to settle disputes, how many years would it take to accomplish?

(10) What would be the effect if the universities of the world were to establish chairs for teaching the folly of war, and the morality, and economics of peace?

(11) When did you last listen to a sermon from your pastor on the crime and folly of war?

(12) To what extent is the Christian church responsible for the present insane preparation for war?

(13) If Jesus were now in the flesh and addressed public gatherings what would he probably say about present day war preparations? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club).

(14) Verses 4-7—If the nations of the earth were to disarm and make a treaty of perpetual peace, what would be its economic, its social, and ethical effect?

(15) What effect would perpetual peace have upon the evangelisation of the world?

(16) What can we do more, to arouse the average man to a realization of the stupendous folly and crime of war?

PETERBORO' AND LAKE SIMCOE NAVIGATION CO'Y, LIMITED

The New Offices of the Company Removed to the Wolfe St. Wharf---New Business System Inaugurated

The new head offices of the Peterborough and Lake Simcoe Navigation Co., which are now situated alongside the Wolf Street Wharf, should prove much more convenient for both the Company and its patrons. The change is certainly a move in the right direction, and will be appreciated by the general public, but especially by shippers and passengers using this Company's line of steamers. The main office is fitted up for general business and is equipped with modern office fittings, telephone, typewriter, bookkeeper, etc. Adjoining the business office is the private quarters of Mr. R. Pinchin, the active Secretary-Treasurer and Manager, where he will be available to the public for information pertaining to the Company. The new President, Mr. E. F. Mason, is proving himself a practical head to the Company, instituting important improvements in the management, which are for the betterment of its business. With the cooperation of his efficient manager, the large amount of business involved in looking after a fleet of six steamers, is becoming thoroughly systemized, and put on a satisfactory foundation. The boats comprising this line of steamers are as follows: "Otonabee," "Monarch," "Geneva," "Lintonia," "Water Lily," and "Manita". When it is taken into account that each one of these steamers has to be maintained and operated on a separate and distinct account of their own some idea may be formed of the completeness of system and oversight necessary in carrying out details.

Commencing early in June the citizens of Peterborough will have a regular daily service to all Rice Lake points on the steamer "Geneva," Capt. W. C. Harris; the 'Water Lily' will give a morning service to all Stony Lake points, returning in the evening. The "Lintonia," Capt. Geo. D. Frewer, will give a morning service from South Beach through Stony Lake to Bobcaygeon, and returning, meet the C. P. R. train from Toronto at noon. The "Monarch," Capt. E. Elliott, commencing July 3rd, will give a morning service from Bobcaygeon, Burleigh Falls and Chemong. The steamer "Manita," Capt. S. R. Pearson, is now running a regular service in connection with C.P.R. and G.T.R. out of Lindsay to Sturgeon Point, twice a week, going to Fenelon Falls and Coboconck The steamer Otonabee has secured several splendid excursions for June and July, the larger ones being L. O. L. 457 Nassau; St. Andrew's S. S.; St. Paul's S. S.; Mark St. S. S.; George St. Methodist S. S.; Bethany Tabernacle; Medcalf St. M. Church, Oshawa; St. Paul's Brotherhood and others, indicating a splendid excursion season. In Lake Simcoe waters, commencing July 11th, the Otonabee has some splendid bookings, and it is anticipated that the season will be a successful one. The Superintendent of the Trent Canal, Mr. McClellan, has the channel and buoys in splendid shape especially along the canal, and the tourists and others can rest assured that their safety will be well looked after, both by the Boat Company and the Government officials.

Peterborough Man Was Badly Injured In Toronto

TORONTO, MAY 27.—Two men are in a serious condition at St. Michael's Hospital as the result of two unusual accidents yesterday.

George Carter, learning to be a conductor on the street cars, comes from Peterborough, Ont. Yesterday afternoon he was riding on the knife-board of an open avenue trailer. Geo. A. Graham's big touring car was standing in the roadway at Avenue road and Cottingham street. It was not fairly against the curb and, the hood being down, this part of the machine struck Carter, knocking him to the pavement. One rib was broken and pierced the lungs.

Charles Barker, a teamster, living at 111 Berkeley street, while backing his team in a lane in rear of the Ontario Woollen Mills, was impaled upon the tongue of the wagon. The tongue pierced the abdomen when he was jamped against the wall. He walked to his home holding his hand over the wound, which was bleeding profusely.

YOU LOOK OLD!

In nine cases out of ten it is not because you are old, but because you are tired, all worn out, and you act as if you just wondered how you are doing to get through the season and do your work.

This condition may be caused by a run down and debilitated condition, or by a bad cold which has left you without strength or ambition.

We want to ask every such person to try Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil. If it does not build you up and make you feel young, strong and well again, we will return the money you paid us for it. Isn't that fair? London Preparing For Coronation Events
Special English Letter

Special to The Examiner.

LONDON, ENG., MAY 12, 1911.—It is understood that the House of Commons rises for the holidays on 30th May. The adjournment will be for a fortnight. On Monday week the second reading of the Insurance Bill will be taken and the most interesting period of the sessions Social reform will then be reached. The Government had expected the epoch making measure in their legislative programme would be the Parliament Bill. The working men of the Kingdom had often debated the Lords' veto and had long since settled the question, which, for the common people, was no longer of the most vital interest. For the working folk who are the keenest politicians, the most pressing question was should the Social Reform section of the Radical programme be pushed in this Parliament, as Mr. Lloyd George had promised. The main dish has now been put on the table and the working men of all parties, and even the Tory newspapers have hailed it with surprise and delight. If this "Insurance" scheme be "Social Reform," then good luck to Lloyd George, for this is genuine statesmanship which tends to lift up the great nation of the poor. Now that the text of the Bill is seen to bristle with points of interest and novelty the subject takes precedence of all others, for it is recognised that this State Insurance Bill, when passed, will create a new Heaven and a new earth and that Lloyd George is to be hailed as the Heaven-sent Minister of our time. The intricacy and ingenuity of the plan of dealing with invalidity and unemployment are much discussed by all classes. The Bill does not commit us to the compulsory Insurance against unemployment. On the contrary it sets up two systems—voluntary and compulsory—and leaves the administration free to choose between the two, as it may decide by experience. If the Trade Unions separated their strike funds there would be the ideal voluntary associations of insurance against unemployment as contemplated by the Bill. The progress of the Voluntary Insurance will depend on how far the trade unions would be willing to separate their strike funds from their other funds.

While Parliament is busy with the most progressive questions and making Christian Socialism the basis of democratic politics, the people of England are at this moment chiefly interested with the events of the coronation for the common people recognize that the pageantry of Royal celebrations and the Imperial spirit of the time, which is animated by sentiment, mean as much perhaps for the building up of national character and social progress as the work of practical politics.

To-day Londoners swarmed to the opening of the long-talked-of Festival of Empire, and appreciated more than ever before what "Empire" means and what the duty of British citizenship really is. From the slope of Sydenham Hill they saw in living pictures the life of their fellow citizens across the seas, and with the crowds of Colonial visitors they cheered the King of all this Empire as he moved amongst them, the head of the greatest human family the world has ever seen. As in the Kindergarten of the school of citizenship Englishmen are learning great elementary lessons at the Festival of Empire at the Crystal Palace, and to-day the man in the street had his eyes opened and the glory of his Imperial heritage demonstrated. The idea of the Festival of the Imperial industries and resources was an inspiration and its promoters who were obliged to postpone it last year on the death of King Edward have to-day seen it crowned with success. It was appropriate that this splendid exhibition should be associated with the opening of the new reign of King George, the Sailor King, who bids the British Empire to wake up, and that Londoners who know so little of the great nations, which comprise the King's dominions overseas, to learn geography in the delightful gardens overlooking the metropolis.

The procession of the Royal Family from Buckingham Palace to the Crystal Palace was a triumph which neither King nor people can soon forget. For many thousands of London's working folk and the delighted school children of all South London, this was the day of the Coronation. The position of the Palace grounds is an ideal one. The exhibition of the striking features of Canada and Australia and New Zealand, as viewed from the railway on the All Red Route, which traverses the grounds, was perhaps the greatest novelty which should prove to be the most permanent attraction. The grand concert was an imposing event worthy of the great occasion, but the least worthy of the day's entertainment was, perhaps, the pageant of London, which appealed to the women and presented costumes which recalled the past history of London in the Middle Ages, and the specious days of Queen Elizabeth. It was all very quaint, but rather suggestive of the glories of the circus. While the most interesting spectacular Festival of Empire is an accomplished fact, the labour being expended on the grand stands in the streets of London, is every day becoming more stupendous. The work of erecting these Coronation stands is estimated to employ some 5,000 carpenters and decorators. The carpenters and other workmen will be busy till the eve of the procession, a month hence. Owing to the extraordinary demand for seats, the shortage of timber is already being felt. The timber is advanced in price and the amount of timber being required may be estimated from figures given by the contractors. One large firm is putting up fifty stands on the processional route and these are to accommodate from 250 to 4,000 seats each. The timber used up in erecting these stands is 2,100 tons and, in addition, 70 tons of iron bolts and 30,000 yards of drapery, etc., or decoration purposes on the seats.

In addition to 700 carpenters engaged for 14 days yet till the Coronation date in the work of erection, there will be in these 50 stands alone some 100 commissionaires employed in the stands and 200 attendants waiting till after the seats have been used, and also 200 attendants and 200 waitresses. Thus it will be seen the intrest the artisans of London take in the Coronation preparations.

BOY COMMITS SUICIDE HE WAS NOT TRUSTED

Special to The Examiner

NEW YORK, MAY 26.—Leaving a note in which he stated that he had been led to kill himself because he feared that some people who knew him would think him dishonest and because he thought the girl he loved would turn him down, or be broken hearted at hearing tales about him, an unidentified youth of eighteen committed suicide late yesterday afternoon in the basement of a saloon at No. 572 Fulton street, Brooklyn, by shooting himself in the right temple. The note, which was unsigned, a gold scarfpin bearing an engraved initial "C" and two tickets for the Cortlandt County Railroad Company were the only things found in his clothing. It is thought that the youth was not a resident of this city but had come to New York for the purpose of killing himself. The note was addressed to "Dear Father and Mother."

It read—"I've had so much trouble I can't stand it any longer. People have been finding fault with my delivery and I have come out short. I was afraid that Maricle would think I was taking the money, but the Lord knows I have tried to be honest. I prayed to God to help me, but I could not see that I was getting any help. The story got around that I was going to the roadhouse and if folks believed it my reputation would be ruined.

"I left Jessie, who is the best of any girl I ever knew, and I think is just as good as there is in the valley. I hated to come away from her, but I thought the sooner the better, for if she turned me down I would kill myself, and if she learned to love me it would break her heart.

"New York is a great city. I have been riding on the trolley cars on the elevated and subway trains and on the ferry boats.

"Before I shoot myself I pray the Lord to forgive me as I have prayed every night."

To-Day's Developments In The Stock Markets
Examiner's Daily Letter

Supplied by the office of the Peterborough Stock Brokers:

NEW YORK, MAY 27.—Market opened strong and higher with advances from 1-4 to 1-2. The market held fairly firm although not active. A great many of the brokers have taken advantage of the lull in business and the coming holiday to absent themselves until Monday. Erie was strong and gained 3-4 on reports of new grain tonnage to be secured from the Armour interests. Beet sugar is strongly tipped for a further rise and dividends are soon to be inaugurated, it is said. Tenn. copper is another stock that is said to be in for a good advance. The Chicago and Northwestern Railroad for April shows a loss in net of $244,567 and for the ten months $226,154. The Rock Island shows a gain in net for April of $365,608 and for the ten months a gain of $1,090,000. The loss of $4,000,000 by fire at Coney Island will not affect the insurance companies as the rates were prohibitive. The bank statement reflected the gold shipments to Canada losing of $4,000,000 specie with a loss in reserves of $2,847,000.

NEW YORK, MAY 27.—London as usual is irregular. Professionals will even up commitments over the week end, and the trading should be of small volume. The bank statement may be poorer because of the loss of cash by local banks, but the reserves are so large this won't show. News over night is not calculated to bring about material fluctuations and the same backing and filling is likely to be witnessed pending the elimination of uncertainties, especially the tariff revision question at Washington. The supreme court may hand down the tobacco decision on Monday and which is hoped in this event, that it will clear the atmosphere. Mexico seems to be behaving comparatively well so far, following the resignation of Dias, and the new regime may be able to maintain order better than the skeptics have believed possible. The trade reviews report little improvement in the situation, the sentimental change incidental to the Standard Oil decision not materialising in actual orders. Despite the drought, the crop outlook continues favourable, so that a turn in the tide can not be far off, which betterment Wall street will anticipate.

HICKS' PREDICTIONS FOR MONTH OF JUNE

Prof. Irl Hicks promises us a full measure of electric storms during June as well as a superabundance of rain, especially for agricultural purposes. In Word and Works he gives the following:

A regular storm period covers the first six days of June. The Mercury and Venus periods also bear upon and intensify disturbances at this period. The crisis of these storms will fall on and touching the 4th and 5th. A low barometer, high temperature and humidity may be put down as foreshading severe storms at this time. Rising barometer and change to fair and much cooler weather will pass eastwardly over the country from the 6th to the 9th.

The reactionary storm period will bring decided storm conditions on and touching the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th. At this period we enter into the June solstice disturbances. This fact, by oversight, is not shown in the diagram, but the solstice period extends from the 10th to the end of June. The full moon on the 11th falls at the central day of the annual magnetic and electric crisis. Within three days of the sunset on the 11th, a maximum of magnetic and electric storms will visit many wide extremes of the earth, attended by phenomenal "earth currents," much volcanic unrest and violent seismic shakes.

A regular storm period extends from the 13th to the 17th, being at the crisis of the Mercury period, and under full strain of the solstice and the Venus periods. Daily thunder storms with an excess of electricity wind, hail and rain may be expected. Tornadoes may be looked for, and your locality may be in their paths, why not? Change to very much cooler will follow about the 16th to 19th.

A reactionary storm period will make itself severely felt on and touching the 20th, 21st and 22nd. This period is at the exact centre of the summer solstice and great electrical manifestations will mark this period and in all this part of the month we may look for an excess of lightning all round the heavens, in early evenings and through the nights. As we have often said, this solstice lightning is very grand and awe-inspiring, but for the most part it is perfectly harmless. Of course the electric belts of an oncoming thunder storm are fraught with danger, but the noiseless panoramic flashing all over the clouds banked through the horizon these solstice evenings, is as harmless as moon shine, beautiful to behold and full of life and health to the vegetable kingdom as well as to all animate life.

A regular storm period is central on the 28th, the new moon falling on the same day, moon being in perigree and at its greatest north declination. In every probability this will prove one of the most decided periods of disturbance during this month. The barometer should be consulted with care as we enter this period, and it it falls to very low reading—a result to be expected—storms of violent character should be apprehended. All storms during June will be erratic in character—and will move in directions out of the ordinary, often doubting back over their tracks after they have supposedly passed out of the east. We believe there will be too much rain in June, for best agricultural interests, except in the New England States, and the extreme southern and southwestern sections. A marked seismic period is central on the 28th, covering the 23rd to the 28th.

MORE ALFALFA INFORMATION

A few days ago the Examiner mentioned the receipt of samples of alfalfa, with this year's growth of top of 22 inches, and root length of three feet, eight inches. It has since been learned that this is not the whole story. These samples were grown in what was considered poor, sandy soil that had been never known to grow a profitable crop of anything else.

Evidence is daily accumulating that alfalfa beats out of sight anyand every other fodder crop that is known. While it naturally grows better in good soil it will thrive well on soils that starve out other crops. Its abundant top, gathered largely from the air, and its deep rooting make it little liable to suffer from dry weather.

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had grown so weak that it was impossible for me to do thirty minutes work in a whole day. I suffered intense pains in my left side and under the left shoulder blade. I could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath that I thought I should never be able to take a full breath again. The least excitement would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had acutely taken a half-bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. I began to sleep well, had a good appetite, and improved so rapidly that when I had taken six bottles I was completely cured.

MAY BE RATE WAR

North Atlantic Lines Expected to Discard Agreement—Canadian Pacific Railway is the Leader

WILL NOT BE A PARTY

Montreal, May 27.—The prospects of a rate war in the Atlantic shipping trade, was the principal topic of discussion in shipping circles yesterday.

It now appears that the Canadian Pacific, which occupies as influential a place in the National Conference as the Irish party does in the British House of Commons, has been a leader in the insurgent movement, and a considerable time ago gave notice that it would not renew its part in the agreement, under which all the principal shipping lines on the North Atlantic ... [illegible] ... ment, which is known as the "Rochdale agreement," ... temporarily on two occasions, but it expires finally on June 30.

This agreement not only forbids shipping lines from running to ports served by other lines, but notes in the time of the agreement were ... them, but also brought into effect an arrangement by which all the immigrant traffic—which is a huge paying business—was pooled, each vessel getting such percentage of the total proceeds of such traffic as was alloted to her by the conference. Regardless of the number ... the passage ... carried. Thus, if a boat was allowed a percentage on the basis of 500 immigrants per trip, her owners would be paid for 500 passengers whether she carried 100 or only two. This applied to all the vessels running to North Atlantic ports from Baltimore to Halifax. ... of the agreement is considered to be ... than otherwise in Canadian shipping. There has been such a boom in immigration to Canada that the Canadian vessels have been loaded to capacity with immigrants on almost every trip, and the result has been that most ... earned by the Canadian lines has in effect been handed over by them to their American rivals.

Wants Detective Arrested.

Montreal, May 27.—Declaring they were being shadowed and in one case ... by private detectives, a delegation from the Labor Temple waited on Chief of Police Campeau yesterday, seeking redress from him, and were advised to seek legal advice, with the result that a warrant for the arrest of one detective on the charge of assault is to be issued.

Mr. Gardner, a labor organizer, who has been in Montreal for some time, claimed ... have been shadowed continually by a pair of sleuths, and at a meeting in the Labor Temple yesterday morning an appeal to the police authorities was decided upon.

"I cannot go to my private house," said one labor man, "without being shadowed, and directly I enter out the next morning, there is the detective ..."

Family Cured of Eczema
By Cuticura Remedies

"The Cuticura treatment has absolutely cured me and family of eczema which I, my wife and two-year-old child had for eight months. It started with small pimples on the head of my child which gradually broke out in sores, and it was not long before I and my wife got the same. Our hands were one mass of sores, we could not sleep and the itching was terrible. We suffered for eight months. We tried different kinds of ointments and medicines but it did us no good and soon it began to break out on our bodies until a friend who had the same trouble told me about Cuticura, of which I used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent, and I was surprised. After the first few days our heads began to heal and in two months we were absolutely cured of this terrible eczema."

STEP IS NOT HEEDED

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Opposes the New Imperial System While Fisher Favours Change

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

London, May 27.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—When the Imperial Conference resumed today consideration of the New Zealand proposal for reorganization of the Colonial Office, Hanworth submitted the changes the Government was prepared to institute. The standing committee of the conference would be absolutely advisory and not executive.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that Canada was quite satisfied with the present system. If the other parts of the Empire were disposed to press the suggestion of a division of the existing organization of the Colonial Office, Canada would not raise any objection. The standing committee had, however, raised a more serious difficulty. If it was proposed to submit to that committee matters affecting one dominion regarding which there might be differences of opinion between the Home Government and the Government concerned, he thought it would prove cumbrous and unsatisfactory. The status of the high commissioners was somewhat delicate. They were not only the representatives of autonomous Governments to Britain, but also confidential agents able to have confidential communication with the Secretary of State and press matters which it might be undesirable to include in an official despatch. The standing committee might make recommendations suitable to one part of the Empire and not to another. He did not see what good purpose would be served.

Premier Fisher said that the standing committee would seem to extend the functions of the commissioner into those of constitutional authority. A feeling existed in favor of Dominion matters coming under the Foreign Office. On the general question, as Hughes had said, the old constitution had rubbed along very well up till now, but Sir Wilfrid represented a great Dominion which had not hesitated to make innovations. He might very well give a lead in this matter by endeavoring to give the high commissioner, through a resolution of the conference, definite and distinct authoritative power to enter into negotiations and discussions as officers of Dominions responsible to their Governments.

Premier Morris was satisfied with the present arrangements.

Premier Asquith said he did not wish to press the suggestions unless they should meet with general approval. He felt it would satisfy the real want of the conference if they postponed decision.

Motor Boat Lantern Exploded.

Rock ville, May 27.—John Ferguson was cleaning a motor boat at Dark Island when an explosion occurred from a lantern in the boat. His arm and hand were terribly burned.

One of the first river accidents is reported from Crossman's Point. Walter Seaman started in his motor boat to cross to one of the islands and collided with another "put-put," which struck his craft amidships, cutting it partly in two. Seaman was thrown on the deck of the other boat and escaped with a few bruises.

DIAZ IS TO LEAVE

Ex-President of Mexico Off to Europe While Madero Has Resigned—Calls for Support For De La Barra

PRESIDENT GONE

Mexico City, May 27.—Porifiro Diaz, for whom during thirty years all Mexico stood to one side, early yesterday, just in hand, stole from the capital, only a few devoted friends, whom he dared to trust, followed him to the station at two o'clock yesterday morning, thirty after the celebration over his resignation had ... Vera Cruz to take ship for Spain. In the distance he could hear the voices of a few of the more enthusiastic citizens who were still acclaiming the new President, Senorita Leon de la Barra and shouting "viva Madero."

Travel between Mexico City and Vera Cruz usually is over the Mexican Railway, a standard guage line with modern equipment. Rails along this route, however, frequently have been removed of late by bandits who were determined that Diaz, for reasons that known to themselves, should not leave the capital. They are reported to have harbored the idea that Diaz would follow the precedent of other Latin-American Presidents and carry the national funds with him.

There is also a narrow guage, railroad to the coast. Taking it for granted that Diaz would take the more luxurious route, the bandits did not molest the narrow guage road. For this reason, it was chosen by Diaz for his trip.

The general should have reached Vera Cruz yesterday afternoon, but whether he arrived is not publicly known here.

General Diaz, still feeble from his illness and the mourning of a well-man, left his home under dreary circumstances. Rain had fallen earlier in the night and by the time the former President emerged from his house, the air was chilly. He was ... muffled. To aid in the disguise a borrowed automobile was used. The trip to the San Lazaro station was made over unfrequented streets. By a prearranged scheme, at the last moment, police were scattered along the way. At certain points close friends of the former chief executive, including those who are to accompany him across the Atlantic, fell in behind the Diaz automobile.

Three trains were used, the first as a ruse. The Diaz special followed. A third train, escorted by a detachment of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, brought up the rear. The cars of the fugitives' special were occupied as follows: First car, Gen. Diaz and Mrs. Diaz, Mrs. Romena Rubio de Torrena, Col. Porfirio, jr., a son, Lieut. Lorenzo Elizaga and their families. Second car, Gen. Fernandina Gonzales, Manuel Gonzales, Col. Santa Cruz, Major Espinosay Rondero. Third car, Francisco S. Gascia, Ignacio de la Garita and a private crew. The trains ran without orders for fear the bandits along the line might tap the wires and get news of the flight.

Just when or on what ship Gen. Diaz will sail is a matter of conjecture. The French ship Espagne was due to leave Vera Cruz yesterday, but may have been held at the disposal of the party from Mexico City.

Diaz Off For Europe.

Mexico, City, May 27.—Private telegrams received here last night, report the arrival of General Diaz at Vera Cruz at three o'clock yesterday afternoon.

According to these advices, Diaz boarded the Ypiranga, a Hamburg-American boat last night. The Ypiranga is due to sail north to Coatzacoalcos to-day. She will return to Vera Cruz and sail for Europe next Wednesday.

Madero Resigns.

Laredo, Mexico, May 27.—Francesco I. Madero, in a manifesto to the people of Mexico, last night resigned the position of Provisional President conferred on him by a convention of governments at San Luis Potosi last October, and called on all Mexicans to support Senor de la Barra as the sole executive of Mexico.

Senor Madero placed his forces at the disposal of Senor de la Barra and said tribute to the character of the new executive, pointing out that he might well be regarded as "one of us." The manifesto from Senor Madero's look into the Provisional Presidency.

Expects Vote by June 15.

Washington, May 27.—Vice-President Sherman, to a White House callers yesterday, declared that he expected a vote to be taken on the Canadian reciprocity bill on the date fixed by Speaker Clark, and said he would not be surprised to see Congress adjourn long before October. Mr. Sherman did not say whether he expected the reciprocity bill to pass.

The vice-president's optimism as to an early vote on reciprocity is not shared by a number of Senators. President Taft told callers yesterday that while he still is of the opinion that the bill will pass, he is not counting on a vote as soon as June 15.

Chatham Overcrowded.

Chatham, Ont., May 27.—The house famine has reached such an acute stage in this city that vacant lots are ... for high prices on the north side, where newcomers are ... lots to live in till such time as they may be able to secure houses. Many families have, already established themselves in tents in North Chatham.

WOULD VERY OFTEN FAINT AWAY.

Brother Said That Sometime He Should Never Come Out of the...

Many people may be unaware of having anything wrong with their heart till some little excitement, overwork, or confinement in an overheated or overcrowded room or public building makes them feel faint or dizzy.

If you neglect the warning the slight feeling of dizziness gives you, and fail to take treatment, there will be a gradual progression to something more serious.

There is no reason you should wait till your case becomes desperate before you avail yourself of a perfect cure by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mr. F. S. Chute, Wheatley, Ont. writes:—"It is with gratitude I tell how your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills benefited me. I was very weak and run down, and had headache, nearly every day and would very often faint away.

"In fact, my doctor said that sometime I would never come out of one of them. After taking three boxes of your pills I am glad to relate that it has been a number of years since I have had a fainting spell and scarcely have had a headache. You should hear me talk in praise of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for in me they have effected a perfect cure."

Price 50c. per box, or 3 for $1.25. At all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Entries For Race Must Be In Before Saturday, June 10

The announcement that Rev. Father Fitzpatrick intends to have a road race as a feature of the big Ennismore picnic on June 13th has been received with much interest and there seems every reason to expect a large entry list for the event as the prizes are above the ordinary in value and the distance—10 miles—is a favourite with the long distance men. A number of local athletes who are already in training will participate and the race should be a good success. It will start at the Examiner office at 1.30 p.m. and finish at the Ennismore picnic grounds. All those who intend to enter are asked to send in their names before Saturday, June 10 to Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, Ennismore P. O.

CRITICS DIFFER AS TO LANG'S LAST FIGHT

Buffalo papers disagree about the bout between Knockout Brennan and Hilliard Lang there Wednesday night. One paper says: "Brennan had a shade on Lang ,but Lang finished as strong as when he started," while another one says: "Brennan outfought Lang every round," and that "Lang, in contrast was unlike the man who fought Paddy Lavin as day is unlike night .He has gone back, and seems to have neither the hitting power nor the aggressiveness that made him a local favourite the first time he appeared here.

In the fourth Brennan put Lang to his knees for two counts. Of the ninth round the latter paper says: "In the ninth round Brennan rushed from his corner at the sound of the bell and caught Lang before he was half out of his chair. As his seconds scrambled through the ropes Lang received a right alongside the head that nearly sent him after them. It swelled his ear to tomato proportions, and in the succeeding round another sound thump broke the skin and saved the Canadian the disfigurement of a cauliflower ear. Strange to say, Brennan seemed slower in the last round than in any of the others, and many thought h eloafed, satisfied that he had the battle won. He received an ovation as he stepped out of the ring as did Lang, who must have realized he didn't fight his best fight."

All the papers admit that Lang was the cleverer, but says he lacks a knockout punch, and the ginger he formerly had.

BROWN WON

NEW YORK, MAY 25.— Knockout Brown, the little East Side lightweight stopped Tommy Murphy of Brooklyn to-night in 40 seconds of the first round of a bout scheduled to go ten rounds.

There was no preliminary sparring. The men went together with a rush, Brown letting loose and swinging his right hard for the ribs. Murphy poked out his long left and for a moment straightened up Brown. "Knockout", however, would not be denied and carried the fight to Murphy, rushing him along the ropes to a neutral corner. Both men clinched and swapped rights and lefts to head and body. Breaking away, Brown again rushed, and, catching Murphy a wicked right in the stomach, brought him down almost to his knees. Then, quick as a flash, Brown riped in a wicked left uppercut which landed fairly on the long, protruding chin of Murphy and down he went with a crash. The spectators were on their feet in wild excitement. They had scarcely settled in their chairs to enjoy the battle. Murphy fell like a log, but he quickly rose to his feet, not waiting the referee's count. Brown was at once on him again, and with a terrific right to the head and another left uppercut he again floored the Brooklyn man. There was no need now for a count .Murphy was out cold and Brown a moment later was on his way to the dressing room.

Rutherford, Dominion Live Stock Commissioner and Veterinary Director-General of Canada, one of the most valued officials of the Government, has tendered his resignation to the Minister of Agriculture, and intends to go to British Columbia to reside. His resignation has not yet been accepted, and it is still hoped that he may be prevailed upon to continue in the office in which he has done invaluable work during the last five years.

DR. J. G. RUTHERFORD.

Dr. Rutherford is one of the best known veterinarians on the continent, and was last year President of the American Veterinary Association. His health has not been of the best during the past few years, and he has continued in office only at the urgent solicitation of Hon. Mr. Fisher, having several times refused tempting offers from the American Government and from private corporations.

TROLLEY HITS TRAIN.

Two Fatally and Ten Seriously Injured at Tonawanda.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., May 27.—When a Lockport freight trolley crashed into a westbound Lehigh Valley passenger train at Tonawanda Junction yesterday afternoon, two people were fatally injured and ten more seriously hurt.

Mrs. A. P. Garrett, of Brantford, Ont., is dying at the home of Stanley C. Peuchen, where she was taken after the accident. George A. Torrey, a traveling man from Boston, Mass., is so seriously injured about the head that physicians declare he cannot recover. He is in a temporary hospital that has been arranged. The injured, who are being cared for by local physicians, are: H. N. Travel, Buffalo, internally injured; Miss Evangeline Travel, his daughter, head injured; Alex. Ross, Buffalo, right arm broken; J. H. Frayer, Galt, Ont., left leg broken; Ira Scott, Buffalo, 10 years old, face cut, internal injuries; Mrs. Catharine Scott, Buffalo, hip broken; Chester McLaren, both arms injured. Several others were also slightly injured.

Motorman W. E. Bradley of the freight trolley said after the accident that the brakes refused to work. He and Conductor L. E. Mertaugh saved themselves by jumping. At the scene of the accident the tracks of the Lehigh Valley and the one on which the freight trolley was operating run at right angles.

The trolley struck a coach of the train and hurled down an embankment, reducing it to kindling.

Special Services in St. Paul's.

The service last night in St. Paul's church, conducted by Professor J. J. Lowe, was of unusual impressiveness. Mr. Lowe gave the first of two addresses on the Passion week of our Lord, illustrated by slides made from the master paintings of the world. It is safe to say that never before has a Peterborough audience seen so many pictures of such a superior character thrown upon the canvas in one address. Mr. Lowe's address on Sabbath evening will be a continuation of that on Friday evening. One of the most enjoyable parts of the service is the illustrated song. Mr. Lowe sings with great sweetness and effectiveness many of the old gospel hymns. The services will be continued on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

SETTLEMENT DID NOT PROVE SATISFACTORY

The Recent Settlement With the C.P.R. Trackmen Did Not Meet With Approval of Supt. McNicholl---Negotiations Will Open in Montreal Next Month.

The recent settlement which was arrived at between the maintenance of way men and the C. P. R., whereby all section men, trackmen, etc., were to get a substantial rise in pay has not proved satisfactory to C. P. R. Superintendent Mr. D. W. McNicholl. As a result the present existing schedule will be thrown open and further arbitration will take place in Montreal some time during the next month. The present agreement was subject to adoption providing it met with the approval of both parties within 60 days after being approved of by the Arbitration Board.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE DONE BY THE STORM YESTERDAY

A Large Plate Glass Window of an Uptown Jeweller Was Smashed---The Electric Fluid Pays a Visit to a House on Parnell Street.

This city and the surrounding country was visited by an electrical storm yesterday afternoon. While not being of such an extensive nature as the one that we were favoured with on Monday night last, yet it served to do a considerable amount of damage before it left for parts elsewhere. The lightning struck the house of Mr. Carscallen, on Parnell street, knocked the chimney off, smashed through the gable end, ran along the front of the house, broke a window, and finally wound up by removing a curtain pole from its brackets and depositing it upon the bed on which the lady of the house was resting.

The wind was also responsible for some of the damage incurred during the progress of the storm. A large number of trees in Jackson Park were blown down; a tree was also split in two on the corner of Aylmer and Brock, and a large section of it deposited on a nearby lawn.

A large tree was blown down in Auburn and thrown across a cable.

The biggest loser, so far reported, was Mr. F. Clarke, jeweller, corner of Brock and George streets, who had a large plate glass window smashed, which was valued at $75. The high wind broke a rod in the awning, which crashed into the glass, with the above result. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

EMPLOYEE OF McDONALD'S MILLS RECEIVES PAINFUL INJURIES

Mr. Frank Christopher, an employee of the McDonald Lumber Co. was the victim of a painful accident last week. He was engaged in tailing up the logs in the mill when he was struck on the arm by a large hook, severely lacerating it and cutting an artery. Drs. McCullough and Marshall were summoned and the wound dressed, after which the unfortunate man was removed to his home, 480 Parnell street. It will be a couple of weeks before he will be able to resume his duties.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRADE

One of the most interesting meetings ever held by the Board of Trade should be that to take place in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute to-morrow night when Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, the foremost expert and authority on Board of Trade matters, will igve an address, which promises to be full of interest and profit. Mr. Ritchie is a resident of Peterborough who has made a name for himself, and his address to-morrow night will be well worth listening to. The public is cordially invited to attend. There is no admission fee and everyone, whether Board of Trade members or not, are invited to be present.

FIRE WASTE.

The fire losses in Canada for the first four months of the current year total $5,361,875, an average of $1,340,468 per month. This is equal to a daily loss of $44,682. In other words, $1,861 worth of property has been burned every hour since the new year dawned, or $31 every minute. This is an appalling fire loss, and little is being done to check such extravagant waste of capital. It is very satisfactory, to note, however, that ePterborough's contribution to this great waste of property is very small. This fact emphasises the importance of maintaining a well-equipped and well-manned fire department. The best fire-fighting apparatus and appliances are indispensable, and the expense incurred in providing them is true economy; and, also, the maintenance of a fire brigade of men, well paid enough to secure efficiency and continuity of service. These conditions are naturally somewhat expensive; but this becomes comparatively insignificant when one considers that in default of a well-equipped and well-manned fire department, a fire breaking out under favouring conditions, may easily do, in an hour, damage to an amount sufficient to pay for the whole equipment, fire hall included, and a year's salary of a brigade. We have, at present, a well-equipped and efficient fire department, and it should be kept so. Any policy of petty nagging and fault finding that tends to lessen the efficiency and weaken the esprit de corps of a fire department should be in the interests of the public, and the protection of property be promptly and resolutely discouraged.

ANOTHER ALARMIST.

Nothing can reform the genuine jingo. It might be thought that translation from the belligerent atmosphere of Peterborough to the peaceful precincts of the Pacific would tone down the thirst for gore and fierceness for a fight. But it has not so operated in the case of the gallant Lieut-Col. Rogers, of Victoria, B.C., who is still an militant and manslaughtery as Col. Dennison, of Toronto, or Col. Sam. Hughes, the imperial, scrappy cosmopolite. The Montreal Star, of a recent date, contained a letter from Col. Rogers, who says Canadians are sleeping over a volcano, or words to that effect. It is reproduced in another column for the sake of old times—for the smell of powder it recalls—more than for the intrinsic merit of its logic. Nobody else but a born jingo, ever "living in the midst of alarms," can see the danger of Canadians being gobbled up, almost any day of the week before breakfast. There is a demand that everybody between the ages of 18 and 46 should be drilled. This demand is weakened by the fact that having regard to the monotonous mooning of the jingoes, everybody is bored now, if not drilled. Col. Rogers is a type merely of a class that seems to be spoiling for a fight. It seems remarkable, that persons peaceable, and entirely estimable in their civic and social relations should suggest in their writings and ravings, the Don Juan description of "Lambro, the sea solicitor * * * as mild a mannered man as ever scuttled ship or cut a throat'.' But in this country we have something better to do than fight — men are more needed to dig than to drill. Reasonable preparation in the way of defence is reasonable, but to turn a peaceful country, with not an enemy in sight, with never a war cloud as big as a baby's hand, to withdraw the great industrial army of Canadians from the trenches where they are fighting and winning the conquest of half a continent, is quixotism to the hilt, bad political economy and a suggestive relapse into the spirit of mediaeval feudalism.

THE TOP OF THE HEAP.

(Montreal Herald.)

It doesn't surprise Canadians any more to be told that Sir Wilfrid aLurier is the star attraction at the great show that has opened in London. At first we used to plume ourselves on the fact. Then, as he continued to outshine his contemporaries in scenes for which nature would seem to have made him expressly, we took his pre-eminence for granted. As it stands now we would probably resent it if anyone happened along who commanded anything like the same amount of interest. Sir Edmund Barton ran him a good second at one conference, Mr. Deakin finished a furlong farther back at another. General Botha and Dr. Jameson got friendly greeting in their day. Sir Joseph Ward has moved into second place for the present occasion, but it is no better than second. The first remains, almost as of right, for Laurier.

ENCOURAGING CRIMINALS.

(Toronto Star.)

An amazing document is the order-in-Council whereby the Ontario Government has seen fit to protect United States crooks who operate in Canada. It enacts, in brief, that if they can get across the border they are safe. Local police must not send a wire to their American confreres to have a suspect arrested. On the contrary, they must report the matter to the Crown Attorney, who must secure enough evidence to prove a prima facie case in any Canadian court. He must have this taken down in writing, and must then transmit it by letter to the Attorney-General, who may, or may not, act. As if these red-tape proceedings were not sufficient to give a fugitive a good chance to hide himself, the provincial forces wish to be assured "whether it is desired that the provisional arrest of the fugitive be asked for by telegram." If there is no such provision, they will apparently write a letter and save money.

But let no one imagine that the Attorney-General's Department is going to interest itself in any complaint which is unaccompanied by a guarantee of expenses. The thirst for revenue which is continually inventing new methods of taxation is not content with continually adding to the jurisdiction—and law stamps—of the Ontario Railway Board. The citizen who is robbed by an American criminal must provide, by order-in-Council, "an indemnity for expenses signed by the applicant in the attached form." And further, to emphasize this point, "Only cases involving serious crimes affecting the public in general shall be undertaken by the Attorney-General without a bond of indemnity."

How these remarkable regulations work out is illustrated by the robbery of the Argonaut's clubhouse on the holiday. The local police suspected that the guilty party had escaped to Buffalo. Had they been permitted to send a wire to the Buffalo police, he would undoubtedly have been arrested there. But the Crown Attorney must first get all the evidence written down, "with if possible, a photograph," forward it to the Attorney-eneral, and then, if the complainants are willing to put up a bond of $500 on a slim chance of recovering $400 the provincial police may write to Buffalo, or they may even condescend to send a telegram if they consider the matter "a matter of urgency." The Argonauts are naturally reluctant to put up $500, and the matter apparently ends there.

The regulations which thus protect the foreign criminal who makes a speedy get-away are not on the statute books of Ontario, but are an order-in-Council of the Ontario Government. They apply to the whole Province, and the further away from Toronto a crime is committed, the longer time must elapse before the written evidence of the case can be laid before the Attorney-General. The more the regulations are studied, the more absurd they appear. Unfortunately they are more than absurd. They protect the criminal whom the law is designed to discover and convict. They protect him as the police of his own country would not do. The protected criminal is the bold criminal, and every border city will be particularly liable to visits from across-the-border thieves so long as such conditions are allowed to exist.

Over-Capitalization Of Canadian Industrial And Financial Mergers

(Insurance and Finance Chronicle)

There are many Canadians who will consider that Sir Sandford Fleming has performed an important public service in formally laying his charges against the manner of promotion of the Canada Cement Company. So far as these particular charges are concerned, it is proper to say that they are as yet merely charges. On the board of the Cement Company there are gentlemen bearing the highest reputation, and one of them has declared that the compensation paid to the promoters for their services in consolidating the various concerns was reasonable and that no wrong was done the holders of the consolidated securities at the inception of the consolidated company. It is further said, among the brokers, that there is nothing new in Sir Sandford's charges, for he merely alleges that the Cement stock has been watered, and everybody has known that all along.

The Chronicle has contended strongly, ever since this merger movement reached importance, that in a number of cases, apparently, consolidation has served the object of providing huge commissions or benefits for the promoters and for a few of the owners of the individual concerns taken in. The capitalization is often made so large as to defeat or counteract entirely all of the so-called economies of operation and management which are set forth alluringly in the prospectuses. And the distribution of the securities amongst the public obviously assumes a doubtful aspect. Everybody who is connected with such distribution is in the position, wittingly or unwittingly, of passing off upon the ignorant or unwary, goods which are not really what they purport to be. When a concern is grossly overcapitalized, the parties who buy, or acquire its securities for investment are not given a fair or fighting chance. The parties responsible for the over-capitalization cannot, for shame, do other than maintain for two or more years, interest and dividend payments upon the securities issued. It is always possible to manipulate the profit and loss account, or to abstain from making the proper appropriations for depreciation, etc., and thus for a time to make the earnings appear satisfactory enough. But a superabundance of water in the capitalization is bound to tell upon the securities ultimately. And it will, sooner, or later, become necessary for the combine to take advantage, or to attempt to take advantage, of such elements of monopoly as may have been gained through combination, and raise outrageously high the selling prices of goods produced or manufactured by it; this, because the heavy load of water in the capitalization cannot be supported in any other way. And the monopolistic raising of the prices may, likely enough, bring about the doom or end of the concern. First of all, such a course tends to stir up feelings of hatred or hostility among the public—especially if it concerns an article in general consumption; and these feelings will quickly find reflection in the politics of the day; the combine will have to face the possibility of an abolition of the customs duties on the articles or commodities sold by it. Any extensive lowering of tariff bars would probably prove a serious matter for the holders of its securities.

Then again, even if it be presumed that a reduction of the tariff on its products is not within the possibilities, the charging of monopolistic or unduly high prices by the combination is nevertheless a policy that carries great dangers for the holders of its securities. For the policy would, in all probability, lead to the building in Canada, by Canadians or foreigners, of extensive plants designed to compete with the combine. As such plants could be built with the minimum of capital necessary for the building and equipping thereof, the newcon cerns would be on velvet. It would happen that the overcapitalized combination could not reduce its prices to a competitive basis without discontinuing a part or all of its payments to holders of its securities.

For these reasons we think it fortunate that Sir Sandford Fleming has brought matters to a head by making definite allegations regarding one of the consolidations recently effected. Whether there is an investigation or not his action must tend towards checking over-capitalization in connection with mergers in Canada. It is assumed in some quarters, whether correctly or not, that the bankers, as a class, are not disposed to condemn the stock watering transactions that have been brought off. And indeed it can be said that no consolidation or merger of any magnitude could be put through without active banking assistance. Notwithstanding this, we are informed that there is, among the more conservative bankers, a strong sentiment of disapproval of some of the recent schemes which have been carried through. Some of the bankers have expressed themselves in vigorous condemnation of the manner in which an important merger, recently consummated, was financed. In that case the greed of the promoters was so overmastering that they are said to have insisted upon the consolidation's discounting or realising the bulk of its surplus of quick assets in order to raise the cash consideration required, thus compelling the concern to commence its operations with an insufficiency of working capital. As we have remarked in previous articles, we consider that it is the manifest duty of the Canadian banks to do more than express disapproval of mergers, in the formation of which gross or even undue over-capitalization occurs. We consider that the banks would be acting in the public interest by resolutely standing in the way of such promotions. By doing so they would save many innocent investors in Canada and elsewhere from making losing investments; they would at the same time raise Canadian finance in the estimation of our good friends in Europe and they would add appreciably to their own reputation for wise and sound practice.

USING THE DEMOCRATS.

Foes of Reciprocity Take Another Step In Fight.

Washington, May 29.—The plot to defeat reciprocity developed another phase Saturday. The Democrats are to be used to encompass the downfall of the bill.

A plan is being framed by the opponents of the measure to co-operate with those Democrats who are insisting upon the farmer's free list being attached to reciprocity as a rider.

There is a group of Democrats who believe that they will get into trouble with their constituents if they vote against the farmers' free list when it is offered as an amendment to the reciprocity agreement. These votes are needed to insure the success of the pact.

On the other hand, there is a group of Republicans who will not vote for reciprocity if the farmers' free list is attached to it. These votes also are needed to insure the success of the bill.

The plan of the opposition is to co-operate with the Democrats in having the free list made a part of reciprocity and then leave it to the protectionist Republicans to defeat the bill on the final passage.

The only way out is for the Democrats, who want to attack the free list, to realize that reciprocity can be passed with a measure of tariff reform, if they will consent to consider it apart from the farmers' list; whereas, both reciprocity and the free list will be defeated at this session if they fail in the plot that is being arranged by the enemies of the pact. It is the choice that is offered of half a loaf or no bread at all.

In the meantime, the Root amendment, which will enable the paper trust to keep up the price of paper, a direct tax upon everyone who reads newspapers, magazines, book or handbill, is making progress.

An Alfalfa Root Over Six Feet In Length

A Splendid Illustration of Why Alfalfa is Such a Valuable Crop for the Farmer Under All Conditions.

A GOOD OBJECT LESSON

An alfalfa root six feet eight inches in length, was brought in this morning for the inspection of the Examiner editorial staff, this root and another, measuring five feet and a half, having been sent down to the editors of Farm and Dairy by Mr. Geo. F. Marsh, lately of Peterborough, but now residing on his farm at Clarksburg, in Grey Co. Ont. The appearance at the tip of this exceptionally long root gave evidence that it must have been probably from one to two feet more in length while in the ground, since some of it had been broken off during the work of excavating to get the root.

Mr. Marsh also sent along some tops of alfalfa, this spring's growth, which measured up to two feet six inches in length.

One requires only to have seen these plants and roots of alfalfa to appreciate how it is that alfalfa is such a valuable crop for the farmer. The roots penetrate into the soil much below that of ordinary farm crops and therein find plant food and moisture, both of which in seasons of drought are beyond the reach of ordinary plants.

While it would seem that it would be a difficult undertaking to plow up a field of such alfalfa roots, the fertilizing value of the remarkable root growth of the alfalfa plant would more than compensate for an extra effort required to plow a field of alfalfa, and then the roots penetrating as they do, far into the soil, on decaying would leave the soil in a splendid mechanical condition, leaving a large reservoir not otherwise obtainable for soil moisture. Furthermore, the alfalfa roots will have done the work of subsoiling much better than could possibly be done with any tillage implements, the work being done at no expense of time for manual or horse labour, and no effort being expended other than the great silent forces of nature, working through the alfalfa plant.

"IS YOUR BEST WORTHY OF ENGLAND?" ASKS REV. H. R. TRUMPOUR

Annual Sermon Preached to the Members of Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, at All Saints' Church Last Evening.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE

Tht annual church parade of Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, was held last evening to All Saints' church, where the rector, Rev. H. R. Trumpour, preached an excellent sermon to the Order. There was a very large turnout of the members and the service was an impressive one. The text chosen was:

In the 21st Chapter of the Acts of the Apostles and the 29th verse, St. Paul saith: "I am a citizen of no mean city."

"It is a threefold ideal to which you, as Sons of England, are committed," said Rev. Mr. Trumpour. "Patriotism, philanthropy and religion. The mother country has indeed done many wonderful things. There is no empire greater than the empire built up by that little Island across the Sea; so every son of England across the Sea must, as his duty, never forget the land of his birth, and of his forefathers. It is a great thing to say 'I am a citizen of the British Empire.' Whether in Canada, Australia, or the United States, the name of England should quicken your heart. The psalmist saith, "If I forget thee, Oh Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning."

England is worthy of your best: the point is, is your best worthy of England? There should be organizations to perpetuate all these ideals. Need I tell you that in this province of Ontario you are living in a place fostered by men who gave up their homes. Lord God of Hosts, lest we forget, be with us. England has always stood for freedom. She has given this light to all the world. Freedom is a gift of the British Empire to the world. An Englishman has respect for authority and for order. To Englishmen, to obey is an implicit law, and this is only keeping the fifth commandment. The discipline you find in England is unknown in this land, as is the respect of the children for their parents. It is only if you study such principles Fear and failure have never crossed their minds, but they have respect for rights and feeling for fellow men. England has always stood for what is open and frank. Fall of dignity, Englishmen have never stooped to mean things, and they never stooped to wrong things to accomplish their ends. Britons never shall be slaves. This is only an expression of an Englishman's mind. A spirit of independence possesses an Englishman. An Englishman has worked and he has behaved himself. Go on with your patriotic work.

Allow me to express a higher principle to men strong in mind. "The weak shall not be in fear of starvation." We want a charity in Canada that will help those who are unfortunate. You are, when admitted to the Sons of England, required to be a Protestant and of good moral character. That a man called a Protestant should have a good moral character goes without saying. There is discipline in our Protestantism that will make this addition unnecessary. We should not call any man a Protestant who does not live up to the standard of any Protestant church. Therefore, to you as Protestants, to us all, there are two things to be revived. That sense of right and wrong, and our sense of obligation to Almighty God. Is it not true that we are living in a lost sense of repentance, and we are committing some sin if we are not going to church.

Jesus Christ commanded people to break bread in remembrance of his broken body. Nine-tenths of the churches are spoiled by the people, and half the Protestant people are spoiled by the other half. Every Englishman should protect himself.

The average Roman Catholic is a good citizen, but at the present time the Church o fRome has a great organization of system. That system is not as good as the Protestant organization. The Ne Temere decree is a new policy of the Church of Rome, and it is an insult to every man, woman, and child."

MUSIC AT GEORGE ST. CHURCH YESTERDAY

The splendid quality of the music at the services at George street Methodist church yesterday was the cause of many complimentary remarks among the congregation and reflects great credit upon the new organist and choir leader, Mr. Renwick, who in the short time he has had charge of the choir, has accomplished a great deal. The morning anthem, "I Will Feed My Flock," by Caleb Simper, was splendidly sung, while the solo by Mrs. Renwick, who has a rich, pure and magnificently trained soprano voice was greatly appreciated. Mrs. Renwick is a decided acquisition to the choir. A new feature in the evening was the singing of the anthem, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," unaccompanied, the effect being wholly pleasing. Mr. George Deakin's splendid tenor was well displayed in the solo, "The Light Divine" by Theo Bonnheur.

CURED OF CONSTIPATON

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes:

"For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills.

That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial.

They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine."

For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box. 3

Eczema Worse in the Spring

The Blood is Watery—Difficult to Get the Healing Process Started.

But Whatever the Cause You Can Relieve the Itching and Heal the Sores With

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Salt rheum and eczema are usually worse at this time of year because of the sudden change of temperature and the watery condition of the blood.

It is not necessary to refer to the suffering caused from the intense itching nor to the tendency of these ailments. The essential point is how to bring about cure, and if you have been reading the cures reported from time to time in this paper you will already know that there is nothing like Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for eczema, salt rheum, psoriasis and every form of itching skin diseases.

This ointment stops the itching almost as soon as applied, lessens the discharge from the vesicles or blisters, cleans out the morbid growth and stimulates the process of healing.

Because other treatments have failed, you may feel discouraged. But in Dr. Chase's Ointment there is a cure for you. We know this because of the reports we have received from so many thousands of cases.

For instance, there is the cure of Mrs. Nettie Massey, of Consecon, Ont., who had psoriasis or chronic eczema so bad that almost the whole body was covered with sores, and three doctors failed to cure her. One doctor said she could never be cured. Write to Mrs. Massey about her case.

POST CARD COLUMN

Post Card Column

Editor,—With reference to the report of the St. James and All Saints match, we regret that the person or persons responsible for it should deem it necessary to throw mud at a referee who, by his sterling qualities, has won his way into the hearts of all true sportsmen. We are inclined to think that the sporting instinct of the writer of this article must be on a par with his grammar—very shaky. We feel sure he is not a Canadian, and trust he is not an Englishman, for above all things, we English and Canadians pride ourselves on our love of fair play.

NUF SED.

And She is One of Many.

Sir—The extermination of the housefly and mosquito is doubtless worthy of all the attention at present bestowed upon it. But what of the myriads of prowling cats which nightly infest our flower borders, and, seated in rows on the fences discuss at early dawn their individual achievements? A few mornings ago a lady on ——— street counted nineteen cats in her cherished strawberry patch and discovered that her flower border had been completely destroyed. What can be done in the matter? Is a fellow legally justified in poisoning or otherwise disposing of four-footed trespassers of the ilk? A reply in the affirmative will be hailed by all interested in the suppression of 4 a.m. profanity. I also might bring a strong indictment, against vagrant dogs, generally starved at home, so that they go prowling about like the devil, seeking whom he may devour. I know a gentleman on a west city street who had his flower border destroyed twice—once after being nicely planted and growing, and once a few hours after it was restored. Wouldn't this make a parson swear?

OBITUARY

WILLIAM ALEXANDER WALTON.

The death occurred at Lakefield on Saturday of William Alexander Walton, youngest son of the late Joseph Walton.

The deceased was born in Peterborough, his late father being one of the best known residents in this city. Later, however, Mr. Walton, Jr., went West, and stayed a considerable time, but on his health breaking down, about a year ago, he was forced to return and stay with his sister. After ailing for some time he passed away, while seated in his chair, on Saturday afternoon, death being due to heart failure.

The funeral will leave the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. F. J. Burgess, Albert street, Lakefield, on Tuesday, May 30, 1911, service to commence at 1.30 p.m., and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough, for interment.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

The famous old play "Uncle Tom's Cabin" which seems to lose none of its popularity as the years go by, was the attraction at the Grand Opera at matinee and evening performances on Saturday and as presented by Stetson's big company, the production was a genuine treat, the audience being most enthusiastic. The scenic and mechanical effects were unusually elaborate and the company away above the average in size and merit. The specialties introduced were artistic and enjoyable while a feature was the splendid playing of the orchestra.

Bert. Lamon't Funmakers come to the Grand to-night for a two days' engagement in the musical comedies, "The College Girl" 'and "A Prince For a Day" at popular prices.

AN EDUCATIONAL TREAT IN COOKERY

The Ogilvie Flour Mills Company of Canada, the largest milling concern in the British Empire, has rented the ground floor of the T.A.S. Hall, Simcoe street, as being the most convenient they could secure to accommodate an audience. Miss Jean McPhee graduate of Household Science, Guelph, and the Boston Cooking School, is showing the easiest and most economical methods of handling their high grade Royal Household Flour; also serving a delightful afternoon tea free of charge. The Ogilvie Flour Mills Company cordially invite every lady in Peterborough to attend at 2.30 p.m. sharp every afternoon.

Child's Styles of Yesterday and To-day

Turn up your old family album and see the tinypes of yourself and your cousins when you were youngsters. How interesting the result, when compared with the styles in the same kind of clothes to-day—and how the advantage obviously lies in favour of to-day's boys and girls. Yet the difference which exists between the children's clothes of then and the children's clothes of now measures the distance that lies between the average "grown up" styles for children, and the real child's clothes stamped with the Sanford Juvenile Brand.

Made in a special department entirely devoted to the making of children's clothes, they exemplify to a degree that appeals to every mother's sound judgment and good taste, the characteristics of strength and refinement.

You are cordially invited to visit the leading clothing or dry goods stores in your town to see the new Spring and Summer styles. We would suggest an early call while the range of styles and sizes remains unbroken.

C.G.E. TEAM WINS A NICE GAME FROM HAVELOCK

In a clean, fast, well-contested Midland League fixture, marked by some clever playing, the C. G. E. team defeated Havelock at the Exhibition grounds on Saturday evening by 1 goal to nil. It was a grand game to watch and the spectators enjoyed it immensely. The Havelock team had a splendid defence, but their forwards had not the most effective combination. On the other hand the C. G. E. team were a nicely balanced aggregation, with a thorough knowledge of the game.

The play was of the end-to-end variety and was always interesting to the spectators.

E. E. Brumwell acted as referee satisfactorily and will officiate at the return game in Havelock next Saturday.

It was noticed that each C.G.E. player had a band of black on his left arm, on account of the recent death of one of their players, McNamee) and it is understood that the proceeds of the games are being sent to his widow.

The following were the teams:

O.G.E.—Goal, W. Jones; backs, W. Hull, B. Mason; halves, E. Allen, A Padgett (capt.), A. Bridge; forwards, H. Carliss, A. French, W. Boycott, A. Dawson, G. Miller.

this, too, we should get at some of the shirkers, who are in the great majority as far as fitting themselves for the defence of their country is concerned, and who frequently sneer at those who recognize their obligations. This can hardly be termed compulsory service, as those elected by ballot would not leave their civil employment to any greater extent than those who are at present serving in the volunteer militia. I have always felt an injustice was being done under present conditions in having all the defence work done by a few enthusiasts like myself, while the majority of the stake-holders in the country performed nil for their own protection.

Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, has promised that General French's recommendations are to be acted on, but when? School training (which I have always advocated) as well as boy scouts, are good, but that takes time, like all training. In the meantime we want trained adults, for while waiting for our soldiers to grow, might we not find ourselves living in a fool's paradise?

To-Day's Developments In The Stock Markets Examiner's Daily Letter

Supplied by the office of the Peterborough Stock Brokers:

NEW YORK, N. Y., MAY 29.—A large degree of interest was attached to the trading in Mexico Central second, preferred, which advanced ⅝. A heavy tone developed in Steel common. Some of the selling of this stock was by interests htat have been openly committed to the bull side and their operations created a belief that some unfavourable developments might occur at the meeting ot-day to consider trade conditions. The Supreme Court, it is understood, has a lot of decisions to announce to-day and if the tobacco suit is settled, it will likely be very late.

New York, N.Y., May 18.—Consols are open 1-16 at 81 3-16 for both.

New York, N.Y., May 29.—Apparently steel is being supported for the Congressional investigation, the Gates attack rather making for bearishness. The officials of the combine are ready to appear before the house committee and explain the Tennessee coal episode, which, by the way, has been looked into by the Government on a previous occasion. The combine will probably meet the cuts of the Independents and an open market for iron and steel seems likely, though it is believed that the industry is on the eve of a revival of buying. In the past the effect of sharp slashing of prices has been to bring about large orders. News from Mexico is still very unsettling, but Wall Street, however, does not seem to be worrying over the situation there. It is believed that the Supreme Court will hand down the decision in the American Tobacco case to-day, prior to adjournment until fall, and presumably the bench will go more thoroughly into the question of what constitutes unreasonable restraints of trade. Owing to the impending holiday, the market is likely to be professional but on any reaction we would advise buying the better class stocks.

May 29th, 1911.

Canadian Pacific extremely strong in New York.

London market showed an increase of a point and a quarter over Saturday's close. New York followed suit and opened a point and five eighths higher, maintaining a strong market throughout. It steadily rose to 237 5-8.

The strength of this stock was stimulated by foreign buying in anticipation of the dividend in June. This stock rallies with ease and is a buy on every reaction.

Both Erie common and preferred stock showed advances of 1 to 1 1-2 points as well as Westinghouse. Union Pacific also was very strong, making a gain of 1 full point. General Electric, though quiet, advanced 3-4 of the whole market a point. The whole market showed great strength, although little business is being done. Richelieu and Ontario, although quiet is holding firm around 112 1-2. Rio is tipped for a rise, and should be bought around 109.

Rea Porcupine) is selling at 5.50, being reduced in price no doubt by information lately received disconnecting Porcupine gold fields from this stock. We are advised that Rea will be selling at $10 a share in the course of the next few months. Hollinger is holding strong at 12 5-8 to 12 7-8, while brokers are bidding 10.50 for Nipissing.

CHICAGO, MAY 29. —May wheat opened at 99 1-2 to 3-4, soared to 1.03 caused no doubt by covering of shorts before the May option expires.. May corn, on the other hand, opened at a decline of 1 1-4 cents.

Col. H. C. Rogers Writes On Subject Of Coast Defence Interesting Communication

The following letter from Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers, formerly Postmaster of Peterborough, and now of Victoria B.C., appears in a recent issue of the Montreal Star:

To the Editor of the Montreal Star.

Sir,—Having served in the active militia of Canada for fourty-four years, acting in every position from private to brigadier, I presume to address you on the subject of defence in the hope that my feeble effort may in some measure reach the ears of the powers that he re the position of militia matters and its requirements.

After living the allotted span in Ontario, I have come out here to the jumping-off place of our great Dominion, the beautiful land of Vancouver, where I hope to end my days in peace, in a clime which, after two years, I pronounce salubrious, and among a people kind and generous. Proud am I to be rated, not only a Canadian of the fourth generation, but a citizen of the lovely capital of British Columbia — a province which only requires men, money and time to develop its great natural resources to become one of the richest countries in the world, and this Island, covering, as it does, the western flank of the great Dominion, I venture to prophesy, will in a few generations become another England. The weak point to me for such a result is its defence—not that it is defenceless, for nature has done much, and the British Government made a good beginning towards strengthening the position by fortifying Esquimalt, guarding the gateway to the mainland, but handed it over incomplete for Canada to finish, which, alas, we have not done. The work is as we received it.

This might not be alarming were it not that a group of islands in many ways similar to these, face them across the Pacific, which islands, as you know, have developed in the last few years in a marvellous manner, becoming a first-class power, with people of a different race and colour, who are seeking an outlet for its overcrowded population, who, if so inclined, are in a position at any time to send a few of their transports with half a million of trained soldiers, across the pond, and seize this coast as far as the Rockies, in spite of any opposition we could now offer, and before the Mother Country could come to our succor. Or, assuming a possibility (which God forbid) that Great Britain became involved in complications to prevent her from leaving home, the Japanese are the chaps—in my view—to take advantage of their opportunities, in which case the Monroe Doctrine would not save us, for Uncle Sam would have his hands full with his own coast about that time.

Now, I do not desire to become a scaremonger, but when I see Australia, our sister colony, preparing for such an emergency, while we, equally contiguous, with what we think a more desirable country, are doing to guard against such a contingency, I, as a loyal Canadian, quote the words of H. M. King George on his return from his trip around the world, when he said: "Wake up, England!" I say, "Wake up, Canada! and advance protection with development," for I find here practically no protection. Of course there is the Rainbow, an omen of good weather (God grant it be a true one), and the skeleton of a force—good material as far as it goes—but a mere nucleus for defence purposes.

The final straw on the back of this old man that finished his alarm for the country he loves and whose prosperity he glories in, was a paragraph in a local paper the other day, stating that one of the few regiments in this province had positively refused when ordered to go into camp at Kamloops for training. Surely it is time the Militia Act was put into force and the regiments filled up by—ballot and fully trained—which can be done under present law.

To be more precise the Militia Act already provides that every male (with a few exceptions) between the ages of 18 and 45, are liable to serve as soldiers in the militia. At present this act is merely dormant, the service being permitted to be performed by what are called active militia—practically volunteers—and the corps are inadequately filled as to numbers by men who voluntarily recognise their duties to their country, and endeavour as far as in them lie to carry them out by joining certain corps. Why should not the Government fill up and keep filled up the various units of the militia by ballot, that is that each city and county supply by ballot one-third of the establishment required the first year, one-third the second year and one-third the third year, and so on, thus relieving the officers commanding regiments of the onerous efforts they have to make to persuade recruits to join the various corps. By this, too, we should get at some of the shirkers, who are in the great majority as far as fitting themselves for the defence of their country is concerned, and who frequently sneer at those who recognize their obligations. This can hardly be termed compulsory service, as those elected by ballot would not leave their civil employment to any greater extent than those who are at present serving in the volunteer militia. I have always felt an injustice was being done under present conditions in having all the defence work done by a few enthusiasts like myself, while the majority of the stake-holders in the country performed nil for their own protection.

Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, has promised that General French's recommendations are to be acted on, but when? School training (which I have always advocated) as well as boy scouts, are good, but that takes time, like all training. In the meantime we want trained adults, for while waiting for our soldiers to grow, might we not find ourselves living in a fool's paradise?

OBITUARY

WILLIAM HORNBACK.

There passed away this morning in Peterborough a very well known citizen, in the person of Mr. William Hornback, who has been identified with Mr. George Graham for the past twenty years as groom at the Oriental stables.

The deceased went three weeks ago to Nicholls Hospital and there underwent an operation and was reported at the hospital to be doing very well. As far as the operation was concerned it had been successful, but during the past week deceased had contracted pneumonia, which disease was the immediate cause of death.

Mr. Hornback was born in Cobourg about 52 years ago and was connected with Mr. Graham in the sales stables for many years. The deceased had great regard and love for a horse and was in full accord with the sentiments of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

Mr. Geo. Graham accompanied the remains to Cobourg to-day. Deceased is survived by a sorrowing mother, brother and a sister.

REPUBLIC IS UPHELD

FIRST ELECTION

Lisbon, May 29.—Perfect order prevailed yesterday at the elections for the constituent assembly, which were held throughout the country. In thirty out of fifty-one constituencies, the seats were disputed by candidates of the directory of the Republican party, the Independent Republican and the Socialist parties. In the other constituencies the regular Republicans were unopposed.

The Monarchists refrained from putting forward candidates, declaring that the elections presented no guarantees of liberty or sincerity. Instead they circulated all sorts of rumors of a counter revolution, an armed invasion by way of the Galician frontier and similar attempts against the Government.

The authorities took extraordinary precautions, not only to preserve order, but to anticipate any revolutionary movement. Almost the entire fleet was concentrated in the north, but the intervention of armed force has not been necessary up to the present in any part of the country.

The polling throughout was very heavy and the first results indicate a majority of 251 deputies will be regular Republicans.

A few Independents and Socialists are likely to win their elections, but the general opinion is that, while the Government may have to meet certain divergencies of opinion in the assembly, there will be nothing like systematic opposition.

In Lisbon, police patrolled the streets all night, but there were no disturbances. The balloting continued throughout the day and will continue to-day. The regulars carried the day in this city. One woman, Ds. Beatrix Angelo, recorded her vote, amid thunders of applause.

It is announced that the discussions of the constituent assembly will be confined, first to a law defining the political powers of the republic; second, to organic laws relating to each of these powers, including an electoral law; third, to acts of dictatorship on the part of the Provisional Government, and fourth, to the budget.

Several of the civil governors have made representations, urging the necessity of modification of the law, and it is understood that a special bill will be introduced with this object.

To Have New Stations.

Kingston, May 29.—Dr. E. Ryan, chairman of the railway committee of the Board of Trade, has just received plans for the proposed new passenger station for the Grand Trunk and also the new freight station. The plans call for the removal of the present city station and freight sheds.

The station will be built on the present site, one storey high and in the prevailing style of modern railway stations. The new freight station will be erected on the old bay market.

The C.P.R. will be negotiated with for the purchase of land, in order to carry out the plans of the Grand Trunk.

DIAZ WAS ATTACKED

Ex-President's Train Waylaid by Insurrectos but the Rebels Were Beaten Off Under Direction of Ex-President Himself

WAS IN DANGER

Vera Cruz, May 29.—While escorting ex-President Diaz from the Mexican capital to Vera Cruz on Friday the federal troops engaged a large force of rebels.

The troops were successful in beating off the insurrectos, who retreated, leaving behind thirty dead. General Diaz left the train and gave orders to his soldiers during the battle.

General Diaz and his party, consisting of Madame Diaz, Col. Porfirio Diaz and the latter's family, left Mexico City on a special train, composed of three sections.

The first section carried the Eleventh Regiment of Infantry. The Presidential party was in the second section, which was followed closely by the third, also carrying troops.

When approaching Tepeyahuale they encountered a body of some 700 rebels. The leading section of the train pulled up and the federal troops dismounted. After a sharp engagement the federals succeeded in defeating the insurgents, who retired, leaving on the field thirty dead, their standards and a box containing 1,000 pesos.

The federal troops, which were 300 strong, registered three men wounded, one probably fatally.

General Diaz and his son, Col. Porfirio Diaz, on arriving at the scene of the engagement, descended from their car and took part in the fray. The ex-President experienced some difficulty in preventing his troops from pursuing the revolutionists.

The general was received here with the greatest respect. He plans to leave Vera Cruz for Europe on May 31. No definite arrangements have been decided on as yet regarding his future course of action.

BAD BLAZE IN QUEBEC

City Has Narrow Escape From Partial Destruction—Damage Amounted to About $250,000—Started in Rink

FAMILIES HOMELESS

Quebec, May 29.—It was nine o'clock Sunday morning when the "All out" was sounded for a fire which broke out in St. Roch shortly after noon Saturday, and which for a time threatened a large section of that portion of the city and looked possible to develop into a general conflagration. About a quarter of a million of damage was wrought by the fire, among the buildings destroyed being a couple of large and a number of smaller factories.

The fire was one of the fiercest which the local fire-fighters have been called upon to face for a long time, breaking out in a roller rink on Notre Dame des Agnes street, the blaze worked itself into the Carelbe carriage factory on Dorchester street, just around the corner. Here the full force of the fire raged, the flames being fierce and the whole building speedily becoming a mass of flame.

The firemen of No. 3 and 5 stations, almost opposite the roller rink, had just returned from a run to a chimney fire in their section, and were cleaning up their wagons, when the new fire was discovered. Captain Louis Talbot at once sounded a double alarm and the firemen were quickly on the spot. There was, however, some trouble with the water pressure, and for a time the firemen could not get sufficient force to cope with the flames.

A general alarm was then sent in and the whole brigade assembled. The proposition which confronted them was a serious one. The fire had gained such headway and was raging so fiercely that it looked as if another disastrous conflagration was in sight. The firemen did everything possible to confine the flames to the building in which the blaze had declared itself, but this was impossible, and the fire leaped across the street and caught the Dominion Corset Co., through which the fire swept with a force that could not be stopped.

At this juncture, it looked as if the whole section of the city was fated to burn.

A desperate attempt was made to save the great corset and box factory of the Dominion Company, but it was too late and the flames swept through the upper storeys and wrecked the whole interior of the building.

Eight families were burned out, in addition to the two factories and the roller rink.

Among the houses burned was one occupied by the chief of the fire brigade, Fitzback, who is now seriously ill, and whose home was totally destroyed. He had to be carried out of his house on a stretcher.

There were many exciting scenes during the progress of the fire, there being a hurried shift among the residents in the immediate vicinity, and whose homes seemed at one time doomed to destruction.

FIRST PART DONE.

France Reaches Fez In Work of Opening Trade Route.

Paris, May 29.—(N. Y. Tribune Cable.)—The first and easiest portion of the French task in Morocco is accomplished by the arrival at Fez of Gen. Meinier. The Government is fully alive to the absolute necessity of completing in a thorough and permanent manner the triple work of establishing in Morocco the military supremacy of the Sultan, the integrity of his territory and the open door for the commerce of all nations.

The measures decided on to accomplish these three results are to give carte blanche to Col. Mangin, the French instructor of the Sultan's army with the aid of a corps of French officers and to maintain in security two military and trade routes of communication with Fez, one between Fez and the Atlantic and the other between Fez and Algeria, via Taza. Three efficient Moroccan armies, under French officer instructors, are to be centered at Fez, at Taza and at Meknes for the first time in history to really govern this country and keep it in order.

The French Government is determined not to withdraw its present armies of occupation until this is accomplished.

Springhill Strike Ends.

Halifax, May 29.—The long and bitterly fought strike at the Springhill coal mines was ended Saturday afternoon when the men adopted the report of the system committee. The points of the agreement under which the strike is brought to an end, as adopted at the meeting of the miners in Springhill Saturday, are as follows:

1. The animals be taken back as soon as places can be found for them, the company saying it hopes to find employment for 40 days for a majority of the men.

2. The schedule for mechanics is to remain with no reductions of the rates before the strike.

3. The Longley Board's fine, that is the docking system, is to govern.

4. Coal cutters are to get ten per cent. less than the rate paid before the strike, fair consideration to be allowed to enable a man to earn an average wage where changing conditions in coal make that necessary.

Thrown Into Carriage Gear.

Woodstock, May 29.—Robert Danby of Muir received painful injuries while driving in the city yesterday morning. The king bolt of his buggy broke and he was thrown into the carriage gear, and when the horse took fright and ran away, he was dragged a considerable distance. A badly-broken shoulder and many bruises resulted.

Farnham, Que., May 29.—The first of the Liberal rallies to be held in this province during the recess of Parliament took place here yesterday. A large audience heard speeches delivered by Hon. Sydney Fisher, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and Messrs. Demers, Meigs and Allen, M.P.'s. The audience was more interested than enthusiastic, but Mr. Fisher gradually woke it up in a forceful presentation of the reciprocity issue. Mr. Fisher prefaced his remarks by referring to the talk of a general election in the near future, and explained that it lay in the power of the Opposition to prevent a vote being taken on the reciprocity question, as the Government required money to carry on the business of the country, and by useless debate the Opposition could prevent it being granted.

DYSPEPSIA Can Be Cured.

This disease is the all prevailing malady of civilised life, and one which oftenest baffles all ordinary treatment. It gives rise to a great variety of distressing symptoms, such as distress after eating, rising and souring of food, wind in the stomach, heartburn, etc.

Nearly everything that enters a weak dyspeptic stomach acts as an irritant; hence the great difficulty of effecting a cure.

The long train of distressing symptoms, which render life a burden to the victim of dyspepsia, may be promptly cured by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

B.B.B. regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, stimulates secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, purifies the blood, and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. Herman Dickens, Benton, N.B., writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters and find that few medicines can give such relief in dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was troubled for a number of years with dyspepsia, and could get no relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters. I took three bottles and became cured, and I can now eat anything without it hurting me. I will highly recommend it to all who are troubled with stomach trouble."

Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man so scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Get health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

I had been given up to die by three of our best doctors,

I could not stand it to be on my feet and I was so swelled in the abdomen I could hardly breathe.

But thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Nervine I am able to be about the streets, a walking advertisement of the curative qualities of your remedies, although I am 70 years old."

JOHN R. COCHRAN,

Better than any statement we could make regarding the value of

are these words of Mr. Cochran. He speaks from experience, the highest possible source of knowledge. If you have any of the signs of a weak heart, such as pain in the left shoulder or arm, fainting and hungry spells, shortness of breath, smothering spells, fluttering or palpitation of the heart, you need which for over twenty years has been recognized as the best preparation of its kind to be had.

Sacred Heart Team Wins Inter-Catholic League Game

Southerners Captured the League Fixture on Saturday by 13 Runs to 8, Being in Front All the Way---Rose's Splendid Pitching Was the Feature of the Opening Engagement.

The Sacred Heart T.A.S. team had a very easy task in disposing of Central T.A.S. in the opening game of the Inter Catholic League at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon. The Southerners won by 13 runs to 8 and were always in front. Their victory was in a great measure due to the magnificent pitching of Gus Rose, last year with the West Ends. He was in grand fettle Saturday, fanning fourteen and allowing but seven hits, while his control was splendid. Only in one innings did the Centrals succeed in bunching hits on him and even then had his support been better the scoring would have been low. On the other hand the Southerners took kindly to the offerings of Hickey and Mahoney and the errors of the Centrals were very costly. The pegging of Lafave, the Sacred Heart catcher, was a feature. Mr. J. Dorris umpired satisfactorily.

By innings—

C. Callaghan, first up for the Centrals, led off with a neat single to left and stole second, going to third when Lafave dropped the third strike on Derocher, and had to throw to first for the put-out. Connors missed three, but Giroux stopped a shoot with a portion of his anatomy. Callaghan was out at the plate by a beautiful throw from Kenneally, when he tried to score on a wide throw to third. No runs.

Gorham was hit by a pitched ball and Hefferman followed with a clean single over second, sending Gorham to third. Giroux took care of Neary's fly and would have doubled Hefferman at first, but Derocher dropped the throw. Milloy sent a slow grounder along the third base line, which got clean away from Connors and Gorham scored, Hefferman being thrown out at the plate by Conlin, and Milloy followed with a neat single. Rose was safe on Derocher's error and Kenneally singled, the net result being three more runs. J. Neary fanned, ending the innings. Four runs.

Second Innings—

For Sacred Heart, Conlin beat out a hit to short, but was out at second. Derocher to Giroux, when he tried to reach the middle station. Gorham fanned. Hefferman pealed off another nice single, but F. Neary missed three. No runs.

Third innings.—H. Callaghan struck out. Hickey was passed, but was out stealing. Lafave to Hefferman, a pretty throw by the catcher. C. Callaghan grounded to Rose. No runs.

Lafave walked and stole second, but was caught off the bag by a snap throw from Hickey. Giroux making the put-out. Milloy and Rose both fanned.—No runs.

Fourth Innings—

Derocher led off with a two-bagger to left and went to third on Neary's bad throw. Connors was safe on Hefernan's miss, but was run down between second and first, Derocher scoring. Diroux was safe on Gorham's fumble, Lafave to Heffernan. Conlin fanned. One run.

Kenneally's double, a low throw to the plate by Corkery, a base on balls to Condin, errors by Conlin and H. Callaghan, on flies to the outfield, and F. Neary's safety, gave the Sacred Heart team three in their half. It might have been more had not a double play, Hickey to Derocher, stopped the proceedings. Three runs.

Fifth innings—

Corkery was out on a foul to Lafave; Phelan was safe on Milloy's error and errors by Gorham and Lafave allowed him to score, Hickey and C. Callaghan both fanned.—One run.

Mahoney replaced Hickey on the slab, for the Centrals. He started well, by getting Milloy on an easy grounder, but Phelan dropped Rose's pop fly in front of the plate, and a double by Keanneally, a pass to J. Neary and four singles by Condin, Hefferman, F. Neary and Lafave followed, the result being five runs before the side was retired.

Sixth innings—

There was more run-getting in the sixth, errors by Hefferman, Kennealy and Lafave, and singles by Derocher, Giroux, Corkery, and Herb Callaghan brought in five runs for the Centrals.

Sacred Heart came back with one: Rose's two-bagger and a passed ball being responsible.

Seventh—

Derocher's single and an error by Gorham, on Connors' grounder, gave the Centrals another in the seventh. Connors was an easy out when he tried to steal home.

Neary singled in the Sacred Heart half, but was stranded.

Eighth Innings—

The Centrals went out in order in their half, and Sacred Heart failed to score, although Kenneally was safe on an error.

In the ninth Mahoney fanned, C. Callaghan grounded to Rose, Derocher was safe on Kenneally's error, but Connors flew out to left, ending the game.

LEADERS ALL WON IN CHURCH LEAGUE GAMES

All Saints, 2; Y.M.C.A. 1.

All Saints defeated the Y. M. C. A. in a Church League game on Saturday afternoon at the Brinton field by 2 goals to 1, before a small crowd. The game was clean, but not extraordinary fast.

As usual, the grass on the field was in dire need of cutting; as usual the spectators stood in the goal and, as usual, there were spasms of wrangling before the game, during the game, and after the game; as usual some of the forwards persisted in loafing around their opponents' goal; as usual, the referee was "punk".

The following were the teams:

All Saints—Morality, Rew, Robinson, Hooper, Dawson, Edwards, Downes, Vickers, Abbott, James, Willis.

Y. M. C. A.—Fleming, Turner, Dr. Williamson, Dr. McPherson, Tarte, Moore, Lane, Canniff, Ingram, Flowers.

St. James' and Park street teams met in a Church League game on Saturday on the grounds of the first named team. From a spectator's point of view, the weather was ideal.

The match was timed for 3 o'clock and Mr. Harris, the referee, had the men lined up on time, but the game was delayed owing to the fact that Billy Milburn, the genial secretary of the Midland League, was busy with a white-wash brush putting on the finishing touches to the penalty area. When Billy was through the referee got the game going, which from start to finish was a good, clean, fast exhibition, and although Park street were beaten, they were not dishonoured. St. James were without the services of the redoubtable D. Gribbs, whose leg has not yet got over the well meant attentions of the Y.M.C.A. crowd. His place was ably filled by J. Newton (protestors please note.) Mr. A. E. Brindley made his debut and signalized his entrance to Canadian football by scoring one of the eight goals for St. James.

War Hotston opened the scoring for the Saints and Turner added a few more to his name. Gush was content to make openings for others. In the first half Park street were awarded a penalty, but failed to score, Bert Leader bringing off a fine save which was loudly applauded by the crowd. The Park street forwards got well going on several occasions and in one of their rushes scored. At half time the score was 4-1 in favour of St. James.

Owing to the fact that two of Park street's best men were put out of action, Phil Braun, capt. for St. James, gave them permission to play two other men at half time. This sportsmanlike action cheered up Park street, who added another goal to which St. James replied with 4 more to show there was no ill feeling and a good game was brought to a close with the score, St. James 8 Park street 2.

St. John's again proved to be the victors on Saturday afternoon, defeating Knox by the splendid margin of 5 goals to 1. At half time both teams had one goal each to their credit, but on resuming play St. Johns' aggressive tactics quickly placed goals to their advantage, and after a struggle, in which Knox vainly tried to score, the game concluded as already stated. The line-up for St. John's was as follows:

Goal, J. Renshaw; backs, Gregory and T. Renshaw; half-backs, Smith, Simmonite (capt.) and Brown; forwards, Sharman, Copson, Dawes, Gaskell and Mathers.

Could Not Rest at Night.

Back Was So Weak.

Weak, lame and aching backs are the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning from the kidneys that everything is not right with them.

Heed the warning: cure the weak, lame, aching back and dispose of any chances of further trouble.

If you don't do this, serious complications are very apt to arise and the first thing you know you will be troubled with Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of Kidney Trouble.

On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of the trouble and strengthen the kidneys, thereby strengthening the back.

Mrs. John Pugh, Parkdale, Man., writes:—"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and find nothing to beat them. I could not rest at night my back was so weak. I tried everything, but could not get anything to do me any good until I was told by a friend to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I tried them and I am not the same weak woman I was before. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Be sure and ordering direct specify "Doan's."

Peterborough Collegiate Lost Game by 17 Runs to 8

The local Collegiate Institute Baseball team journeyed to Lindsay on Saturday and lost a loosely played game to the Lindsay Collegiate team by 17 runs to 8. Cresswell pitched a fine game for the Peterborough Collegiate, having twelve strike-outs to his credit, but his support was full of holes, the Collegiate team failing to field in their usual snappy fashion. Williamson, the Lindsay pitcher, did not seem to have much speed but was well supported and succeeded in winning without much difficulty.

The Peterborough boys had a very enjoyable visit and are looking forward to Saturday afternoon, when the Lindsay Collegiate boys will be here for the return engagement. The teams were:

OBITUARY

WILLIAM HORNBACK.

There passed away this morning in Peterborough a very well known citizen, in the person of Mr. William Hornback, who has been identified with Mr. George Graham for the past twenty years as groom at the Oriental stables.

The deceased went three weeks ago to Nicholls Hospital and there underwent an operation and was reported at the hospital to be doing very well. As far as the operation was concerned it had been successful, but during the past week deceased had contracted pneumonia, which disease was the immediate cause of death.

Mr. Hornback was born in Cobourg about 52 years ago, and was connected with Mr. Graham in the sales stables for many years. The deceased had great regard and love for a horse and was in full accord with the sentiments of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

Mr. Geo. Graham accompanied the remains to Cobourg to-day. Deceased is survived by a sorrowing mother, brother and a sister.

REPUBLIC IS UPHELD

FIRST ELECTION

Lisbon, May 29.—Perfect order prevailed yesterday at the elections for the constituent assembly, which were held throughout the country. In thirty out of fifty-one constituencies, the seats were disputed by candidates of the directory of the Republican party, the Independent Republican and the Socialist parties. In the other constituencies the regular Republicans were unopposed.

The Monarchists refrained from putting forward candidates, declaring that the elections presented no guarantees of liberty or sincerity. Instead they circulated all sorts of rumors of a counter revolution, an armed invasion by way of the Galician frontier and similar attempts against the Government.

The authorities took extraordinary precautions, not only to preserve order, but to anticipate any revolutionary movement. Almost the entire fleet was concentrated in the Tagus, but the intervention of armed force has not been necessary up to the present in any part of the country.

The polling throughout was very heavy and the first results indicate a majority of 201 deputies will be regular Republicans.

A few Independents and Socialists are likely to win their elections, but the general opinion is that, while the Government may have to meet certain divergencies of opinion in the assembly, there will be nothing like systematic opposition.

In Lisbon, police patrolled the streets all night, but there were no disturbances. The balloting continued throughout the day and will continue to-day. The regulars carried the day in this city. One woman, Ds. Beatrix Angelo, recorded her vote, amid thunders of applause.

It is announced that the discussions of the constituent assembly will be confided, first to a law defining the political powers of the republic; second, to organic laws relating to each of these powers, including an electoral law; third, to acts of dictatorship on the part of the Provisional Government, and fourth, to the budget.

Several of the civil governors have made representations, urging the necessity of modification of the law, and it is understood that a special bill will be introduced with this object.

To Have New Stations.

Kingston, May 29.—Dr. E. Ryan, chairman of the railway committee of the Board of Trade, has just received plans for the proposed new passenger station for the Grand Trunk and also the new freight station. The plans call for the removal of the present city station and freight sheds.

The station will be built on the present site, one storey high and in the prevailing style of modern railway stations. The new freight station will be erected on the old hay market.

The C.P.R. will be negotiated with for the purchase of land, in order to carry out the plans of the Grand Trunk.

June 3 a Legal Holiday.

Ottawa, May 29.—June 3 is a legal holiday all over Canada. Government offices, banks, etc., will close.

Observance by the general public is, of course, optional.

DON'T FOOL WITH YOUR LIVER

MAKE IT ACTIVE AND HEALTHY WITH "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Don't treat the Liver with common purgatives. Salts, senna, calomel and the host of "liver pills" do not act on the liver at all. They merely irritate the bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" corrects Indigestion and Constipation—not by inflaming the bowels like common purgatives, but by making the liver active and healthy.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest liver medicine in the world, and is the only medicine made of fruit juices.

DIAZ WAS ATTACKED

Ex-President's Train Waylaid by Insurrectos but the Rebels Were Beaten Off Under Direction of Ex-President Himself

WAS IN DANGER

Vera Cruz, May 29.—While escorting ex-President Diaz from the Mexican capital to Vera Cruz on Friday the federal troops engaged a large force of rebels.

The troops were successful in beating off the insurrectos, who retreated, leaving behind thirty dead. General Diaz left the train and gave orders to his soldiers during the battle.

General Diaz and his party, consisting of Madame Diaz, Col. Porfirio Diaz and the latter's family, left Mexico City on a special train, composed of three sections.

The first section carried the Eleventh Regiment of Infantry. The Presidential party was in the second section, which was followed closely by the third, also carrying troops.

When approaching Tepeyahualco they encountered a body of some 700 rebels. The leading section of the train pulled up and the federal troops dismounted. After a sharp engagement the federals succeeded in defeating the insurgents, who retired, leaving on the field thirty dead, their standards and a box containing 1,000 pesos.

The federal troops, which were 300 strong, registered three men wounded, one probably fatally.

General Diaz and his son, Col. Porfirio Diaz, on arriving at the scene of the engagement, descended from their car and took part in the fray. The ex-President experienced some difficulty in preventing his troops from pursuing the revolutionists.

The general was received here with the greatest respect. He plans to leave Vera Cruz for Europe on May 31. No definite arrangements have been decided on as yet regarding his future course of action.

BAD BLAZE IN QUEBEC

City Has Narrow Escape From Partial Destruction—Damage Amounted to About $250,000—Started in Rink

FAMILIES HOMELESS

Quebec, May 29.—It was nine o'clock Sunday morning when the "All out" was sounded for a fire which broke out in St. Roch shortly after noon Saturday, and which for a time threatened a large section of that portion of the city and looked possible to develop into a general conflagration. About a quarter of a million of damage was wrought by the fire, among the buildings destroyed being a couple of large and a number of smaller factories.

The fire was one of the fiercest which the local fire-fighters have been called upon to face for a long time, breaking out in a roller rink on Notre Dame des Agnes street, the blaze worked itself into the Carelbe carriage factory on Dorchester street, just around the corner. Here the full force of the fire raged, the flames being fierce and the whole building speedily becoming a mass of flame.

The firemen of No. 3 and 5 stations, almost opposite the roller rink, had just returned from a run to a chimney fire in their section, and were cleaning up their wagons, when the new fire was discovered. Captain Louis Talbot at once sounded a double alarm and the firemen were quickly on the spot. There was, however, some trouble with the water pressure, and for a time the firemen could not get sufficient force to cope with the flames.

A general alarm was then sent in and the whole brigade assembled. The proposition which confronted them was a serious one. The fire had gained such headway and was raging so fiercely that it looked as if another disastrous conflagration was in sight. The firemen did everything possible to confine the flames to the building in which the blaze had declared itself, but this was impossible, and the fire leaped across the street and caught the Dominion Corset Co., through which the fire swept with a force that could not be stopped.

At this juncture, it looked as if the whole section of the city was fated to burn.

A desperate attempt was made to save the great corset and box factory of the Dominion Company, but it was too late and the flames swept through the upper storeys and wrecked the whole interior of the building.

Eight families were burned out, in addition to the two factories and the roller rink.

Among the houses burned was one occupied by the chief of the fire brigade, Fitzback, who is now seriously ill, and whose house was totally destroyed. He had to be carried out of his house on a stretcher.

There were many exciting scenes during the progress of the fire, there being a hurried shift among the residents in the immediate vicinity, and whose houses seemed at one time doomed to destruction.

France Reaches Fez In Work of Opening Trade Route.

Paris, May 29.—(N. Y. Tribune Cable.)—The first and easiest portion of the French task in Morocco is accomplished by the arrival at Fez of Gen. Meinier. The Government is fully alive to the absolute necessity of completing in a thorough and permanent manner the triple work of establishing in Morocco the military supremacy of the Sultan, the integrity of his territory and the open door for the commerce of all nations.

The measures decided on to accomplish these three results are to give carte blanche to Col. Mangin, the French instructor of the Sultan's army with the aid of a corps of French officers and to maintain in security two military and trade routes of communication with Fez, one between Fez and the Atlantic and the other between Fez and Algeria, via Taza. Three efficient Moroccan armies, under French officer instructors, are to be centered at Fez, at Taza and at Mekmes for the first time in history to really govern his country and keep it in order.

The French Government is determined not to withdraw its present armies of occupation until this is accomplished.

Springhill Strike Ends.

Halifax, May 29.—The long and bitterly fought strike at the Springhill coal mines was ended Saturday afternoon when the men adopted the report of the system committee. The points of the agreement under which the strike is brought to an end, as adopted at the meeting of the miners in Springhill Saturday, are as follows:

1. The arrears to be taken back as soon as places can be found for them, the company saying it hopes to find employment for 40 days for a majority of the men.

2. The schedule for mechanics is to remain with no reductions of the rates before the strike.

3. The Longley Board's fine, that is the docking system, is to govern.

4. Coal cutters are to get ten per cent. less than the rate paid before the strike, fair consideration to be allowed to enable a man to earn an average wage where changing conditions in coal make that necessary.

Woodstock, May 29.—Robert Danby of Muir received painful injuries while driving in the city yesterday morning. The king bolt of his buggy broke and he was thrown into the carriage gear, and when the horse took fright and ran away, he was dragged a considerable distance. A badly-broken shoulder and many bruises resulted.

Farnham, Que., May 29.—The first of the Liberal rallies to be held in this province during the recess of Parliament took place here yesterday. A large audience heard speeches delivered by Hon. Sydney Fisher, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and Messrs. Demers, Meigs and Allen, M.P.'s. The audience was more interested than enthusiastic, but Mr. Fisher gradually woke it up in a forceful presentation of the reciprocity issue. Mr. Fisher prefaced his remarks by referring to the talk of a general election in the near future, and explained that it lay in the power of the Opposition to prevent a vote being taken on the reciprocity question, as the Government required money to carry on the business of the country, and by useless debate the Opposition could prevent it being granted.

DYSPEPSIA
Can Be Cured.

This disease is the all prevailing malady of civilized life, and one which oftenest baffles all ordinary treatment. It gives rise to a great variety of distressing symptoms, such as distress after eating, rising and souring of food, wind in the stomach, heartburn, etc.

Nearly everything that enters a weak dyspeptic stomach acts as an irritant; hence the great difficulty of effecting a cure.

The long train of distressing symptoms, which render life a burden to the victim of dyspepsia, may be promptly cured by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

B.B.B. regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, stimulates secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, purifies the blood, and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. Herman Dickens, Benton, N.B., writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters and find that few medicines can give such relief in dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was troubled for a number of years with dyspepsia, and could get no relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters. I took three bottles and became cured, and I can now eat anything without it hurting me. I will highly recommend it to all who are troubled with stomach trouble."

Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man can scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Get health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and cleans, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

I had been given up to die by three of our best doctors,

I could not stand it to be on my feet and I was so swelled in the abdomen I could hardly breathe.

But thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Nervine I am able to be about the streets, a walking advertisement of the curative qualities of your remedies, although I am 70 years old."

JOHN R. COCHRAN,

Better than any statement we could make regarding the value of

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy

are these words of Mr. Cochran. He speaks from experience, the highest possible source of knowledge. If you have any of the signs of a weak heart, such as pain in the left shoulder or arm, fainting and hungry spells, shortness of breath, smothering spells, fluttering or palpitation of the heart, you need

Sacred Heart Team Wins Inter-Catholic League Game

Southerners Captured the League Fixture on Saturday by 13 Runs to 8, Being in Front All the Way---Rose's Splendid Pitching Was the Feature of the Opening Engagement.

The Sacred Heart T.A.S. team had a very easy task in disposing of Central T.A.S. in the opening game of the Inter Catholic League at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon. The Southerners won by 13 runs to 8 and were always in front. Their victory was in a great measure due to the magnificent pitching of Gus Rose, last year with the West Ends. He was in grand fettle Saturday, fanning fourteen and allowing but seven hits, while his control was splendid. Only in one innings did the Centrals succeed in bunching hits on him and even then had his support been better the scoring would have been low. On the other hand the Southerners took kindly to the offerings of Hickey and Mahoney and the errors of the Centrals were very costly. The pegging of Lafave, the Sacred Heart catcher, was a feature. Mr. J. Dorris umpired satisfactorily.

By innings—

C. Callaghan, first up for the Centrals, led off with a neat single to left and stole second, going to third when Lafave dropped the third strike on Derocher, and had to throw to first for the put-out. Connors missed three, but Giroux stopped a shoot with a portion of his anatomy. Callaghan was out at the plate by a beautiful throw from Kenneally, when he tried to score on a wide throw to third. No runs.

Gorham was hit by a pitched ball and Heffernan followed with a clean single over second, sending Gorham to third. Giroux took care of Neary's fly and would have doubled Heffernan at first, but Derocher dropped the throw. Milloy sent a slow grounder along the third base line, which got clean away from Connors and Gorham scored, Heffernan being thrown out at the plate by Conlin, and Milloy followed with a neat single. Rose was safe on Derocher's error and Kenneally singled, the net result being three more runs. J. Neary fanned, ending the innings. Four runs.

Second Innings—

For Sacred Heart, Conlin beat out a hit to short, but was out at second, Derocher to Giroux, when he tried to reach the middle station. Gorham fanned. Heffernan pealed off another nice single, but F. Neary missed three. No runs.

Third innings.—H. Callaghan struck out. Hickey was passed, but was out stealing. Lafave to Heffernan, a pretty throw by the catcher. C. Callaghan grounded to Rose. No runs.

Lafave walked and stole second, but was caught off the bag by a snap throw from Hickey, Giroux making the put-out. Milloy and Rose both fanned.—No runs.

Fourth Innings—

Derocher led off with a two-bagger to left and went to third on Neary's bad throw. Connors was safe on Heffernan's miss, but was run down between second and first, Derocher scoring. Diroux was safe on Gorham's fumble, Lafave to Heffernan. Conlin fanned. One run.

Kenneally's double, a low throw to the plate by Corkery, a base on balls to Condin, errors by Conlin and H. Callaghan, on flies to the outfield, and F. Neary's safety, gave the Sacred Heart team three in their half. It might have been more had not a double play, Hickey to Derocher, stopped the proceedings. Three runs.

Fifth innings—

Corkery was out on a foul to Lafave; Phelan was safe on Milloy's error and errors by Gorham and Lafave allowed him to score, Hickey and C. Callaghan both fanned.—One run.

Mahoney replaced Hickey on the slab, for the Centrals. He started well, by getting Milloy on an easy grounder, but Phelan dropped Rose's pop fly in front of the plate, and a double by Keanneally, a pass to J. Neary and four singles by Condin. Heffernan, F. Neary and Lafave followed, the result being five runs before the side was retired.

Sixth innings—

There was more run-getting in the sixth, errors by Heffernan, Kenneally and Lafave, and singles by Derocher, Giroux, Corkery, and Herb Callaghan brought in five runs for the Centrals.

Sacred Heart came back with one; Rose's two-bagger and a passed ball being responsible.

Seventh—

Derocher's single and an error by Gorham, on Connors' grounder, gave the Centrals another in the seventh. Connors was an easy out when he tried to steal home.

Neary singled in the Sacred Heart half, but was stranded.

Eighth Innings—

The Centrals went out in order in their half, and Sacred Heart failed to score, although Kenneally was safe on an error.

In the ninth Mahoney fanned, C. Callaghan grounded to Rose, Derocher was safe on Kenneally's error, but Connors flew out to left, ending the game.

LEADERS ALL WON IN CHURCH LEAGUE GAMES

All Saints, 2; Y.M.C.A. 1.

All Saints defeated the Y. M. C. A. in a Church League game on Saturday afternoon at the Brinton field by 2 goals to 1, before a small crowd. The game was clean, but not extraordinary fast.

As usual, the grass on the field was in dire need of cutting; as usual the spectators stood in the goal and, as usual, there were spasms of wrangling before the game, during the game, and after the game; as usual some of the forwards persisted in loafing around their opponents' goal; as usual, the referee was "punk".

The following were the teams:

All Saints—Morsity, Rew, Robinson, Hooper, Dawson, Edwards, Downes, Vickers, Abbott, James, Willis.

Y. M. C. A.—Fleming, Turner, Dr. Williamson, Dr. McPherson, Tarte, Moore, Lane, Canniff, Ingram, Flowers.

St. James' and Park street teams met in a Church League game on Saturday on the grounds of the first named team. From a spectator's point of view, the weather was ideal.

The match was timed for 3 o'clock and Mr. Harris, the referee, had the men lined up on time, but the game was delayed owing to the fact that Billy Milburn, the genial secretary of the Midland League, was busy with a white-wash brush putting on the finishing touches to the penalty area. When Billy was through the referee got the game going, which from start to finish was a good, clean, fast exhibition, and although Park street were beaten, they were not dishonoured. St. James were without the services of the redoubtable D. Gribbs, whose leg has not yet got over the well meant attentions of the Y.M.C.A. crowd. His place was ably filled by J. Newton (protestors please note.) Mr. A. E. Brindley made his debut and signalized his entrance to Canadian football by scoring one of the eight goals for St. James.

Wag Hotston opened the scoring for the Saints and Turner added a few more to his name. Gush was content to make openings for others. In the first half Park street were awarded a penalty, but failed to score, Bert Leader bringing off a fine save which was loudly applauded by the crowd. The Park street forwards got well going on several occasions and in one of their rushes scored. At half time the score was 4-1 in favour of St. James.

Owing to the fact that two of Park street's best men were put out of action, Phil Braun, capt. for St. James, gave them permission to play two other men at half time. This sportsmanlike action cheered up Park street, who added another goal to which St. James replied with 4 more to show there was no ill feeling and a good game was brought to a close with the score, St. James 8 Park street 2.

St. John's again proved to be the victors on Saturday afternoon, defeating Knox by the splendid margin of 5 goals to 1. At half time both teams had one goal each to their credit, but on resuming play St. Johns' aggressive tactics quickly placed goals to their advantage, and after a struggle, in which Knox vainly tried to score, the game concluded as already stated. The line-up for St. John's was as follows:

Goal, J. Renshaw; backs, Gregory and T. Renshaw; half-backs, Smith, Simmonite (capt.) and Brown; forwards, Sharman, Copson, Dawes, Gaskell and Mathers.

WERE BEATEN IN LINDSAY

Peterborough Collegiate Lost Game by 17 Runs to 8

The local Collegiate Institute Baseball team journeyed to Lindsay on Saturday and lost a loosely played game to the Lindsay Collegiate team by 17 runs to 8. Cresswell pitched a fine game for the Peterborough Collegiate, having twelve strike-outs to his credit, but his support was full of holes, the Collegiate team failing to field in their usual snappy fashion. Williamson, the Lindsay pitcher, did not seem to have much speed but was well supported and succeeded in winning without much difficulty.

The Peterborough boys had a very enjoyable visit and are looking forward to Saturday afternoon, when the Lindsay Collegiate boys will be here for the return engagement. The teams were:

Could Not Rest at Night.

Back Was So Weak.

Weak, lame and aching backs are the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning from the kidneys that everything is not right with them.

Read the warning: cure the weak, lame, aching back and dispose of any chances of further trouble.

If you don't do this, serious complications are very apt to arise and the first thing you know you will be troubled with Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of Kidney Trouble.

On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of the trouble and strengthen the kidneys, thereby strengthening the back.

Mrs. John Puigh, Parkdale, Man., writes:—"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and find nothing to beat them. I could not rest at night my back was so weak. I tried everything, but could not get anything to do me any good until I was told by a friend to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I tried them and I am not the same weak woman I was before. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

ONE of the most common and least recognized mistakes that the average young girl makes in the love game, it seems to me, is that of thinking that most men like a girl because other men like her.

Because of this notion the average girl never likes to appear in a man-and-girl place without a man tagging at her heels.

Because of this she is continually managing to lug into her conversation with one man references to other men who admire her, places they have taken her, gifts they have given her, tributes they have paid her.

She thinks by thus showing her admirer how popular she is, she is sure to increase his ardour.

As a matter of fact, she is much more apt to sicken him.

For most men are keener character students in this direction than the girls give them credit for, and no matter how artfully off-hand a girl makes her references to these other men who have been bowled over by her rare charms, the average man sees right through her pretence and laughs in his sleeve at her.

A man does not like to think that the girl he is taking about is a freak or a monstrosity whom no one else but he would look at, and who is accepting his attentions because she cannot win any from other men; but on the other hand, if a man is in love with a girl he does not need to have his affections bolstered up by being continually informed that other people like her.

I think men are much more independent in this way than women.

A girl simply must know what all her chums think of the man who is playing court to her. A man never thinks of asking his men friends' opinion of the girl he is in love with.

Perhaps you think that, considering which side of the fence I am on I can hardly speak so glibly of the man's point of view. Perhaps I could not were it not that much of what I say is what men have said to me.

One man expressed his opinion on this subject pretty vigorously after a little experience at a dance. It was a dance given by a girls' club. A girl whom he had previously admired very much took her cousin to the dance. Impressed by the idea that it would lower her in other men's eyes if they thought she had no man but her cousin to invite, she had asked him to assume a different name for the evening, as his own name was the same as hers.

Not being used to bearing an assumed name he made a slip and the story leaked out. The man who told me of it said he was much disappointed in the girl. "I thought she had more common sense than that," he said. "I guess she wasn't as much of a girl as I thought her."

I have an idea that most men see through us much more than we realize and that the girl who is all genuine and has no silly pretense to be seen through is the girl who is apt to win out in the love game in the end.

IT TELLS ABOUT THE SANE HEATING OF HOMES

"Comfort & Health" tells about a heating system.

It goes into the question of healthful heating and shows how important a part the furnace plays in the health of your family.

It explains the principle of warm air heating; how the furnace draws in fresh air, warms it and circulates it moist and pure to every room in the house.

Then it tells about the perfect warm air furnace—the "Hecla." The furnace that cannot leak gas. The furnace that gives heat without dust. The furnace that is easy to run, and what is more important, how that furnace—The "Hecla"—saves you one ton of coal in seven.

"Hecla" Furnace

Cannot Leak Gas

Gas in the house is disagreeable. Often it proves dangerous to the health. The "Hecla" is so constructed that gas cannot get into the living rooms. The places where gas leaks occur in the ordinary furnace are fused in the "Hecla" so that gas cannot possibly find an outlet.

Saves 1 Ton in 7

The "Hecla" uses only six tons of coal where others use seven. It is the steel ribbed fire pot that makes this saving. How flanges are of steel plate placed close together and welded into the fire pot get more heat from your coal is told in "Comfort & Health."

GILBERT DROWNED

Great English Librettist Meets Tragic End at Harrow—Wrote "The Mikado," "Pinafore" and Many Other Operas

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS OLD

London, May 30.—Sir W. S. Gilbert, the noted dramatic author and librettist, who, in collaboration with Sir Arthur Sullivan, wrote the famous Savoy operas, including "H.M.S. Pinafore," "Patience," "Iolanthe" and the "Mikado," and was Knighted in 1907 by King Edward, met a tragic end yesterday. He spent the morning in London, and returned to his residence at Harrow in the afternoon. As was his custom, he went down to the lake in his grounds to enjoy a half-hour's swim. He dived in, and was a long time in coming to the surface. Women friends who had accompanied him to the lake observed that he was in difficulty and was struggling. They rushed off for help and Sir William sank again.

Servants came as quickly as possible to the scene, but when the body was recovered life was extinct.

The precise cause of death is not known, but it is believed to have been due to syncope. The lake was only a few feet deep, and the bottom was free from stones. Sir William was born in London in 1836.

Sir W. S. Gilbert has amused millions of playgoers since he put his first manuscripts of Dulcamara on the market for $150. After reading it the purchaser, Mr. Emden, took the librettist seriously to task for selling such a good play for such a paltry sum. Since then he has given the world, among others, "Pygmalion and Galatea," "Trial by Jury," "H.M.S. Pinafore," "Pirates of Penzance," "Patience," "Iolanthe," "The Mikado," "The Yeomen of the Guard," "The Gondoliers" and "Utopia, Limited." To these delightful operettas Sir Arthur Sullivan supplied the music, and the partnership between the two continued for many years.

BILL IS HELD UP.

Reciprocity Measure Delayed by Many Amendments.

Washington, May 30.—With the announcement that the Senate finance committee, by taking all of Wednesday in which to hear witnesses on Canadian reciprocity, could complete its labors this week, the Senate last evening by a vote of 50 to 17 adjourned until noon Thursday. Chairman Penrose of the committee believes that the hearings can be closed when the committee rises Wednesday, but consideration of amendments to the reciprocity bill may delay its report to the Senate to the first of the coming week. It is Senator Penrose's hope, however, that the reciprocity bill can be reached without change.

A clash between interests opposed to reciprocity occurred at yesterday's hearing. A. E. Chamberlain of South Dakota, while speaking for the agricultural interests against the measure, nevertheless declared in favor of free lumber, because, he declared, the farmer was being compelled to pay entirely too much for his lumber. Representatives of the lumber interests were also present.

"Do you expect the lumber people to support you in your opposition to free wheat?" asked Senator Heyburn.

"I am not here to do any political work," replied Mr. Chamberlain.

"You will be followed by representatives of the lumber interests of the Northwest," said Mr. Heyburn, "and I want them to understand your position regarding their interests, so that they may make up their minds regarding yours."

Mr. Chamberlain said that he had seen in South Dakota "a little book which said from whom a man should buy his lumber. The trust or combination provided for that, and I do not see any excuse for the Government protecting an industry that robs the people in that way."

TORONTO MAN KILLS ANOTHER AS THE RESULT OF A QUARREL OF MANY YEARS

James Lougheed is Mortally Wounded by Joseph Jesseman Because the Latter Entertained a Grudge Against Him.

LAY IN WAIT FOR HIM

Toronto, May 30.—A murder which, for cold-blooded deliberation rivals that of the notorious Thaw-White episode, and in which the defence is likely to be the same, that of insanity, was committed in the streets of "the Ward" yesterday.

The victim was James Lougheed, 62 years, 63 Laplante avenue. His slayer was Joseph Jesseman, 45 years, 69 Marlboro avenue, an elevator man at the general postoffice. According to the word of the murderer and the ante-mortem statement of the dead man, the motive for the crime was revenge for a grievance, real or fancied, a grudge of long standing. The weapon was a revolver, four shots being fired into Lougheed's body.

Shortly after 8 o'clock yesterday morning, Jesseman rode into Laplante avenue from College street on a bicycle. At the corner of Hayter street he stopped and dismounted. There he waited and rode up and down the street several times. At last Lougheed left his dwelling and walked south on Laplante avenue. As he drew near to Jesseman, the latter whipped out a 38-calibre revolver from the side pocket of his coat and fired two shots into his breast. The stricken man turned to run, but as he did so, his slayer fired three more shots, two of which took effect in his victim's back.

He staggered a few steps and then fell to the ground. There he lay until assistance came. Meanwhile Jesseman had calmly replaced the revolver in his pocket, mounted his wheel and was riding off, when he was seized by William O'Brien, engineer on the new hospital building, and Samuel Salter of 27 Laplante avenue, a milkman. These held him until the police arrived, called by a nurse from the house in rear of the Hospital for Sick Children.

The police patrol wagon and ambulance responded and the wounded man was hurried to St. Michael's Hospital, where he died shortly afterwards. Jesseman was taken to police headquarters in the City Hall. While awaiting the arrival of the police, Jesseman told his captors that he had shot Lougheed because "the scoundrel had ruined his life."

To Inspector of Detectives Duncan he declared that Lougheed, whose neighbor he had been formerly, had been circulating evil stories about him. He said when he lived beside him, Lougheed had kept liquor for sale, and when he had refused to aid in hiding it, Lougheed had begun telling the stories about him, accusing him of unnatural practices and also saying other highly slanderous things of him.

Labor Candidates Needed.

Ottawa, May 30.—"There is a feeling in labor circles throughout Canada that the time has come when labor should be well represented, not only in the Federal House, but in the different Provincial Legislatures," said W. Glockling, Toronto, president of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, yesterday. He said that an organized effort was about to be made to bring out labor candidates in all the provinces, and that the various labor bodies were determined to make the movement a success. It was felt that it was far better to have representatives in the various Houses than to send delegations from time to time.

At the meeting of the congress details of the meeting to be held at Calgary between Sept. 11 and 16 were arranged. It was decided to extend an invitation to Hon. Mr. Fisher, Premier of the Australian Commonwealth, to address the gathering.

May Eject Mother-in-Law.

Chatham, May 30.—A man may not throw his mother-in-law from his premises in a rough manner that is calculated to do her bodily harm. This was the decision reached by Magistrate Houston yesterday morning, when he fined Bert Avery $1 and costs for ejecting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lyda Turner, from his house. Dr. McRitchie, the physician called, gave evidence as to the injuries which the woman sustained. There were bruises on her arms which seemed to indicate that she had been used rather roughly. The magistrate held that, while Avery had a right to order her off the premises and use reasonable force to put her off, he was bound by law not to do her bodily harm in removing her. The therefore imposed the fine.

THEY FEEL SLIGHTED.

Russia and Japan Want to Take Part of Chinese Loan.

Pekin, May 30.—Though the Chinese currency reform loan of $50,000,000 already has been completed with the American, British, French and German groups of bankers equally participating therein, the Russian and Japanese Governments have signified to China their desire of taking part in the loan.

Russia and Japan argue that the pledging of the Manchurian revenues to secure the loan may conflict with their prior rights in that province. Furthermore, these two Governments are materially interested in both the development of Manchuria and the reform of the currency to which the loan is allocated.

If Russia and Japan follow up their signified wishes to participate in the loan, it may bring about a diplomatic contest, it is believed here, of a more serious aspect than that which surrounded the historical entry of the American syndicate into the Hukwang Railroad loan agreement. It is reported in financial circles that a strong international group of bankers is being formed in opposition to the quadruple banking group. The nucleus of the opposition is said to be the Russo-Belgian syndicate, which is expected to take in British bankers and probably also Japanese financiers.

Forest Fires In Nova Scotia.

Shelburne, N.S., May 30.—Forest fires have been doing much damage in the vicinity of Shelburne. One big fire at the north of the town has burned thousands of dollars' worth of timber land, and several dwellings have had narrow escapes. Another fire on the western side of the harbor was more destructive. It not only burned valuable timber, but worked into the villages of Gunning Cove and Churchover, the former nine miles from town and the latter seven. The latest reports state that 13 buildings have been destroyed, including the rectory, occupied by Rev. S. G. Andrews, with all contents, the residences of Fred Sullivan, Francis Downey and the public hall. Crowds of men from Shelburne and other places have lent valuable assistance in fighting the flames.

A gasoline boat from Shelburne, which was at the scene, sunk on the way home and John Hethrington and Frank Robertson of Shelburne had a narrow escape from drowning.

TOBACCO TRUST NOW

Supreme Court Orders the American Tobacco Co. to Disband in Six Months the Same as the Standard Oil Co.

IMPORTANT DECISION

Washington, May 30.—Another of the big trusts was smashed yesterday, when the Supreme Court of the United States ordered the dissolution of the combination known as the American Tobacco Co., with its associates, the Imperial, and the British-American Tobacco Co., so far as they do business between the various states of the American Union. The decision was rendered by Chief Justice White, and called forth a dissent from Justice Harlan, who took the same ground as he did in the Standard Oil case, when he objected to the use of the "rule of reason" in determining whether the combination was a monopoly in the eyes of the law, or a "combination in restraint of trade" under the statute. His reasoning is that so long as there is restraint of trade in any degree the statute is violated, while the majority hold that only unreasonable restraint is meant by the statute.

The decision is thus summarized in a statement last evening by Attorney-General Wickersham, commending the judgment of the court, as follows:

"The decision in the tobacco case, in the most comprehensive and sweeping manner, sustains the position taken by the Government with respect to the decree below. It reverses the action of the Circuit Court in dismissing from the bill the individual defendants, the British-American Tobacco Co., Ltd., the Imperial Tobacco Co., Ltd., and the United Cigar Stores Co., holding that they are all parties to the unlawful combination which is condemned by the decree.

"The court gives an interpretation of its decision in the Standard Oil case, saying that it was there held that in view of the general language of the statute and the public policy which it manifested, there was no possibility of frustrating that policy by resorting to any disguise or subterfuge of form, since resort to reason rendered it impossible to escape by any indirection the prohibitions of the statute.

"It then holds that the history of the tobacco combination is so replete with the doing of acts which it was the obvious purpose of the statute to forbid, so demonstrative of the existence from the beginning of a purpose to acquire dominion and control of the tobacco trade, but by methods devised in order to monopolize the trade by driving competitors out of business, which were ruthlessly carried out upon the assumption that to work upon the fears or to play upon cupidity of competitors would make success possible.

"Holding, therefore, that the combination as a whole and all its co-operating and associative parts, in whatever form clothed, constitutes a restraint of the trade within the first section of the Sherman Act and an attempt to monopolize and a monopolization within the second section, the court recommends the cause to the circuit in New York for the purpose of working out some plan of disintegration of the combination which will recreate 'a new condition which shall be honestly in harmony with and not repugnant to the law'."

Earl Grey at Berlin.

Berlin, Ont., May 30.—Earl Grey and party arrived at 11.30 yesterday and was accorded a grand reception. His worship Mayor Schalz and the aldermen formed a civic reception committee and met the vice-regal party at the depot. His Excellency, who was accompanied by the Ladies Sybil and Evelyn Grey, the countess being absent on account of illness, was escorted by a troop of the 34th Greys and honored by a hundred boy scouts from Galt, Preston, Hespeler and Berlin. Dr. Lackner, M.P.P., and Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King took part in the reception. An address of welcome was read by Mayor Schalz and replied to at the City Hall. The party then drove to the Country Club on the Bridgeport road, where a luncheon was tendered them.

The unveiling of the monument to Queen Victoria, the purpose of His Excellency's visit, took place at 2.30.

May Sell Church.

Winnipeg, May 30.—The authorities of Grace Church in this city are considering the advisability of selling the property, situated at the intersection of Notre Dame and Ellice avenue. It is understood that an offer of $400,000 for it was refused some weeks ago and it is now expected to realize $600,000 or $750,000. It is proposed to erect a seven-storey structure and conduct it on an industrial basis. Grace Church is the leading downtown Methodist church here.

St. Kitt's Bylaw Carries.

St. Catharines, May 30.—By a vote of 1,600 to only 7 against the bylaw to grant to the Canadian Yale and Towne Co. eight and a half acres of land, fixed assessment and free water, was carried yesterday. As a result the company will employ 200 men within two years and erect a building valued at $50,000.

A DAY'S DROWNINGS.

Double Tragedy at Fordwich—Enumerator Loses Life.

Gilbert Drowned nearal 123456

Fordwich, Ont., May 30.—Yesterday afternoon about three o'clock, an accident happened which has thrown a dark shadow over the whole community. Peter Eckel and A. D. Kranick, who were drawing gravel with a horse and wagon to the mill dam, were drowned. They had driven on the upper side of the dam, had dumped their load and were turning the horse around, when it suddenly dropped into a deeper part of the river, throwing Mr. Kranick into the water. Mr. Eckel at once jumped in and tried to lend assistance to both man and horse, but on account of neither being able to swim, they both went down.

Census Taker Drowned.

Montreal, May 30.—A man named Dupre lost his life by drowning opposite St. Ross Sunday afternoon. With two companions, Mr. Desau and Mr. Dorcot, he was rowing on the river. They got out into the centre current, where their little boat capsized. All three were washed down by the current, but, while his companions were able to catch hold of a chain stretched across the river, Mr. Dupre was carried farther and his body finally disappeared in the eddies and has not yet been recovered.

Mr. Dupre was one of those appointed as census enumerators in Maisonneuve.

Goderich Man Drowned.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., May 30.—Through the capsizing of a canoe at Michipicoten Sunday afternoon James Coleman met death by drowning. Coleman, who hails from Goderich, Ont., had gone out alone, while the barge McKee, on which he was employed, finished loading. The remains arrived here last night for burial.

Young Lad Drowned at Perth.

Perth, May 30.—A drowning accident occurred here yesterday afternoon, shortly after five o'clock, when Caleb Strong, the eleven-year-old son of Mr. John Strong of this town, was drowned. The little fellow had been at school, after which he had gone up to the river with some playmates. While playing about the swimming house he slipped on some planks and went down before assistance came. The body was not recovered for about ten minutes, when a man who was fishing at some distance came to the spot, but life was extinct.

Foy For the Bench.

Ottawa, May 30.—The vacancy on the High Court Bench of Ontario consequent upon the death of Judge McMahon will not likely be filled till after the long vacation of the courts, as meanwhile there is no urgency. W. H. Tilley of Toronto, and Daniel O'Connell, K.C. of Peterboro, are more prominently mentioned. It is said also that Attorney-General Foy has been sounded with reference to accepting it.

A Pastoral Love Affair

Combination of the Natural and the Artificial.

By ARTHUR BEMERTON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

Bessie and I fell in love naturally—in fact, too naturally. I have often thought how pleasant it must be for the animals and birds to mate without having to look into each other's record. A tiger may not only kill a man, but eat him and mate with a most respectable tigress without any questions being asked. Two birds may meet on the branch of a tree and without the slightest knowledge of each other become mates. But man and woman must not only know all about each other, but be of the same grade and each have a clean record, or there comes a lot of trouble.

And the most singular thing about it all is that either of them will murder any animal, except their own kind, and eat the carcass.

I, being an artist, when the buds were beginning to open went into the country to catch that first delicate shade of pale green which appears on the trees at that season. I was sitting on my tripod in a wood working in the colors when I heard the bark of a dog, and a moment later a little terrier stood growling at me. A girl, bedding like the trees, not into leaves, but into womanhood, hurried up, calling in a soft voice:

"Frisk! Come away, Frisk! What do you mean?"

I paid no attention to the dog, and there was no need for the girl to call him off, for he had no idea of attacking me, but he gave me an excuse for addressing the girl.

And yet I question if any excuse was required. People who meet in crowds are constrained by conventionalities. We two, meeting in a wood, with not a sound about us—when the dog had ceased barking—except an occasional twitter of birds engaged in nest building, felt constrained in another way. We were impelled to be companionable. I began by telling her not to mind the dog, that he wouldn't disturb me, and she sidled around where she could catch a view of my sketch. One thing led to another until we felt quite well acquainted. I had chosen a delightful spot to transfer to canvas. It was on a declivity. An opening in the trees below revealed a patch of landscape, while at my feet gurgled a stream, at this season well supplied with water from snows recently melted at higher altitudes. The air was balmy and laden with perfumes.

One has but to mention this outline picture to indicate the result. Given an opening spring in a wood, buds, wild flowers, twittering birds, a vista, a brook, a dog and lastly a young man and a young woman, both in the first freshness of youth, what follows? Why, exactly what the poet says—the young man's (and the young woman's) fancy turns to thoughts of love.

The result of this meeting was another meeting and another and another. I didn't count them; I was too preoccupied to do so. I painted so long on my picture that before I finished it the delicate shade I had come to the country for had grown into a dark green and the full grown leaves had blotted out the vista which gave the work more than half its beauty. But while this beauty was disappearing the bud of love was opening.

So much for the natural features of this story. Now come the artificial—viz, a girl's confession to her father that she had met her fate, but had not met with any knowledge of that fate's antecedents; then a command from the father, tears from the girl and a triangular condition between the father, the girl and the artist such as has taken place ever since the first primeval girl planned to give her father the slip and climb a tree with the first primeval youth, the tree being too high for the old gentleman to follow. Bessie's father was really as reasonable as we considered him unreasonable. He merely wished to know who I was. Since I had lived in South America from the time I was two until twenty-two years of age I must send there for my credentials, involving a delay of a month or more. What cruelty to force a pair of lovers to wait all that time in a state of suspense!

"Sweetheart," I said to her one day, "suppose the reply should come that I am an escaped defaulter, jailbird, murderer."

"I would not believe the story."

"But your father would," I added sententiously.

One day, after having painted alone in the wood, on leaving it I saw something half covered with shriveled branches and dead leaves. I examined it and found the dead body of a man. Horrified lest I might be implicated in a murder, I threw back what I had removed and was about to hurry away when I saw two men coming for me. Within five minutes I was on my way to the nearest police station.

My antecedents were now not so much needed to enable me to possess my love as to preserve my neck. The status had changed a second time. The case was not now one of a father, a girl and an unknown man, but a father, a girl and an unknown man accused of murder. I sent at once a note to Bessie, informing her of my trouble, encouraging her to keep up a good heart and assuring her of my innocence. Receiving no reply, I concluded that her father would not permit her to send a reply.

Brooding in my cell, I could not but revert to the good old primeval times I have cited before when a suitor might kill as many of his fellow beings as he pleased without being objected to on that score for a son-in-law. I had killed no one. I was merely suspected of killing a man. And if Bessie's father did not kill men he killed the next grade of animal below men—or other men did the work for him, which is just as criminal—and devoured the flesh. It seemed to me that the only logical beings are the beasts and the birds. They kill and eat each other without inquiring whether or no they are eating the same species, while man—well, this is what man does.

He kills and eats every animal below himself. To kill even one of his own kind he considers the greatest of crimes unless he kills them in battle, where the more men he kills the bigger man he is, which is exactly what made the chiefs among his savage ancestors.

I was so impressed with this reasoning that I asked my jailer for writing materials and wrote it down, or, rather, elaborated the bare skeleton I had thought out. When it was finished I asked to have it delivered to Bessie's father.

In due time a reply came as follows:

I have always desired my daughter to marry a man distinguished for something. Artists and poets are usually distinguished for their ideality. You, being one of the kind, share that distinction. You may further lay claim to being the most impracticable numskull that, to my knowledge, the world has yet produced. You have interested me in yourself and your case. I have retained the best criminal lawyer I can find to take charge of your case, and if your innocence is proved I shall deem my daughter honored in wedding such an eminent ool.

This reply stung me to the quick. I regarded it as tantamount to a refusal of his daughter's hand, even if my innocence were proved. As to the lawyer he spoke of hiring for me, I wrote him immediately that I had engaged the most eminent counsel in the land and would have no need of the one he had retained.

What was my surprise, when I was folding and addressing this second letter, to receive a visit from Bessie.

She threw herself into my arms hysterically. I couldn't tell whether it was joy or grief that moved her. When she became calmer I spoke of her father's communication.

"Father has turned right around," she said. "He's your friend forever."

"Really?"

"Yes, really. He considers you innocent of this crime with which you are charged. He says that no man who could have written that letter could have committed murder and if he did he would convince the judge that there was no case against him, since there is no logical difference between killing a man and a steer."

"I am glad," I said, embracing her, "that in thousands of years one couple may in some respects return to the natural methods of our progenitors. Are you quite sure your father is sincere in his change of mind toward me?"

"I am. If he were not he would not have permitted me to come here to visit you. He says you are the first man he ever met who did not talk and act artificially. He's simply delighted with you."

I showed her the note I had written declining her father's offer of counsel. She burst out laughing. I asked what amused her.

"You haven't any money to pay counsel," she said.

"Upon my word! I never thought of that."

"You are ideal and impractical," she said. "That's the reason I love you." And she embraced me.

Our colloquy was broken in upon by the sheriff, who came in to say that the real murderer had been arrested and had confessed. I was free to go. At the same time he handed me a letter postmarked Rio Janeiro.

"Ah," I exclaimed, "my credentials!"

Slipping the letter in my pocket, I accompanied Bessie to her father's house. He greeted me warmly, and I handed him the credentials I had received at the jail. Removing the envelope, he began to read, his eyes opening wider as he read.

"Are you a fool or a knave?" he asked, looking up at me.

"Both," I replied.

"What is it?" asked Bessie.

"Why, daughter, this pastoral business of yours has resulted in your catching the only son and heir of the biggest coffee planter in Brazil. I knew when I received his note that he was an original, but I didn't know he was rich. You tell me," addressing me, "that you are both fool and knave. Will you kindly inform me of the introspective reasoning by which you have arrived at this result?"

"Well," I replied, "no one but a fool who has the career before him that I have would spend his time sitting on a three legged stool in a wood daubing, and no one but a knave would make love to a girl without her father even knowing that he is doing it."

It was decided that Bessie and I should be married in June, and I concluded for my prospective father-in-law's sake—who must have a noted man for his daughter, even if a fool—to return to Brazil. I told Bessie's father that I should like to be married in the wood on a carpet of June roses, whereupon he said that he had had enough of that nonsense and didn't wish any more of it.

So we were married in a very matter of fact fashion at the bride's home of course, and sailed a few days later for my country.

I am now one of the most prominent citizens of Brazil and consequently much out of my element.

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Erie, Pa. — "I suffered for five years from female troubles and at last was almost helpless. I went to three doctors and they did me no good, so my sister advised me to try Lydia E. I don't know how to express my thanks for the good it has done me and I hope all suffering women will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It was worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. Are You Anaemic or Bloodless?

If So, the Spring is a Most Trying Time for You.

Your Hope Rests in Getting the Blood Rich and Red by Using

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Shortness of breath and fatigue with slight exertion, failure of the vital organs to properly perform their functions, and pallor of the gums and eyelids, are among the indications of anaemia or bloodlessness.

The blood is thinner and more watery in the spring than at any other season, and for this reason the person who is subject to anaemia, or lack of blood, suffers the most.

You must increase the number of red corpuscles in the blood, and this can best be done by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This great restorative treatment does not merely stimulate the organs to renewed activity, but cures by building up the system. For this reason its benefits are both natural and lasting.

Sleeplessness, indigestion, neuralgic and sciatic pains and weakness and irregularities of the vital organs become a thing of the past when Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is used.

It is only natural that you should get strong and well when this building-up treatment is used, for it supplies to the blood in condensed and easily assimilated form the elements which go to form new, rich blood.

Your digestive system has failed to extract sufficient nutrition from the food you eat, and hence the necessity of such direct nourishment as is supplied to the blood by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

BAD COLD IN THE CHEST

You can depend on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to relieve and cure all inflammations and irritations of the throat and bronchial tubes.

Air and Fogs.

The movement of air is variously designated, according to its velocity, as a zephyr, breeze, wind, gale or hurricane. With fogs the designations are mists, slight, moderate or thick. A dense or thick fog, according to the weather bureau, obscures objects at a distance of 1,000 feet.

MLLE. SOREL'S HATS.

French Actress Who May Marry Lord Rosebery.

VELVET HATS WORN BY MLLE. SOREL.

Mlle. Sorel is one of the best known women in Paris. Not alone is she one of the famous actresses of the French stage, but she has the distinction of being one of the most beautifully gowned women of her day. In fact, in certain costumes she strongly resembles the grand dame of the ancient regime. The hats pictured are ones Mlle. Sorel is now wearing in the City of Light. Lord Rosebery, it is said, is seeking the hand of this accomplished Frenchwoman in marriage. As the three ambitions of his life—marrying the richest heiress in England, being prime minister and winning the Derby—have all been accomplished, it is not unlikely that Mlle. Sorel may become the second wife of this noted statesman.

CANADIAN CHEESE

From Farm and Dairy.

Jas. A. Findlay, Cargo Inspector, Glasgow, Scotland

Importations of Canadian cheese to Glasgow for the season of 1910 show a falling off of 35,000 boxes as compared with 1909. This large reduction was caused by a larger than normal make of Scotch cheese and a very low consumption of cheese throughout the summer and early autumn, notwithstanding the relatively low retail price of cheese compared with other foods, fresh meats, bacon and eggs maintaining high prices throughout.

Another adverse influence was a strike of boilermakers in the various Clyde engineering works, which threw a large body of men idle for a few months. Importers had, therefore, a most unsatisfactory time carrying increasing stocks from week to week, as prices paid for Canadians were too high to sell profitably here in competition with low prices ruling for Scotch cheese, and many merchants had ultimately to sell at a loss before the important rise in prices took place towards the end of the year.

SCOTCH MAKE POOR

The Scotch make, while a large one in quantity, was unsatisfactory in quality, being much more irregular than usual, discoloration being a pronounced feature and hardness of texture noticeable. Merchants here affirm that public taste is changing, and that a cheese of softer consistency is being demanded.

The prevailing dissatisfaction with the season's make resulted in a meeting of merchants, cheesemakers, and others interested in the industry, being held in Glasgow, where types of desirable and undesirable cheese were on view to demonstrate to makers what was required by the trade. It is worthy of note that amongst types of cheese meeting the markets' demands there was a sample of Canadian produce.

ABOUT ALFALFA

From Farm and Dairy.

Alfalfa as a rotation crop is particularly beneficial in that the crops that follow it will make a better growth than they will on a sod of timothy or other grasses. Recent experiments at an American experimental station show that after an oat—corn—wheat rotation followed by three years of alfalfa, the oat yield was 75.3 bushels an acre or 7.6 bushels above the average yield after winter rye and poor stands of sweet clover and red clover. After corn, the oat yield was 74.2 bushels an acre. These experiments were on good soil. With poor or average soil the oat crop following alfalfa would have been much larger in proportion to the crop following the grasses than here noted.

Mr. Henry Glendinning, of Victoria Co., Ont., has had a somewhat similar experience with the beneficial effects of alfalfa sod on succeeding crops. Adjoining an old alfalfa field was a hog yard, the sod of which naturally was very rich. The two fields were plowed up together and seeded to corn. The corn on the alfalfa sod was 2½ feet higher than that in the pig yard and of a deeper green color. Mr. Jas. Stonehouse, who visited the farm about that time, noticed the difference and could hardly believe that after so many valuable crops of alfalfa had been taken off the soil should be in such a fertile condition.

The secret of this residue of plant food is that alfalfa stores up nitrogen in the soil. Nitrogen is the most important of fertilizer ingredients and the most expensive. Were nitrogen purchased in the form of commercial fertiliser it would cost 15 to 20 cents a pound according to availability. In the air above every acre in our farms is enough nitrogen to grow good crops for thousands of years. This nitrogen can be obtained free of charge for the growing of leguminous crops. Alfalfa will not only draw on this great store of nitrogen to produce two or more profitable crops each year, but will leave in the soil a store of nitrogen for succeeding crops.

Mrs. J. K. Campbell, Pictou Co., N.S.

The tub as a package for butter is fast passing out of use in Canada. When I was a little girl I can remember the great load of tubs of butter that used to leave our farm about twice a year. The labor involved in the proper packing of this butter and keeping it well covered with brine for six months was enormous. Naturally the quality of the butter was not such as would be attractive to any one of fastidious tastes or bring a good price. Ten or 12 cents was the average price that we received, but as all our neighbors received the same price, we were satisfied.

We have however, gotten away from the drugdery involved in the making and marketing of tub butter. All of our butter is made up in neat one pound prints with our name and address and the name of our farm artistically printed on the wrappers. And instead of marketing once in six months, we market every week using much less salt and putting up a much more attractive butter.

This butter brings more than twice the price which we received for the old tub butter. The only way to reach the best class of trade and get the highest price for butter is by using a one or two pound print and marketing frequently. In the year 1910, the average price which we received for our butter from a provision firm in Glasgow was 28 cents a pound.

SUET PUDDING

One cup suet, one of breadcrumbs, one of flour, half cup of milk with half a teaspoonful of soda, one cup molasses, one spoonful of cream of tartar. If you wish to make it richer, add a cup of currants and a few raisins.

RICE CAKE

Break six eggs on half a pound of rice flour and half a pound of crushed white and sifted sugar, then beat all together for fifteen minutes, and flavor with a few drops of essence of lemon; line a dish with buttered paper and bake half an hour.

FIG PUDDING

One-half pound figs, one-quarter pound grated bread, two and a half ounces powdered sugar, three ounces butter, two eggs, one teacup of milk. Chop the figs small and mix first with the butter, then all the other ingredients by degrees; butter a mould, sprinkle with breadcrumbs, cover it tight and boil for three hours.

SALAD DRESSING FOR CHOPPED CABBAGE OR LETTUCE

Three eggs, two teaspoons black pepper, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon mustard, three tablespoons melted butter six teaspoons sweet cream, one coffeecup of good vinegar. Put all on the stove and cook until it looks like cream, taking care to stir it all the time.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING

One quart milk, three tablespoons sugar, four tablespoons corn starch, two and a half teaspoons chocolate; scald the milk over boiling water; dissolve the corn starch in a little scalded milk, and before it thickens add the chocolate dissolved in boiling water: stir until sufficiently cooked. Use with cream, or sauce of butter and sugar stirred to a cream.

In making a custard pudding or any pudding that is of the consistency of custard, it should be set in the oven in a pan of water. This makes the pudding more delicate.

Could Not Walk Ten Yards Without Resting.

WEAK HEART WAS THE CAUSE.

Mrs. Robinson Collette, Rogersville, N.B., writes: "I am now enjoying the best of health after having used your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled with a weak heart and was afraid to draw a long breath for the pain it would cause me. I could not sleep at night, and it was impossible for me to walk ten yards without resting myself. I cannot speak too highly of your Heart and Nerve Pills, for they are the greatest pill I have ever used and I can recommend them to all sufferers."

Thousands of people go about their daily work on the verge of death and yet do not know it.

Little attention is paid to the slight weakness of the heart for the simple reason that one thinks it will right itself, but there is where the mistake is made. It is only when a violent shock comes that the weakness of the heart becomes apparent.

On the first sign of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown, the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will soon produce a quick and permanent cure.

ROOTS AS FOOD FOR CATTLE

From Farm and Dairy.

John Fixter, Macdonald College, Que.

Roots in a cow's ration are like butter on bread. They make the food more palatable and more easily digested. On the Macdonald College farm an average crop per acre has been 34 tons. The cost per ton was $1.79.

Roots can be successfully grown on any kind of soil and in any part of Canada. The best root crops we secured on land turned out of sod and plowed down soon after cutting, thus giving an opportunity for the sod to decay and supply the soil with humus.

Thorough cultivation of the soil the previous autumn is essential to best results with roots.

Sow plenty of seed. Cultivate early with a hand wheel hoe, getting as near the young plants as possible.

Thin the plants out to eight or 10 inches apart with a sharp hoe.

We have found that Mammoth long red mangels give the largest crops, and are equal in food value, pound for pound, with either Tankard or Globe mangels.

CARE OF HORSES

From Farm and Dairy.

Sore shoulders are, as a rule, due to an improper fit in collar or hames. Occasionally uneven surfaces or hard-lumpy areas in the filling may be the cause, or improper care of the horse in early spring before the skin and underlying tissues have become hardened to the collar pressure. Diseased conditions of the foot or limb may cause sore shoulders from an abnormal gait.

A horse's collar should be fitted with greater care than a pair of patent leathers on an aggregation of bunions, corns and ingrown toe nails. Why? Because the horse has no means of making his pain known to the majority of drivers, while the wearer of the patent leathers can "grin and bear it," consoling himself with the thought that his understanding shows up well even if his face does wear a peculiar, puzzling expression.

FIT OF THE COLLAR

The collar should be well made with a fair amount of springiness on pressure, smooth, even surface, and adapted to the use required; as for instance, a heavy collar for heavy draft work, while a lighter one can be used for driving horses. Let it be sufficiently long that the hand may be easily passed beneath the under surface of the neck and wide enough that the fingers can just be passed between the front border and the side of the neck. This rule varies somewhat of course in the various types of horses, as some thick-necked horses expand the neck when drawing a load. These will require a slightly wider collar. Let the collar fit snugly over the entire bearing surface.

Having fitted the collar, (next comes the fitting of the hames to the collar, if you are using a hames collar, and the proper adjustment of the height of the attachment of the tug. A good rule to follow is to have the tug attached about one-third of the height from below. This may need to be varied somewhat, as we consider the angle at which the hook passes from the hame and whether the horse has a free head or check rein. In well made hames this hook passes out at a right angle and is easily adjusted. If placed too low the point of the shoulder shows abrasion and soreness; if too high the soreness will be found just in front of the upper part of the shoulder blade. Occasionally a sore neck results from this cause but rarely if the collar is of the proper length.

See that each horse's collar is clean each morning before putting it on. If a sore is present stop after a short time and remove the scab or granulations that may have gathered on the collar at that point. Prevention is worth the proverbial amount of cure and consists in carefully fitted collars.

Careful washing of the shoulders with some astringent solution during the first few days of early spring work toughens the skin, lessens the action of the sweat glands in that region and gives many a faithful horse relief from the daily torture of a sore shoulder.

CONCLUSIVE EXPERIMENTS

When sowing corn in a drill what distance apart should the seeds be dropped for ensilage? For husking? Which is the preferable way to sow corn for ensilage, in drills or in hills?—J.D.H., Essex Co., Ont.

The most conclusive experiments ever carried on as to the distance apart that corn should be dropped in the drill were those conducted at Illinois Experiment Station some years ago. The average results obtained are as follow:

Distance between kernels in row	Yield per acre of corn, bus.	Digestible substance per acre
3 inches	89	6,215
6 "	76	5,980
9 "	77	5,539
12 "	69	5,592
15 "	64	5,180
24 "	56	4,207

It will be noticed that when corn was planted three inches apart in the drill, the largest amount of digestible substance was obtained. The ensilage is "stronger," however, and makes better feed when the kernels are six inches apart.

For husking, seed corn, to produce the largest number of good ears, should be dropped 12 inches apart in the drill.

Planting in hills three to three and a half feet apart each way has an advantage in that by cultivating both ways, little hand work is needed in the weediest ground. Experiments carried on by Professor Zavitz at the O.A.C. would indicate also that larger crops are obtained from corn so planted—Professor Zavitz obtaining 33 per cent. more of both ears and total weight for ensilage.

SKIN SOFT AS A CHILD'S

"I was a great sufferer from eczema and salt rheum for years," writes Mr. John W. Naas, Lunenburg, N.S. "Five years ago three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me and the old trouble never returned. My skin is soft as a child's now, and I shall always say a good word for this Ointment."

FEEDING CHICKS

From Farm and Dairy.

Mrs. J. H. Rosebrough, Brant Co., Ont.

We have two systems of feeding chicks,—the dry and the wet. I would advise dry feeding. The grain may be fed whole or cracked. A part ground and then mixed makes what is called a "dry mash." The feed may be kept before the chicks all the time in hoppers or a part of it may be scattered in litter to induce them to take exercise.

In order to get a good profit from poultry we hatch the chicks early and keep them growing so that they will reach maturity and lay before the commencement of cold weather. There is no profit in keeping a chicken just alive, whether it is intended for egg production or for the market. The healthy chick is a hungry thing and will eat whatever is given it. For this reason we use great care not to overfeed.

The chicks should not be fed until they are 24 hours old. Many people in their hurry to start the chicks growing hurry feed into their crops before the system is ready to take care of it. This results in bowel trouble and very often in the death of the chick. For the first meal a hard-boiled egg chopped fine and mixed with three parts of bread crumbs is good. Stale bread soaked in milk is also good. After soaking, the milk should be squeezed out until it crumbles.

LATER FEEDING

When the chicks are a few days old, we begin to feed a little grain. Millet seed, finely cracked corn and wheat and oatmeal are good. A very good mixture of cracked grains for chicks is, two parts wheat, two parts oatmeal, one part corn, one part rice and one part millet seed. Young chicks should be fed little and often; about five times a day until a few weeks old and then four times a day.

Green food must be supplied in some form. I have a pen of wire netting in front of the brooder in which the chicks run and I move it as they eat the grass. In this way the trouble is saved of taking green food to them. A dish of small grit should always be before them and fresh cold water.

THE WAR AGAINST THE BAD EGG

CAMPAIGN by the Federal Government to Prevent Loss to the Producers. Which Annually Approximates $45,000,000

UNCLE SAM has declared war on the bad egg. He has put it on the defensive, and the present indications are that it will be unable to put up a successful resistance very much longer. Of course there is no danger of the bad egg being exterminated—nobody expects that. It is one of the things that we have a right to expect that we will have with us always, like the worm in the chestnut. But it is altogether probable that the government will succeed in making the bad egg in the market a rare thing.

This will result in two things, according to the egg experts of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the Department of Agriculture. One is an increased value for the egg supply to the farmer and the other is an increased consumption of eggs in the large centres of population.

A conservative estimate of the loss to the egg trade every year due to carelessness and ignorance, based upon the most careful investigations by the government experts, is seventeen per cent. This is made up of two per cent of dirty eggs, two per cent of broken eggs, five per cent of eggs in which chicks have begun to grow, five per cent of shrunken or hold eggs, two and one-half per cent of just plain rotten eggs and one-half of one per cent of mouldy and bad flavored eggs.

When it is considered that in the State of Kansas alone, where the egg business is very extensive, this loss represents between one and two million dollars a year, the gravity of the situation from a business and economic standpoint may be realized, to say nothing of the patience and palate of the "ultimate consumer."

The total value of the egg crop of the United States every year is approximately $300,000,000. Of the seventeen per cent of loss, it is stated by the Department of Agriculture that fully fifteen per cent is preventable loss. In other words, $45,000,000 is lost to the egg producers through the fault of themselves and those who handle their eggs in taking them to market. If the eggs were improved in quality, as Uncle Sam desires, this additional money would, of course, come out of the pockets of the consumer, but it would not be a loss to him, for the government has figured it out that countless numbers of people spend their money for meat and other articles of food when they would prefer to eat eggs if they were sure of getting good ones.

According to the government egg experts, an egg that goes into cold storage in first class condition and is kept there a reasonable length of time comes out in as good condition as it went in. They declare that nearly all of the trouble is to be found before the eggs are put into storage. Of course, there must be a limit to the length of time that even perfect eggs can remain in cold storage and be unaffected, but the government is not willing to say officially what it is. There is one thing that is practically certain, however, and that is that it does no harm to the egg to store it from the season of plenty, the spring, through the lean months of winter, when the hens stop laying freely.

Under the supervision of Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, and the immediate direction of Mr. George M. Rommel, chief of the Animal Husbandry Division, the work of eliminating the preventable 15 per cent of loss to the egg trade was actively begun last summer. So encouraging have the results been that it will be carried forward on a much larger scale in the coming summer. The man who is doing the work in the field is Mr. Harry M. Lamon, who hails from Adams Centre, in Northern New York, and has had twenty years' experience in raising and breeding poultry. To him the officials of the bureau give most of the credit for getting actual results in the work thus far.

It was Mr. Lamon's idea that the experiment should begin in the Middle Western States, where the greatest quantity of poultry and eggs are produced. He chose Kansas both because the egg business is so large there and because it afforded a splendid example of how not to handle eggs, as was evidenced by the enormous loss each year. He determined to find out what was the matter with the Kansas egg and cure the evil.

Mr. Lamon's work was preceded by a general survey of the field in the spring of 1908, and a pamphlet published by Mr. Milo M. Hastings, scientific assistant in the Animal Husbandry Office, furnished him with most of the information upon which to work out his theory. This work showed pretty clearly that the enormous money loss was borne mainly by the farmer and was due to his own indifference, and that the loss in quality was borne by the consumer, who couldn't help himself. The campaign of last summer had for its ultimate end the improvement of conditions surrounding the handling and marketing of eggs, and consequently the improvement of the quality of the egg itself as it reaches the consumer.

It was at once apparent to Mr. Lamon that he could do little or nothing in Kansas without the aid of the State authorities. He sought this aid and obtained it. An old State law was invoked and the State was placarded with the information that any person selling bad eggs would be prosecuted by the authorities. Agents of the Department of Agriculture were then sent to the farmers of Kansas, who had impressed upon their minds the necessity of keeping eggs intended for market in cool, dry places and of marketing them frequently. Incidentally these men have helped the farmers wherever they could in the practical management and breeding of poultry and have urged them to keep pure bred poultry.

The conditions surrounding the egg as found in Kansas were typical of all the rest of the country, as it is to-day. In that State especially many of the farmers' wives depend altogether on the egg crop for their clothes and little luxuries around the house. Eggs are collected spasmodically, placed in boxes or baskets without regard to heat or cold, sometimes kept in mouldy cellars and close to obnoxious odors, and finally when the housewife happens to be going to the general store they are put in a big box in the back of a wagon and driven several miles with the hot sun beating down on them. Is it much wonder that many of them are not fit to eat when they reach the storekeeper?

When they get that far, however, their troubles are not over. The general storekeeper is usually just as careless. He sticks the case of eggs, which he has taken in trade for goods, in some corner. If it is cold weather it frequently goes behind the stove. There the eggs remain until the egg buyer comes around and takes them off his hands for cash. By that time they are in worse condition than ever.

As the result of this system the egg buyer, the man who collects the eggs for consumption in the big cities cannot be sure of getting good eggs. He does not take the time or trouble to examine them for the purpose of throwing out the bad ones, but pieces the price at a point which gives ample allowance for the usual percentage of loss, which he has come to know from experience.

Educating the Poulterer.

It has been found to be impractical to go to the general storekeeper and try to induce him to take only good eggs from the farmer, eggs tested by candle light. In nearly every instance the farmer is a customer whose trade is worth a good deal every year to the storekeeper and he cannot be persuaded to be too strict with him. But the storekeeper also takes into account the usual percentage of loss in the price he gives the farmer's wife either in cash or goods.

It was therefore an absolute necessity to begin at the bottom with the man or woman who raised the hens and obtained the eggs in the first place. When this had been accomplished, through the campaign of education and the co-operation of the State authorities, the next step was to go to the professional egg buyers of Kansas, and this was done by Mr. Lamon. They were asked to abandon the buying of eggs according to the old system and to adopt the "loss off," or quality, system, under which the bad eggs are rejected and only the good ones paid for. It was only when they were assured that the State would help them and that the federal government at Washington would help them that they agreed to make the change.

"There is no measure," says Dr. Melvin in a recent discussion of the results of this important work, "which has had such a definite and far reaching influence for the improvement of the commercial egg than the adopting of this system of buying and selling. On account of the material improvement effected in the Kansas eggs the movement has spread to adjacent States and efforts are being made to secure uniform legislation in many of these States, so as to establish the 'loss off' system of buying at least during the hot months.

"In the work of investigation various lots of eggs were traced from the time they were produced on the farm until they reached the packing house in order to determine the factors producing deterioration and to study how conditions of handling and shipment may be improved. Data on more than a million eggs have been obtained by the bureau. The results thus far have been so satisfactory that it is proposed to continue the work in Kansas in about the same manner during the coming summer. We hope gradually to extend to every egg producing State in the country."

As a general rule freshness is considered a desirable quality in food products. This rule is not universal, however, for while we prefer fresh fruit, fish, eggs and other articles of that nature, we want our wine and our cheese to be aged. Because of the readiness with which eggs spoil, the term "fresh" has become synonymous with the idea of desirable quality in eggs. But as a matter of fact the actual age of an egg is only one of the factors which affect the quality. An egg forty-eight hours old that has lain in a wheat shock during a warm July rain would probably be swarming with bacteria and be absolutely unfit for food, while another egg stored eight months in a first class storage room would be of much better quality.

There are few food products that are as different to grade as eggs. This is because each egg must be considered separately and because the actual substance of the egg cannot be examined without destroying the egg. From external appearance they can be selected for size, color, cleanliness of shell and freedom from cracks. This is the common method of grading in early spring, when the eggs are uniformly of good quality. Later in the season the egg candle must be used. The farmers have nearly all come to understand how to use this simple instrument.

As a matter of fact, any kind of a light may be used. A sixteen candle power electric lamp, such as may be found in many of the modern farmhouses of the great Middle West, is the ideal light. The light is enclosed in a box or tin cylinder, in which are made openings about the size of a half dollar. The room is darkened and the candler holds the egg to the light, large end upward, and gives it a quick turn, in order to view all sides and to cause the contents to whirl within the shell.

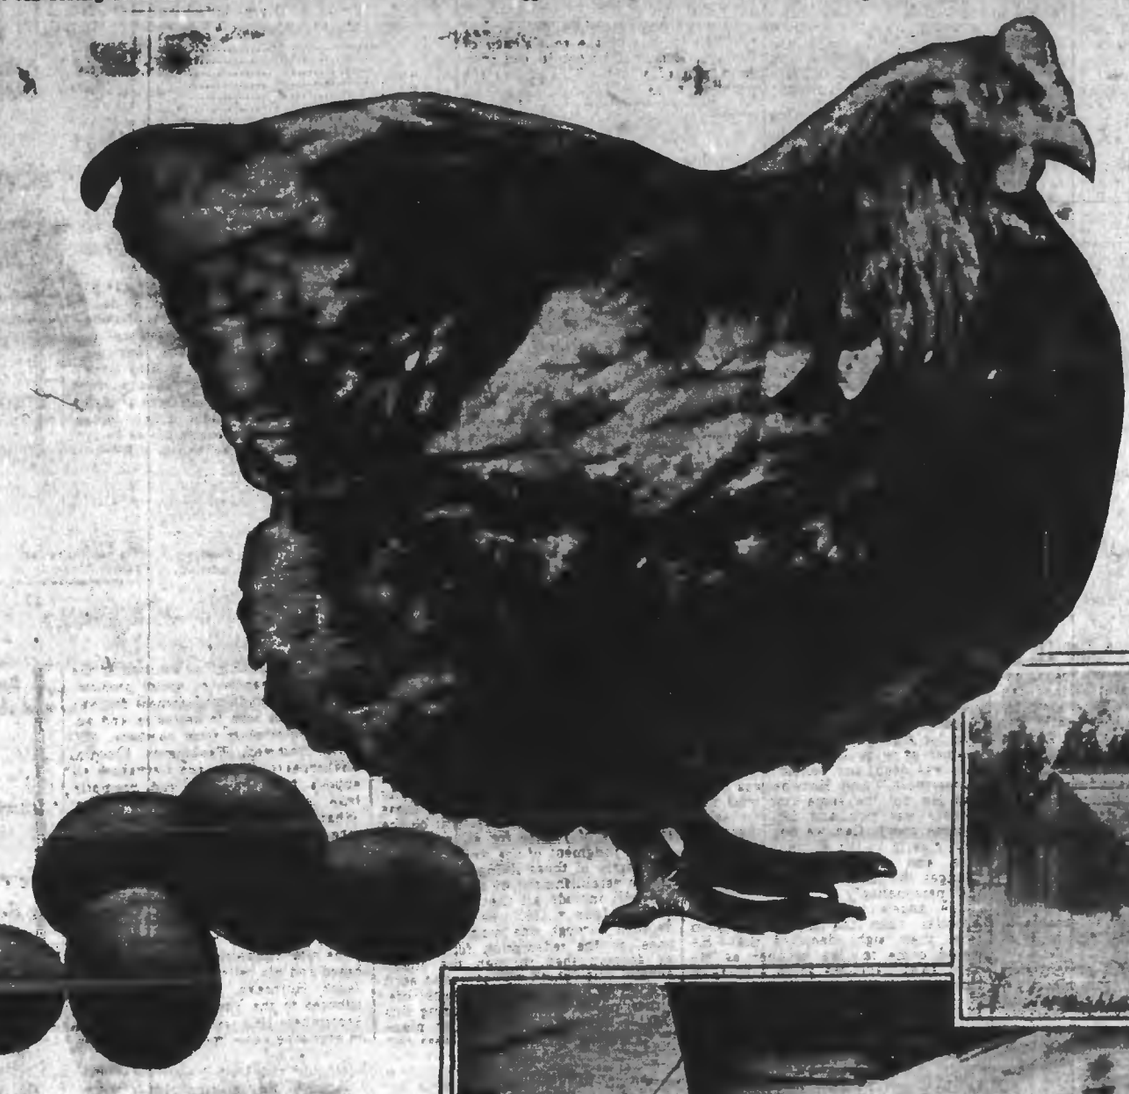
This process reveals to the expert the actual condition of the egg to a degree that the novice can hardly realize. The art of egg candling can scarcely be taught, however, by the printed word. It is sufficient to say here that one who wishes to learn can easily do so and become an adept by watching an expert at work, or he may begin unaided by breaking many eggs and learning the essential points of appearance.

An account of the efforts of the federal government to improve the egg supply would be incomplete without a more detailed statement of the evils of the country store in this business, for in the opinion of Uncle Sam's experts the country store is the weakest spot in the whole egg trade. The merchant knows that to buy eggs means to sell goods, and he therefore bids for eggs. His competitors in the same and other towns bid for them, too. The effect to the merchant of lowering the price of his goods or raising the price of eggs is the same. Now, the articles on which the country merchant makes his chief profits are dry goods and notions. Such articles are not standardized, but their real value varies in a manner quite impossible of estimation by the unsophisticated. On the other hand, eggs are quoted by the dozen and all who run may read.

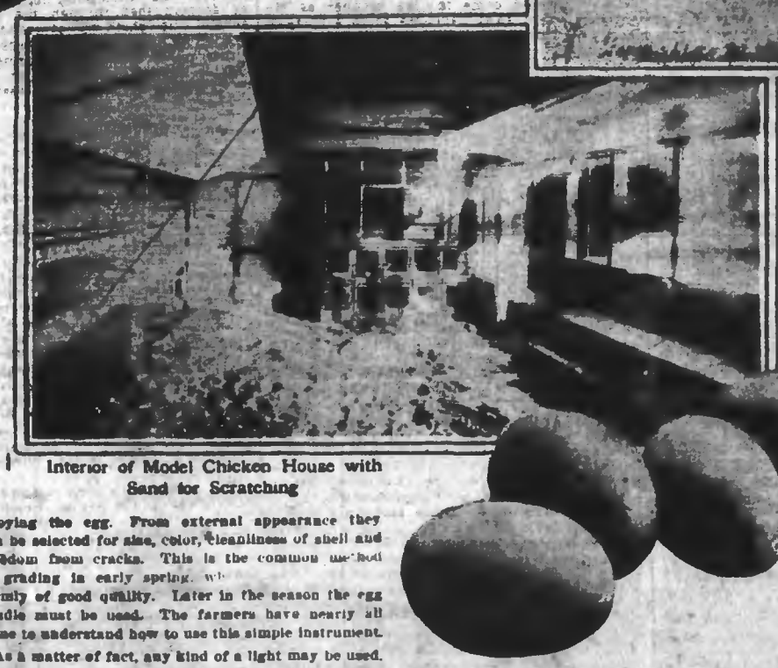
For illustration, suppose two merchants in the same town are each doing business with a twenty per cent profit and are buying eggs at ten cents a dozen and selling for eleven cents, the advance of one cent being sufficient for handling, incidental loss and a small profit. One of the merchants concludes to cater for more trade. If he marks his goods down he will gain some extra trade, but people will fear his goods are cheap. But let him put out a placard, "Eleven cents paid for eggs," and the farmers will throng his store and be less inclined to question the quality of his goods. This move having been successful, his rival across the street quietly stocks up with a cheaper line of dry goods and one fine morning puts out a placard, "Twelve cents paid for eggs," and then more farm wagons will hitch on his side of the street.

The volume of business at the lower profit being insufficient to maintain two men in the town, a mutual understanding is gradually brought about by which the prices of goods sold are worked back to the basis of twenty per cent gross profit, but the false price of eggs serves to draw the trade from neighboring towns and is maintained at the higher level.

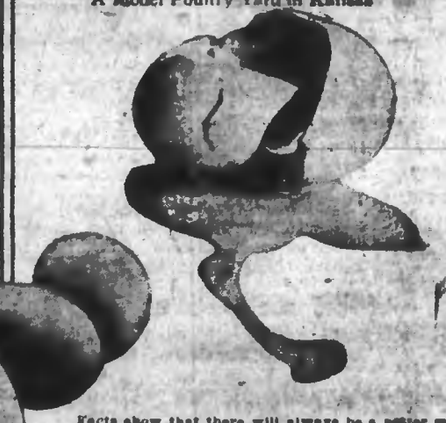
Farmer Candling Eggs



A Model Poultry Yard in Kansas



Interior of Model Chicken House with Sand for Scratching



As a matter of fact, the price paid to farmers for eggs by the general stores of the Mississippi Valley, the great egg producing section of the United States, is frequently one to two cents above the price at which the storekeeper sells the product. Allowing for cost of handling, there is a condition prevailing in which the merchant is handling the eggs at from five to ten cents loss, and it stands to reason that he is making up the loss by adding to the prices of other goods.

What, then, are the effects of this system? Here are some of them: The inflated price of merchandise is an injustice to the townspeople and the farmers not selling eggs. In fact it amounts to a taxation of these people for the benefit of the egg producers. The inflated prices of the merchant's wares work to his own disadvantage in competition with mail order or out of town trade. The farmer who exchanges eggs for dry goods is not being paid more for his eggs, save as the tax of the townspeople contributes a little to that end, but is in the main merely changing more dollars.

Cash Market Suggested.

The use of eggs as a drawing card for trade works in the favor of inferior produce and the loss to the farmer through the lowering of prices thus caused is much greater than his gain through the forced contributions of his neighbors. But the general store keeper does another thing—he bids up the price of eggs by the case count until the "loss-off" buyer cannot do business.

These evils would be eliminated if the suggestions of the Department of Agriculture should be adopted not only in Kansas but all of the United States. The establishment of a cash market for the farmers' eggs is the first suggestion. Cash buyers are at present to be found in many large towns in the Mississippi Valley, and they are rapidly becoming more numerous. The cash dealer, buying under the "loss-off" system, is still better, but he is rarely found to-day west of Indiana, except in Kansas, where the government has got in its work. Another way of improving the egg supply would be an agreement by the merchants to turn all egg buying over to the men who buy general farm produce. This has been successfully done in a few instances, but it has the fault that when the egg buyer is given a monopoly he is tempted to lower the price to the farmer and juggle it at the other end to the loss of the consumer.

Co-operation among the farmers might also cure the evil. They have been pretty slow in getting together in this country as compared with other countries. About one-half of the egg business of Denmark is handled by co-operative egg export societies, which proves that such a method of handling can be successfully carried on. The other half of the Danish egg trade is handled by private dealers, who are equally severe in rejecting bad eggs and maintaining the quality, from which it may be judged that the system of egg handling by private dealers is also capable of putting out a high grade of eggs.

Facts show that there will always be a better market and higher prices for high grade eggs than poor ones. Many city retailers of eggs receive high bids for strictly fresh eggs from soda fountains of drug stores and first class hotels and restaurants. So particular are many of these buyers that they will take only eggs shipped direct from large poultry farms. The figures at which such eggs are purchased are frequently at a given premium above the market quotation of a year around contract price for a given number of eggs each week. This premium may range from a cent or two in Western cities to double the market price in New York and Boston. An advance of ten cents over the quotation for extras, or a year around contract price of thirty-five cents a dozen, might be considered typical of such arrangements in New York city.

The profits of the city retailers are by far the largest item in the marketing of eggs. An approximate idea of the profits of the various handlers of eggs may be obtained from these figures, which represent an imaginary summer shipment:—

	Cents.
Paid the farmer in Iowa	19
Profit of country store	—
Gross profit of shipper	¾
Freight to New York	1½
Gross profit of receiver	½
Gross profit to jobber	1½
Loss from candling	2
Gross profit to retailer	4
Cost to consumer	25

All the eggs of the cheapest grade are taken by bakeries and low class restaurants. All egg when cooked with other food may have its flavor and appearance so disguised that it may be safely used, whereas if served alone it would be very repulsive. Measures have frequently been taken by city boards of health to stop the sale of "spot rots" and other low grade eggs, but it has been found to be very difficult to enforce such regulations. That embryo chicks and bacterially contaminated eggs are consumed by the millions cannot be doubted, according to the government experts.

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle

Preparing a Place For His Betrothed

Long Engagement About to Be Consummated.

Boston, May 28.—Pastor Russell preached twice here to-day. He had large and intellectual audiences as usual. We report one of his discourses from the text, "I go to prepare a place for you; * * * and I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also" (John xiv, 2, 3). The speaker said:

Doubtless we have all in mind the fact that we have just passed the anniversary of our Redeemer's ascension to the right hand of the Father—to the highest place in all the Universe, next to the Almighty Father. He ascended where He was before—to the spirit plane of being, with added excellence of glory and honor, the reward of His faithfulness and obedience to the Father's will, even to the sacrificing of His life at Calvary. He ascended, the Scriptures declare, from the more humble condition of human nature, a little lower than the angels, to the exalted condition of the divine nature—far above angels, principalities and powers and every name that is named.

The work for which the Logos left the heavenly glory has not yet been accomplished. He has suffered, the Just for the unjust, giving His life a Ransom-price for all; but this was merely a means toward an end, and that end has not yet been accomplished—the blessing of Adam and his fallen race. Thank God, however, that the great, broad foundation has been laid. Thanks be to God also that a great preliminary work has been in progress during more than eighteen centuries since His ascension. That preliminary work is the preparation of the Church of Christ to follow Him in faithfulness and self-sacrifice to exaltation with Him to the divine nature, glory, honor and immortality, which was His reward (II. Peter i, 4).

If, in times past, we have too carelessly studied our Bibles and confused God's special blessing for the Church, as the Bride of Christ, with His subsequent blessing for the world through Messiah and His Bride, let us do so no longer. Let us note that as the Divine Plan for the salvation of the world could not begin before the coming of Jesus, except in a typical sense, neither can it begin to operate until the complete selection of the Church—until her perfecting as the "Bride, the Lamb's Wife," in the First or Chief Resurrection.

The antitypical sacrifices which Jesus began still continue to be offered by Him. Those desirous of becoming His Bride and joint-heirs with Him in His Kingdom are now qualifying for that exaltation. The invitation to them is that, renouncing sin and accepting the Saviour, they shall "present their bodies living sacrifices, holy and acceptable to God"—following in the footsteps of their Redeemer.

In a certain sense this presentation of the entire Church took place, representatively, in the Apostles and others of the five hundred brethren who believed at the first. They were representatives of the entire Church, and the acceptance of their sacrifice and their begetting of the Holy Spirit, their espousal at Pentecost, representing the acceptance, the begetting and espousal of the entire Church from then until now. We are merely following in their steps; we are merely under-members in the same Body—"The Church of the first-borns, whose names are written in heaven" (Hebrews xii, 23).

St. Paul distinctly points out that the Church is not yet the Bride of Christ, but merely espoused. He writes, "I have espoused you as a chaste virgin unto one Husband, who is Christ." The period of espousal will not be complete until the close of this Age, when the last member of the Body shall have been accepted, and when the First or Chief Resurrection (to the spirit plane) shall have been accomplished—the marriage or complete union between Christ and His Bride in the heavenly glory.

As the Redeemer was the first to ascend to the glorious station of the divine nature, far above angels, principalities and powers, and as the Church is to be His associate in that glory, it was necessary that He should precede her to prepare the way. Our Lord's own worthiness of exaltation to the divine nature was witnessed by the Father in that He raised Him from the dead a quickening Spirit, to glory, honor and immortality.

But before the Church could, in any sense of the word, be made acceptable in the heavenly courts, it was necessary that the Redeemer should "appear in the presence of God for us" (Hebrews ix, 24). It was necessary that He make application or imputation of the merit of His sacrifice on behalf of the Church before their sacrifices could be "holy and acceptable unto God"; and only by their sacrifices and the Divine acceptance of them could they be begotten of the Holy Spirit to the new nature, the divine nature, which they will fully receive, if faithful, in the chief resurrection.

What force we thus see is attached to the Master's words, "I go to prepare a place for you!" Unless He had thus prepared the way, unless He had become our Surety, we could never have become acceptable to the Father's sight, and the Redeemer's associates on the spirit plane. But there is still another cause in which the Redeemer is preparing for His Church, His followers. He has as their great High Priest, and still opened up the way to God and continues to be their Intercessor and to appropriate to them of His merit to cover their continual trespasses and short-comings, which are the result, not of wilfulness, but of weakness and [illegible] which they strive, but by which at times they are overtaken—sins of omission if not of commission.

How precious to every child of God are the words of the Apostle, "If we sin we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the Righteous!" Let us, therefore, come with courage to the Throne of heavenly grace that we may obtain mercy and find grace to help in every time of need, for we have an High Priest who can be touched with the feeling of our infirmities, having been tempted in all points like as we of the new creation are tempted (I. John ii, 1, 2; Hebrews iv, 15, 16).

There appears to be a disposition on the part of many to deny that there will be a second advent of the Redeemer. They reason that what has not occurred in more than eighteen centuries should cease to be expected. They endeavor to find the fulfilment, the promised second coming of the Saviour, in the Pentecostal blessing. But this cannot satisfy those who have implicit trust in the Lord, and who believe that the Apostles were his specially appointed mouthpieces, for did not the Apostles, long after Pentecost, tell of the second coming of the Lord, and did not Jesus Himself in the last book of the Bible declare His coming and His marriage to the Church, His acceptance of her and the giving to her a share in His glory?

The erroneous thought that Jesus is still a man and that His second coming will be as a man in glory and power, has done much injury to the Church. It has turned the attention of some to looking for and expecting Messiah's Empire to be purely an earthly one. It has led others to deny the second coming and the Kingdom entirely. The proper view of our Lord's ascension to the glory of the divine nature and honor next to the Father, never more to return to earthly conditions, lifts us above the difficulties mentioned.

We now see that the One who will come in power and great glory will be a Spirit Being wholly invisible to mankind, but nevertheless the very same Ego, who was once amongst men; the same Ego or personality who previously was with the Father on the spirit plane, and who humbled Himself to man's estate in order that He might accomplish a work of redemption for Adam and his race. The Redeemer says of Himself, "I am He who was dead, and behold I am alive forevermore." And He who was dead, was He not the same One who previously was rich and for our sakes became poor? Can we not, therefore, hold clearly to the distinctions of nature, and yet see through the two changes the maintenance of the original personality?

The angels who appeared to the Apostles when the Master vanished from their sight declared that He would come in like manner as He went away. Did He go in a blaze of glory witnessed by the whole world of mankind? No! Neither will He so come. Did He go amidst great convulsions and the blast of trumpets? No! Neither will He so come. Was His departure seen and known throughout the world? No! Neither will His arrival be seen and known; as He declared, He will come as a thief in the night and will be present, unknown to the world. Only a few knew of His departure and could tell it to others. In like manner a second coming will be known only to the few, who will declare it to such as have the hearing ear.

Concerning this secret arrival of the Lord, "as a thief in the night," the Apostle declares, "Ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief" (I. Thessalonians v, 4).

The day of revealment will come, but it will be after the Bride class, the elect Church, is with the Bridegroom, a sharer of His glory, honor and immortality. "When He shall appear, ye also shall appear with Him in glory" (I. John iii, 2). The revealment will be in flaming fire—a manifestation of righteousness, opposition to all things sinful and approval of all things in harmony with the Golden Rule. This will mean at the first a great time of trouble, an overturning and transformation in the world's affairs. As the Prophet declares, "The rich men shall weep bitterly." Many poor ones doubtless will also weep, for unrighteousness is not confined to race or class. All evil-doers will suffer, all well-doers will be blessed.

As soon as this new ruling of Messiah's Kingdom shall come to be thoroughly recognized and appreciated, "the inhabitants of the world will learn righteousness" (Isaiah xxvi, 9). Then the great blessing of Emmanuel's Government will kiss away the world's sorrow and tears and death, as a great Sun of Righteousness arising. Messiah's Kingdom will flood the earth with the light of the knowledge of the goodness of God and with His blessing, "which maketh rich and addeth no sorrow therewith." Ignorance, superstition, sin and death will flee away before the light of that New Dispensation, and only those who resist it wilfully will be smitten with the Second Death.

The great heavenly King and His Bride will rule man's affairs with a rod of iron, which will break in pieces and destroy institutions contrary to the Golden Rule. This power over the nations belongs to the Redeemer and will be shared, as promised, with His Church. But first, before that manifestation of the Kingdom in power and glory and with flaming fire, will come the Master's parousia, or secret presence, unknown to the world—known only to the "watchers"—to the saints, through their understanding of the Divine prophecies, to which their eyes of understanding will be opened. In the harvest time He will [illegible] the wheat into His garner, through the change of the Chief Resurrection, which will take place in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, because "flesh and blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God." During this period of parousia, preceding the outward manifestation to the world, the Heavenly Lord, invisible to men, will judge amongst those who have professed to be His servants—determining which may enter into the kingdom glory, because they have failed to share with Him in the sacrifice and ignominy of the present time.

This judging of the Church is particularly illustrated in two of our Lord's parables relating to the pounds and the talents given to His servants when He took His departure. In His parousia He will reckon with His servants, rewarding the faithful with a share with Him in His Kingdom, saying, "Well done, good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joys of thy Lord — have thou dominion over two cities, over five cities, etc. (Matthew xxv., 21; Luke xix., 16-19). The garnering of the wheat, the change of the saints, will be the marriage or union with their glorious Head and Bridegroom. Meantime, those purposing to be of the Bride will make themselves ready and assist each other in preparation for the glorious consummation of their most wonderful hopes.

The Master said, "My word shall judge you in the last day." Happy has it been for the few who have heard the Master's Word in this present life, and have judged themselves thereby, and submitted themselves to His righteous precepts! These blessed ones will share with Messiah the glories of His Spiritual Empire, invisible to men. But during the Thousand-Year-Judgment Day of the world (II. Peter iii., 7, 8) the same words—"the wonderful words of life" to those who will obey and words of death to those who will refuse obedience—will be the standards of Justice for all mankind.

This judgment of the world will not be merely of those living at the time of the establishment of the Kingdom, but will include all that are in their graves (John v., 28). As all are condemned through one man's disobedience, so the redemption for all will be accomplished through the obedience of One, which will secure to each and all an opportunity for eternal life, either on the spirit plane, during this Gospel Age, or on the earthly plane in Paradise restored, during Messiah's reign.

The judgment of the Church is not according to works, the perfection of which, under prevailing conditions, would be impossible, hence, the Church's judgment is according to faith and the obedience of faith possible. But the world's judgment will be according to works, for the knowledge then will be so great that faith will no longer be at a premium. The great Mediator will accept of imperfect works according to the ability of the people; but, as they rise out of degradation, more and more will be required of them, until in the end they will be perfected and absolute perfection of works will be required.

Then death and the grave will be swallowed up in the antitypical gehenna of annihilation—"the Second Death"—and all not worthy of record in the Book of Life will be destroyed from amongst the people (Revelation xx. 12-15; Acts iii., 23).

But, thank God, this irremediable destruction of the Second Death will come only upon wilful evil-doers of the class mentioned in this text—often reproved and yet stiff-necked. Some of the Church might be classed in this category because of previous enlightenment, etc., enjoyed, but surely the world in general has not had such reproofs and such an intelligent understanding of the Lord as would make them properly amenable to the Second Death. And God purposes that every member of Adam's race must have this one full, complete privilege and opportunity for eternal life before he can be sentenced to the Second Death.

ADMIRALS IN THE MAKING.

The Course For Midshipmen at the Naval Academy and at Sea.

Two midshipmen are appointed each year by every United States senator and congressman, two are credited to the District of Columbia, and five are named each year from the United States at large. All are generally chosen by competitive examination.

The course for the midshipman is six years, four years at the academy and two years at sea, at the expiration of which time the candidate is required to take his examination for graduation. All midshipmen who pass these examinations are appointed to fill vacancies in the lower grade of the line of the navy.

All candidates for admission to the academy must be physically sound, well formed and of vigorous constitution. No boy who is manifestly undersized will be admitted. The height of the candidate must not be less than five feet two inches between the ages of sixteen and eighteen and not less than five feet four inches between the ages of eighteen and twenty. The minimum weight of the candidate at sixteen must be 100, with an increase of five pounds for each additional year or fraction of a year more than one-half.

No midshipman is permitted to marry between the date of his graduation from the academy and his final graduation for appointment in the line without the consent of the secretary of the navy. The pay of the midshipman is $600 a year, beginning with the date of his admission to the academy.

BUSY PEOPLE.

Here's a Writer Who Says They Rarely Accomplish Big Things.

The sun is blazing down on the garden in which lives a saint, so called, whom I visited the day in Bombay. He has not spoken for twenty-three years, and his neighbors look upon him with awe. Some months later I visited at Darjeeling a man who for nearly thirty years has been studying drops of blood under a microscope. He is getting as close to life as he can, but admits that he knows little more than the sage in his hot garden at Bombay. Both the western scientist and the eastern sage smile indulgently at the fussiness of modern life.

My own experience of men in many lands has taught me that the most active are least valuable. It is a notable survival of the simian in man that so many people think that constant mental and physical activity is a measure of value. Busy people seldom accomplish anything. The statue, the poem, the painting, the solution of the economic, financial or social problem, the courage and steadfastness for war even are all born in seclusion and appear mysteriously from nowhere. Moses, Cromwell, Washington, Lincoln, Shakespeare, Dante and Cervantes all appear from nowhere and promptly take command of the [illegible]. What a crowd of [illegible] who [illegible] remembered for getting [illegible] Magazine.

Beards and Culture.

Why is it that there seems to be some vital connection between a man's beard and his belief? The late Goldwin Jacob Holyoake, in an article contributed to the Fortnightly Review in September, 1908, recalls the time—not so very long ago—"when only four men in Birmingham had the courage to wear beards. They were followers of Joanna Southcott. They did it in imitation of the apostles, and were jeered at in the streets by ignorant Christians." In the course of the same article Mr. Holyoake remarks that "George Frederick Muntz, one of the two first members elected in Birmingham, was the first member who ventured to wear a beard in the house of commons, and he would have been insulted had he not been a powerful man and carried a heavy malacca cane which he was known to apply to any one who offered him a personal affront."—London Standard.

The Mikado's Title.

The ruler of Japan really should be called ten-o, not mikado. The latter means "royal gate" and is a title somewhat similar to sublime porte, which is used indifferently to mean the Turkish sultan, his government or the country itself. Ten-o means "heaven's highest," a title surpassing all the most grandiloquent European efforts. The original Japanese equivalent for ten-o is osamekimikoto, but the former is universally used, perhaps on account of its brevity.

No Reason to Worry.

"I once played the part of Venus in a pantomime," said the lady who showed her age and was beginning to have a mustache.

"Well, I wouldn't let it worry me," replied the one who was still fair to look upon. "Venus was only a myth, so, of course, you didn't hurt her feelings."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Same Thing.

The Ex-widow—You can't say I ever ran after you, Percival. The Second Helping—Very true, Hypatia. The trap never runs after the rat, but it gathers him in, all the same.—London Tatler.

The Restorative.

"How's your wife's cold this morning?" asked a neighbor.

"Much better, thank you. There's a dance tomorrow evening that she wants to go to."—Detroit Free Press.

When a man sits down and hopes for the best he is apt to get the worst of it.

He fell the book of verse, his head as well, like many beside him, clear toned as a bell. He tilted up his jug. It fell and broke. "This isn't paradise," he said; "It's Pittsburg!"

BACK AT BUCKINGHAM

FAMOUS PILE IS AGAIN THE HOME OF ROYALTY.

The Residence Which Has Been a Source of Worry to So Many Monarchs Is to Be Occupied Again This Reign After a Long Spell In the Hands of the Workmen Who Have Tried Hard to Make It Comfortable.

King George and Queen Mary returned to town for the opening of Parliament, and took up their residence at Buckingham Palace, the interior of which has been in the hands of workmen for so long. To foreign countries the Crown of England is always associated with St. James' Palace, says Modern Society, which, at any rate, has many historical associations, rather than the dingy and ugly palace at the head of the Processional Road, and of which the Duke of Wellington once said that "notwithstanding all the expense that had been incurred in connection with it, there is no sovereign who is so ill-lodged as the king of this country." And the words are nearly as true to-day as they were when they were spoken eighty years ago.

Buckingham Palace is relatively modern, and stands on the site of the garden of mulberry trees planted by James I. in a vain endeavor to establish the culture of silk. Under the Restoration it was a place of popular resort where Dryden, the poet, used "to go and eat mulberry tarts." Pope, too, was a frequent visitor.

Adjoining the gardens was Goring House, owned by Lord George Goring, who was keeper of the gardens. On his death the house was purchased by Lord Arlington, who built a larger mansion, and called it Arlington House. He afterwards purchased the gardens from the crown, giving there the first "tea" party ever held in this country, tea until that time being a beverage quite unknown, and it is reported that he gave "three guineas a pound" for it.

In 1703 Arlington House was demolished, and on the site the Duke of Buckingham and his wife, a natural daughter of James II., erected a mansion, to which they gave the name of Buckingham House, and in their time it was often the scene of many encounters between this lady and her particular enemy and rival, Sarah Churchill, first Duchess of Marlborough. Eventually the house was purchased by King George III. and settled upon his consort as her special property, being then known as "the Queen's House."

The royal owners took possession in 1763, and it was there that all their children, with the exception of their eldest son, were born. The life of the royal couple was homely and domestic in the extreme at Buckingham House, and Miss Burney's Memoirs are eloquent on the subject of the spankings administered there to the royal children.

Buckingham House, however, saw very little of the royal family after the insanity of George III. and when George IV. came to the throne the palace was in a very dilapidated condition. It was the new king's intention to build a new palace, but owing to the difficulty of obtaining the money from Parliament for such a purpose King George decided to "enlarge and repair" the residence, and make it suitable for his sovereign rank. King George's "repairs," however, were of a very elaborate description, and were to have been carried out under the direction of th famous architect Nash.

But the king was so constantly changing the designs that by the time of his death, in 1830, the so-called "repairs" had swallowed up something like $5,000,000, and the palace uninhabitable, and the original red brick building was completely lost in the web of new buildings of stone, stucco, and marble.

It was in this condition that William IV. found the palace, and the place was the cause of no end of profanity on the part of that monarch, who would have nothing whatever to do with it, and it was not until Queen Victoria came to the throne that it became once more a royal residence. The young queen absolutely refused to take up her residence at the gloomy, tragedy-haunted St. James' Palace, so she decided to make George IV.'s unfinished palace her town residence, reserving St. James' Palace for all the ceremonial work of the court.

The palace was then a somewhat low building, with a front and two wings around three sides of a courtyard. But in 1848 Queen Victoria added another storey, and built the east wing, and transformed the old conservatory into a private chapel.

In 1851 further alterations were made and the marble arch at the entrance transferred to Hyde Park, where it remains, as every Londoner knows, to this day. During the Crimean War the queen added the truly magnificent state ballroom, and the Prince Consort laid out the beautiful grounds in the rear of the palace.

So long as the Prince Consort lived the royal family spent some time there each year, but when he died the place was once again left to the servants, and for forty years, with the exception of a visit now and again for a few hours, the palace remained practically closed.

When the late King Edward came to the throne much was done to improve the palace, and once again it became the town residence of the King of England, but in spite of all the ingenuity brought to bear on its improvement it still remains an uncomfortable residence. Now, once more, the workmen, under skilled advice, have tried to make it a comfortable home for the royal family, but to all outward appearance it still remains a disgrace as the residence of the sovereign of the greatest Empire in the world.

Best Asleep.

"I don't feel well," said one clerk to another as he took off his coat in the office. "The trouble with me is that I haven't slept as I ought. I don't feel well unless I've slept." "That's the same way with me," said his colleague. "In fact, I think I feel best of all when I'm sound asleep!"

Historic Beauties.

The famous beauties of the world are wise when they leave no portraits of themselves. Take Marguerite of Valois. She was an immoral, dishonorable, criminal, scheming, unscrupulous villainess, but she was dowered with such charm that there was not a jailer or an enemy she could not charm when she tried. No, nor a woman—not even the wives of her lovers. Men came from every country, taking year long journeys, only to see her and went away, after a little glimpse, saying they had "seen loveliness itself." Then one sees her portraits. Too much forehead, not enough eyebrow, a straight nose and expressive mouth (in one picture a lovely mouth)—and that is all. Mary, queen of Scots, was very lovely—three kingdoms battled because of her beauty—and yet her pictures leave one cold. Fouche said her portrait showed every trait of the lowest criminal type. That was before he knew whose picture he criticised.—London Truth.

Lost Meanings.

"Those who care for the beginnings of things may be glad that the quill pen survives to remind us that the original pen was plucked from a bird," observes a writer. "Germans and Frenchmen are in no danger of forgetting that, thanks to their respective words 'feder' and 'plume,' but the English 'pen' suggests a feather only when one chooses to think about it and recall the Latin 'penna.' Almost all our writing materials are no longer what etymologically they profess to be. Paper is no longer made of papyrus; a pencil is not a little tail 'penicillus,' like a camel's hair brush; the 'lead' of a lead pencil is not lead, and the 'india rubber' with which we erase its marks does not and never did come from India. Even of parchment there is probably not a fragment in the country, except, perhaps, in a museum and coming from Pergamum, in Asia."—Chicago News.

Life in the Icy Arctic.

In the morning I was generally the one to waken first and would either start the alcohol lamp myself or call Astrup for that purpose. Our morning meal consisted of a lump of pemmican, six biscuits, two ounces of butter and two cups of tea each. As soon as this was finished everything was repacked on the sledge. I then read the odometer, aneroid and thermometer and, taking the guides, which had waved and fluttered over the kitchen throughout our hours of rest, from its place, stepped forward and the next march was commenced. After from four to six hours of marching we would halt for half an hour to eat our simple lunch of pemmican and give the dogs a rest and then after four to six hours of traveling halt again and repeat the already described route.—Robert E. Peary, "The Great White Journey."

Got Rid of the Scum.

She was a city bride who had never before taken a hand in housekeeping and knew but little about things in the kitchen. A few mornings ago she got after the milkman.

"What's the matter with your milk?" she said, with great vehemence.

"I don't know," he replied. "What do you find wrong with it?"

"Well," she said, "every morning it is covered with a nasty yellow scum."

"And what do you do with the scum?"

"Why, I skim it off, of course, and throw it in the garbage can."—Farmers' Guide.

THE DEAD SEA.

Beautiful, Gay and Smiling, But the Home of Mystery and Death.

Even apart from the exaggerations of legends, which make its exhalations so poisonous that birds flying over it fall down dead through suffocation, the Dead Sea is a sufficiently awe-inspiring body of water. From a neighboring height you look down at the lowest spot on the earth's surface—the hollow of the sea, blue as the sky in the morning sunshine, flecked with cloud-like wavelets, beautiful, gay and smiling, but bitter, treacherous, and the home only of mystery and death.

Studied at closer quarters the sea is of a peculiar oily greenish hue, and its strange qualities become vividly apparent. There is no life in it with the exception of some few microscopic specimens, and salt water fish die when put into it; while fresh water species brought down by the River Jordan and other streams running into it soon float dead upon the surface. Bathers who venture into it find it impossible to sink below the surface, and suffer from irritation of the skin after emerging, owing to the extreme saltness. Analysis has shown that the water contains more than 25 per cent. of saline matter. About the centre of the northern section the depth is very great, as much as 1,308 feet having been fathomed. The surface is 1,297 feet below that of the Mediterranean. And, what seems most mysterious of all, the Dead Sea has no visible outlet; indeed, can scarcely have an outlet owing to its lying so low; and yet it receives daily about 6,500,000 tons of water, and apparently once received a good deal more from the Jordan and other rivers which empty into it.

The secret of this constant addition to its waters and yet failure to increase in extent or depth is to be sought in the tremendous daily evaporation caused by the fierce sun beating down upon it and in the absorbent nature of the soil. The southern end, near the salt hills, is the barest and least inviting to the eye, and it is for this reason that people have looked here for the site of the five Cities of the Plain.

The name of the lake has varied considerably during historical times. In the Old Testament, for instance, we hear of the "East Sea," "Salt Sea," or "Sea of Akabah." In the classical period it was known as the "Lake of Asphalt," later as the "Dead Sea," which title was adopted by the early Fathers of the Church. Nowadays the Arabs call it Bahr Lut, "Sea of Lot."

London Buys Sables.

It is estimated that 25,000 sables are caught annually in Russia. The skins are disposed of mainly in the London market.

For heating the house during chilly spring and autumn days

You can have the GAS RING Attachment with the Sunshine furnace. This is a recent McClary invention—and a very desirable convenience.

After you let out the furnace in the spring, and in the early autumn before the winter's coal supply is ordered, there are often chilly days when some warmth from the furnace is desirable. Then the GAS RING is appreciated. Just light it for an hour or two and the house will be comfortable.

Unlike a gas log, the GAS RING does not require removing or the gas pipe disconnected. Instead, it's a permanent feature. It simply takes the place of the lower section of the fire-pot.

The GAS RING is always ready for use. It cannot be clogged up with dust or ashes. It's very economical. If your coal fire should go out you can easily start it going again by lighting the GAS RING.

If our agent cannot give you complete information about the GAS RING write direct to us. 49

SIX MONTHS IN CENTRAL PRISON FOR LOCAL FRATERNAL SOCIETY ORGANIZER

William T. Collins Pleads Guilty to Obtaining Money Under False Pretences — Cashed a Cheque and Had No Account in Bank.

OTHER CASES TO-DAY

Six months in the Central Prison, Toronto, was the sentence meted out to W. T. Collins, in the Police Court this morning. Collins, who has been here for about a year, acting as organiser for several fraternal orders, was charged with obtaining money on false pretences. He pleaded guilty to the charge. It is stated that he went into the Montgomery House, and wrote out a cheque on a certain bank for $15, which he presented to Mr. Frank Montgomery, stating that he was in a hurry to go to a certain place, and that the banks were not open. Montgomery cashed the cheque and Collins was making out of the city when he was caught. The Bank authorities stated that Collins never had an account in the bank. Collins stated that he had lived in the United States for some time, but formerly came from Norwood. His Worship, Magistrate Dumble pointed out that the case was one of plain stealing, as Mr. Montgomery took the cheque under the impression that he would get its face value at the bank. Collins seemed to be somewhat agitated over the penalty.

Heckles Smith was charged with being drunk in a public place yesterday. He pleaded guilty and a fine of $2.00 was imposed. He could not pay the money so will spend ten days on the hill.

Henry Smith was arraigned on the same charge. He could not pay the two williams either, so Heckles Smith will have company during his ten days' visit at the Hill.

A local young man was fined $2.00 for wheeling on the sidewalk.

A charge was laid against a local man for non-payment of dog-taxes. He had destroyed the dog previous to getting the summons, so the case was discharged.

Dennis M. Skully, who was summoned to appear in Court a week ago and who skipped out of the city, is still absent, and the information laid against him will stand until his return, if it is one or ten years.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS TO COMMENCE THURSDAY, JUNE 1

The Census Enumerators for East and West Peterborough and the Dominion at large, will commence their duties on Thursday morning, June 1st. In Peterborough, about fifteen Enumerators have been appointed, in order that the work may be speedily done.

It will be to the advantage of the Enumerators, as well as to the advantage of the party called upon to supply all the information asked for as readily as possible, so as to save their own time and that of the Enumerator.

The questions asked are, apparently, inquisitive, but they are necessary for the statistical information of the Dominion and to secure a correct record of the population and resources of the country.

The Enumerators will appreciate the prompt answering of all questions prescribed by the Government. The Enumerators are all sworn to secrecy and any information will only be used by the Department.

BOATHOUSE QUESTION PRACTICALLY SETTLED

Property Committee Met Last Night and Dealt With a Few Important Matters---End of Street Will be Kept Clear of Boathouses---Applications for Allotment for Space to Build Boathouses Will be Received by City Clerk.

The City Property Committee met last night, with the following members present: Ald. Duncan, chairman; Ald. Brown, Ald. Morgan and Mayor Morrow.

A number of small matters were dealt with, also the tenders for the city's supply of coal were considered.

The lighting in Victoria Park was reported in bad condition, and a move was made recommending the necessary repairs.

An application was received from Mr. H. E. Holly, for the position of taking care of the little park at the corner of Park and Charlotte streets. The request was granted. The salary is $10.00 per year. Seats will be put in the park and the fence taken away at once.

Seats were also needed in Central Park. The City Clerk was instructed to find out the cost of seats, and the chairman was authorized to purchase whatever number was necessary.

The following tenders for the city's supply of coal were received:

R. J. Wolstenholme. . . .	$7.00
J. E. A. Fitzgerald	7.00
Fuel and Cartage Co. . . .	7.00
Hicks & Co.	7.00
Ontario Coal Co.	7.00
Weir & O'Brien	7.00
(Scott, coal dealer, was included)

Moved by Ald. Morgan and seconded by Ald. Brown, that the tenders be accepted and that the Chairman be authorized to divide the orders between the different dealers.—Carried.

The question of allotments for boathouses at the C. P. R. came up.

The matter was left with the City Clerk. Allotments will be made in order of application and those coming late will be left. It is a case of come early and avoid the rush, also avoid being the one who comes when the ground is all taken up. The street will be left open. This will mean the cutting out of Nos. 18 to 20, but as the boat-houses will be closer together, there will likely be room for the same number on the smaller space. Applications will be accordingly received by the City Clerk, Mr. S. R. Armstrong.

Then north to ninth Concession, east to Middle Line, south to Seventh Line, east to Lakefield River Road, south to Fourth Line, west to Middle Line, then south Middle Line to city.

LAST NIGHT OF SPECIAL MEETINGS IN ST. PAUL'S

The last of the meetings conducted by Prof Lowe in St. Paul's church will be held this evening. Both services yesterday, that for the young people in the afternoon and the evening service, were of unusual impressiveness. Mr. Lowe did not employ the illustrated form of address last night. He gave a gospel address based upon the text. "The Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." The old, old story of the coming and the humiliation of our Lord. His earnestness and persistency in seeking the lost, and His ability to save to the uttermost all who believe, was very forcibly presented to the heart and conscience of every one who heard Mr. Lowe speak. The stereopticon was employed in the song service and also in the illustrated solo. Mr. Lowe will sing two illustrated songs to-night, and then the address, as last evening, will be without the use of pictures. As this is the last of the meetings, it is earnestly hoped that all who can will come to listen to his parting message. A thank offering will be received to defray the expenses of the mission.

THE HAREM SKIRT AGAIN MAKES ITS APPEARANCE HERE

Tuesday at noon, one of the much-discussed garments, the harem skirt, made its appearance on the street. Its presence caused no particular sensation beyond the customary exclamations made by the numerous onlookers, coupled with the approval and admiration of the fair sex. It was worn by a lady who is connected with the show troupe now playing at the Rex Theatre.

This much talked of piece of wearing material was made of a light blue material, apparently satin, and consisted of full bloomers drawn in at the ankles, over which was a short skirt reaching to the knees.

The lady in question was accompanied by two male escorts, one of them being dressed equally as freakish as the wearer of the harem skirt. The attire was supposed to represent the dress of a typical wild west cowboy.

DR. CLIFFORD TO LAY THE CORNER STONE

Most Conspicuous Figure in the Baptist Ministry of the World Will Visit Peterborough for the Purpose of Officiating at the Important Ceremony in Connection with the New Murray Street Baptist Church.

The Building Committee of Murray Street Baptist Church are to be congratulated upon their enterprise in trying to secure, and their success, in securing, the services of Dr. John Clifford, of London, Eng., who will lay the corner stone of their splendid stone church on Thursday, June 29th.

Dr. Clifford is, without exception, the most conspicuous figure in the Baptist Ministry of the world. For many years he has been Minister of Westbourne Baptist Church, which is the leading church of this denomination in the City of London. Although he has ministered to this great congregation each Sunday, his work has been by no means limited to the work of the pastorate. He has been the leader of the passive resistance movement in England, a staunch advocate of the complete separation of Church and State, an orator of marvellous ability, a man of unique scholarship, and, as the British Weekly has recently said, "The man of all men in England most beloved by his friends, and most feared by his enemies." He is, perhaps, the closest friend of Hon. Lloyd George, the Chancellor of the British Exchequer.

Dr. Clifford has been the President of the World's Baptist Alliance, which will hold its second Congress in the temple in Philadelphia during the week commencing June 19. From Philadelphia he comes to Toronto to speak at a special Convocation of the McMaster University, when certain degrees will be conferred. His visit to America includes a stay in Chicago, where he will preach the baccalaureate sermon of the University of Chicago, also an engagement at Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Twelve days ago a letter was sent to England by the officers of Murray Street church, requesting the Doctor to come to Peterborough on any date that he could arrange, to lay the corner stone of the new church, and to speak to the people of this city. A cable reply was asked for. Yesterday, Mr. T. F. Matthews received a wire message from Dr. Howard Wayne Smith, who will accompany Dr. Clifford on his tour, which reads as follows: "Clifford consents to lay the corner stone at Murray Street Church, date Thursday, June 29th. Letter following with particulars."

The coming to our city of such a distinguished visitor will certainly be of great interest to not only the denomination most concerned, but to the entire city.

OTONABEE POWER CO'Y WILL ERECT POWER PLANT LARGE ENOUGH TO DEVELOP TOTAL FLOW OF OTONABEE

In an interview this morning with an Examiner reporter Mr. W. G. Ferguson stated tht the Otonbee Power Company Limited, of which he is President, has recently acquired from Messrs. Daniel Moloney and R. S. Bolton of Douro, about fifty acres of land on the Douro side of the Otonabee River between dams numbers four and five lying west of the Lakefield branch of the Grand Trunk Railway for the purpose of the Otonabee Power Company developing Dams Numbers four and five under one head.

In answer to the question as to what they propose doing with the property, Mr. Ferguson said the company propose to construct their head race through this property and erect their power house below Lock No. 5, of sufficient size and capacity to develop the total flow of the Otonabee river. He also stated that their new work would cost upwards of $200,000, and would enable the Company to place upon the market in Peterborough a large quantity of surplus electric power, which will be available for new industries or for existing industries which are contemplating enlarging their works. The Company feel that if intending manufacturers are aware of the fact that there is actually existing a large quantity of surplus electric power available for immediate use, it will have a more pronounced effect in inducing them to locate in Peterborough.

During the spring of 1907 the Otonabee Company had Messrs. Ross and Holgate, consulting engineers of Montreal prepare plans and specifications with a view of developing this water power, but before the plans were actually completed a very severe financial depression took place in Canada and the United States which had the effect of curtailing the output of existing factories and checking the establishing of new industries. Under the circumstances the Company decided that it was not in its interests to proceed with this development and place upon the market a large amount of surplus power for which no market could be found and from which no revenue could be derived, and especially so when the Electric Companies had already on hand an ample surplus of electric power to supply existing industries. Since that time, the consumption of electric power in Peterborough has been constantly and continuously increasing until at the present time there is a shortage of electric power to supply existing demands and to supply immediate future requirements, hence the Company have decided that it is in the interests of everybody to proceed at once with the development of this power so soon as some minor details can be arranged satisfactory to the Company.

THE HERPICIDE GIRL

Advises Gentlemen

At Mrs. Blank's reception I met a gentleman who fulfilled my ideal of a man in all but one particular. He had a good head, fine physique, perfect manners, was a most interesting personality, and bore himself with the distinguished air of a gentleman. His linen was immaculate and his clothes faultless as to cut and material. But all the pleasant first impression was ruined when I discovered the collar and shoulders of his dresscoat covered with loose hair and flakes of dandruff.

To me this was an indication of personal carelessness, not to say uncleanliness. I wanted to tell him to get a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide. This remarkable remedy would, in short time remove every trace of dandruff from his head, stop falling hair and prevent him from becoming bald. I don't like baldheaded men; they look old whether they are or not.

Dandruff is caused by a germ and Newbro's Herpicide kills that germ. The itching, which is so frightful with dandruff stops almost instantly.

Herpicide is the Original Remedy that destroys dandruff. There is nothing in the world just like it, nothing that is "just as good."

TAKING THE CENSUS.

The Census enumerators for East and West Peterborough and throughout Canada will begin their work on Thursday morning, June 1st. Though officially charged with this duty the enumerators are not the only ones who have a duty in the premises. It is the duty of the public to do their part, and in their way of doing this will consist much of the successful enumeration of the population of Canada. The visit of the enumerator is a certainty, and should be prepared for, should be considered by every citizen, not in the light of a visitation, but as representing a privilege. The object of taking the census is not a mere counting of noses, but is intended to be a ten-yearly stock-taking, to discover the extent of the various items that enter into the national housekeeping; to be a measure of the commercial, industrial, and other resources of the country, to be a complete record of the number and social and civil conditions of the whole population of Canada. The result of the census will be to show how Canada has advanced in population, wealth, etc., etc., during the past ten years. We know that our prosperity and growth have been greater than in any other decade of our history; but we do not know the details. These the census will supply. To cover all details the Government has compiled a series of questions, which the enumerators is compelled to ask. They are not his questions, but are compiled by the government. They are not impertinent—each one is intended to elicit some information, which, added to that gained by the answers to other questions ,will combine to make the census a complete inventory of the assets of Canada in the way of population and material, and other resources.

The public are, therefore, requested to cooperate with the census men to answer questions as promptly as possible, to the saving of their own time, and that of the enumerators.

STEP BY STEP.

(Montreal Herald)

It appears there was something like a demonstration made by the Liberals as they saw their steadfastness rewarded after so many years. Perhaps we do not any of us realise, in this country, what such a struggle means. Away back there before 1832 the democracy was already engaged in it. Privilege, holding the land and entrenched in the strongholds of power, proposed to rule in his own way. The Lords owned the House of Commons, through their right to elect so many of its members from boroughs they owned. They did not propose to even share their ownership with the people of the rapidly growing cities. They resisted until they were forced to submit. All through the century they continued to resist every proposed extension of the power of the democracy through the enlargement of the voting clas. Now, they are being deprived, at the instance of the masses of a great part of their own power. That their resistance should be constant, should be strong, should be resourceful, is easy to understand. But that the attack upon their privileged position should be carried on year after year, without relenting, without going back or turning aside, without either surrendering to force or ceding to blandishments, without noise, without vituperation, without excitement, but always with fixed and implacable determination, can only mean that the people who have so carried on the fight are endowed with qualities which make them worthy opponents of so powerful a class. They are a steadfast people, the English, who mean to have their way.

Step by step the democracy of Great Britain has been fighting for full recognition, for the abolition of special privileges, and the placing of all men on an equal footing. Victory has come slowly and has been wrested step by step. Because it has come slowly, it has come all the more surely; and within the last year some of the greatest triumphs have been won. The most significant feature of the long struggle is that at no time has there been any retrogression, each foothold obtained having served as a vantage ground for future progress.

GOOD ROADS AND NATIONAL RESPONSIBILITY.

The Brantford Expositor has the following in reference to a bill to provide for an extensive scheme of national highways in the United States:

"A great many good roads measures have been introduced into the United States' Congress and among them one to provide for a national auto highway from New York to Jacksonville, Fla. Another proposal is that of Representative Hobson, Alabama, which provides for the construction, improvement and maintenance of post roads and rural delivery routes through the co-operation and joint action of the government and the states in which such routes may be established. The secretary of agriculture and director of roads are to carry out the work with such engineering and other assistance they may need. The bill provides that upon application to the director of roads by the Legislature of a state for national aid in improving any post road or rural route, and the promise that the state will defray half of the cost, the director shall investigate and, if found feasible, shall make surveys and call for bids for the construction of the roads. The entire cost of the roads so built shall be paid by the government and upon its completion the state shall pay its half to be placed to the credit of a "national highway fund." Additional aid to roads is to be withheld if the state fails to make its payments. The bill appropriates $100,000,000 for the building of these roads of which $20,000,000 is made immediately available. The appropriation is to be annually appropriated among the states in accordance with population, ratio, exclusive of cities of 50,000 or more inhabitants. Thus far none of these ambitious measures have been entertained, owing to the conviction that it is not part of the functions of the federal government to promote road-making, but the belief is growing that the next session of Congress will see some provision made for national highways.

Nothing could be more mistaken than the idea that "it is not part of the funtcions of a national government to promote, or rather perform road making. Governments exist to promote the national welfare and to assist the people, to effectively discharge their duties as citizens, in their individual interest and, collectively, in the national interest. Governments have recognized this. They have undertaken and aided the construction of canals and railways in the interets of transportation, facilities of communication and general promotion of commercial and industrial enterprise and for the accommodation of the people. These purposes are not served any more decidedly—nor with as widespread benefit—by railways and canals than by good highway roads. Indeed, in respect of the greater good to the greatest number, a national system of good highways would be of the greater benefit to the people; though in reality one is as complementary to the other as the hind wheels of a vehicle are to the front wheels. The greatest usefulness of the one depends upon the other. The Examiner needs not apologize for again insisting that it is the duty of the state, as represented by the province of Ontario, to assume, to a very large degree, if not entirely, control of the construction of a system of provincial highways. The province has an abounding revenue, and the money coming into the hands of the government does not belong to the government, but to the people; and the people are entitled to the fullest possible benefit from its expenditure. The fullest possible benefit would come from a general distribution of good roads throughout the province. The government is better adapted to conceive and construct and control a provincial system of highways than the several municipalities. Such a system would be better adapted and more harmonious, laid out under one competent authority, than if it were patched together in a hit-and-miss way by county or other municipalities working separately. If the government of the province of Ontario, through its Legislature, would set apart a fund of five or ten millions to be spent on a system of provincial country highways, leaving the townships to devote their whole road making revenue, proceeding from commuted statute labour, to connecting lines of highway, in the next five or ten years, the prosperity of the province and the convenience and happiness of the people would be revolutionized. No one who considers the subject in all its relations can have any doubt as to the responsibility of the state, the national responsibility in relation to the good roads of the country—of this province.

The "Monroe Doctrine"; Its Origin And Diplomatic Significance

(The Globe)

The unqualified endorsation given by Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, to the Monroe doctrine is a matter of very great importance in the diplomatic world. Sir Edward defined the Monroe doctrine as meaning that no European power could be permitted to acquire more territory on the American continent. That this declaration will be received in the Chancelleries of continental Europe as another evidence of the cynical selfishness of the Anglo-Saxon goes without saying. It is a tradition among European diplomats that the Munroe doctrine was promulgated to prevent any European power from gobbling up Central or South American territory, thus reserving it until the United States was strong enough to swallow and digest the Latin Republics.

Historically, of course, that view is an absurdity. The truth is that Monroe's message to Congress in 1822 was an intimation to the Burbons of Spain and their allies of Austria, France, and Prussia that any attempt on the part of the united forces of the European continental powers to reconquer the Spanish colonies in America on behalf of Spain will be regarded with enmity by the United States. In its original form the Monroe doctrine was stated in a single sentence:

"With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered and shall not interfere. But with the Governments who have declared their independence and maintained it, and whose independence we have on great considerations and on just principles acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them or controlling in any other manner their destiny by any European power in any other light than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States."

That President Monaroe had the warm support of Canning, the great British Liberal leader of the day, is, of course, well known. Canning was just as determined as Monroe that Bourbon tyranny should not be re-established in the new world. In an official communication urging action along this line he planted the germ of the Monroe doctrine in President Monroe's mind, and, while not given to boasting, when brought to task in Parliament for aiding in the creation of a number of Republics in Spain's South and Central American possessions, Canning declared proudly that he had "called the new world into being in order to redress the balance of the old."

It was with the consent and approval of the British Government, speaking as an American power, that the Munroe doctrine was promulgated ninety years ago. There has been but one attempt to set it aside, the creation of an Empire in Mexico in the early sixties of the last century backed by Napoleon the Third and Austria. Had Maximillian been able to hold his throne Mexico would have become in effect a French colony, although Napoleon when he intervened in the affairs of Mexico declared that "the French troops do not go to Mexico to interfere with the form of government or to acquire an inch of territory, but to secure a settlement of the French claims."

The close of the American Civil War, which released Grant's huge army for operations in Mexico, placed Seward in a position to give effective aid to Juurez, Diaz, and the other leaders of the Mexican patriots. Napoleon withdrew the French troops under Seward's pressure, Maximillian was captured and shot, and thus ended the greatest and probably the last serious attempt of a European power to defy the Monroe doctrine.

Sir Edward Grey's re-endorsation of the principle underlying it means that for all practical purposes the United States and Great Britain, speaking for Canada, will insist that Latin America shall not be subjected to European interference, having conquest as its object. So far as North America is concerned, there is no longer danger of conquest. No power on earth could secure a permanent lodgment in North America in face of the hostility of the people of the United States and Canada. The Monroe doctrine therefore, supplemented by an unlimited treaty of arbitration between Great Britain and the United States, is in effect a declaration of perpetual peace throughout the greater part of the continent. But that does not mean the abandonment of all means of defence against external enemies. So long as a world in arms looks enviously at America across both the Atlantic and the Pacific, the United States—and Canada as she grows in strength—must continue to maintain adequate naval defence forces on both oceans.

LIFE NOT WORTH LIVING

is the way Miss Altha Abel, of West Baden, Ind., summed up her existence after having sought in vain for health. She writes, "I was a complete wreck—always tired, worn out and nervous. I had to spend about one-third of my time in bed, and my life was not worth living.

Vinol, your delicious cod liver and iron tonic, was recommended, and I can truly say it has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took in my life. That nervous and tired feeling is all gone. I have gained in health, flesh and strength, until I feel like another person." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

What Vinol did for Miss Abel, we know it will do for every nervous, run-down, over-worked, tired, thin and discouraged woman in this vicinity.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. McDermid and Juky, corner George and Charlotte street; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

Attending Brother's Funeral

Mr. Robert C. Walton of Rochester was in Peterborough yesterday, to attend the funeral of his brother, Mr. William Walton, who passed away at his home in Lakefield, on Saturday, suddenly, from heart failure.

It is eleven years since Mr. Walton first left Peterborough for Rochester, where he has resided ever since. He has only been back to Peterborough twice in that time, to attend the funeral of his late father and brother. Mr. Walton is representing The W. E. Woodbury & Company firm of Rochester, which has three stores in Rochester, one in Geneva, and one in Elmira, and one in Batavia. Mrs. Walton will be remembered as Eva Lannon, daughter of Thomas M. Lannon of the old Giant. Mr. Walton's many friends in Peterborough were glad to see him but he has their sympathy on the cause of his visit.

NEW ARMOURY

Omemee is to have a new armoury. The Militia Department at Ottawa has announced that a class D. armoury of cement and brick will be built in the village on the site of the old frame drill shed.

It is now a settled policy with the Militia Department to build armouries where companies are stationed in order to keep them up to their full strength.

A QUESTION OF RULES

An interesting point in connection with the interpretation of the rules came up at yesterday's School Baseball League game, at the Oval, between Central and South Central schools. In the first innings a South Central batter drove a fast grounder along the third base line. As the umpire saw it, the ball struck outside the third base line on foul territory, but after it had passed third base rolled into fair territory in the outfield. Accordingly, the umpire called it a foul ball, and there was some complaint from the South Central team, who claimed that the hit was a fair one, because the ball settled on fair ground in the outfield. However, the rules cover such a case explicitly, as the following extract from Rule 45 of the 1911 playing rules will show: "A foul hit is a legally batted ball, that settles on foul territory between home and first base, or between home and third base, or that bounds past first or third base on foul territory, etc."

A study of this rule and the preceding one, defining a fair ball, will show that if a ball settles on fair territory between home and first or third it is a fair ball; if it settles on foul territory between home and first or third it is a foul ball; it it lights on fair ground in the outfield, it is a fair ball; if it lights on foul ground in the outfield it is a foul ball, but if it bounds past first or third base on fair ground it is a fair ball, no matter where it may settle in the outfield and vice versa if it bounds past first or third base on foul territory it is foul no matter where it rolls in the outfield.

South Central's Beat Centrals

The South Central team are undisputed leaders in the senior division of the Public School Baseball League as the result of defeating Centrals in a League game yesterday afternoon at Nicholls Oval by 12 runs to 1. It was a snappy, well played game, featured by the splendid pitching of Parker for the South Centrals. The young left hander had his speedy ball working perfectly and Centrals could do little with his offerings, while his team mates gave him the best of support, except in the last innings when a wild throw robbed him of a shut-out game. Dobson pitched a steady game for the Centrals and was not hit hard, but his support was not of the best and the errors o fthe Central were costly. It was the fourth straight victory for South Centrals.

Batteries:—

South Centrals—Parker and Haskill.

Centrals—Dobson and Cavanah.

POST CARD COLUMN

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Allow me to ask if I may fill a small portion of your evening paper, in answer to the notes filled in per All Saints' and St. James' match, played May 24th.

The game which was played by those two teams, was well contested, and the St. James' lost their points that day entirely through the halves playing All Saints' forwards on side, a great number of times, and I may say the person who mentioned that the match was badly handled knows too much to be a spectator, and if such as him came forward and refereed himself he will soon learn that watching and running up with the ball is not so easy as standing on the line, watching the ball go from one side to the other.

And, again, the players of the Church League and officials must bear in mind that they do not pay us for refereeing, and it is no place for any player to start passing his unnecessary remarks on the field of play, but play the game and to the whistle.

And Mr. Moffat should bear in mind the question which Mr. Milburn answered him during the interval of the C. G. E.-Havelock match, and that is, as long as a man is a League referee, it is in every way justice for him to refree and as clear as I could say, is, I hope All Saints will bear in mind, that if St. John's win the cup, give them, or present it to them, not stand when the gaupe is in play, gaain, and say "if you win it you won't get it."

As regards Mr. Relton, as refree, he is one, if I am not mistaken, of the best in the League. Where is the other referee that follows the ball as he does, up and down the field. If paying was considered, he earns his, as he tries sto oblige all teams, and because he can't do 100 yards in ten seconds and run as fast as the ball is going, he knows good Keep thinking so and I hope we can get him every week.

BIG VALUES IN GOOD BRUSSELS RUGS — WEDNESDAY —

RICHARD HALL & SON 355-365 GEORGE STREET

BIG BARGAINS IN CURTAIN MUSLINS WEDNESDAY SECOND FLOOR

During the year now closed the Company obtained an Act of Parliament, entitled The Standard Life Assurance Company's Act, 1910, under which the Company became incorporated on 16th November, 1920.

QUINQUENNIAL INVESTIGATION. At the close of the quinquennial period on 15th November, 1920, the usual investigation has been made into the affairs of the Company.

The following is the Report made by the Committee of the Board specially appointed to scrutinise the Investments:—

"The Committee have carefully considered the values to be placed upon the whole of the Assets of the Company as at 15th November, 1910, and having obtained full and recent information as to Heritable Properties, Mortgages, Loans upon personal and other security, Stocks, Shares, and Bonds, and all other classes of Assets and Balances, they find that the total amount of Assets at 15th November, 1910, was, as stated in the Balance Sheet, $63,549,153.

"In bringing out this value, Assets in foreign currencies have been taken at approximately the rates of Exchange current at 15th November 1910, full provision having been made for depreciations upon Heritable Properties, Mortgages, and Loans upon personal and other security at home and abroad; Stocks, Shares, and Bonds being taken at their Ledger Values in cases where there has been an appreciation, and at their Market Value where these were less than the Ledger Values.

"The Committee have not themselves examined the security writs for the above-named Assets, that duty being laid by the Board upon the Auditor, to whose certificate reference is made."

It is a matter of common knowledge that the last four or five years have been a period of financial disturbance throughout the world, such as has not been witnessed for many years past. British securities in particular have seriously depreciated, and the American Bond Market has fluctuated violently. At the close of the Accounts on 15th November, 1910 values were much depressed, British Government securities having reached almost the record point of depreciation within recent years. American Railway Bonds were also at a low figure, although on the whole, a considerably higher one than they had reached during the autumn. Already, however, markets generally are improving, but the Directors are convinced that a conservative policy in dealing with the Investments, as a whole, is in the interests of the Company, and for this reason they have adopted the method of valuation outlined in the Report by the Investigation Committee which has just been quoted.

From the Total Assets, shown in the Balance Sheet amounting to	$63,549,153
in order to arrive at the Free Life and Annuity Fund there fall to be deducted the following, viz.:—
Shareholders' Paid-up Capital	$584,000
Family Trust Fund	6,079
Leasehold and Capital Redemption Fund	29,546
Claims outstanding—Life	954,302
Annuities outstanding—Life	13,942
Annuities outstanding—Certain	243
Dividends outstanding	27,781
Bills payable	11,980
Staff Deposit Fund	64,346
Interest paid in advance, and Deposits to meet Premiums, etc.	86,836
Unclaimed Policy Value Account	56,791
Provision for Commission on Agents' Balances, Expenses, etc., outstanding	117,356
	1,961,862
Leaving	$61,587,591

Against this sum has to be set the estimated value of the whole of the Company's Liabilities under Life Assurance and Life Annuity Contracts, and calculations of these have been carefully made by the Company's Actuary, who has reported to the Board.

The Om (or Office Males) Table with 3 per cent. interest throughout has been employed for all Assurance risks other than those in the East and West Indies, while for East and West Indian risks the Company's own Experience Tables with interest at 3 per cent. have been employed.

For Life Annuities the Oa (or Combined Offices Experience) Table with 3 per cent. interest has been employed.

It will be observed that the whole of the Company's Life Assurance and Life Annuity business is now valued on a 3 per cent. basis, in place of partly 3 per cent. and partly 3½ per cent. as on the 1905 Investigation.

The Liability so brought out by the Actuary amounted to	$57,320,004
The free List and Annuity Funds as already brought out amounted to	$61,597,591
setting against this the Liability as above, viz.:—	57,320,004
There is left a Life Surplus of	$ 4,277,587
Of this the Directors propose to carry forward	211,523
Leaving an available Life Surplus of	$4,066,064

which the Directors propose to deal with as follows:

Available Life surplus as above		$ 4,066,064
To this there fall to be added in order to bring out the fund for division, the following payments made during the Quinquennium:
Dividends to Shareholders	$292,000
Intermediate Bonus to Policy-holders	298,975
		590,975
Together making a Fund for division under Section 33 of The Standard Life Assurance Company's Act, 1910		$ 4,657,039
Interest upon Shareholders' Paid-up Capital of $584,000 at 5 p.c. per annum for 5 years		146,000
Leaving		$ 4,511,039
whereof 1-10th to Shareholders		$ 451,104
9-10th to Policyholders		4,059,935
As above		$4,511,039

The Accounts of the Shareholders and of the Policyholders would stand thus:—

Shareholders' Account:
Cr. For Interest on Paid-up Capital for Quinquennium as above		$ 146,000
For 1-10th of remaining Profits as above		451,104
		$ 597,104
Dr. For Payments to account during Quinquennium as above		292,000
Balance at credit available for Dividend during Quinquennium — 1910-15		$ 305,104
Policyholders' Account:
Cr. For 9-10ths of Profits as above		$4,059,935
Dr. For Intermediate Bonus paid during Quinquennium		298,975
Balance available for Bonus		$3,760,960

THE SUM NOW DIVISIBLE AMONG THE POLICYHOLDERS would be allocated thus:—

To the Equal Scheme a Bonus at the rate of $15 per mil. per annum, requiring	$3,541,298
To the Tontine Scheme a Bonus at the rate of $1.88 per mil. per annum, requiring	210,055
To the Minerva and Victoria Companies a Bonus corresponding to one-sixth of the premiums paid since 15th November, 1905, requiring	9,617
	$3,760,960

The Directors propose to declare an Intermediate Bonus upon all With-Profits Policies of five years' standing, which become claims by death or mature on or before 15th November, 1915, at the rate of $10 per mil. per annum under Equal and Tontine Schemes, with $5 per mil. per annum under Victoria and Minerva Policies, for each full year's premium due and paid after 15th November 1910.

Under the head of Capital Redemption Policies, business has only been recently resumed, and the transactions during the year have been few. The small profit arising has been carried forward.

The Directors recommend that the Dividend to Shareholders for the year now current be at the rate of $1.46 per $46.67 share ($11.66 paid), payable free of Income Tax on 15th May and 15th November 1911, this is at the rate of 12½ per cent. per annum.

Owing to the many and pressing calls upon his time, The Right Hon. Charles Scott Dickson, K.C., M.P., has found it necessary to resign his seat upon the Board. The Directors have accepted his resignation with much regret.

The Directors who retire by rotation are Mr. James Ivory, C. A., Sir Ralph W. Armstrong, Bart., and Mr. J. C. Cuninghame. It is recommended that they be re-elected.

The Auditor, Mr. William Home Cook, C.A., also retires. He is eligible for election by the Shareholders.

In terms of the Company's Act of Parliament it is not necessary for the Shareholders to fix the remuneration of the Directors and of the Auditor.

By order of the Board of Directors,

LEONARD W. DICKSON, Manager.

Edinburgh, 11th April, 1911.

MUST NOT SELL CIGARS OR SOFT DRINKS SUNDAYS

Important Decision Given by Judge in Toronto Yesterday--Holds That Tobacco is Not a Drug and That Drug Stores Must Not sell Cigars on Sunday---Other Points Touched Upon.

TORONTO, MAY 29.—Differing from Judge Morson, Mr. Justice Middleton to-day held that a cigar is not a drug and that therefore it is unlawful for druggists to sell them on Sunday.

His Lordship also held that it is unlawful for restaurant keepers to dispose of candies or soft drinks on the Lord's Day unless the goods are consumed on the premises in connection with a meal.

The cases disposed of were reserved ones granted by Magistrate Denison, who, following Judge Morson's decision, dismissed the action. The matter was brought before his Lordship by the Attorney-General who wanted the point settled once and for all.

What Judgment Says.

In giving judgment on the stated case granted the Attorney-General, his Lordship says:

"In each case an offence is charged against what is commonly called the Provincial Lord's Day Act. I am not told why the Dominion statute is not relied upon, but counsel for the Crown rested his case entirely on the Provincial Act."

His Lordship was asked whether the Sunday selling of candies, soft drinks, and cigars, came under the head of necessary work.

The innkeeper must at his peril keep his collateral mercantile undertakings within the general law. The privilege of the hotel-keeper thus rests upon the fact that, quoad his own business, he is not within the Act at all, and not upon bringing his case within the exception.

"The keeper of a restaurant or victualing house is, for the same reason, in a similar position. A restaurant is defined as a place where refreshments and meals are provided to order, especially one not connected with an hotel, the dining room of an hotel conducted on the European plan, an eating house ,or cafe."

Supplying Refreshments.

The restaurant keeper may supply meals and refreshments. The refreshments may be either food or drink, or both, and I can see no reason why he may not sell a cigar as an incident to a meal, but it is of the essence of his calling that what he sells is sold for consumption on the premises. He may, on week days, have an ancellary or collateral business as a merchant and trader and sell, as merchndise, candy, cigars, etc., etc., but, as to this he is a merchant or trader, and must obey the Sunday laws, which apply to all merchants and traders. He is none the less a merchant because he is also a restaurant keeper.

"In the Wells case No. 1, the cigars were sold by the accused as a merchant or tradesman, and not in the course of his business as keeper of a victualing house or restaurant, and this was an offence against the Act.

"In the Wells case No. 2, largarine was, as I understand the evidence, sold in bottles to be taken from the premises, and, if this be the fact, for the same reason there was an offence against the Act. If sold for consumption on the premises, the sale was witnin the scope of the business of a restaurant and there was no offence.

"As the Crown and the accused both ask me to determine the law on either aspect, I do so, but would otherwise find myself unable to answer the question, owing to the ambiguity of the case.

Sold Cigars on Sunday.

"The Waldock case appears to be simple. The accused is the proprietor of a news stand in the Imperial Hotel. He sells cigars as part of his ordinary calling. He is a merchant or tradesman, and the sale of the cigars was part of his ordinary calling, and is a violation of Section 104.

"The Aldeen case is covered by the above. Aldeen was a restaurant keeper, and sold candies as a merchant and tradesman and not in the course of his business as a restaurant keeper.

The case of Samuel G. Roe was dismissed upon a different ground. He was a druggist and sold cigars to all comers on Sunday. He was acquitted upon the ground that a cigar is a drug. No doubt, tobacco has some medicinal properties and may occasionally be used as a drug or medicine, but its normal use is as a luxury, more particularly when taken in the form of cigars. What the statute permits is the sale of 'drugs and medicine,' that is, of articles which are in fact sold as drugs or medicines, and it was never intended to permit the sale of ordinary food and luxuries by showing, by an expert, that the thing sold, or its main ingredient, has some medicinal properties. Alcohol has some medicinal properties, but the proprietor of an ordinary bar does not regard his business as the sale of 'drugs and medicines.'

"There was no evidence upon which it could be found that these cigars were sold as a "drug or medicine.' It was faintly suggested that a cigar was to some a necessity, and, therefore, was within the exception."

While his Lordship finds that these prosecutions should have resulted in convictions, to-day's judgment can but affect future cases.

To-Day's Developments In The Stock Markets Examiner's Daily Letter

NEW YORK, MAY 29.—This has been a waiting market all day. Opening fairly strong at advances 1-8 to 1-4 prices sold off slightly.

It was announced shortly before 2 p.m. that the Supreme Court had taken a recess until after 3 o'clock and in the interval there was nothing much doing. C.P.R. was remarkably strong, selling at 238 1-2 with bull pointers out for a further rise to 250. Mr. John W. Gates' testimony before the Stanley investigating commission of Congress was said to be the contributory cause of steels early drop of 3-4 point. Lehigh Valley remained stationery. There was a great dearth of news during the day. The Oregon and Washington bond issue is said to have been over-subscribed from 8 to 10 times and this will undoubtedly be a great incentive to other railroads to bring out their issues, notably Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Missouri, Pacific, etc. The strength of the Electric stocks was a feature, General Electric jumped about 4 points and Westinghouse 1 1-2. Copper and Amn. Smelting were also strong. Rumours were that Pittsburg Coal Co. had sold a large amount of coal lands to the Steel Corporation for a great sum of money. Bull points for good sources were given on Rock Island. Crop reports in this section are excellent. The closing was dull and a trifle heavy, on closing out of commitments over the holiday. Total sales were only 299,400 with everyone awaiting the decision.

One third of the taxes on the store at 440 Water street were remitted as it was occupied by the Dominion Government for four months.

The business tax of F. Mason, for No. 406 1-2 George street was reduced to $4.62 and the balance remitted as he had left the premises.

The business taxes of F. P. Mason & Co., on No. 364 George street, were remitted as they had not occupied the premises that year.

A special G.T.R. train will be chartered, leaving Peterborough at 1 o'clock on Saturday afternoon and returning in the evening, and the round trip fare has been placed at the low figure of $1.00. An excursion to Cobourg is always appreciated by Peterborough people and the ball game will be only one of many attractions in the Lakeshore town, which is at its prettiest in leafy June. Last year the Mutual Benefit Society of the Canadian General Electric Company took nearly eleven hundred people to Cobourg—a pretty conclusive proof of the drawing capabilities of the Ferry town. Keep June 10th open for the biggest outing of the year and come with the ball team to Cobourg.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

LAMONT'S FUNMAKERS.

Bert Lamont's Funmakers in "The College Girl" featuring Mr. Lamont, an extraordinary high tenor and the famous Cowboy quartette, were the attraction at the Grand last night and the presentation proved a delightful surprise. The quartette is the big feature of the production, their ensemble singing, as well as their solo work, being of a very high order, winning them round after round of applause. Mr. Lamont has a phenomenally high tenor and his solos, especially the old favourite "Silver Threads Among the Gold" were rapturously received.

Mr. Sidney Graven, the possessor of a superby tenor of splendid pitch and range, won the audience by his beautiful singing, especially of the song "Dear Old Dad," in which he had to respond to half a dozen encores. Mr. Geo. F. Allen made a hit in his animal imitations and the quartette was worth the price of admission alone. The whole presentation was given with lots of snap and ginger and was well worth seeing .To-night the company presents the musical comedy, "A Prince For a Day," and the quartette will be heard in a new lot of songs.

SPECIAL ENGLISH LETTER

LONDON, ENG., MAY 20, 1911.—The number of interesting public functions in connection with the coming Coronation and with the Colonial Conference is daily increasing during this season, and our distinguished visitors from over seas are crowing all over London. Canadians are arriving in good time to witness the great spectacular events that are filling to the utmost every hour of glorious [illegible] which, before the season is ended will have made our Cousins from Canada prostrate with the fatigue [illegible] excitement of going everywhere [illegible] seeing everything that is pulling violently at the great fevered [illegible] of the Empire. The plain folk who are far from home are beginning to dread the result to their nerves, when this Coronation and the Conference is over, and the ships' trunks are being packed for home again. Already, our people, who are the leaders in these great affairs, are preparing for an exodus to the seaside and the country, while the strangers are excitedly rushing to London, many fashionable Londoners are calmly joining the exodus that they may avoid the crush. As the Coronation day draws near, it is estimated that as many will slip away to the quiet of the country as are coming to swell the fervered crowds. So far the streets appear to be chiefly crowded with the Canadian and Australian visitors, and the big new hotels are nearly full, but not overcrowded, and the sightseers are beginning to spread themselves in the private houses of the suburbs and as a consequence the great hotels of the West End are more moderate in their charges than was at first anticipated. The cost of the countless seats to view the Royal processions is likewise becoming moderate and the evidence is being proved that London, notwithstaning that its chief streets and squares are barricaded with towering grandstands, will eventually be fully equal to the comfortable accommodation of all the calls to be made upon them.

On the 18th the centre of attraction for our Colonial visitors was the opening of the Coronation Exhibition at Shepherd's Bush, which rivals the Festival of Empire at the Crystal Palace, and both are equally teeming with great posibilities, it is of course difficult to say which will be the better exhibition.

Canadians are proud to observe that both are making startling features of Canadian scenec, and as is usual, the people of the old country are charmed with the delights of the new country. The Coronation season is bound to boom Canada, and it will only be when the exhibitions of which London now boasts half a dozen are in more finished state in July, that they may claim to have opened the eyes of all the world. So far the most amazing exhibition is the naval and military tournament, which has surprised even the German Emperor yesterday.

At Olympia the Naval and Military tournament was the most magnificent of all the entertainments presented to the Kaiser, and he had great pleasure also in inspecting the Automobile Club, Pall Mall, which is one of the wonders of the Metropolis. Their Majesties from Germany return home to-day, and the cordiality of their reception and hte success of their visit to London, is, perhaps, the most notable event of all the Coronation season. It has cemented the friendly relations of the two royal families and made the good will of the two great nations assured. The absurd comments in certain quarters which have, in past times, tended to excite jealousy and unrest between England Germany, will, in future, be laughed to scorn. The genial, good humour and sagacity of the Kaiser have more than ever endeared him to the London people, and all England, and the great Colonial Empire to-day feel that this Coronation season has brought about an entente cordiale among all the great powers.

The brilliant finale to the German visit which has had its uses in promoting the peace of the world, was happily followed by the jubilant welcome to London of the head of the Canadian nation, Sir Wilfrid Laurier's arrival in the great metropolis of England, which he loves, had significance no less interesting than that of the King's Imperial cousin from Germany. It is the Age of Democracy, and the imposing strength of British and French Democracy is seen at its best in the head of the Canadian Governemnt, who finds an affectionate welcome home in London.

Among his most intimate fellow-citizens Sir Wilfrid Laurier will have the proudest welcome at the Dominion Day celebration on the 30th of June, at the Imperial Institute. The Imperial Conference will, by that time, have discussed some Imperial problems. It is expected that the Canadian Premier's speech will be of very exceptional interest.

Another interesting reunion of Canadians in London will be at the Annual Dinner of the Canada Club, at the Prince's Restaurant, Piccadilly, on May 31, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier it is hoped, will be present.

Farm House Burned.

St. Jacobs, May 30.—The large stone farm house of Daniel Crossman, living two miles northwest of here, was yesterday morning totally destroyed by fire. The building is a total loss. By the strenuous help of the neighbors most of the contents of the house were saved. The cause is supposed to have been from a spark from the chimney.

Sunday Cars In Kingston.

Kingston, May 30.—The Street Railway Co. intends to give Kingston Sunday cars during July and August so that the people can spend the afternoons at Lake Ontario Park. It is expected there will be strong opposition from the Lord's Day Alliance.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., May 30.—In a serious fire at the coke ovens of the Lake Superior Corporation yesterday morning, damage to the extent of $50,000 was done, covered by insurance. The coke ovens themselves, were not damaged, but the storehouse, office and sub-electric station supplying power to the ovens, was destroyed. All that remains of three buildings is a pile of fire brick. Some $500 damage was done to stock in the interior of the proxide plant, due to water. The building itself is not damaged to any great extent. The coke ovens will close operations for about 12 hours till temporary wiring can be placed. This is now impossible owing to the heat over the ruins, where a number of live wires are embedded.

Promoters Go to Prison.

New York, May 30.—Christopher Columbus Wilson, president of the United Wireless Telegraph Co., and four of his associates were convicted by a jury in the criminal branch of the U. S. Circuit Court late yesterday of fraudulent use of the U. S. mails to solicit subscriptions to wireless stock. In some parts of the Western States and British Columbia people have used the finely engraved stock for wall paper.

The sentences which Judge Martin imposed were: Wilson, three years; George H. Parker and F. X. Butler, two years each in the United States Penitentiary at Atlanta.

W. I. Diboll and W. W. Tompkins, one year each in some New York penitentiary.

FOUR MEN PERISH IN A VERY DISASTROUS FIRE AT SILVERTON, B.C., YESTERDAY

Several Blocks Burned in a Blaze Which Swept Through the Town —Hotel Crowded With Guests

FIRE AT KINGSVILLE

Vancouver, B.C., May 31.—A special from Nelson, B.C., says:

A disastrous fire occurred at Silverton early yesterday morning, totally destroying a number of blocks of the town, including the Victoria Hotel, Windsor Hotel, Mrs. Carey's grocery, and W. B. Brandon's store building, occupied by E. Patriquin and family.

Robert McTaggart of Sandon; Robt. Fairgrieve, F. L. Fairgrieve, bartender at the Windsor, and a resident of Phoenix, whose name is unknown, were burned to death in the Windsor.

The hotel register being burned, other names are not yet obtainable and possibly others are also in the ruins. Several persons stopping at the Windsor, were badly burned, and others injured have been brought to the hospital here. The hotels were all crowded with guests, and the Selkirk House was saved, only by the heroic work of guests and townspeople.

The fire originated in the Windsor Hotel, cause unknown, and spread so rapidly that few of the guests secured even clothing to cover them. The property loss will exceed $25,000; insurance $6,800.

Kingsville Hotel Burned.

Kingsville, Ont., May 31.—The Exchange Hotel here, for the last year a temperance house, was razed to the ground yesterday. Fire was first discovered at 5 in the morning, and was extinguished by the firemen. But at 11 o'clock the fire broke out again and this time gutted the building. The loss is $15,000, partly covered by insurance. The proprietor, William Wilson, is at present in Calgary for his health, and Mrs. Wilson left Monday night for Detroit.

Germany to Enter Pact.

Berlin, May 31.—The Nordeutsche Allgemeine Zietung leads off its issue of yesterday with an announcement of the steps Germany has taken towards arbitration.

"After the U. S. indicated to Germany her readiness to negotiate a Bryan arbitration treaty with the other powers as well as England," the newspaper says, "Germany expressed a wish to see the draft of the arbitration proposal and also indicated her readiness to take up the study of the proposition. The draft of the treaty will arrive here within a short time."

To the above statement can be added the semi-official expression of opinion that Germany, like Great Britain and France, is most sympathetic towards President Tafts arbitration proposal. Leading newspapers like The Frankfort Zietung welcome the news of the suggested arbitration treaty, though finding that the project is open to improvement on some important points.

Hebert Marriage Case.

Montreal, May 31.—Another step in the now famous Hebert-Clouatre marriage case was taken yesterday morning when attorneys for Madame Clouatre filed an inscription asking that the appeal from the judgment annulling her marriage with Emile Hebert, be heard June 12.

The marriage was annulled by Judge Laurendeau because of a decree that had been issued by Archbishop Bruchesi against the marriage of Roman Catholics by Protestant ministers. Emile Hebert and Marie Emma Clouatre are both Roman Catholics, but their marriage was celebrated by a Protestant minister, Rev. Mr. Timberlake.

It is likely that the case will be fought through the courts, as a test case, to ascertain just what are the powers of the Roman Catholic Church with regard to marriage in this province.

McGill Honor List.

Montreal, May 31.—The fourth year graduating medical list at McGill shows that 31 students passed out of a class of 35.

W. C. Gliddon, Ottawa, won the Holmes' gold medal for highest aggregate in all subjects forming the medical curriculum.

H. J. G. Geggie of Beauport, Que., won the Wood gold medal and the McGill Medical Society senior prize.

Other students from Ontario and Quebec to qualify for the M.D. degree are: A. D. Campbell, Glencoe, Ont.; H. R. Clouston, Huntingdon, Que.; J. H. Gillespie, Morrisburg, Ont.; C. D. Hamilton, Cornwall, Ont.; J. H. Legault, Ottawa, Ont.; C. H. Kearney, Renfrew, Ont.

Caught Redhanded.

Brockville, May 31.—The plants of the light and power department, as well as private citizens, have been depleted of valuable tools at intervals for several months past. William Mallett, a local inebriate and a member of the prohibited list, was at last caught redhanded and turned over to the police. Much of the booty has been recovered in junk shops.

Not About to Withdraw.

Montreal, May 31.—W. G. Annable, passenger agent of the C.P.R., when asked yesterday concerning the reports that the line was about to withdraw from the North Atlantic Conference, replied that the story was incorrect. As a matter of fact, he said, there are always such rumors going around just before the conference sits.

PRINCE KEEPS FACT.

Leopold of Battenberg Looks Up Old Montreal Friend.

Montreal, May 31.—The visit of His Royal Highness Prince Leopold of Battenburg, first cousin of King George, to Montreal has revealed the romance of a royal friendship for a citizen of this city in the person of C. G. Greenshields, son of J. M. Greenshields, K.C. The story began five years ago in an Egyptian hotel, when Prince Leopold, then a lad of seventeen, was attracted by the young Canadian of his own age, who was traveling with his parents. They met at dinner together, went pilgrimages together to the pyramids, and when the parting came, in boyish fashion the royal prince and young Greenshields swore fealty to each other, and promised to meet some day in the Canadian metropolis. A bond was made in which young Greenshields wrote his address and sealed it in a letter.

Last November the prince planned a round the world tour, and in his baggage was the letter he had received from young Greenshields in Egypt. Yesterday morning he arrived in Montreal and prepared to make himself known to Mr. Greenshields. But the first person to arrive at the apartments of the prince in the Place Viger Hotel was his Canadian chum, and the friendship of old days was immediately renewed.

The prince has been charmed with Canada and has been heard to remark that his uncle, the Duke of Connaught, was lucky to live here. He intends to return here next year.

Contraband Brandy Seized.

Montreal, May 31.—Three hundred bottles of the best brandy, which, unknown to the officers of the ship, were being smuggled over on the Gothland of the Canada Line, which recently arrived in port, were Monday seized by the officials of the custom department and the whole consignment now awaits confiscation.

The liquor, in two-pint bottles, was sewed up in bags of bran, while other bottles were concealed in the bales and bundles of settlers' effects, down among the general cargo.

The shipment, it is alleged, was the result of an endeavor on the part of a Rotterdam merchant to send some of his goods to Canada to be disposed of at retail.

Grasped Live Wire.

Toronto, May 31.—Falling from the branch of a tree he was trimming on Howard Park avenue, yesterday afternoon, Bert Williams, a civic employe, was badly burned when he hit an uninsulated electric wire. He grasped the wire, and then receiving the full voltage, by a supreme effort unclasped his hands, falling in a heap to the ground. His fellow workmen picked him up and called Dr. Alexander Hamilton. He was conveyed to the Western Hospital in Miles' motor ambulance.

Although suffering from shock and severe burns to his hands, the hospital authorities declared last night that he had a good chance of recovery.

A Remarkable Operation.

Philadelphia, May 31.—Delegates to the convention of the American Laryngological Association witnessed a remarkable surgical operation here yesterday, when Dr. C. Jackson of Pittsburg, without the use of a knife, removed a brass paper clip that had been embedded in a young woman's bronchiel tube for eight years. The instrument used was bronchoscope, to which was attached a tiny electric light, a reflector and minute forceps. The tube was lowered down the patient's throat and the clip was removed after about an hour's work.

MURPHY ON THE TARIFF

Secretary of State Addressing a Meeting at Rockland, Says That the Change Is Not a Radical One

Rockland, Ont., May 31.—Hon. Charles Murphy, Secretary of State, addressed a meeting of his supporters here last night. The chair was occupied by Dr. Desrosiers, mayor of Rockland. He explained briefly that the audience would have an opportunity to hear the questions of the day discussed in an intelligent manner by two members of the Government and one or two others. He then introduced Hon. Charles Murphy.

Mr. Murphy on rising was greeted with cheers. He declared that the meeting was called particularly to hear Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and Mr. Joe Demers speak. He was, however, loth to leave the floor without making reference to the reciprocity treaty. In spite of assertions to the contrary, made by the Opposition, the proposed agreement did not make a radical change in the trade policy of the country. He referred to a similar treaty with the United States, in force 50 years ago, namely, the Elgin treaty, which lasted from 1854 to 1866. This treaty had been of measurable benefit to the people of the County of Russell by fostering and encouraging its industries. He declared also that the present agreement was identical with one which the Conservatives had endeavored to bring about with the United States in the early '90's, but which they had ignominously failed to negotiate. He felt that the four chief industries of the country, namely, cheese, hay, cattle and lumber, would be immensely benefited by the passage of the present agreement, and he appealed to the electors of the county to support the efforts of the Government in obtaining it.

Mr. Murphy was followed by Mr. Demers, who devoted much of his speech to an eulogy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his work in the upbuilding of Canada and the unification of the races. He touched upon the opposition which he is now meeting in certain quarters of the Province of Quebec and uttered a warning to his audience that the movement was merely the result of jealousy, was ill-advised and if carried into effect must surely end in eventual and inevitable confusion and disaster.

THE TOBACCO TRUST WILL OBEY ORDER OF THE COURT

American Tobacco Co. Will Adjust Its Affairs—Attorney for the Combine Has an Elaborate Plan

FULL COMPLIANCE

New York, May 31.—The American Tobacco Co. will undertake, in all good faith, a readjustment of its affairs, as directed by the United States Supreme Court, according to an official statement carefully prepared by officers of the company, and given out yesterday afternoon by W. W. Fuller, the trust's chief counsel.

"The Supreme Court in this case," reads the statement, "has said that the Sherman anti-trust law should be given an application more extensive than has been given in any other case. It has said that the American Tobacco Co. is embraced within its terms. My clients, of course, will obey the law as now interpreted, and will, in good faith, undertake the readjustment of their affairs under the direction of the Circuit Court of the southern district of New York, to which the court, the Supreme Court, has remitted the matter for direction."

Said De Lancey Nicoll, who assisted in presenting the trust's case to the Supreme Court:

"It is probable that a general plan will be agreed upon for the conducting of the business as directed by the court. We shall prepare a plan which we shall consider undeniably agreeable to the court.

"This will require long planning and attention to detail, and it will be long before the full proposition will have been worked out. However, I feel sure that we shall be able to present a plan which will meet with the approval and enable the bringing about of a new condition, fully in accord with the legal requirements."

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Hon. Lloyd-George paid a glowing tribute to the overseas dominions.

Fire damaged the cold storage plant at London, Ont., to the extent of $20,000.

Congratulatory messages were sent to the Government of South Africa on the first anniversary of the union Government.

Warden Lawson laid the cornerstone of the new House of Industry being erected by Wentworth County near Dundas.

The body of a middle-aged man, who was killed by a freight train, was found early yesterday on the west-bound tracks of the G.T.R. at Toronto.

C. D. Sheldon, the financial wizard, appeared in the Court of Sessions, Montreal, and announced his intention of being tried by a judge sitting in the Court of King's Bench. The trial was set for June 8th.

Cloud-bursts, accompanied by heavy hail, caused great damage in south Germany yesterday. Six houses in a village in the Grand Duchy of Baden were swept away by the floods, and twelve persons were drowned.

Queen Mary's crown has just been completed. It is according to her own design, with an elegant lace-like tracery wholly in diamonds, the Kohinoor being set in the centre. The crown weighs nineteen ounces, the Queen having insisted that it should not exceed the weight of an ordinary hat.

Brakeman Seriously Injured.

Kingston, May 31.—Victor Davidson, a brakeman on the Kingston & Pembroke Railway, was jammed between a freight car and an engine yesterday afternoon, and seriously injured. His collar bone was dislocated and his chest crushed.

VERDICT IS MURDER.

Coroner's Jury Investigates Death of Lougheed.

Toronto, May 31.—Chief Coroner Johnson's jury yesterday afternoon returned a verdict finding that James Lougheed came to his death Monday by being shot by Joseph Jessiman and that Jessiman murdered him.

The prisoner was in the court room at the morgue, but although called to the witness stand did not utter a single word during the entire session. Advised by W. A. Henderson of Robinette, Godfrey and Phelan, he kept his lips sealed even when asked if he would take the oath.

Several eye-witnesses told of the shooting. Their stories were the same as previously rehearsed, save that those who described the shooting most particularly declared that Jessiman did not start to shoot until Lougheed had begun to run away from him.

The ante-mortem statement was read. In it the dead man, who had been warned by Chief Surgeon Ureu of St. Michael's Hospital, that he was in imminent peril of death, described his killing as told by the others.

From the questions put by Mr. Henderson, his counsel, it was evident that Jessiman's hope of life is to be placed on the defence of insanity. The questions of one of the jurors showed that he was considering that phase of the matter, but, before they retired to find their verdict, Chief Coroner Johnson told the jurors that this was a question to be dealt with at the trial and not by them.

TROLLEYS COLLIDE.

One Dead, One Dying and Several Hurt at New Haven, Conn.

New Haven, Conn., May 31.—On a level stretch of track and in the middle of a straightaway run of nearly a mile, two trolley cars going from this city to Derby, were in a rear-end collision near Race Brook station, in Orange, late yesterday afternoon. Jas. Malone of Orange was killed, and an unknown young man is dying, and several were seriously injured. The dying man is about 20 years old. His skull is fractured.

George Damison of Ansonia had both hips dislocated and his right leg broken, and eight others were seriously injured.

The cars were running close together owing to heavy traffic all day between the two cities. The forward car had stopped to let off a passenger, when the following car, with only two passengers, crashed into it. The ends of both cars crumpled up, pinning the passengers in the forward car under the debris. James Malone was with his wife on the rear seat of the leading car. He was fearfully crushed, but, singularly, Mrs. Malone was scarcely injured. Robert Grannis, the motorman of the second car was placed under arrest and brought to this city. He refused to make a statement.

A pathetic incident in connection with the death of Mr. Malone, was the fact that four of a family of five children have recently died, and the fifth is just recovering from scarlet fever.

Trial by Gramaphone.

Montreal, May 31.—A novel experiment was tried for the first time in Canada at the court house—that of a trial's report by gramaphone.

The experiment was attended by Chief Justice Sir Melbourne Tait, Sheriff Lemieux, Messrs. N. K. Laflamme, K.C., Rosario Genest, advocate, and A. St. Martin, official court stenographer.

A show trial was started, Sir Melbourne acting as judge, Mr. Laflamme as attorney for the plaintiff, Mr. Genest as attorney for the defendant, and Sheriff Lemieux as the inevitable witness. After a prolonged sitting the gramaphone recited what had taken place.

The object was to ascertain if it would be possible to conduct the business of courts without court stenographers.

Trampled on by Colt.

Chatham, May 31.—A serious accident occurred in Thamesville Monday, when David Sherman took his colt to J. J. Reardon's blacksmith shop to be shod. When Mr. Sherman was bringing it out of the shop it slipped and fell. Mr. Sherman also fell, the colt getting up first and tramping on the man. He was rendered unconscious and was immediately removed to Dr. Stewart's office, where the wounds were dressed. It is thought that he is injured internally, besides having severe cuts on his head. He may not recover.

Indicted For Dynamiting.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 31.—Three men were indicted Monday on the charge of having placed dynamite in the county hall of records on Sept. 8, 1910, with intent to destroy it. They are: Bert Connors, member of Structural Iron Workers' Union; A. B. Maple, Union Iron Workers; F. J. Bender, president of Local Blacksmiths' Union.

Bail was fixed in each case at $25,000. Connors has been under arrest on suspicion for two weeks. Bender and Maple were arrested Monday.

Laurier to Meet Taft.

Port Huron, Mich., May 31.—The Young Men's Business Association of Port Huron has received the acceptance of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Premier of Canada, to visit Port Huron in September, the same day that President Taft will be here. In view of the general interest in the pending reciprocity agreement the fact that President Taft and Premier Laurier are to be here on the same day has received extraordinary attention.

School Means Schoolhouse.

Woodstock, Ont., May 31.—Ex-Public School Inspector William Carlyle lost his suit against Oxford County for $7,000 claimed as arrears of salary. Judge Britton gave judgment dismissing the action, but without costs in consideration of the fact of long service for the public schools of Mr. Carlyle, and in consideration of the fact that he had not been superannuated. His lordship held that the word "school" in the School Act meant a school house, and he did not consider because the Government had decided to pay $5 for each department per annum inspected, the county were bound to pay the same proportion.

Refused a Reward.

Chatham, May 31.—The infanticide mystery which stirred Chatham a few weeks ago still remains a mystery. At the meeting of the City Council Monday evening the police authorities asked the city to offer a reward for information which would lead to the conviction of the person or persons who strangled and drowned the newly-born infant in the River Thames. The council refused and have intimated that the authorities will have to probe the mystery without financial aid, which the police claim it is impossible to do.

Montreal, May 31.—Three hundred bottles of the best brandy, which, unknown to the officers of the ship, were being smuggled over on the Gothland of the Canada Line, which recently arrived in port, were Monday seized by the officials of the custom department and the whole consignment now awaits confiscation.

The liquor, in two-pint bottles, was sewed up in bags of bran, while other bottles were concealed in the bales and bundles of settlers' effects, down among the general cargo.

The shipment, it is alleged, was the result of an endeavor on the part of a Rotterdam merchant to send some of his goods to Canada to be disposed of at retail.

Grasped Live Wire.

Toronto, May 31.—Falling from the branch of a tree he was trimming on Howard Park avenue, yesterday afternoon, Bert Williams, a civic employe, was badly burned when he hit an uninsulated electric wire. He grasped the wire, and then receiving the full voltage, by a supreme effort unclasped his hands, falling in a heap to the ground. His fellow workmen picked him up and called Dr. Alexander Hamilton. He was conveyed to the Western Hospital in Miles' motor ambulance.

Although suffering from shock and severe burns to his hands, the hospital authorities declared last night that he had a good chance of recovery.

A Remarkable Operation.

Philadelphia, May 31.—Delegates to the convention of the American Laryngological Association witnessed a remarkable surgical operation here yesterday, when Dr. C. Jackson of Pittsburg, without the use of a knife, removed a brass paper clip that had been embedded in a young woman's bronchiel tube for eight years. The instrument used was bronchoscope, to which was attached a tiny electric light, a reflector and minute forceps. The tube was lowered down the patient's throat and the clip was removed after about an hour's work.

MURPHY ON THE TARIFF

Secretary of State Addressing a Meeting at Rockland, Says That the Change is Not a Radical One

Rockland, Ont., May 31.—Hon. Charles Murphy, Secretary of State, addressed a meeting of his supporters here last night. The chair was occupied by Dr. Desrosiers, mayor of Rockland. He explained briefly that the audience would have an opportunity to hear the questions of the day discussed in an intelligent manner by two members of the Government and one or two others. He then introduced Hon. Charles Murphy.

Mr. Murphy on rising was greeted with cheers. He declared that the meeting was called particularly to hear Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and Mr. Joe Demers speak. He was, however, loth to leave the floor without making reference to the reciprocity treaty. In spite of assertions to the contrary, made by the Opposition, the proposed agreement did not make a radical change in the trade policy of the country. He referred to a similar treaty with the United States, in force 50 years ago, namely, the Elgin treaty, which lasted from 1854 to 1866. This treaty had been of measurable benefit to the people of the County of Russell by fostering and encouraging its industries. He declared also that the present agreement was identical with one which the Conservatives had endeavored to bring about with the United States in the early '90's, but which they had ignominously failed to negotiate. He felt that the four chief industries of the country, namely, cheese, hay, cattle and lumber, would be immensely benefited by the passage of the present agreement, and he appealed to the electors of the county to support the efforts of the Government in obtaining it.

Mr. Murphy was followed by Mr. Demers, who devoted much of his speech to an eulogy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his work in the upbuilding of Canada and the unification of the races. He touched upon the opposition which he is now meeting in certain quarters of the Province of Quebec and uttered a warning to his audience that the movement was merely the result of jealousy, was ill-advised and if carried into effect must surely end in eventual and inevitable confusion and disaster.

THE TOBACCO TRUST WILL OBEY ORDER OF THE COURT

American Tobacco Co. Will Adjust Its Affairs—Attorney for the Combine Has an Elaborate Plan

FULL COMPLIANCE

New York, May 31.—The American Tobacco Co. will undertake, in all good faith, a readjustment of its affairs, as directed by the United States Supreme Court, according to an official statement carefully prepared by officers of the company, and given out yesterday afternoon by W. W. Fuller, the trust's chief counsel.

"The Supreme Court in this case," reads the statement, "has said that the Sherman anti-trust law should be given an application more extensive than has been given in any other case. It has said that the American Tobacco Co. is embraced within its terms. My clients, of course, will obey the law as now interpreted, and will, in good faith, undertake the readjustment of their affairs under the direction of the Circuit Court of the southern district of New York, to which the court, the Supreme Court, has remitted the matter for direction."

Said De Lancey Nicoll, who assisted in presenting the trust's case to the Supreme Court:

"It is probable that a general plan will be agreed upon for the conducting of the business as directed by the court. We shall prepare a plan which we shall consider undeniably agreeable to the court.

"This will require long planning and attention to detail, and it will be long before the full proposition will have been worked out. However, I feel sure that we shall be able to present a plan which will meet with the approval and enable the bringing about of a new condition, fully in accord with the legal requirements."

Brakeman Seriously Injured.

Kingston, May 31.—Victor Davidson, a brakeman on the Kingston & Pembroke Railway, was jammed between a freight car and an engine yesterday afternoon, and seriously injured. His collar bone was dislocated and his chest crushed.

VERDICT IS MURDER.

Coroner's Jury Investigates Death of Lougheed.

Toronto, May 31.—Chief Coroner Johnson's jury yesterday afternoon returned a verdict finding that James Lougheed came to his death Monday by being shot by Joseph Jessiman and that Jessiman murdered him.

The prisoner was in the court room at the morgue, but although called to the witness stand did not utter a single word during the entire session. Advised by W. A. Henderson of Robinette, Godfrey and Phelan, he kept his lips sealed even when asked if he would take the oath.

Several eye-witnesses told of the shooting. Their stories were the same as previously rehearsed, save that those who described the shooting most particularly declared that Jessiman did not start to shoot until Lougheed had begun to run away from him.

The ante-mortem statement was read. Is it the dead man, who had been warned by Chief Surgeon Uren of St. Michael's Hospital, that he was in imminent peril of death, described his killing as told by the others.

From the questions put by Mr. Henderson, his counsel, it was evident that Jessiman's hope of life is to be placed on the defence of insanity. The questions of one of the jurors showed that he was considering that phase of the matter, but, before they retired to find their verdict, Chief Coroner Johnson told the jurors that this was a question to be dealt with at the trial and not by them.

TROLLEYS COLLIDE.

One Dead, One Dying and Several Hurt at New Haven, Conn.

New Haven, Conn., May 31.—On a level stretch of track and in the middle of a straightaway run of nearly a mile, two trolley cars going from this city to Derby, were in a rear-end collision near Race Brook station, in Orange, late yesterday afternoon. Jas. Malone of Orange was killed, and an unknown young man is dying, and several were seriously injured. The dying man is about 20 years old. His skull is fractured.

The cars were running close together owing to heavy traffic all day between the two cities. The forward car had stopped to let off a passenger, when the following car, with only two passengers, crashed into it. The ends of both cars crumpled up, pinning the passengers in the forward car under the debris. James Malone was with his wife on the rear seat of the leading car. He was fearfully crushed, but, singularly, Mrs. Malone was scarcely injured. Robert Gramm, the motorman of the second car was placed under arrest and brought to this city. He refused to make a statement.

A pathetic incident in connection with the death of Mr. Malone, was the fact that four of a family of five children have recently died, and the fifth is just recovering from scarlet fever.

Trial by Gramaphone.

Montreal, May 31.—A novel experiment was tried for the first time in Canada at the court house—that of a trial's report by gramaphone.

The experiment was attended by Chief Justice Sir Melbourne Tait, Sheriff Lemieux, Messrs. N. K. Laflamme, K.C., Rosario Genest, advocate, and A. St. Martin, official court stenographer.

A show trial was started, Sir Melbourne acting as judge, Mr. Laflamme as attorney for the plaintiff, Mr. Genest as attorney for the defendant, and Sheriff Lemieux as the inevitable witness. After a prolonged sitting the gramaphone recited what had taken place.

The object was to ascertain if it would be possible to conduct the business of courts without court stenographers.

Trampled on by Colt.

Chatham, May 31.—A serious accident occurred in Thamesville Monday, when David Sherman took his colt to J. J. Reardon's blacksmith shop to be shod. When Mr. Sherman was bringing it out of the shop it slipped and fell. Mr. Sherman also fell, the colt getting up first and trampling on the man. He was rendered unconscious and was immediately removed to Dr. Stewart's office, where the wounds were dressed. It is thought that he is injured internally, besides having severe cuts on his head. He may not recover.

Indicted For Dynamiting.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 31.—Three men were indicted Monday on the charge of having placed dynamite in the county hall of records on Sept. 6, 1910, with intent to destroy it. They are: Bert Connors, member of Structural Iron Workers' Union; A. B. Maple, Union Iron Workers; F. J. Bender, president of Local Blacksmiths' Union.

School Means Schoolhouse.

Woodstock, Ont., May 31.—Ex-Public School Inspector William Carlyle lost his suit against Oxford County for $7,000 claimed as arrears of salary. Judge Britton gave judgment dismissing the action, but without costs in consideration of the fact of long service for the public schools of Mr. Carlyle, and in consideration of the fact that he had not been superannuated. His lordship held that the word "school" in the School Act meant a school house, and he did not consider because the Government had decided to pay $5 for each department per annum inspected, the counties were bound to pay the same proportion.

Refused a Reward.

Chatham, May 31.—The infanticide mystery which stirred Chatham a few weeks ago still remains a mystery. At the meeting of the City Council Monday evening the police authorities asked the city to offer a reward for information which would lead to the conviction of the person or persons who strangled and drowned the newly-born infant in the River Thames. The council refused and have intimated that the authorities will have to probe the mystery without financial aid, which the police claim it is impossible to do.

"DADDY"

A Short Story.

A Drama in Four Actions, by
FLORA ANNIE STEEL
Author of "On the Face of the Waters," etc.

ACTION I.

It was a sultry day in June. There had been a thunder shower in the afternoon, but it had not cleared the air though it had left the Piccadilly pavements blistered and pockmarked with mud.

Where the lamplight lay in slant bands this same mud showed the confused traces of many feet; feet of which no certain indication could be gathered ,save this, that they had brought mud, and taken it away.

The street was emptying fast. The theatres were out; the last omnibuses, crowded to overflowing, had started on their outward journey. The force of London, which for twenty-one hours is centripetal, had begun for three short ones to be centrifugal.

"Back again, Nell? 'Aven't seen you this while past," said a flitting woman to another who stood listlessly in a dark corner formed by a side street. Even so, scarcely seen, her face was striking for one in her all too evident class. There was a certain robustness, a vigor about it, almost a wholesomeness.

"Yes!" bac kagain," she answered quickly.

The other laughed a mirthless laugh. "No luck, I suppose. Ascot's also a bad dye."

"No luck," replied the figure in the "Then I' mfor bed. 'Taint no use for me—if you—" The rest was an uprising nod at the figure she left behind her as she passed on.

It stood listlessly, yet insistently, in the dark corner for some time. More than one of its natural prey passed by, for the late supper rooms were beginning to close, but it did not stir. There was enough vitality in the face still for deliberate choice—that was evident. One was made at last, and the figure stepped out of its lair boldly, and followed.

"Don't bother, girl," said one of the two gentlemen in evening dress whom she accosted. "Can't you see we're busy."

"I wasn't speaking to you," she replied impudently. "You ain't my sort."

"Come on," Jim," said the same man to his companion impatiently. "I want to talk this matter out. Something has got to be done or there will be a smash."

The words seemed o end a faint hesitancy on the part of the younger and taller man, who was extremely good looking.

"Buy my rose-bud, sir, won't you," won't you," continued the woman with a sudden change of tone and manner. "It's a beautiful rosebud, isn't it?"

There would have been a difficulty in imagining a more beautiful one than the white moss rose bud she held out with a smile. Its beauty seemed almost unearthly, there in the sordid, sin-laden street. The very air seemed to glare down on it in surprise, and a curious covetous light came to the young man's eyes: the white flower of a blameless life attracted him.

"Come on and don't be a fool," reiterated his companion roughly. "Go away, girl, or I'll report you."

She gave a hard laugh as they passed on and flung the rosebud after them. It hit the younger man on the shoulder and fell thence to the mud. He looked back for half a second; no more.

"Deuced good looking face," he remarked carelessly as he fell into step with his friend. "Just the spice of a devil in it a woman needs o be really amusing. Well, go on with your lecture old chap. We par routes at the Circus, so hurry up."

There were more people in the street now, a last flicker of life before the end: and at the Circus, where the two broad paths of London's destruction meet, there was quite a crowd around a policeman who was trying to persuade a well dressed man to get into a cab. The young man after saying good night to his friend, stood looking at the scene for a minute. There was nothing novel about its vulgar interest; nothing unfamiliar in the vitiated atmosphere around him; nothing even of evil that he had not seen and known as he stood looking out on the wide expanse of conflicting roads, empty now of all save the lowest ideals. Empty, yet still circled by lights which showed those confused footprints on the muddy pavement.

It was not an elevating outlook, and suddenly out of sheer idleness, perhaps out of a vague resentment at the unaccustomed curb his friend had used, he turned and walked back down Piccadilly. Slowly, till he saw the white rose bud lying in the gutter. Then quickly.

The woman was still standing listlessly in her lair.

ACTION II.

"He didn't ought 'ter be here," said a most respectable looking female of the Gamp type, as she gazed thoughtfully at a nine-months' baby who was goo-gooing on the floor, "but bein' where he is, he is a Providence an' must be made the best of. You'd a done better if you'd took my advice at the beginnin', Nell. It u'd have bin easier for you both."

The woman to whom she spoke, a woman whos striking face had a certain robustness and vigour about it, almost a wholesomeness, frowned.

"How do you know that? He's amused me a good bit, for I like kids—always did. I'd like to take 'im with me now, but Charlie won't have 'im: and as he's taken me for better for worse that's about enough. And I'm not goin' to give up my chance. I shall like those wild parts, an' Charlie an' me knowin' all there is to be known, and havin' the bulge on what we've each done, will have a good time. And he's a good sort—as good as me anyhow. So there's only 'im."

She nodded towards the child.

"I can't do it under a twenty pound. Eleanor—I can't really," said the comfortable matron with great foramlity. "It's a deal of money I know for a baby as didn't ought to be here. If you don't like it there's always the Foundlings."

The mothr shook her head.

"He's too big to leave on doorsteps now: and he won't give yer much trouble—he's a strong one; and he's got four teeth without turnin' a hair. A real thrivin' sort or I wouldn't have kept 'im."

The baby goo-gooed delightedly over a bit of bacon rind it was sucknig, and the respectable looking woman rested her fat hands on her fat knees, and gazed at it thoughtfully.

"Comes o' a good stock, I expec'."

The younger woman flushed and laughed. "You bet. I ain't a poor sort myself, an' when a girl makes up her mind to the life, she's a fool if she don't make the best time out of it that she can. I did always. But 'mout the boy. He's had a lot to do with this chance—I mean my getin' a hold on Charlie; though, you bet, he wouldn't allow it. But it is so; it's 'im made me a bit of the life, you know, and bein' a bit off, and tired, made Charlie think o' me. Anyhow, I ain't ungrateful. So I'll give you fifteen pound down. I put that by before I begun; for I meant to have my fancy. The Loy'll be running messages 'fore that's through; besides, he's the sort you can make money hiring out, even now. I've made a good bit with 'im and a widder's cap when I was off and tired. Met Charlie that way down Edgeware Road one Sunday night. Well, he says, if we get on I may send a five pound more. Come! Is it a bargain?"

The two women sat and looked at the gooing baby with a commercial expression of give and take.

"Fifteen it is," said the elder after a pause. "Fifteen down; five to come on your solemn—an' no questions asked, Eleanor."

"No questions; but he won't die on your hands or round on you anyhow. A crust o' bread and a bacon rine'll suit him—he's that sort. An look here. Keep this bandercher till he grows a big boy, will yer? It's—it's all I know, an' it ain't much, but he may as well have it as not. It's got initials worked in the corner. J.E.W.—that's why I called him Jewel, being pretty, too, from the beginning."

"So it 'as, poor little dear!" ejaculated the elder woman as she took the handkerchief and looked at it that actually brought tears to her eyes. "E shall 'ave it never fear, dearie. 'E shall 'ave it for his own, on my solemn!"

The baby on the floor goo-goo-ed as if in anticipation of the favour.

ACTION III.

"You tague eggshample, you oder young doffels, vrom this Jewel of boy" said Mr. Robstein in his nasal tearful voice, as he looked benevolently round what he was pleased to call his academy for young gentlemen. It was in a purlieu by Covent Garden, and consisted of two rooms far up a common stair. One small, with a fire place, where he drank, smoked, made up mysterious accounts involving many pawn brokers tickets and in the intervals played strange patiences with a greasy pack of cards. The other a blankets round among the joists, and a big deal table and two benches in the middle. This was where he housed his boarders; a varying quantity, since they came and went as it suited them. Sometimes they dropped into another job for a time, but when that was over, they drifed back o Robstein Castle. It was better than the streets anyhow, and there was enough to eat at the big deal table: though how he managed to do it for "nosing, nosing at all" Mr. Robstein himself could never make out. In that tearful voice of his the fat man would say it was pure philanthropy, since fifty per cent. on the value of pawn brokers tickets was a trifle when you had to feed and house the wild, young hawks, and take all the risks of the business, on the other fifty. For, of course, if any of the pupils muffed and got found out, the master suffered most.

"Yes! you tague eggshample of he, leed!' boys" he went on, reaching out a fat hand approvingly towards the curly head of a new comer. "Jewel-boy goes not out but he brings someosing to build up our com'fable 'ome. Vot is it keute, my young friend."

The boy he addressed was an extraordinarily handsome little lad of some ten years old; so handsome as to be somewhat over-remarkable for his trade.

"Ayn't gort nothin' to-night, Daddy, at leas' nuthin' yer goin' to put a nime to "he replied superbly. "No! hands off will yer. I'm d—d if I give it to nobody."

He and Mr. Robstein were at the same side of the deal table, but he dodged, dived like a duck under it, and came up at the other side shaking his curly head.

"No yer down't, Daddy! Carn't yer leave a gen'man's pocket allown, w'en 'e says 'e dosnt wornt yer two-a-penny saumengers in it."

This allusion to the look of Mr. Robstein's gonty fingers caused a snigger of mirth among the young gentlemen, and the objects of the joke seemed to swell with rage like a big body which flourished them in excited declamation. Time was, said the voice belonging to it, when those fingers had been as slim and far more dexterous than any others present. But since they had been crippled by the decree of Providence, and he had turned his attention to pure philanthippy, he was prepared for ingratitude; though if any young gentleman thought he could get dinner without subscribing—

"Do'ant wornt no dinner" interrupted the Jewel de haut een bas "Lunched at Prince's to-day with a lot o' toffs—real toffs with coats as fitted them waxy an' hollers to their backs—jolly!"

He strutted a step or two in reminiscent approval, and the other boys nudged and laughed.

"Wort a toff e'd make if 'e gort a charst—just gort the mike o't the lye o' it, ayn't 'ee?" they said sneeringly.

The Jewel shot out an imaginary shirt cuff and stroked an invisible mustache.

"You wite" he retorted. "I'm as good as they any dye. Lordy! I nide one of 'em run to-dye you bet. Arf down Dook Street out o' Piccadilly; but they was comin' out, I know, of a mattineye at St. James', an' dodged 'im in the craowd. But it was neck and neck around Tatten'm Corner, an 'the colt won by a 'ead!"

"Wort was it?" asked one of the boys admiringly.

"Only a wipe; but it's gort my nime on it, so I kep it to make up the set" replied the Jewel coolly. "Tother one's getting a bit gauny, an' I'm goin' out on Sunday with my girl."

Once more he convulsed his audience by drawing the prize from his pocket, using it gingerly, and returning it with one dainty corner just revealing itself among his rags.

"It would buy two dinner" said Mr. Robstein covetously. "Leber-stew an' duff of plum. Aha! most deleecious."

"No thanks" retorted the Jewel affably. "I've got to go to a weddin' to-morrow, and must keep my figger, don't-cher-know?"

Mr. Robstein stamped his foot and said grace. He always made a point of saying grace, for if any boy came in afterwards he only got pudding though his subscription was for a whole dinner.

"I aye! ayn't you hungry?" said the Jewel's blanket companion, as, the meal over they cuddled down among the rafters. "Cos if you is, I've aived a crus'." Jewel was his hero, and he lay and listened to him munching away with keen delight.

"I, aye!" he continued after a while "you're a rummy bloke, you are. Wort's the good o' a fancy wipe to yer? W'y didn' yer 'ave dinner—it was tiesty."

"Gort my nime on it" murmured the Jewel sleepily. "An' yer should a' seen that toff run'. 'E was mad—but I bested 'im, neck and neck round the corner—an' the youn'un won clever — by a 'ead — through knowin' of a mattineye."

"Wort mattineye?" persisted his companion with a nudge. Jewel's conversation was a joy to him.

Sleepy as he was, a smile came to the latter's face at the memory of a very feeble street joke.

"Zend 'er to prison!" Well! Catch me fust, that's all! spread out them long legs and catch—the little un—" There was a pause, and then the voice went on drowsily—

"It ayn't 'is wipe—it's gort my nime on it, same as t'other as I've 'ad always."

There was a longer pause this time, before the quick half dreaming protest came to clinch the question.

"No! yer sharn't 'ave it — don't Daddy!"

Then came the long drawn sigh of perfect sleep.

ACTION IV.

"Well! I don't know how you feel Jim, old chap" said one man in a frock coat to another as they tore down the fashionable bye-streets in a hansome so as to save the chance of a block in bigger thorough-fares, "but I never was more glad to give a friend away!"

"Thanks!" replied his companion. "Personally I feel a bit nervous — that's inevitable on one's wedding day."

He paused, and a half-puzzled look came to his handsome face. "I'm an awfully lucky beggar" he said suddenly. "I ought by rights to have had to marry some woman for her money only; and she—"

He paused again, his handsome face soft and kind; then added "I'm going to be the most domestic chap you can imagine, and—" he gave a curious kind of laugh "look after my boys and all that."

The elder man nodded his head, then, as if to evade a subject which might give rise to curious reflections took out his watch. "By George, we shall be late—" he said "Drive all you know, cabby; look here, don't try for the church door—pull up at the kerb beyond the crossing. That will save a bit, Jim, and the bride's due in three minutes."

Before two were over, the cab, with its horse almost on its haunches form the sudden check, drew up and the two men spick and span sprang out on the pavement. As they did so, a boy of about ten with a curly head, rushed forward from the crowd with outstretched arm and a twinkle in his eye to guard them from the mud of the wheel.

"Mussn't go t'r wedding, sir, with specks of dirt over yor best togs" he said, reaching out the other hand for a copper. Then the grin passed from his face. "Je-rewsalem!" he murmured to himself transfixed "it's the toff—"

The recognition was mutual. The boy's face and figure were not one to be forgotten easily even though seen only in a stern chase, and the next instant the curly head had ducked little figure was off, threading its way from a detaining hand, and the lithe through the clustering carriages followed by a tall one with a white rosebud in its button hole. For the spirit of the chase, of pursuit and escape was in the one nature, as in the other; since God's law of inheritance takes no heed of our futile distinctions.

So the boy, with his fighting blood up, dodged between the crowding wheels, dived under horses' heads; and the man with his fighting blood up, followed. Then came a slip of clear roadway along which a carriage white favours and flowers gleaming in the sunshine outside, and a glimpse of a white veil in the shade inside was being driven at a rattling pace towards the church door; but beyond, on the other side of this narrow roadway kept for the bride, was a dense crowd of riff-raff who had come to watch the show; a crowd with safety in it for gems of the first water, like the Jewel!

Yet the longer legs gained, even in the slip of open. So the boy, trusting to his yard of lead, to his luck, to his own dash and daring—trusting briefly to his race—slanted his course to meet the on coming carriage which must stop his pursuer: even though he was but a half yard behind.

Then with a whoop; he risked all!

He lost. It had all been the work of a minute—a half minute. And now the carriage, pulled up as quickly as possible, was at the church door, the bride getting out of it ignorant of what had happened; for the crowds, as crowds will, had closed in round the accident.

"I'll see to him. I'm a doctor" said a gentleman pushing his way through. "Don't let's have any fuss, it will upset people."

"Just so" assented the best man. "Come away Jim, you can't do any good and you mustn't keep the bride waiting—that would be a bad beginning to domesticity and I don't expect the little scoundrel's much hurt."

The boy, scroundrel or not gave no sign of pain, anyhow, as, after the strains of "O! Perfect Love" floating out into the sunshine had showed that the coast was clear, they carried the Jewel into the verger's room in the porch and laid him on the oak settle. There was water there, and shade, and quiet, and escape from curious eyes until the ambulance came.

He lay quite still, his blue eyes wide open, his face unchanged save for the blue mark of a horse's iron shoe among his curls. The blood from it made a slow tracery on his temple. That was all: yet the doctor looked grave as he knelt feeling the crushed body gently.

"O Perfect Love" had ceased, and the even sing-song of a reading voice began.

"Dearly beloved!" So much was audible. Then came a murmur with a familiar word here and there: "Christ, — the Church,—man,—woman,—children—"

The doctor did not hear even these. He was busy finding out that there was nothing to be done for the time being; save to prevent the beauty of the Loy's face from being marred by that slow tracery of blood.

A pocket handkerchief showed one of its corners quite jauntily at the lad's ragged pocket and the doctor's hand went towards it.

"Hereafter for ever hold his peace."

The murmuring from within ceased in the well-known phrase, and there was an instant's silence. Then clear, loud, making more than one spectator near the door turn in wonder, rose a young voice, passionate, reckless.

"Don't Daddy! I'm d—d if you do!"

That hand at his pocket had aroused the Jewel's memory and brought him back to life for a space. But for a very short one, and when the ambulance came it waited until the wedding party had left the church, since the need for hurry was over, and there was no good making a fuss.

So they left the lad, lying on the settle, and covered his face with a handkerchief. Not the one which had shown jauntily from his rags,—that one was stained; but with an old, worn one which, curiously enough, lay below the new one.

The wedding march burst into its loudest as the bride and bridegroom, leaving the church, passed the verger's room.

But as the door was closed they did not know what lay within; so there was no fuss.

REDUCED TO A SKELETON

DOCTOR SAID SHE WOULD DIE

"Fruit-a-tives" Saved Her Life

RIVIERE A PIERRE, QUE., May 9th 1910

"I look upon my recovery as nothing short of a miracle. I was for eleven years constantly suffering from Chronic Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Constipation. The last two years of my illness, I was confined to my bed nearly all the time. I was so thin I weighed only 90 pounds, and I vomited everything I ate. Even water would not stay on my stomach.

The doctors gave me up to die as the stomach trouble produced heart weakness and I was frequently unconscious.

At this time, a lady friend strongly advised me to try "Fruit-a-tives" and how thankful I am that I did so. When I had taken one box, I was much better and after three boxes, I was practically well again and had gained 20 pounds.

I have taken thirteen boxes in all and now weigh 150 pounds and am absolutely well—no pain—no indigestion—no constipation—my heart is sound and complexion clear".

TO Get Poisons From the Blood

You Have to Depend on the Filtering Process of the Liver and Kidneys.

These Organs Alone Can Purify the Blood, and They Do Their Work Well When Helped by

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

No medical treatment can possibly purify the blood except as it sets in healthy working order the kidneys, liver and bowels.

To these organs is assigned the duty of filtering from the blood the poisonous waste matter which is left over when the nutritious elements are extracted from the food you eat. If they are not overcrowded or slow and sluggish in action they keep the blood pure and healthy.

For this reason Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills are the most satisfactory treatment you can possibly obtain to purify the blood.

Their effects are prompt, definite and certain. The liver action is quickened, the kidneys are invigorated, the regular movement of the bowels is assured. It is only a matter of a few hours until you begin to feel the benefit of this great medicine. Further use, as often as is necessary to keep these organs active, will cleanse and purify the blood and enable the digestive system to properly do its work.

Backache, headache and bodily pains will disappear, and the fatigue which is an accompaniment of poisons in the system will give way to new vigour and energy. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

"SLOGGER WILLIAMS."

Tom Brown's Famous Schoolmate is a Professor in England.

Rev. Chancellor Bulkeley Owen Jones, who, as stated in The Daily Mail is the original Slogger Williams, one of the heroes of the great fight described in "Tom Brown's Schooldays," gave his version of the famous encounter to a representative of that journal and, incidentally, had some remarks to make on the life of the public schoolboy of the 'thirties and 'forties.

The chancellor, who is now in his eighty-eighth year, is a man of fine physique, hale and hearty, with all his faculties unimpaired. After a life of useful service he has retired to pass the evening of his life in the beautiful little town of Deganwy, on the banks of Conway River, one of the beauty spots of his native country.

"Whether the public schoolboy of to-day is as hardy as of yore I cannot say," he remarked. "I am so old that my knowledge of public schools of the present day is limited, but we were certainly not pampered at Rugby. I had to travel there on the box-seat of the old stage, and I remember that on one occasion I got so cold that I nearly fell off the seat. Whenever I went home at holiday time I paid $20 journey money to Bangor by old Thomas, as related in the book. Other boys had longer distances to go —some to Scotland.

"In my time at Rugby the only places available during the daytime for washing the hands and face was the venerable and much-respected pump in the quadrangle. There was a penalty attached to non-ablution before early school, and that was that the offender should be placed under the said pump and the defect remedied by a deluge on the back of the neck. This remedy was applied in a good many instances without injurious effects, but in the case of a Welsh boy named Williams the punishment was so severe, the weather and water being so cod, that his circulation was stopped and Williams well-nigh ceased to exist.

"Our football matches in those days were much more strenuous than they are nowadays. We, of the Schoolhouse, about seventy in number, played the rest of the school, about 300. We used to 'hack' one another in a most ferocious manner, and I have marks on my shins to this day which I gained at Rugby more than seventy years ago. These games were excellent training for the pugilistic encounters which were then not uncommon."

Describing his fight with Tom Brown, the chancellor gave a version somewhat different from that of the Rev. Augustus Orlebar, his opponent, who said that neither of the parties could claim the victory.

"What happened was this," said the chancellor. "It was a rainy day, and a lot of boys were gathered in the Schoolhouse hall. Orlebar, witnessing a little fellow, and the little fellow said to me 'Spank him, Jones.' I caught him a rather sharp tap; he lost his temper and knocked me down. At once the boys in the hall shouted, 'Fight! Fight! Jones and Orlebar!' There was no help for it, and we had a rare set-to. My own opinion is that I won, because when Arnold came and caught us Orlebar had fainted.

"My face was so disfigured that the doctor did not know me. When he found out who it was he gave me a double punishment, first for talking in chapel and second for fighting. I had to write out 500 lines of Virgil. Orlebar was a mighty hitter and punished me severely, but I was in the better condition at the finish, the reason being that I had just been out twice with the Big Side hare and hounds. It was a fine sport for keeping a man in condition. Orlebar and I were the best of friends both before and after the fight."

Of Tom Hughes himself the chancellor had little to say. "He was rather a quiet lad, and not very popular," he remarked. "I think it is a mistake to assert that Dean Stanley was the prototype of little 'Arthur.' The character was made up from a number of boys."

Pop Go 100,000 Weasels.

"No end of trappers," said a big London fur-store manager, "are on the war-path after ermine fur for the robes of royalty and nobility. The stoat, or ermine weasel's skin, only measures a foot long by three inches wide, so about 100,000 weasels will be wanted for coronation robes.

"The more biting the cold where the animal is trapped, the whiter is the fur. And it is 'parky' in Siberia! During last coronation there was a weasel famine, and fine skins popped up to half-a-sovereign apiece.

"Ermine fur is used either plain or 'powdered' on the cape of the robe. There the rows of little black dots indicate the degree of the wearer.

"These dots, very carefully inserted at measured intervals, are made from the fur of the blue-black seal, dyed black.

"But, black or white, the seals are not having such a time of it just now as the weasels."

The Irony of Fate.

"What is your understanding of the irony of fate?" asked the bashful young man.

"Well," the beautiful girl replied, "if two fellows should fight over me and it shouldn't get into the papers I should think that was about it."

A Problem That Stumped Rousseau.

A curious little book is an old, old treatise on aeronautics by Jean Jacques Rousseau, called "Le Nouveau Dedale." Like Leonardo da Vinci and Cyrano de Bergerac, Rousseau was haunted by the dream of aerial navigation. We read: "Men walk on the earth, they sail on the water and swim in it. Is not the air an element, like the others? What business have the birds to shut us out of their premises while we are made welcome in those of the fishes?" Rousseau took no stock in any theories propounded by the Darius Greens of his day. He sifted the matter for himself and thought it involved two problems. First to find a body lighter than air, so that it would rise. He imagined that sooner or later such a body might present itself. There was no telling. But what stumped him was his second problem—how to make that obliging body stop rising and how in creation to make it come down. This was too tough for Jean Jacques, and he wound up his book by admitting it. For a long time "Le Nouveau Dedale" remained unpublished, appearing only in 1901.

When a Ship Turns Turtle.

To "turn turtle" means, in nautical language, that a ship rolls too heavily, fails to recover herself and after a brief period on her beam ends turns topsy turvy, so that her keel points skyward. Then, of course, she sinks. Frequently the compressed air imprisoned in her hull blows her bottom out as she goes down, or if she is a steamer her boilers burst, with like results. As a rule, ships turn turtle because they are burdened with too much "top hamper" or from lack of sufficient ballast, or both causes combined. Rarely does it happen that there are any survivors, but there is one notable exception in the case of the battleship Captain, which was lost after this fashion in the bay of Biscay. In her case exactly three minutes elapsed from the time she first turned turtle until she finally sank, and forty of her crew of 500 men clambered up her side as she rolled over and on to her keel. Of those eighteen men were eventually rescued and were able to describe later as precisely what occurred.—Pearson's

The Roof of Switzerland.

St. Moritz, in the Engadine, is the highest of Swiss resorts, both in actual altitude—6,033 feet—and the price of its accommodations. The snow there is as dry as seashore sand.

Snow in Turkey.

In the interior of Turkey snow is packed in trenches in winter and covered with pine needles. It is thus preserved until warmer weather and is then used as ice.

Kosciusko.

Kosciusko died in Switzerland, where he had settled, Oct. 17, 1817, as a result of an accidental fall from a horse. He was seventy-one years old at the time of his death. At Dracon there is a mound of earth 150 feet high raised to his memory. It is composed of soil brought from various battlefields on which Poles had fought for their national liberty.

Silver Pence.

The Norman English coined silver pence with a cross cut deeply into the coin in order that it might be broken into half pence and farthings when small change was needed.

Thoughtful.

"I'm sure he'd make a good husband."

"What makes you think so?"

"He never forgets to take my gloves out of his pocket when I give them to him to carry for me."

Not Definite.

"And if you marry my daughter," said old Gotrox, "how long will it be before you call on me for aid?"

"Can't say," answered the young man. "It depends on how long it is before she wants to eat."

Not Sisters

New and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of women is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription."

Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R.V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N.Y.

Home Course in Tree Preservation

By JOHN DAVEY.
Father of Tree Surgery.

II.—How to Trim Trees.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

GOD has made the trees aright, but "the tree butcher has sought out many inventions." If you doubt it look at these two reproductions of photographs.

The world is full of mysteries about the something we call "God." Philosopher and preacher alike fail to give any clear conceptions of what "he" or "it" is. The preacher looks and points into vacuity and sends his prayer "up" somewhere and does not seem to realize that "in him we live and move and have our being." "He" is as near them they do not appear to behold him. "He" is in the humblest weed, is seen in the modest forget-me-not, in the delicate promula, in the graceful fuchia, the beautiful rose, the gorgeous lily, the flaming hybiscus and is proclaimed by the majestic tree. See him in the beauteous creation before you in illustration No. 3. This is a glimpse of the charming artificial sylvan scene at Bosko-Bella, Onaining, N. Y., the home of the immortal Beecher. It could not be otherwise than that "God" should be seen there, for "he" was introduced and given a residence there by the hand of Beecher himself. Beecher's own hand planted the beautiful trees that you look upon in this picture.

But, alas, not all men are "godly." "God is not in all their thoughts," and for $2 a day—for beer money—they perform such devilish work as you see in illustration No. 4.

In the little city of Butler, Pa., they have done more than a million dollars' damage, in Philadelphia more than

NO. 3.—ARTIFICIAL SYLVAN SCENE AT ONAINING, N. Y.

$15,000,000; in Cincinnati some $10,000,000, and so on all over the country.

The pitiable part is the people are victimized by a misplaced confidence. The vandals used to call themselves "tree men," and since scientific tree surgery has been developed most of them have assumed the title of "tree doctor" and are doing even more damage by putting materials into cavities (without a knowledge of how to do it) and killing valuable trees that would live many years if left alone.

Citizens, if you have regard for your trees keep these criminals out of them. "Criminals?" Yes, sir. What else is the destruction of property but criminality? Is not a tree property? Then why let illiterate and vicious men destroy them?

The way to "trim a tree" consists largely in leaving it alone. Lawn or park trees in the main should be allowed to grow with branches sweeping on the ground. The principal reason for this is that it is perfect soil protection. It creates practically the woodland condition, as explained in the preceding article. Such trees keep their own roots cool in July and August and sustain no shock from drought. Cut off the tier of branches where the little girl is and the one above it, the tree would die or be worthless in ten years.

NO. 4.—TREES MARRED BY "TREEMEN."

The great mistake in planting of lawn trees is in putting in too many. One good, healthy, graceful specimen is worth a dozen trimmed up like parasols.

On the street it is different. The lower tiers should be removed until there is a top fully ten or fifteen feet from the ground; then hands off, and the tops in time would arch the street if properly "spaced" on both sides. The "spacing" for Norway maples and pin oaks should be about thirty feet; the elm and sycamore about forty feet. On narrow streets plant inside on the lawn and not between the sidewalk and the curbstone.

Nine five times the evaporating surface of pans placed over furnace door. Runs clear around the back of the furnace. Will hold enough water to last 24 hours. May be filled at either door, as shown above.

No Gas or Dust.

And it is just as important to keep the air free from coal gas and dust.

In the "Hecla" every place where experience has shown that gas might otherwise find an outlet, has been fused absolutely tight by our patented process. The same fused joints keep out the dust and smoke.

Adding moisture to the air in your home will give you the same heat for less fuel.

A consideration, no doubt.

But that is not all.

Warm dry air, however pure, is not healthful. The human body demands more moisture than is carried in the winter air.

The "Hecla" supplies this moisture in plenty. A large circular pan of water is placed where it will be easy to fill and where it will not be overlooked.

MONSTER WHALES.

One That Swallowed Whale a Shark Fifteen Feet Long.

Frank T. Bullen, the noted writer of sea tales, in one of his lectures said that in New Zealand he once saw a whale opened and there were found in its stomach a number of fish which must simply have swum down its throat, and among them was a shark fifteen feet long and nine feet round The huge Greenland whale was described. Mr. Bullen asked his audience to imagine a monster of 250 tons and told how such a one was taken on a voyage in which he took part, enough whalebone being taken out of his head to pay a good dividend on the voyage. For six months in the year this particular kind of whale, which was the most helpless of all, led a life of alarums and excursions, for he was always being chased.

A third kind of whale, the humpbacked whale, was shown in a picture jumping from the water, and Mr. Bullen explained that this was no indication of joy in life. They were, in fact, if not driven out of their minds, certainly driven out of the water by parasites adhering to their bodies. This particular whale was greatly devoted to its young, and if a man happened to kill a calf he needed all his ingenuity to escape from the mother. On one occasion fifty-two boats went after whales in the bay of California and by accident a calf was killed. In one hour the parent destroyed fifty of the fifty-two boats, killing a number of men, and then sailed out to sea without a scratch.

Potatoes and Electricity.

A freshly cut potato makes a good polarity indicator. Of two current carrying wires inserted into it the positive wire will cause a green stain, while if stains surround each wire it shows that the current is alternating.

The kidneys are to blame nine times out of ten.

When the blood isn't properly filtered the poisons that ought to be carried off by the kidneys are sent back through the system, and it's hardly to be wondered that backaches and lame backs come to make life miserable.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles. They begin by expelling all the poisonous matter from the kidneys, and then heal the delicate membranes and make their action regular and natural.

Mrs. A. H. Hutton, Jr., McCreary, Man., writes:—"Two years ago last spring I had a very severe pain in the small of my back. When I would rise it seemed as if my back would break. My kidneys were very badly out of order, and I would have to get up three or four times during the night. I took one box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they effected a cure."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents a box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

HOW SKIN-TROUBLES HAVE BEEN CURED

A Remarkable Record of Itching, Burning, Disfiguring Eruptions Successfully Treated.

That those who have suffered long and hopelessly from eczema and other torturing, disfiguring eruptions of the skin and scalp and who have lost faith in all manner of treatment, may learn that there is one way to find immediate relief, the following remarkable series of condensed testimonials is published:

W. H. White, 312 E. Cabot St., Philadelphia: Knee to ankle a mass of eruption. Suffering simply indescribably for six long years. Had to scratch till blood ran and health was undermined from lack of sleep. Cuticura Remedies cured it without a mark.

Mrs. M. C. Maitland, Jasper, Ont.: Itchy rash on her baby's head when but three months old. It spread over entire body. Put mittens on him to prevent tearing skin. Refused to be quieted. One bath with Cuticura Soap and application of Cuticura Ointment soothed him to sleep. A single set cured him. Thinks child would have died but for Cuticura Remedies.

Mrs. Wm. Hunt, 259 Fairmount Ave., Newark, N. J.: Whole body a mass of raw, torturing eczema. Agony was beyond words. Hair all fell out and ears seemed ready to drop off. Clothing would stick to bleeding flesh. Hoped death would soon end fearful suffering. Cuticura Remedies cooled the itching, bleeding flesh at once and soon cured her.

Mme. J. B. Renaud, 277, Montana St., Montreal: Treated by doctors 25 years for bad eczema on leg. It peeled from knee down; foot like raw flesh. Doctor advised cutting leg off. Decided to try Cuticura Remedies first. In two months' use of Cuticura Remedies she was cured.

Mrs. Nora Emmott, 26, Lena Gardens, Brook Green, London: Two little girls had dreadful scalp trouble that doctors called ringworm. Cried with intense itching. Hospital treatment gave frightful pain but did no good. Suffered three years, cured by three sets of Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

H. A. Krutakoff, 5714 Wabash Ave., Chicago: Itching eruption spread from hands to body. Literally tore his skin off in shreds. Doctors and remedies did no good. Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills stopped itching quickly and cured disease in three weeks.

Frank Gridley, 325 E. 43rd St., New York: In twenty-four hours he became raw from head to foot with a dreadful burning itch. Suffered agonies and could not lie down or sit up. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment cured him in a single day.

Mrs. Kate Brougham, 200 Dewey St., Bennington, Vt.: Rash came on her baby and soon turned to watery, crusted eczema over face, head and body. He was a fearful sight and all attempts at cure were fruitless. Vastly improved in a week by use of Cuticura Remedies and soon skin was clear and healthy.

G. J. Dance, 27, New Road, Brentford, England: Tortured for five years with bad skin diseases. Attended hospital five months without success. Covered with eruption. No sleep nor rest. Felt like tearing himself to pieces with terrible itching. With first application of Cuticura Ointment was relieved and got good night's sleep. In a fortnight Cuticura Ointment cured him as if by magic.

Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Pills are sold by druggists everywhere. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, Mass., for free 32-page Cuticura Book on skin diseases.

BEN BUTLER'S BLUFF.

It Was Well Worked and Completely Fooled General Bingham.

General John A. Bingham was a member of the military tribunal that tried Mrs. Surratt and the Lincoln assassination conspirators.

After the trial in the subsequent debates in the house General B. F. Butler frequently charged that the commission had arrived at an unjust verdict and had convicted an innocent woman. In a memorable debate he boldly proclaimed that if the contents of a diary which had been found on the dead body of J. Wilkes Booth were ever made public it would disclose the fact that it contained the proof of Mrs. Surratt's innocence, which proof had been infamously suppressed by the commission. When General Bingham made a movement as though he would repel such an accusation, Butler dramatically drew a memorandum book from his breast pocket and held it aloft, but did not utter a word. Bingham naturally supposed that Butler had a copy of a diary such as he had spoken of. As a matter of fact the book contained nothing but blank leaves. General Butler was just bluffing.

The diary was in possession of Secretary Stanton, but President Johnson finally demanded it. It was an interesting book, but it threw no light upon the great conspiracy.

Milk and Popped Corn.

Because he knew his patient the doctor was not at all ruffled when she exclaimed:

"But I can't, doctor; it is no use talking, I just can't. I hate milk. I can't drink it. I will take any kind of medicine you wish me to, but I cannot swallow sweet milk."

"Very well," he said soothingly. Then he opened the door, and from the kitchen there drifted in the smell of popping corn.

"Who is popping corn?" she asked.

"Your nurse," said the doctor.

Half an hour later he persuaded her to taste a spoonful of milk.

"Why, that's not so bad after all," she said. "What did you do to it?"

"Soaked that popped corn in it," said he. "Gives it an entirely different taste, doesn't it? Sweet milk's bitterest enemy is bound to say it is drinkable after it has soaked up the essence of popped corn for ten or fifteen minutes."—New York Sun.

Evening Schools.

Evening schools owe their existence to the Rev. Thomas Charles, who about 1811 set up one at Bala, Wales, which proved to be quite successful. In 1830 or 1840 the English Bishop Hinds strongly recommended such schools for poor adults, who, on account of enforced labor, had no chance to secure an education. The idea was taken in hand by the British privy council in 1861, and from that date evening schools began to be considered seriously. At the present time they are numerous throughout Great Britain, America and many other leading nations.—New York American.

Keep the Fire Burning.

It used to be the custom in some old English inns for the fire to be kept constantly burning day and night. One such inn mentioned in "Old Country Inns" was the Plow, at Upper Dicker, in Sussex, and at the Chequers inn, near Osmotherly, in Yorkshire, the hearth fire has been burning uninterruptedly for at least 120 years. The tradition points to a time when the public house was necessarily resorted to for purposes of all kinds.

LONDON'S DIALECT.

A Perfectly Recognizable Child of the Old Kentish Tongue.

In a little book entitled "London's Dialect" Mr. Mackenzie Mackride challenges the view expressed by the education department of the London county council that "there is no London dialect of reputable antecedents and origin," and that "the cockney mode of speech is a modern corruption."

He points out that the London dialect, especially on the south side of the Thames, is a perfectly recognizable child of the old Kentish tongue, to which we owe our earliest written literature. "Thet" for "that," "benk" for "bank," "keb" for "cab," are remnants of the old Kentish mode of pronunciation.

In the Kentish dialect "that" was spelt "thet" as early as A. D. 825. The use of "i" for "a," as in "lidy," was common from the Trent to the Thames in Elizabeth's time, and John Stow writing in 1580, gives us "thiefe" for "theiff." The use of "en" for "a" in such cockneyisms as "telegramph" is of very old origin, and "abaht" and "abaht" are both warranted by ancient use. As for "kep" and "slep" without the final "t," they are really uncorrupted words, the "t" being an intruder of late date.

TORTURE BY WATER.

The Third Degree in Sorcery Cases in Louis XIV.'s Time.

One of the methods adopted by Louis XIV. to purge his kingdom of sorcery was the "question ordinary." This, according to G. Duval in "Shadowe of Old Paris," consisted in having ten pints of water poured into the body.

"The executioner placed the prisoner in a recumbent position, firmly tied upon a table. A block was slipped under the loins, so that the chest and stomach were thrown outward and upward, while the contents of a measure of two pints were forced by means of a hose down the victim's mouth. If he resisted his nose was held until he opened his teeth to breathe. After every two pint measure he was given a few seconds' rest and the opportunity to confess. If he continued his denial the question was reapplied until the whole ten pints had been consumed.

"In the 'question extraordinary' the quantity administered was augmented to twenty pints. The swelling caused by this unnatural amount of liquid in the body produced the most acute agony."

COUNCIL WILL NOT TAKE ANY ACTION IN REGARD TO PLAGUE OF CATERPILLARS

Matter Was Brought Up Last Night But Was Dismissed ---Police Court Addition Plans Were Referred to the Property Committee Who Will Report to the Council ---Other Business Transacted.

The Council discussed the caterpillar question last night, but took no action in the matter.

Ald. Edgar brought the question to the attention of the Council and asked if it was intended to make any move.

"Some years ago when the caterpillars were so bad," remarked Ald. Graham, "the city sent men around to destroy the nests and they killed half the trees."

"If the people won't do it I can't see that the Council can," said Ald. Bradburn, and there the matter ended.

At the request of Ald. Duncan, the chairman of tre Board of Works will be instructed to have the fence around the little park at the corner of Charlotte and Park streets removed and taken to King Edward Park.

Police Station Improvements.

Architect Blackwell was present, and submitted the plans asked for, for the addition to the police station. Mr. Blackwell estimated that by not building a cellar beneath the addition the work could be done for $8,600. The plans were approved by Chief Thompson and were referred to the Property Committee, with Ald. Graham added. They will report to the Council at Monday's meeting.

At the suggestion of Ald. Bradburn a motion was passed authorizing the 57th Regimental Band to give a concert in Victoria Park on Thursday, June 22, Coronation Day, instead of the following evening.

On motion of Ald. Bradburn and Edgar the new agreement with the Peterborough Water Commissioners, in regard to water for public purposes, will be left over and the Mayor was instructed to endeavour to secure from the Commissioners water free of charge for the public parks, public library grounds and the Isolation Hospital.

Ald. Bradburn brought up the matter of protecting the city's rights on the extension of Water street, from Sherbrooke to Dalhousie street, which has been cleared up by the burning of the old bridge works. He advised marking off the street properly, or there would be another building there before they knew where they were.

On motion of Ald. Bradburn, the City Engineer and Chairman of the Board of Works were instructed to have the street cleared and marked off, and also have Dalhousie street, east of George street, cleared.

On motion of Ald. Graham and Bradburn, the matter of the Industrial Commissioner's department was left in the hands of the Manufacturers' Committee to report on Monday night.

MAY RE-BUILD BOAT-HOUSES ON THE RIVER AT ONCE

The Council has expressed an opinion favourable to the re-building of boat-houses along the Otonabee River, north of the C. P. R. bridge, to replace those destroyed in the recent fire, and those who owned boat-houses at this point may go ahead and sign the necessary agreements, and re-build at once. They are given a week to file their applications, after which any one else has the privilege of applying, and the sites will be given out in the order of application.

The boat-houses are to be of uniform design, must be of planed lumber and kept painted and in good condition and no liquor must be consumed or kept within the buildings.

The matter came before the Council in Committee of the Whole last night, and there was no opposition to the proposed re-building, except from Ald. Anderson, who thought that one big boat-house would answer the purpose better.

There will be no building on the street line of Dalhousie St.

FELL FROM LADDER AND WAS SERIOUSLY INJURED

A serious accident occurred yesterday evening to a little boy—Johnny Begley, aged 5 years, son of Joseph Begley, of Charlotte street.

The little fellow was playing on Elias street, west, where contractors are erecting a new house, and climbed after several older boys up a ladder. When opposite the second story he fell, alighting on his shoulder and head, and when picked up, was unconscious.

Dr. McNulty was sent for, and on examination found that his shoulder was broken, and that he had sustained concussion of the brain. The little fellow was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he lies in a very precarious condition.

It is ascertained this morning that Johnny, who has not recovered consciousness since his fall, is in a very serious condition.

Dear Sir,—In further reply to your letter of the 15th inst., we beg to state that after very careful consideration and consultation with our leading shareholders, we have decided not to offer our property for sale.

We trust that in coming to this conclusion you and the City Council will understand that we are actuated only to serve the best interests of our own shareholders, and notwithstanding such conclusion, that we will receive the same generous support and consideration at the hands of the Council in the future, as we have had in the past.

PETITION AGAINST BROCK ST. RINK AS A NUISANCE

At last night's meeting of the Council a petition was presented signed by a number of ratepayers on Brock street protesting against the Brock street Roller rink as a nuisance, complaining of the noise caused by the band organ and also of profanity and rowdyism. Dr. McClelland, one of the petitioners, was present in connection with the matter. He said that a similar petition had been presented to the Police Commissioners who had advised him to see the Crown Attorney. The latter had then suggested that a petition be sent to the council.

"Have the police no authority in this matter?" asked Ald. Brown.

"They seem only to have authority to run it," replied Dr. McClelland. "At least one of them opened and closed it the other night."

Chief Thompson said that the police had no more authority over what was done on the inside than they had over any other man's business. They had received no complaints of any rowdyism outside the building.

Ald. Bradburn could not see that the council could take any action in the matter.

City Solicitor Hall was of the opinion that the rink could not be termed a public nuisance as it did not interfere with all the citizens. Residents on Brock street, however, had the right to take action against the management of the rink and secure an injunction to stop the nuisance. He agreed that the playing of the organ was almost maddening.

"If you were inside skating you would think the music all right," suggested Ald. McCheral.

On motion of Ald. Duncan and Graham the matter was left over until Monday night.

THE COUNCIL WILL NOT RE-CONSIDER THE RETENTION OF INDUSTRIAL COMMISSIONER

Resolution Was Read at Last Night's Meeting From Committee of Merchants, Manufacturers and Professional Men Asking for a Conference in the Matter but Aldermen Think There is No Use Re-opening the Matter as It Has Been Settled by Them Once For All.

The City Council has decided that their decision that they are through with the services of Mr. Duggan as Industrial Commissioner, is final, and that any re-opening of the matter as requested by a resolution passed at a recent meeting of manufacturers, merchants and professional men would be useless.

The resolution, which asked that the committee appointed by the meeting be allowed an opportunity of meeting the Council and going into the matter was read at last night's meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council, and Mayor Morrow asked what action the Council proposed to take in the matter.

"I thought we had dealt with this matter," remarked Ald. Graham, when the communication was read.

"It is only right that these citizens should be heard," said Ald. Brown. "I don't know that it would alter the decision of the Council any, though".

Ald. Edgar moved that the request of the petitioners be granted, and that they meet the Council in connection with the matter at the regular meeting on Monday night, next.

"We don't want to hash and rehash this thing," commented Ald. Morgan.

Ald. Buller seconded Ald. Edgar's motion.

Ald. Bradburn could not see what good it would do to go into the matter again.

"As far as I am concerned," remarked Ald. Graham, "I am not willing to re-open it".

Ald. Graham moved, in amendment to Ald. Edgar's motion, that the City Clerk write Mr. Denham, the Chairman of the Committee, and inform him that the matter of re-appointing Mr. Duggan has been settled by the Council and it would be useless to re-open it, but that the Council would be glad to hear the views of the Comittee upon the continuance of the office or on other points. The amendment was carried.

COUNCIL VOTES GRANT OF $200 TO ASSIST IN SENDING TWO LOCAL BOY SCOUTS TO ENGLAND

Deputation Waited Upon the City Council at Last Night's Meeting and Urged That Some Action be Taken—Two Representatives at Coronation.

THERE WAS NO OPPOSITION

The Committee of the Whole Council met last night and passed a grant of $200 to assist in sending two Peterborough Boy Scouts to England for the Coronation as part of the Canadian Boy Scout contingent.

A deputation representing the local Boy Scout Committee, consisting of his Honour Judge Huycke, Mr. T. F. Matthews, Mr. E. B. Kerr and Mr. T. J. Neale, Chief Scout Master for Peterborough, waited upon the Council last night, and urged that assistance be given. His Honour Judge Huycke, who was the first speaker, informed the Council that the Executive of the Boy Scouts for the Province of Ontario had decided that Peterborough was entitled to the privilege of sending two Scouts to the Coronation. The local Committee had to see that the trip was financed It was estimated that it would cost $200 each. The speaker referred to the advantages in the way of advertisement and publicity of having Peterborough represented in England, and asked the Council to contribute towards the expense of the undertaking.

Mr. Matthews, in supporting the request, said that a number of municipalities had already voted assistance to the Boy Scout Contingent for England. In Toronto, recently the Board of Control had granted $500 for this purpose. It was necessary to act hurriedly, as word would have to be sent to headquarters on Wednesday that the boys were going. The boys chosen had to pass the Boy Scout examinations and would be representative in every way.

Mr. Kerr pointed out that in addition to the expense of the trip it would be necessary for each boy to be equipped with a suitable outfit. This, the boys would undertake to procure for themselves, and would be a considerable item of expense. He felt sure the Council would see the desirability of Peterborough being represented.

Ald. Kerneghan moved, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, that the Council grant $200 towards the expense of sending ttwo Boy Scouts from Peterborough to the Coronation and the motion was carried unanimously, after which the deputation withdrew, after expressing their thanks on behalf of the Committee and of the boys themselves.

NO MORE OIL ON STREETS COUNCIL DECIDES ON WATER TO PREVENT TIRE DESTRUCTION

Matter Was Before the Board of Works Last Night and it Was Decided That After Oil Ordered Has Been Used No More Shall Be Utilized on the Streets---Has Been Destructive on Tires.

The Board of Works last night decided to cast oil on the troubled waters; in other words by doing away with the oiling of the streets to appease the wrath of the indignant bicyclists and motorists of the city, who have been loud in their complaints since it was discovered that the oil eat up their tires at a rate that was alarming.

No more oil will be used after the next two carloads which are ordered are disposed of and the city will go back to the aqua pura and the sprinkling system.

Ald. Metheral, chairman of the Board of Works brought up the matter at last night's meeting of his committee. He stated that all those owning bicycles and automobiles were complaining that the oil destroyed their tires. Another man complained that the oil had destroyed his hedge. It was too bad if the oil was going to have such effects.

"There is no doubt that it is hard on the tires," said Ald. Brown.

"I am glad you fellows are waking up," remarked Ald. Buller. "I told you from the first that the oil was no good."

"I still believe," returned Ald. Brown, "that it cannot be equalled as a road-preserver, or for keeping down the dust."

Mayor Morrow agreed with this opinion that it helped to preserve the road.

"I believe in the water," persisted Ald. Buller.

"The oil has destroyed thousands of dollars worth of tires," continued Ald. Duncan.

"I think they are putting an inferior grade of rubber in the tires," suggested Ald. Morgan.

"The oil is no good; it is not up to what we ought to have and I am not in favour of using another gallon," said Ald. Duncan.

The City Engineer reported that six car-loads of oil had already been used and that two more cars had been ordered.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Al. Buller, that no more oil be used on the streets after the oil ordered is used and that the City Engineer have the streets watered by contract or by day labour.—Carried.

It was suggested that the oil ordered be used in East City.

"All right; send it over; we'll be glad to have it," returned Ald. Morgan.

THE CONSERVATIVE POLICY.

The Conservatives, some of them deny that reciprocity with the United States has been the traditional and actual policy of their party for the past half century. In answer to this the Montreal Herald points out that if Sir Wilfrid decided to appeal to the country on the reciprocity issue he could save himself a lot of trouble by simply issuing a copy of the circular letter addressed by Sir John Thompson to his electors in 1891. It reads:

"The government of which I am a member is appealing to the country with a policy, which we believe will be heartily endorsed by a great majority of the electors. We have made to the government of the United States, through the government of Great Britain, proposals for reciprocity in trade which we have good reason to believe will result in an arrangement by which the markets of the United States will be re-opened to the products which our people desire most to send there.

"A fair measure of reciprocity is what we desire, and we have no doubt that that can be obtained without undue sacrifice."

As the agreement was made this time, by Canadian ministers direct, the words, "through the government of Great Britain" could be left out. With that single exception the language of Sir John Thompson exactly meets the case and could not well be improved on.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Winnipeg's assessment for this year gives a population of 151,968, an increase of nearly 20,000 since last year, when the figures showed a population of 132,720. This is growing rapidly.

Hon. W. S. Fielding has gone to Great Britain and the continent in search of rest, and to visit his son. The Conservative organs, however, are not willing to give him a rest, and declare, says the Brantford Expositor, that he is going abroad to confer with Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the political situation in Canada.

The Montreal Star says: 'Just what business it is of the government, how much insurance a private citizen carries, is not very clear." Just what business it is of the Opposition to know the details of the private bank account of a member of the government, is not very clear.

The London Times in speaking of the importance of Sir Wilfrid Laurier attending the Imperial Conference, says:

"Since Mr. Chamberlain's retirement from the field he (Sir Wilfrid) has become the doyen (dean) of Imperial statesmen, with a range of experience extending back to Mr. Chamberlain's first great conference in 1897. For many years a distinguished and arresting figure upon the stage of Imperial politics, he approaches their chief problems with a many-sided knowledge and insight which no other Minister called to this year's discussions can hope to rival."

King George is either generous of heart or diplomatic, probably a good deal of the former and a little of the latter. He has issued an invitation for the attendance of two representatives of Labour Unions at the Coronation ceremonies. It will thus be seen that King corge in recognizing the Union principle goes a good deal further, than some great or small corporations and combinations of capital, that exploit labour. The coronation will bear the union label. Royalty and democracy are great chums these days. A king is never more kingly than when he recognizes that he rules by the will of the people, and that he is in this sense, simply the incarnation and embodiment of the people he governs.

How The Incidence Of Taxation Affects Civic Building Operations

(Toronto World.)

We desire to commend to Sir James Whitney's most earnest, and if necessary, prayerful consideration an article on "Taxes" in the current issue of The American Magazine, in which Albert Jay Nock contrasts Vancouver and Seattle, and shows how the latter encourages idleness and speculation under the method of taxation, which Sir James supports, and Vancouver encourages industry and production under the method which Sir James opposes, although the municipalities of Ontario have petitioned for permission to adopt the British Columbia method, which was first proposed by the son of a Tipperary farmer, James Fintan Lalor. This Irishman's idea is sweeping over the world, having been adopted by an American for whom Sir James entertains a vast abhorence.

It may relieve Sir James' mind, however to read in The American that "there is no single tax in Canada, nor is the single tax likely to come there short of an indefinite future."

"However visionary I may be," observes Mr. Nock, "it is not likely that my associates on this magazine would allow me to devote many pages to recommending reforms that are not impoduction .British Columbia's tax-(as I think, unfortunately) is not one of these. The abolition of the general property tax, however, is a reform of far-reaching import and immediate practicability."

The root idea of Vancouver taxation is to attack the evil which exists under the Whitney form of taxation, the evil that it is always cheaper to hold land for sale than to improve it. And as Mr. Nock says, if your tax policy is built to encourage idleness and speculation, it can't encourage industry and production. British Columbia's tax-policy does encourage industry and production. British Columbia taxes an idle mine at a hundred per cent. higher rate than a working mine. When you shut down your mine your tax rate doubles. Mr. Nock points out that in Oregon and Washington the opponents of the British Columbia method of taxation turn with fear and loathing from it because it implies work. Their idea of development by private enterprise means that they should be allowed to lie back upon monopolized holdings, practically untaxed and watch their value rise by the heavily taxed industry of others. Unimproved farms in Washington pay a tax of $9, which rises to $25 when the farmer makes some improvements. In British Columbia the unimproved farm $16 tax and the improved farm $2. And Mr. Nock thinks the farmer is more likely to go to British Columbia than to Washington. Two shingle mills of similar size and capacity, one on either side of the line, were taxed, one on the Washington side for land, and improvements, $150; and that on the British Columbia side $2.50.

It is in Vancouver City, and in its effect upon property development that the operation of the new tax system has most interest for Toronto and other Ontario cities. Vancouver has grown in ten years from 26,000 to 100,000 people, and Mr. Nock anticipates that in twenty years it will be by far the most powerful city on the Pacific coast between Cape Horn and the Pole.

Fifteen years ago Vancouver wanted to encourage building, and decided that the best way to do it was to stop fining and penalizing the persons who proposed to build. So far the city authorities began to lighten the tax on improvements. They began by assessing land at full value and improvements at 75 per cent. In a few years when equilibrium was restored, the tax on improvements was reduced to 50 per cent., and finally improvements have been entirely exempted, leaving the tax rate undisturbed at 22 mills. The transition was made without the slightest disturbance of any kind, and everybody is satisfied.

Mr. Nock mentions many instances of vacant lots with fine buildings next them, the taxation in each case being the same, while in other instances the vacant lot pays a higher tax than the one built upon. If you were going to build would you build in Vancouver or Seattle? asks Mr. Nock. He would substitute Toronto for Seattle if he were here in the contrast with Vancouver. An example is given. Mr. James Barron of Everett, Washington, owns land there and also in Vancouver. He made preparations last year to put up a substantial brick block on Hewitt avenue, Everett, but corresponded with Vancouver and changed his mind as any sane man would. I saw his correspondence when I was in Everett. In Vancouver his brick blocks costs him nothing; in Everett it would probably have been assessed higher than his land. He built in Vancouver." And so would a Toronto man who owned property there and here.

Why does Sir James Whitney refuse to allow Ontario to adopt this sensible system of taxation?

COLONIES WILL NEVER OUTGROW AFFECTION FOR MOTHER COUNTRY

May Outgrow Her in Strength and Population, But Will Be Drawn Closer in Affection

LONDON, ENG. MAY 30—(Through Reuter's Agency—David Lloyd-George Chancellor of the Exchequer, at the Eighty Club dinner, proposing "Our Guests," said:

"We are gathered here to welcome the Prime Ministers of the great self-governing dominions of the British Empire.

"We regard the self-governing dominions with special pride. The conferring of self-government upon great communities of the Empire is the greatest of all achievements of Liberalism. Our great statesmen in the past faced misrepresentation and obloquy, dared even political ruin, to confer freedom upon these great communities. We see with pride how they have grown in strength, influence and power, but above all in the art of self-government, they have added to the store of experience from which humanity can draw in settlement of its great problems; and as a party we feel we can share in the triumphant vindication of democratic government, which they present to the civilized world.

Attachment to Motherland.

"We also observe with a glow of satisfaction how, as they assume the form and attitude of independent communities, their attachment to the Motherland grows. Generation by generation, day by day, conference by conference it flourishes. Year by year it has borne fruit, and will bear more abundant fruit in the future, for it has struck it roots deep into the rich soil of liberty. (Cheers.)

"There is no greater mistake that statesmanship can make than to imagine narrow patriotism excludes the wider one.

"We have another special interest as Liberals in our self-governing dominions. We study and watch with care and admiration the spirit of emulation of their bold social experiments (cheers) and it is an inspiration for us to see how their daring spirit of enterprise, of patient courage, has transformed many a wilderness into a fertile province; how they are also inspiring the effort which is extracting humanity from the undergrowth of the social jungle in which it is tangled.

"In this land the growth is older and the denser fibre is stubborn; it is ranker; it is with difficulty and labour and toil that we can cleave our way through it, but we are doing it slowly, laboriously, until I hope, at last we shall cut a way to humanity to march through to the light.

Britain's Future.

"This is an old country, but not done with yet. (Cheers). Trade returns, census returns, even the living issues we are fighting upon the door of the Mother of Parliaments, all show that this country has not yet come to the end of its great career. There are still chapters to be written which will thrill with nobler needs than yet been recorded even in its great past. The country which founded the greatest Empire the world has ever seen, means to prove that it can also rid itself o fthe social evils which undermine its strength and dim its lustre.

"The Old Country is not done, but if we are not at the end of the greatness of Britain these new dominions are only at the beginning of their greatness. The premiers who have honoured us to-day with their presence, whom we welcome with such pleasure, delight and cordiality, now represent their millions. The day is not distant when either they or their successors will come to the Old Country to represent their scores of millions. They have a great unlimited future before them.

"They may outgrow Britain, and will outgrow Britain in strength, population, power and position, but they will never outgrow their affection for the Old Country. There are shrines in Britain they can never forget. It is the land of Shakespeare, of Milton, of Burns, the land where generations of men and women dared death to fight for freedom of soul.

"However they may grow, whatever their pride, their power, their influence, these things will draw them to the Old Country with increasing attraction, with increasing affection, until we shall one day be one mighty people, one in purpose and ideas, one in devotion to the service of God and man." (Prolonged cheers.)

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

The Canadian Courier effectively exposes the hypocrisy of Conservative criticism that census enumerators are being appointed from among the supporters of the government of the day. It says:

Life would be much brighter for some of us if we could feel that the Conservatives who voted solidly for Mr. Staples' resolution were sincere. The sentiment is excellent. The underlying principle is sound. Nevertheless the action of the Conservatives when in power at Ottawa, and their present conduct where they rule in provincial capitals, does not conform to this sentiment. Sir James Whitney and his colleagues, Mr. Hanna and his colleagues, Mr. Roblin and colleagues, Mr. McBride and his colleagues, have not yet declared themselves for civil service reform. Mr. McBride allows partizanship very little range, but the others follow closely the practices which Mr. Staples condemns in the Hon. Sidney Fisher. If the Conservatives have really come to believe in non-partizanship, let them introduce it into the present Conservative administrations and not wait until they return to the treasury benches at Ottawa. Then the public will be fully convinced that the reform is genuine.

The Laurier Government, says the Brantford Expositor, has gone further in the way of placing the civil service upon the merit system than any other government, federal or provincial, that Canada has had. It might make still further advance in that direction, but it does not lie with the Conservative party to make he demand until as a party it has reached the standard which the Laurier Government has attained. As for the census enumeration, it will be taken this time as it has always been but the Expositor is free to admit that it would be desirable to appoint to this work men possessing special qualifications for it.

WHERE SASKATCHEWAN STANDS.

(The Globe)

Eastern journals opposed to reciprocity are beginning to talk of a drift of public opinion in the West away from the reciprocity agreement. If a person wishes to believe something, and wishes it long enough and strongly enough, he can usually persuade himself of its truth. It is not in regard to religious dogmas alone that the Christian Science method is followed.

In face of The Regina Leader's summary of the situation, however, it must take faith of the quality that will remove mountains to enable anyone to assert that Saskatchewan is not overwhelmingly in favour of free trade in natural products. Here is how The Leader puts it:

"For the agreement—The Legislative Assembly of Saskatchewan, the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association, the Agricultural Societies' Convention of Saskatchewan, the Union of Saskatchewan Rural Municipalities, the Canadian Council of Agricultural in Convention at Regina, the Regina Board of Trade and all other Boards of Trade in Saskatchewan that have voted on the agreement.

"Against the agreement—The Conservative Association of Moose Jaw, the Conservative Association of Regina.

"For reciprocity — Liberal M.P. P.'s, 27; Conservative M. P. P.'s 14; Liberal M.P.'s 9.

"Against reciprocity—Liberal M. P.P.'s none ;Conservative M.P.P.'s none; Liberal M.P.s none; Conservative M.P.'s, none.

"In doubt—Conservative M.P.'s, one (R. S. Lake.)"

So far as the chief grain-growing Province of the Dominion is concerned, these figures should settle the matter. They also indicate why the Conservatives want to force a general election on the reciprocity issue before Saskatchewan gets the ten new members in the Commons she will be entitled to under the new census.

HASTINGS NEWS OF INTEREST

Special to the Examiner.

HASTINGS, MAY 27.—A wedding of social interest to the people of Hastings was celebrated on Wednesday the 24th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Cook, the principals in the event being Miss Annie Jamieson of town and Mr. A. Moore, of Toronto. Promptly at 4 p.m., the bride entered the drawing room leaning on the arm of her father and took her place under the arch, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. C. W. Barrett in the presence of some 35 guests. Her costume, which was the object of much admiration, was of cream net over a rich satin trimmed with baby ribbon and lace and was most becoming. She carried a shower bouquet, which added an artistic finish to her elaborate toilet. After the nuptial knot had been tied, and the customary congratulations extended, the bride led the way to the dining room, where a very dainty luncheon was served. After ample justice had been done to the viands, a number of toasts were proposed and responded to, when the happy couple made preparation for their departure for a short honeymoon trip to points west, leaving by the evening train. The bride's travelling suit was of grey with hat to match. The many useful gifts received bore testimony to the high esteem in which the young couple were held by their friends who join in wishing them a long and prosperous wedded life. Mr. and Mrs. Moore wil lreside in Toronto.

Cobwebs in the Morning.

Cobwebs in the head on rising in the morning is the result of a Lazy Liver, one or two mornings in succession and sick headache follows.

Father Morrisey's Liver Pills will clear the Brain.

These Pills are a purely vegetable compound prepared with great care, and are without doubt the very best pills for general use, on the market. The greatest care has been given to selecting the ingredients, and being entirely vegetable, they act upon the liver and bowels in such a manner as not to disturb the other functions of the body as many pills do.

As a Liver Invigorator, Blood Purifier and General System Renovator, they are unequalled. Sick headache is invariably brought on by a sluggish liver, constipation or irregular bowels; these pills are a cure for sick headache in any form.

Pimples, eruptions and yellow skin are often caused by a lazy liver; one pill three times a week, will soon clear the complexion.—Price 25c. per box.

UNCLE WALT MASON

Queen Mary's Decree

The gracious Queen Mary is sensible, very, an ornament, she, to the throne; her recent decision shows unclouded vision, and wisdom surpassing her own. Her Majesty sittin' in state in Great Britain, has shooed the freak ladies away; and women who wobble in harem or hobble or other outlandish array, must drink from the chalice of woe, for the palace is closed to the murmuring throng; the noble high butler will swear like a sutler and tell them to mosey along. Says gracious Queen Mary: "These females contrary who dress like the barbarous Turks, are simply a scandal; their tailor's a vandal; they give me a pain in my works. I'm not arbitrary," says kindly Queen Mary, "but while I am Albion's queen, no female carousers in calico trousers around this shark will be seen. These dress reform smarties can't come to my parties, or slide on the royal cellar door; and dames who would crave or would merit my favour will dress in the sane way of yore." I wish—it's no fiction—the queen's jurisdiction extended all over the globe, since dames have a passion for crazy-jane fashion, and jeer at the time-honoured robe.

—Walt. Mason.

"FOOTWEAR IN CANADA"

Footwear in Canada is the comprehensive title of a new publication, the first number of which, under a June date, is just from the press of the publishing house of Hugh C. MacLean, Limited, of Toronto. The strength and prestige of such a thoroughly organized publishing institution was never better illustrated than with this newspaper, which comes into being in the full size and vigour of a real grown-up, with nearly fifty pages of advertising. The extent and importance of Canada's footwear trade is also revealed by the number of its technical departments of news and comment. The artistic cover design and the high character of its illustrations and typographical style clearly indicate the expertness of its conductors. Louis N. Geldart of Nova Scotia, who was for many years prominent in trade journalism in the United States, is the editor and manager of Footwear.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED

A very sad drowning accident occurred on Saturday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, when George Hornbey lost his life in the river, near the G. T. R. bridge at the Nicholson File Works. Deceased had been engaged in the afternoon whitewashing at the File Factory, and about 4 o'clock went out for a bath. He remarked to a number of young lads who were bathing there that he could not swim and then jumped into the water at the southeast side of the railway bridge. Presently he came to the surface, and covering his face with his hands sank again. The boys nearby thought that the young man was only making a little sport and made no effort to rescue him. Finally when he did not appear they gave the alarm, and a number of employees from the File Factory were soon on the scene. The logs at the dam were immediately raised, but the body was not recovered for nearly twenty minutes and all signs of life were extinct.

Deceased was a Barnardo boy, 18 years of age, and had been in this country for ten years. Before coming to Port Hope he was employed with Mr. Mitchell Zealand at Newtonville.

A number of deceased's friends came down from Newtonville last evening and they state that Hornbey was unable to swim, so it is supposed he misjudged the depth of the water in the river.

The remains were taken to Mr. A. W. George's undertaking parlours, and the funeral took place this afternoon. — Port Hope Guide.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

FOR man must work and woman must weep,
And the sooner it's over the sooner to sleep—
And good-bye to the bar and it's moaning."

"Oh, I wish I were a man. I could do so much more in my work."

It was Molly, the little stenographer lady, who enunciated that sentiment.

She made her moan before a group of half a dozen women, and four out of the six promptly echoed her sentiment.

"Just imagine being able to ask anyone you wanted to marry you, and not simply sit and wait to be asked," said the authorman's wife. "Aren't they lucky?"

"Wouldn't it be great to be able to travel around anywhere you liked and see the world and have adventures and never have to think about propriety?" mused the butterfly girl.

The other two didn't give any reason, just said they'd wished they'd been born boys instead of girls.

Have you ever noticed how often you hear this sentiment expressed among women, especially of the younger generation?

"How I wish I had been born a man!"

Why, to one young woman I've heard say she was heartily glad she was a woman, I've heard ten say they wish they had been born on the other side of the fence.

Incidentally, I can't recall that I ever heard a man say he wished he had been a woman. Can you?

Isn't it queer?

And yet I can't quite condemn the attitude, because I must confess that I've been one of the ten sometimes.

But I do think there is a good deal more on the reverse of the medal than many of us who envy men their freedom and their opportunity to do big things, realize.

For instance, I've often heard one of these would-have-been men say with a sigh of relief when the work went badly, "Oh, well, I suppose I shall get married and stop work some day."

Please turn over the medal, madame.

Please remember that a man, no matter how strenuous and exhausting the competition, no matter how disagreeable the conditions of his work may be, cannot look forward to any such relief. Marriage means to him merely the shouldering of new and tremendous responsibilities. He cannot fail now, he cannot drop out of the ranks. He must keep on, no matter how tired and weary of it all he may be, once he has given "hostages to fortune" in the shape of a wife and children.

Again, we think it must be splendid to be able to seek out the one you love and woo her, instead of sitting with folded hands hoping against hope that the right man will come for you, which, like as not, he never will.

But turn the medal over again. Isn't it wonderful to know that the one who lays his heart at your feet has chosen you out of all the human beings he knows to be his mate? The man can only know that the woman has chosen him out of the few who have sought her, not out of all. There is one joy in having the right to choose out of all the world, but there is another joy in being chosen out of all the world.

These are but two ways in which the medal you thought had only one side can be turned over.

Doubtless you can find others for yourself.

The Board Of Works Has A Busy Session Many Matters Heard

The Board of Works had a busy session last night before the meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council, and Mayor Farewell, the chairman, presided.

A letter was read from the Horticultural Society regarding the proposed walk in Victoria Park. The Society will pay over to the city the $100 received from the County Council and the city will contribute $200. It is possible that the cost may exceed $300 and the Engineer was instructed to make an estimate of the cost of the work. The City Engineer reported that the cost o fcovering a block of George street with Tarvis would be $74.75 and that the section of Simcoe street, done at the expense of the Company, would have cost the city $26.30.

The Engineer was instructed to report on applications for a sewer on College street from McDonnel street to Murray street and of a granolithic walk on the west side of Downie street fro mLondon street to Dublin street.

Permission was granted to Dr. Wightman to cut down an old basswood tree in front of his property.

The McDonald Estate applied for permission to continue using city property on Rink and Crescent streets under the usual conditions of recognizing the city's ownership by the paying of a nominal rental. The request was granted by the Board.

Mr. Fergusen, Concession St., asked that the grade for the new pavement on Concession street be struck in order that he might construct his pavements on his property. The Engineer was instructed to strike the grade.

Cement crossings will be laid across Dale avenue, at the corner of Edinburgh and Aylmer streets and at the corner of Dublin and Aylmer streets.

Ald. Buller brought up the matter of gravelling Chamberlain street, which he said was in very bad condition. It was pointed out that it would be very expensive hauling gravel from the city gravel pit, but it was suggested that gravel might be secured from Lear's pit in North Monaghan. It was decided on motion of Ald. Buller and Duncan that if gravel can be secured at a reasonable figure in North Monaghan that Chamberlain street be gravelled.

Mayor Morrow expressed an opinion that the approaches to Smith street bridge had been built up sufficiently high and that any more gravel there would leave a precipice on either side and put the city liable for damages.

The Engineer did not think the approaches were built up high enough yet but it was decided not to put any more gravel there. A board walk will be built leading up to the bridge.

The Engineer reported that the City Trust Commissioners were willing to pay for the building of a cement walk on the west side of the market square and it was decided to build a walk.

On motion of Ald. Duncan and Graham it was decided to fill in the space between the curb and the sidewalk in front of the police station with cement.

Ald. Brown stated that the owners of 5745-76 Sherbrooke street, wanted a curb in front of their property. The Board had no objection provided the Engineer gave them the proper line.

Annual Inspection Held Last Night

The annual inspection of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, took place last night in Central Park. There was a fair turn-out, and the inspection went off very smoothly and a degree of perfection, which proved satisfactory to the inspecting officer, and very gratifying to the officers in command. Lieut.-Col. Ogilvie, Capt. Clarke and Capt. Lambert of Kingston, were the inspecting officers. They arrived in the city on the 5.30 G.T.R. train and at 7.30 were driven to the armouries. The inspecting officers expressed their approval of the satisfactory condition of the regiment, and also their efficiency.

Next Sunday the regiment will parade in the armouries at 3 p.m. and will march to St. John's church at 4 p.m. for divine worship. For this occasion those not having tunics or helmets are requested to meet at the armouries next Saturday night at 8 o'clock to get fitted out and those who cannot attend at this hour will please be on hand on Sunday at 3 p.m. sharp. All are requested to turn out on Sunday if possible.

Headquarters,
Peterborough, 30th May, 1911.

No. 1. Detail of duty for week ending 6th of June, 1911; Captain for the week, Capt. Mills; next for duty, Capt. Claxton; subaltern for the week Lieut. Ruckman; next for duty Lieut. R. Cameron.

No. 2. The regiment will parade in service order at the armouries on Sunday, June 4th, 191 at 3 p.m. and wil lmarch at 4 p.m. to St. John's church for the purpose of divine service.

No. 3. Officers commanding companies will immediately after this parade leave out in their respective armouries, all helmets which require cleaning.

LINER LAUNCHED

Special to The Examiner

BELFAST, MAY 31.—Enthusiastic crowds lined the banks of the River Laffan and cheered lustily as the White Star Line's great steamer "Titanic" was launched wit happropriate ceremonies this morning.

The "Titanic" will enter the White Star's New York-Southampton service late in the year, but her sister vessel "Olympic" steams from Southampton two weeks hence for New York, and these two sea monsters, each 45,000 tons register, 882 1-2 feet long and 92 1-2 feet broad, boast the distinction of being the largest and finest vessels in the world.

These massive ships are also notable for the enchanting beauty and the unusual spaciousness of their passenger accommodations, and in first, second and third class the greatest comfort is promised. On both steamers swimming pools, tennis and handball courts, and Turkish and electric bath establishments are among the innovations introduced for the pleasure of the passengers.

Viewed in the light of their international commercial importance alone, the "Olympic" and "Titanic" will accomplish wonders in cementing racial friendships and thus more surely advance the cause of the world-wide peace than could many flying squadrons of frowning dreadnoughts.

WHY OATMEAL VARIES

Only One-Third of the Oats Are Fit

To make a really delicious oatmeal, one must use just the plump, rich grains. Common oatmeal, made of oats as they run, lacks flavor and richness. And it lacks, above all, that wealth of energy element which makes one "feed his oats."

Thousands of people eat oatmeal without ever knowing what a vim-producing food it is. They never know how enticing it can be. They buy oats in bulk without even a brand on them to guarantee the grade they get.

The choicest oats are sifted 62 times in getting the grains used for Quaker Oats. Only ten pounds in a bushel—the choicest third of the finest oats—is good enough for Quaker.

The Quaker process makes tissue grains into an oat food worth having. One who once eats it will never again care for a common oatmeal.

Oats are the vim-producing food. But they who get the utmost effects are the eaters of Quaker Oats.

To-morrow the census enumerators begin their inquisitorial rounds. It will cost about $1,000 to take the census of Peterborough. Five cents is paid for each name taken, and if there should be about 18,000 population, that will mean $900, and other expenses will bring the cost up to $1,000. 2. Family, household or institution.
3. Name of each person in family, household or institution.

RUIN TO RUBBER TIRES BY OILING THE STREETS

What it has Cost Owners of Autos and Bicycles Up to Date.

If you want to get an idea of what the oil on the streets has cost the owners of autos and bicycles in Peterborough, up to date, ask Banks, the Sporting Goods man, George street.

Mr. Banks should be in a good position to know whereof he speaks from the "tales of woe" he has heard and the number of destroyed tires he has replaced with new ones. The statement is made that enough money has been spent in new tires that would easily cover the cost of watering the streets for a whole season. Almost any hour of the day some indignant owner of a rubber-tired vehicle can be heard in Banks' store, voicing his grievance against the oiled streets and enquiring if damages cannot be collected from the city.

POST CARD COLUMN

Sporting Editor, Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Will be pleased if you can find a small space for this item in reference to the All Saints v. St. Janies' football match on May 24. I quite agree with "Church League Player" as regards referees, but who ever wins the Cup will have it. To my mind "Church League Player" ought to play for some infant school, or try to be a sportsman. I tell him what it is; some teams in the Church League thought they were going to "wipe the floor" with All Saints, but they "bit off more than they could eat," and I say who ever gets in the final for the Cup, may the best team win; but I don't think "Church League Player's" team will have a look-in. Runners-up please note.

To-Day's Developments in The Stock Markets

Examiner's Daily Letter

As supplied by the local stock brokers:

NEW YORK, N.Y., MAY 31.—Disappointment over the failure to get a favourable decision may cause speculative selling in the stock market to-day. In such event we would buy during weakness, the good rails. We would not follow [illegible] now [illegible] the groundwork is now laid for permanent improvement and setbacks will be but temporary.

New York, May 31.—The worst is over. Normal conditions will now be assertive and closer attention will be paid to cheap money, excellent crop outlook and immense export trade. Beet sugar is excellent, hold B. R. T., buy U. S. and Copper on dips.

Reading April net earnings for all companies shows decrease of $1,709,218.

Union Pacific for April, total operating revenue decrease $240,244.

C. P. R. for April increase $175,863.

Erie for April, net increase $39,744.

London, May 31.—Consols, money 81 1-2 advance 5-16, account, 81 5-8 advance 7-16.

Liverpool, 1.30 p.m.—Wheat 1-8 higher, corn 1-4 higher.

New York, May 31.—London cables report much higher market, except copper, which is 3-4 lower. The passing of the American Tobacco decision is regarded as a bull card, even though the Supreme Court decided against the combine. The situation is now clarified and business men feel that they can go ahead with plans which were held up pending the decisions. In the matter of a copper merger nothing definite has been accomplished, and the tendency it is said, will be to first make further small combinations.

In Mexico the new regime does not seem to be able to control the situation. The steel conditions continue chaotic, with the independents showing marked insurgency, which threatens to cause sharp slashing of prices before the situation mends. Fortunately, Wall street has discounted a lot or else the happenings of late would result in lower prices for securities. Ease in money the world over, is favourable to the sale of securities, the issue of Harriman bonds being taken at a premium in London. It would seem as if the worst had been seen and with good crops, which are a strong probability, higher values should result for the better class of stocks. We would suggest the purchase of such standard issues on all reactions for fair profits, though not neglecting opportunity to sell on bulges.

New York, N. Y., May 31.—A direct decline of 89 points in Amn. Tobacco, common on the curb, was accompanied by a decline in the price of both the bonds and preferred stock. The trading in these issues was accompanied by a statement that the Company's management may arrange readjustment by the sale of the Component Companies at auction. In some quarters the reduction in steel prices was considered of even more importance than the tobacco decision. Representatives of interests that have been active on the bull side swung at a loss to account for the sudden selling pressure around the room, especially in Union Pacific and in the other important railroad issues. London and the continent were apparently confident about the outlook, buying orders being received from London and Berlin.

Fire At Lasswade

Special to The Examiner:

LASSWADE, MAY 31.—News has just reached us of a sad event that happened on the Ridge early Friday morning, at the home of Mr. Wm. Bird. It appears that Mr. Bird was away from home at the time and while Mrs. Bird and her brother, Wm. Patterson, were out milking they noticed the house on fire. They rushed quickly to the house, but the fire had gained such headway that very little could be done. Mr. Patterson managed to bring out one child, but on going back to rescue the others he was overcome with the smoke, and he and the two children perished in the flames. Deepest sympathy is expressed by all for the bereaved ones.

THIS YEAR A RECORD ONE FOR THE CANADIAN WEST

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Galbraith Returned Last Night After a Four Weeks' Visit to Edmonton, Winnipeg and Calgary ---Mr. Galbraith's Views on Business Projects of West

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Galbraith returned last evening from a four weeks visit at Winnipeg and other western points. Mr. Galbraith stated to an Examiner reporter to-day that he had made his trip one of combined business and pleasure, and the trip from both a pleasure and business standpoint, had been a success. He had very brilliant reports of conditions in the west. He stated that the seeding had all been completed, and the old timers told him that the prospects were that this would be a record year in the history of the west, as they had an abundance of rain and the crops at present are in a thriving condition.

Mr. Galbraith, who is manager of the Independent Real Estate Co., 340 George street, did considerable business for the company, making large purchases for the company at Edmonton. His three principal points of visit were Winnipeg, Edmonton and Calgary. He stated that the real estate in all the cities was flourishing. In fact, he stated that in Winnipeg it was almost impossible to purchase a lot unless it was a couple of miles from the city.

Mr. Galbraith purchased 32 lots at Edmonton, and these are now on sale. He will be pleased to see any prospective buyer at his office, 340 George St., at any time. He stated that the Company was not doing business on a "get rich quick" basis, and that any citizen who wanted to get a lot in the west, could make no better move than to consult him on the matter.

He also purchased several lots at Calgary. He stated that farm lands had taken a jump from $5.00 to $7.00 since March and that the C. P. R. had raised the price of their property also.

Regarding the class of emigrants entering the west at present, Mr. Galbraith stated that they were a fine class, nearly all having money to invest. They were coming so fast, he stated, that the hotels and boarding houses could not accommodate them, and they were obliged to live in tents until they could build temporary lodgings. Mr. Galbraith speaking further of the real estate, said that a man was running no risk buying land out there, as he could sell it again in a short time. He said it was not necessary for a man to invest a great amount of money to make a success of it, as he had known men to turn over their property they had purchased, at a profit of $50 and some of them doubled their money.

At present the outlook for the west is very brilliant, and all kinds of business is flourishing, and likely to do so. Mr. Galbraith spoke especially well of Edmonton. He was of the opinion that it would be the leading city west of Winnipeg, as the C.P.R. would soon have their new bridge built and would have direct communication with the city. It has all the transportation accommodations necessary to make a large and prosperous city.

"DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE"

Richard Mansfield—An Incident in Connection with "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde"

The revival of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" at the Grand Opera House, on Saturday, June 3, matinee and night, by Eduard Waldmann, and his company recalls the following incidents in the life of the late Richard Mansfield.

Mr. Mansfield, whose starring tour last season was cut short by death, was regarded by many as one of the greatest American actors. He had mastered a large number of exceedingly difficult roles. One of the most difficult was that of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in the play of the same name. When the story was still a fresh topic of conversation the actor in his presentation of the dual role of the drama made an especially strong hit. Mr. Mansfield always had been averse to coming out and making a bow before the curtain after a death scene. One night a large audience had witnessed his performance of the role of the genial and kindly physician and the fiendish character into which, at times, the doctor was accustomed to turn. The curtain was slowly descending on the last act. Mansfield, as the dual fiend was in the throes of death, scratching the carpet with his fingers and gasping for breath. When the audience had recovered from its terror in beholding such a terrible death, the applause became insistent. The people would not leave the theatre. "Speech, speech," they cried. At last the stage manager said:

"On behalf of Messrs. Mansfield, Jekyll and Hyde, I wish to thank you for your applause. These gentlemen would gladly respond to your calls, but wish me to state that 'dead men tell no tales.'"

INTERESTING WEDDING

A wedding of much local interest took place recently at Havana, Cuba, when Miss E. Dutton, daughter of Mr. A. H. Dutton, Pharmist, Grace Hospital, Boston, and niece of Mrs. (Dr.) Browett of this city, became the wife of Mr. Theodore Lilley, of Waterbury, Connecticut, son of late Governor Lilley, of that State. Mr. Lilley is a graduate of Yale University, 1909. The happy couple are at present honeymooning in Porto Rico and Cuba. The bride's sister, Miss Fannie Dutton, spent a couple of months in Peterborough last summer, the guest of Mrs. Browett, and while here, made many acquaintances, who will receive this intimation with much interest.

Quart of Caterpillars

Apropos of the action of the Council last night in deciding to do nothing in connection with stamping out the caterpillar nuisance, it might be mentioned that citizens continue to complain of the damage being done by the pests, and of the certainty that next year the plague will be much greater. This morning Mr. John Saddler, 466 12 Gilmour street, brought an object lesson into the Examiner office, in the shape of a quart jam, filled with live caterpillars. These he had collected off three apple trees on his property, and by so doing had prevented millions next year, as each caterpillar has the power of multiplying itself thousands of times.

UNIVERSITY SUBDIVISION

The Rosedale of Calgary. The Beautiful West End Residential Annex.

Everybody knows what Calgary is. The St. Paul of Canada. Everybody knows what a University means to Residential Property. This property is situated just above the new Amusement Park—the Coney Island of Calgary. The Calgary Herald says, "We expect to spend $100,000 on amusements alone said Mr. F. S. Earnest, manager protem, for the concern establishing the amusement park on the banks of the Bow River. Work will be commenced within the next two weeks on the park grounds. This will enhance the value of this property at once.

Hear what a Toronto Commercial Traveller has to say of this property:

Calgary, Alberta.

Gentlemen : —

At your request I would say that I have seen UNIVERSITY Subdivision, and, after going over the ground and noting particularly it's location, etc., I have bought ten lots for myself, and a number that I have turned over to my friends.

I consider that UNIVERSITY is one of the best buys in or about Calgary to day, and can quite confidently recommend it to intending purchasers.

Every lot is high, dry and level, and with the railway facilities that are bound to be there in the very near future, I consider this exceptional value at the prices you are charging.

Yours very truly,

TWO YOUNG MEN ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF STEALING $30

Important Case in Police Court This Morning---One of the Youths Skipped Out of the City and Was Later Arrested at Port Hope---Case Adjourned Until Wednesday.

Edward Wrease was fined $2.00 and costs, amounting to $5.75, in the police court this morning, for being drunk and disorderly on the street yesterday. He paid the fine.

Two local men were arraigned before His Worship Magistrate Dumble on a charge of violating the sanitary laws. The case was enlarged two weeks, to give the men a chance to comply with the health by-law.

Vernon Killingbeck was arraigned before His Worship on a very serious charge, namely, of stealing $30.00 from Robt. Brown yesterday. John Dougherty was summoned to appear on the same charge, but skipped out of the city last night and was this morning arrested in Port Hope. The case was enlarged until next Wednesday, when both will come up together. Killingbeck would neither elect nor plead. The evidence in the case will not be published until the case is heard on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

CRESSMAN'S BUSINESS JOINT STOCK COMPANY

The announcement that the Cressman business will henceforth be controlled by a joint stock company means another step in advance for this progressive enterprise whose growth since its inauguration thirteen years ago has been phenomenal. Since its inception the business has advanced by leaps and bounds; every year has seen one or two features and departments added until the Cressman store is recognized as one of the finest in the province.

The new company, which will be known as the Cressman Company Limited, and is capitalized at $100,000, has the following stockholders and officers:

President—A. W. Cressman.
Vice-President— Harry W. Cressman.
Secretary—F. C. Cressman.

The business will, of course, be carried out along the same progressive lines as formerly .System has been the feature, and will continue to be the feature, of the store. The buying has been systematized in such a perfect manner that the customer benefits as well as the store, and the whole business will be managed on modern and enterprising lines that will add to its already great reputation as a buying centre for a great many lines of goods. The Bargain Annex, the firm's own patented idea, will be continued, of course, and during its six years of operation has proven one of the most popular events inaugurated by a Peterborough firm.

There is apparently the very brightest future in store for the Cressman Company, Limited. The new charter gives the firm ample scope for enlargement and extension and it is the intention of the company to continue to add new departments and to greatly enlarge some of those now so successfully carried.

Peterborough people are proud of the Cressman store and are always glad to point it out to their friends from outside as an illustration of the business growth of Peterborough. Under the new company and with the perfecting of the plans under way, there will be another big advance in the history of the store.

USING TARVO IN OTTAWA

Claimed That it Kills the Dust and Preserves the Roads

OTTAWA, JUNE 1.—The driveway between Elgin and Lisgar streets will be out of commission to-day. The officials are spreading "Tarvo" over the road. This solution with the peculiar name is a mixture of tar and oil and is used to lay the dust.

The mixture was used as an experiment above Bank street last fall, and besides killing the dust it preserved the road. One mile and a half of road has been completed at Rockcliffe, and the residents of this vicinity are clamouring for more "Tarvo."

The cost of laying this solution is about 2c per square yard. The commission has about 15 miles of road under their supervision and Superintendent Stewart expects to have the whole system under "Tarvo" by the fall.

WELL KNOWN LINDSAY MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Joseph Bell, a machinist employed at the Sylvester Manufacturing Company of Lindsay, died last night from the effects of a revolver shot, self-inflicted.

He had been in poor health for some time, but had intended to recommence work at 1 o'clock. Finding, however, that he was not in a fit condition to do so, he returned home some time later. On the return of his wife, who had gone to visit her parents, he was discovered lying dead on the floor with a revolver tightly clasped in his hand. The tragedy had occurred presumably only a few wminutes previous to her return as the room was filled with smoke.

The deceased was 35 years of age and leaves besides his wife one child.

STILL PROSPERING.

Canadians are still prosperous; they still have money to buy goods the merchants import and pay duties upon. The measure of this ability to buy is reflected in the customs revenue returns, which have reached immense proportions. The Customs revenue for the month of May closed Wednesday, is the greatest single month's revenue in the history of the Dominion, exceeding that of April by $1,173,288.80, and being over half a million dollars greater than in any pervious month. The figures are: 1910-11, $5,799,326.51; 1911-12, $6,963,155.41. For the two months of the fiscal year the revenue shows an increase of $1,628,203.72.

MUST PAY THE PRICE.

It is noticed by the despatches that St. Catharines on Tuesday voted a by-law giving the Yale-Town Company, a builders' hardware manufacturing concern, nine acres of land, free water and exemption from taxation for ten years. The company engages to erect buildings worth $50,000 and to employ in time two hundred hands. These "inducements" capitalised are equivalent to a bonus of $50,000. It is thus demonstrated that in face of the unconfessed but still sharply palpable rivalry of cities and towns, the city or town that gets an industry must provide a more or less substantial quid pro quo—more substantial than the unsuccessful rival. Peterborough voted down the Independend Tire Company by-law, which Guelph passed by a big vote. Owen Sound has secured two or three new industries by the votes of the people, and Trenton electors have shown a similar liberality. Peterborough would like to have new industries, but it seems to be pretty careful in making selections. If we get them it seems we must be willing to pay the price, or provide countervailing inducements.

VOLUNTARY DESTITUTION.

John Winney, Grimsby's oldest resident, took his first ride in an automobile—to the industrial home, St. Catharines. The Guelph Mercury adds that "it is saddening to think that a man who has attained the age of 101 years, is, at that time, of life, obliged to become an object of charity." It is sad, indeed, but no doubt Mr. John Winney, in the first forty years of his life, wasted in frivolity, three times as much money as would have sufficed, if deposited to his credit with the government under the annuity system, to secure him an income of $500 or $600 a year for the last forty years of his life. This goes to show that a great deal of the poverty and destitution and lack of comfort in old age is voluntary so far as it arises from continuous waste of small sums on profitless pleasure, which if saved and funded with the government, would have secured a comfortable competency in old age, an annuity payable by the government, while life lasts, which can not be diverted, by process of law or seizure from the annuitant. An annuity from the government is not charity. It is an investment, upon which the government pays interest at the rate of from ten to twenty per cent.

THE DUST-LAYING PROBLEM.

Hundreds of house-keepers are in the doleful dumps over the decision of the City Council to discontinue the use of oil on the streets as a dust destroyer. They felt that the ideal system had been found for the subjugation and elimination of street dust as the direct foe to cleanly housekeeping and domestic comfort. From their past experience with street watering, to this end, with its fitful spasmodic and irregular character, both in quantity supplied and in periods of application, they look to the return of the street watering system with dread. The ladies feel that the action of the Council is dictated somewhat by personal consideration. In the discussion of the matter by the Council they notice that the chief advocates of the abolition of the oil were aldermen who had either wheels or motor cars, and the personal equation solved the problem. Some of the ladies wish to know whether or not the ratepayers elected aldermen to represent themselves or the electors, and they conclude, in the spirit of the broken Cardinal Wolsley, that if the aldermen served the people as faithfully as they serve themselves and their own interests, the city would have an ideal government. If the ladies had votes the aldermen would be more careful how they remove the oil from the troubled waters, or throw cold water on the hopes of the ladies for dustless streets.

Whatever force there may be in the contentions of the ladies, the system of street sprinkling will have to be mightily improved before it gives satisfacory results. The stand pipes are too few and far apart to permit the water waggon to do effective work. The driver has to race over his beat at a great speed to have his load cover it; and the sprinkling is thus so light, that, taken in connection with the long distance the driver has to go to refill his tank, the hot sun has evaporated the water, and the dust is formed again, ready to be blown into adjacent houses, unless the windows are closed and hermetically sealed.

The city of Ottawa is using a material called "tarvo," which keeps down the dust and preserves the street surface. This is being applied to the "Driveway," a beautiful stretch of pleasure highway. Last autumn "tarvo" was given a thorough trial on Banks street, and was in every way satisfactory. The cost of applying this solution is about two cents per square yard. About fifteen miles of the "Driveway" is to be treated this summer.

The Board of Works of Peterborough finds that "Tarvia" is prohibitory. It costs about $75 for an ordinary city square. In connection with the cost of maintaining good streets, we see the wrong judgment of the city authorities in making residence streets too broad, thus making these streets expensive to construct and expensive to maintain. The consequence is that the streets are not well built and not well maintained, owing largely to the great expense.

At any rate the problem of downing the dust on our streets is again a live one. If the oil has been abandoned it behooves the city fathers to improve the street watering in every way. If this is thoroughly done; systematically and regularly done, it is fairly effective and satisfactory. But, to be this, street watering will have to be done better than it has ever been done before.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Kingston is still to retain her locomotive Works. Lucky for Kingston; for these works are about the only thing that keeps Kingston moving.

A hotelkeeper and restaurant keeper may sell cigars and soft drinks and candies to their guests on Sundays; hotelkeepers and restaurant keepers may not sell these things on Sundays to those who are not their guests; druggists may not sell cigars on Sundays; cigars are not "necessities" as understood by the Lord's Day Act; if tobacco is sold as a "drug," there must be evidence to show that it is required by the purchaser as a drug. In effect the above is the decision of Mr. Justice Middleton in the appeal of the Attorney General from the decision of the Toronto Magistrate Denison, who acquitted on several charges of Sunday selling. The purpose of the appeal is to put an end to the many and various interpretations of the law by Ontario magistrates. Hereafter magisterial decisions will be governed by that of Mr. Justice Middleton.

MOVING PICTURE CENSORSHIP.

To-day the new provincial law regulating moving picture machines, under which a board of censors passes on all films exhibits, comes into force.

The statute provides for the licensing and regulation of cinematographs, and also for the appointment by the Ontario Government of a board of censors, to hold office during pleasure, composed of three persons, who shall have power to permit the exhibition, or absolutely to prohibit or reject, all films and to suspend for cause the license of any operator. No films are to be exhibited which have not been stamped by the board of censors, and all films exhibited must bear the stamp of the board. Children under the age of 15 years, unaccompanied by adults, are not to be permitted to attend any moving picture exhibition. Suitable penalties are named, and it is further provided that in cities, towns and incorporated villages it shall be the duty of the chief constable, or chief of police, to see that the act is enforced.

The provisions of the law would seem to be pretty drastic, but they ought also to have provided that in connection with moving picture exhibitions no vaudeville numbers are to be included. These numbers are more objectionable than anything to be seen in the pictures, the latter, as a rule, being kept pretty clean. It would be well for the Education Department of Ontario to recognize that moving pictures have come to stay, that the young have acquired the taste for them, and that this taste should be satisfied by the exhibition of pictures of an educational character, to be displayed in our schools, and thereby the market for those of an unedifying character greatly restricted.

How Mischievous Magazine Writers Misrepresent Canadian Conditions

(Montreal Witness)

Mr. Richard Grigg, His Majesty's Trade Commissioner for the Dominion of Canada, has written a book—a Blue Book. It has been widely and favourably commented on, and deservedly so. It gives a survey of Canadar from July, 1908, to March, 1910, and analyses in an able way the economic conditions of the Canadian market. One of the strong points of Mr. Grigg's book is his examination into the nature of investment in Canada of United States and British capital, respectively. He finds that United States capital has been invested in the industries of Canada to the extent of considerably over a hundred million dollars, while British capital, so far, has been invested in Canadian industries to a comparatively small extent—less than twenty five millions. British capital, on the other hand has been invested in Canadian government and municipal securities, railways, loan and mortgage and insurance company, investments, to the extent of some $500,000,000 odd. Commenting on this, the writer says that one of the most striking factors of Canada's growth is her industrial progress; that it cannot be doubted that invested capital and import trade tend to run in the same channels; that investment, whether it takes the form of purchase of securities, or that of the foundation of branch manufactories and agencies establishes something more than a mere monetary connection—necessitates and creates indeed a personal knowledge of the local circumstances of the country concerned; that an impartial survey of the field indicates that United States capital has been more particularly directed into enterprises such as are connected with the import trade of the country; and that the purchase of government securities and municipal bonds, and even of the bonds and shares of the great Canadian railways, operates less directly and immediately to stimulate trade than the investment of capital over a wide range of industrial concerns which has been characteristic of the form of the United States interest in the development of Canada.

Mr. Grigg shows that the industrial and manufacturing establishments, which have been either set up in Canada, or have been financed by capital from the United States, number some two hundred, and cover the widest, most varied range of manufactures; and that this general distribution of capital over almost the whole field of business is doing much to identify the interests of the United States capitalists, with the economy and progress of the Dominion. Thus, it is clear that before the reciprocity agreement was ever thought about, the 'Americans' were increasingly dominating our markets in an industrial way—as they dominate our language in a theatrical and magazine and slang, or colloquial way. Yet, in spite of this, in spite of Mr. Grigg's plain, straightforward story, a writer in 'The National Review,' which is, perhaps, the most unscrupulous critic of the present British government and its policies—and that is saying a good deal for it where there are so many unscrupulous critics—has the nerve, or the ignorance, to twist Mr. Grigg's statements and their moral out of all resemblance to the truth, and to talk of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his supporters as 'men or the most part out of touch with the transcontinental business of modern Canada'; men who 'know that the success of the agitation for reciprocity will to some extent "Americanize" the methods of the Canadian promoter, and to that extent cause a feeling of distrust to arise in the mind of the British investor, who has already done so much for Canadian development, and will do much more provided he sees that Canada intends to proceed quietly and cautiously as in the past about the business of realizing her natural assets. But the moment the machinations of Wall street and the methods of "frenzied finance" cross the international boundary, it will be more difficult to obtain capital in London for putting even a bona-fide Canadian undertaking on its feet. If the reciprocity proposals are ratified, it may be possible to distinguish between Canadian-grown and American grown wheat. But there will be a tendency to confuse Canadian and American companies, and the resulting loss of confidence on the part of the British investor will be a serious matter for the Canadian in quest of working capital."

If anything more topsy-turvey and misrepresentative than this has ever been written, we have yet to discover it. In the first place, the writer appears to be ignorant of the fact that capital is cosmopolitan, and seeks either safety with small profits, or enormous profits with risks, no matter what the country; also that British capital is employed in 'America,' as he calls it—but which we prefer to call the 'United States'—in enormous quantities, and that the capitalists take a proposition on its merits and not on its local position—otherwise why is Sir William Van Horne exploiting Cuba railways, and Canadian capitalists exploiting Mexican power and mines, and Rio Janeiro, and Sao Paulo tractions?—and further, that United States capital has long been predominant in Canadian industries, as compared with British capital. The writer represents a fairly large and wealthy clientele, whose focus of things is 'bedevilled,' or distorted, as a photographic camera lens may be, and that at the hands of interested self-seekers, who twist facts out of their meaning with the practised skill of contortionists. The simulated fear of the writer in the 'National Review' that the Canadian promoter may learn the methods of Wall street should the reciprocity agreement be ratified is so funny, so ludicrous, in the light of the methods of the Asbestos merger, the Maple Leaf flour merger, the charges made by Sir Sandford Fleming again the Cement merger, and other get-rich-quick methods of certain Canadian 'captains of industry,' that one can almost forgive the writer of such a joke his twisting of Mr. Grigg's facts out of all resemblance to their real appearance. Considering that the methods of Canadian mergering, which are in direct lines of descent to those of Mr. Merdle in Little Dorrit, are so notoriously immoral that Mr. Monk and even some of the most influential of the Canadian protectionists have intervened and have called upon Parliament to put a stop to them by legislation, it is strange that even the 'National Review' in this respect and others can be so utterly benighted. We are forced to add that there are no more loyal or attached British subjects on any of the seven seas than those of whom Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the leader, and that there are no more criminal enemies of a United Empire than those who are doing all they can by slander to make enemies of them.

THE CONSPIRACY AGAINST F. W. G. HAULTAIN.

(Regina Leader.)

Judging from the anger displayed against The Leader by the official Regina "organ" of the Manitoba cabinet ministers, Winnipeg brewers, and Eastern Corporation interests, that paper is considerably vexed because we had the hardihood to point to the only logical conclusion that can be reached in regard to the action of the Moose Jaw and Regina Conservative associations in taking a stand on reciprocity diametrically opposed to that taken by the leader of the party in this Province. It is not surprising that the machine managers of the Tory party should be extremely wroth with The Leader for drawing the attention of the people of Saskatchewan to the exact meaning of the game now being played by the federal party managers in Saskatchewan in order to bolster up the campaign against reciprocity in other sections of the Dominion. It is absolutely essential, in order to create even the faintest glimmer of hope of Conservative success in the next general elections, to convice the people of the East that there is no chance of carrying a few seats in Saskatchewan. The order has, therefore, gone forth from Ottawa that the Conservative machine organizations in this province must go on record as opposed to reciprocity. Hence, the action taken at Moose Jaw and Regina. Such resolutions as those passed last week cannot but weaken the Conservative candidates in this Province, but they will serve their purpose elsewhere by misrepresenting the real opinion of the people of Saskatchewan.

And from the standpoint of the Big Interests and anti-reciprocity forces there are strong reasons why public feeling in this Province should be misrepresented. The hardest blow received by the anti-reciprocitites, and one they feel they must counter by some means, fair or foul, was the absolutely unanimous and official declaration by the Legislative Assembly of Saskatchewan. That unanimity was occasioned by Mr. Haultain and his entire following in the House voting in favour of reciprocity as a policy designed to benefit Canada and the Empire as a whole and Western Canada in particular. Such a declaration was a staggering blow to the Corporation and Tory partizan opponents of reciprocity.

The Leader has opposed F. W. G. Haultain and his policies in the past, and in all likelihood will do so in the future, but we recognize, as all fair-minded people must recognize, that he took his stand in favour of reciprocity solely because of the conviction that the agreement was decidedly in the best interests of the masses of the Canadian people. That his conviction was sound and right has been amply proven by the declarations of all the big non-partizan organizations of Saskatchewan.

The local and official Tory "organ" seeks to refute the idea that Mr. Haultain is to be sacrificed because of his stand for reciprocity. But take note of what has transpired since he and his supporters in the Legislature joined hands with the Scott Government in endorsation of the reciprocity pact. Prior to that the name of F. W. B. Haultain was one of those prominently mentioned along with Premier Whitney, Premier McBride and Hon. Robert Rogers as a likely successor to R. L. Borden is the federal party leadership at Ottawa. Now the name of F. W. G. Haultain is never heard in that connection. The interests opposed to reciprocity and lower tariffs have put a quietus on that idea.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

The whole secret of remaining young, in spite of grey hairs, is the maintenance of harmony in the soul."—Amiel.

"Don't let your heart grow cold and you may carry love and cheerfulness into the teens of your second century if you can last so long."—Oliver Holmes.

I met, the other day, an old lady who at eighty-seven is still delightful to look at, still delightful to be with, and apparently still delightful company for herself.

I asked her to tell me the secret of growing old so gracefully.

She deprecated the compliment, of course, but when I insisted, she said thoughtfully: "Well, my dear, if I have any secret at all it's that I began to grow old years and years ago. That is, began to prepare for it. I've been building resources for old age within myself for the last sixty years almost, so that's why I'm so happy now. It's only the people who fight old age who find it so terrible."

Isn't that a beautiful philosophy?

Of course, many people say, "I hope I never shall live to be old. I'd rather die when my usefulness is past." That's all very fine, but as it happens, most of us don't decide that matter for ourselves, and the man who thinks old age is worse than death and who can't believe he will ever live to be old, may be the very man who will linger on, "the last leaf upon the tree," years after his contemporaries have been gathered to their fathers.

You or I may have awaiting us, after the active, useful part of life has passed, an old age of ten or fifteen or twenty years.

Are we, like my sweet old friend, building for it now?

Building what?

Well, love for one thing—the love of others for us and in our own hearts the habit of loving others easily.

The habit of thought, for another thing—not just desultory, dribbling, impressionistic dreaming, but real sustained thinking, that will be a resource to us when many of our present pleasures and activities shall be denied us.

The ability to be happy with little things, for another item—of really enjoying a warm, pleasant day in spring, the first robin's song, the sight of an apple tree in bloom, the cheerful sound of the hurdy-gurdy, the smell of a rose, the warmth of a friendly greeting.

The habit of serenity, for another thing—not just the outward control that cloaks a passionate inner revolt, but the real sweet soul serenity, the kind that says:

"If there's no sun, I still can have the moon;
If there's no moon, the stars my need suffice;
And if they fail I have my evening lamp;
Or, lampless, there's my trusty tallow dip;
And if the dip goes out, my couch remains
Where I may sleep and dream there's light again."

"And suppose," you say, "after I have made all this preparation for old age, suppose that I never live to be old at all."

Well, my friend, what then?

Will you have any reason to regret your building?

Myself, I don't think so.

Ruth Cameron

ADDRESS ON EDUCATION

Rev. Mr. Couch Has Been Chosen to Speak at Conference

Rev. Mr. Couch, pastor of George street church, has been selected by the programme committee to deliver the annual address on Education before the Bay of Quinte conference, now in session at Port Hope. Rev. Dr. Rose, of Toronto, performed the task last year.

Appointment Of Deputy Chief Will Be Left To Chief Howard

Fire, Water and Light Committee Decide to Have Smith St. Bridge Lighted---Chief Howard Will be Paid Expenses of Trip to Toronto and Montreal.

At a fairly busy session of the Fire Water and Light committee held last night, the following were present: Chairman Ald. Morgan, Ald. Edgar, Ald. Metheral, Ald. Graham, Ald. Kerneghan, Mayor Morrow and Fire Chief Howard.

Nothing strange or startling transpired throughout the meeting. Even the Fire Department got off safe, a general air of tranquility reigning throughout the evening.

There was only one item that caused any discussion and that was the question as to whether Fire Chief Howard should be paid his travelling expenses, amounting to $21, for the trip taken to Toronto and Montreal some time ago. During the trip Chief Howard was instrumental in securing certain concessions from the Bell Telephone, whereby the city was enabled to get the power to operate their fire alarm and telegraph system for the nominal sum of $150 per year. Prior to this it was costing them about $600 per annum.

Ald. Graham contended that the Chief had undertaken the trip on his own account and that it was a business and pleasure trip combined.

Ald. Edgar thought that if the Chief had undertaken the trip with a view to rendering good service to the city and had succeeded in such, he should be paid his expenses.

It was moved by Ald. Kerneghan and seconded by Ald. Edgar, that the sum of $21 be paid to the Chief for expenses incurred during his trip to Toronto and Montreal.—Carried.

Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Metheral, moved an amendment to the above, that no action be taken. This was defeated.

The question of replacing the 450 feet of hose that was destroyed in the Bridge Works fire on May 9th, was then brought up.

The Fire Chief thought that he could get along this year without it, as he had no desire to overrun the appropriation.

The question of getting a new supply of uniforms was then discussed. The specifications, which were then read, called for thirteen uniforms, to be made in Peterboorugh, and to be delivered on or before September 1st, 1911.

It was moved by Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Edgar, that the committee be given authority to advertise for tenders, same to be received up to June 30th.

Chairman Ald. Morgan then read a letter calling attention to the necessity of installing a new alarm gong at the pumping station, the present one being unsuitable.

Chief Howard quoted some figures relative to the cost of a new gong. He placed the cost of an indicator and bell combined at $300. An 18 inch gong alone would cost in the neighbourhood of $150.

Ald. Kerneghan suggested that one o fthe chimes be appropriated for the purpose.

It was moved and seconded by Ald. Graham and Ald. Metheral respectively, that the committee secure further information relative to prices, etc., from the various manufacturers of such.

The Fire Chief reported that he had received the new supply of hose, consisting of 500 feet, which had been ordered some time ago from the Goodyear Fire and Rubber Co.

Ald. Morgan thought that it ought to be tested under pressure for defects but as the committee had failed to supply the Fire Department with a hose tester they would have to accept it on the company's own guarantee.

The question of the free offer of the Montreal Electric Power Co. to supply the power for lighting the city thoroughfares for a period of 3 years, the city in return to purchase the posts and fittings and agree to place them to the best advantage from an advertising point of view, was left over until further information could be secured relative to the cost of purchasing posts. It was thought that about 45 lights would be needed.

Moved by Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Kerneghan, that the chairman be authorized to see that the lighting of Smith street bridge be proceeded with at once, the necessary material for the carrying on of the work having arrived.

Ald. Duncan asked that a light be placed at the corner of Dalhousie and Water streets. This will be done as soon as the cleaning up of this portion of the street has been carried out.

Mr. Edgar moved that the city solicitor be given power to take proceedings against George Stevens, the junk dealer, to recover a sum of money in return for some scrap iron which was sold out of the fire hall some years ago.

Ald. Morgan then brought up the question of the by-law which concerns the men of the Fire Department. The said by-law had been shelved from time to time owing to the fact that the issue hinged on the question of insuring the firemen's lives against accident. The question was left over for another night.

A subject that gave rise to a little discussion was the question of the appointment of a new assistant chief.

Ald. Graham contended that the chief had a perfect right to appoint his own assistant chief, but thought that the position should be filled by a local man.

Ald. Edgar took the same stand.

Chief Howard inferred that he would like to let the matter stand until he could locate a suitable man, and then appoint him subject to the approval of the committee.

Ald. Kerneghan suggested that the Chief should send his men, two at a time to the different boxes and see what time they could make. They would then become familiar with the location of the boxes throughout the city.

Wednesday night, June 7th, was selected as a suitable night to go and inspect a number of points throughout the city which are badly in need of lights.

Mr. Archie Campbell reported that there was a post outside of his building which was sufficiently charged with electricity as to render it dangerous. A horse had been nearly knocked down twice in one day by it. The matter will be referred to the power company.

Stops Itching Heals the Skin

And Cures Eczema, Salt Rheum, and All Skin Diseases

These Results You Can Be Sure of When You Use

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Quick and certain are the effects of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Itching is stopped almost as soon as it is applied. The sores are cleaned out, morbid growth is arrested, and the healing process is soon set in action.

Compare these results with the tediousness and uncertainty of internal treatment for itching skin disease. By all means look after the health of the blood and the system generally, but get rid of the annoying and torturing skin ailment at once by using Dr. Chase's Ointment.

The reputation of Dr. Chase's Ointment has been made by its marvellous success in the cure of eczema and piles. But it is just as effective in the cure of old sores and wounds which have defied ordinary treatments and been given up by doctors.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is prized by mothers as a treatment for the skin troubles of babies, such as chafing, skin irritation, scald head and baby eczema. Its soothing influence stops the itching, and it prevents the development of eczema from these lesser skin troubles.

Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antoine, Sask., writes that Dr. Chase's Ointment cured her boy of eczema when his head was a mass of scabs, and he suffered untold agony from the itching. Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Witness In Deline Murder Trial Arrested On A Serious Charge

Sam Newhall, one of the leading witnesses in the Deline murder trial, was arrested in Dummer on Wednesday, by the Constable at Warsaw, on a charge of rape. He was brought to the city and tried yesterday in the County Court by his Worship Magistrate Edmison. He pleaded not guilty, and a remand was made until this afternoon at 2.30. It is said that Mrs. Maggie Moore was his victim. Her husband is a son of Mrs. Newhall, and she was taking care of the latter, who is very ill, when the incident is supposed to have taken place. Mrs. Moore made a sworn statement that Newhall committed the assault when she was out to an old root house for milk. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood is conducting the prosecution, while Messrs. O'Connel and Gordon are acting for the defence.

A WEAK CHESTED BOY

"My boy Frank seemed weak-chested, and took a very severe cold," writes Mrs. D. Stevens, Nimmo, Man. "The many medicines used did not seem to benefit him, until we tried Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and found it to be exactly what was wanted to cure him." No treatment is so thorough and effective as a cure for croup and bronchitis.

WATER COMMISSIONERS MET LAST EVENING

The Water Commissioners met last night, and Mr. T. F. Matthews presided, with the following Commissioners present; Messrs. W. M. Moore and W. H. Hill.

Mr. Moore moved, seconded by Mr. Hill, that Wm. Hamilton Co. be paid $218.43 for several accounts and a further sum of $200.80 for railings, etc., be paid as soon as the goods are delivered at the pumping station.

Moved by Mr. Hill seconded by Mr. Moore, that the chairman, Mr. Matthews and the Secretary, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, represent the Commissioners at the meeting of the American Water works Association, at Rochester and that their expenses be paid.

A letter was read from Mr. W. Kennedy regarding the turbine pump of the John McDougal Caledonian Iron Works Co., Ltd. It was referred to the City Solicitor.

NEW GUNS

The new 18 pound guns which recently arrived, are now being put into shape preparatory to leaving for Petawawa on June 12th. There are four guns in all, together with 12 limber carriages. They are of the latest, quick-firing pattern, having a range of about six thousand yards and are fitted up with the best and most modern equipment.

Fifty-six sets of saddlery have also been received for the use of the battery. In the sets are comprised the best material and trappings that can be secured and are consistent with the best that is on the market for the carrying on of modern warfare.

The officers of the battery are now busily engaged in selecting their men, and it is expected that this year will see one of the best turnouts that has ever gone out of Peterborough.

MAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Said to Have Been a Resident of This City

Has a Peterborough man met with a tragic death in the West? The following letter, received by the Examiner from Canmore, B.C., would indicate that such is the case, although nothing has been heard here of the accident or of any Peterborough man being missing. The letter reads as follows:

Canmore, Alta., May 27., 1911.

Dear Editor,—On the 24th inst., a man who said he was from Peterborough, in a conversation with some friends shortly before the accident, fell from a C.P.R. train and was killed. He was of medium height and slight build. He had light brown hair and a heavy moustache of a little darker colour. He would be about 40 years old. He was a machinist, and as he stated was on his way from Vancouver east to look for work. In his pocket was one piece of paper, a letter written on the 23rd of March of this year by a lady who signed herself, Lill, and in the letter, she spoke of one whom she named Albert.

These are the only facts I can give you. Perhaps by publishing them, the unknown man may be identified. His clothes and little belongings are in the possession of the policeman, Mr. Akrigg. Any letter addressed to him or myself will receive a prompt reply. His remains were buried here by the government of the park.

Sincerely yours,
ANDREW WALKER,
Presbyterian Minister

Peterborough's Building Permits Compared To Those Of Other Cities

Although more decreases occurred than has been noted in any previous month during the past year, the total investment for building work undertaken in thirty cities reporting to Construction for April, amounted to $13,792,239, as against $11,846,496 in the corresponding period of last year. Such losses as were sustained in the less fortunate localities were more than offset by the substantial totals piled up in the more successful centres. Considering the high state of development in the period immediately preceding, and the fact that labour disturbances and a somewhat late spring interfered with contemplated work in several sections, the headway made in general was all that could be expected.

Toronto's magnificent total of $3,272,818, which was by far the outstanding feature of the month, in particular, is most attractive. Not only is this amount far in excess of the corresponding figures, but is over $1,560,000 greater than is noted in any other city in the list.

Ontario in all reports six losses and seven gains, the former approximating one-half the decreases included in the accompanying table. Fort William, where a marked advance was made in the previous month, suffered a decline of 19 per cent. Peterborough fell behind 35 per cent. Ottawa and Port Arthur were both in the rear 35 per cent., and Brantford and Stratford experienced set-backs of 25 and 63 per cent. in order named. Apart from these places, however, the Province witnessed some very substantial improvements. Besides Toronto's marvellous showing, Hamilton issued p ermitsaggregating in value $624,150 as against $382,175 for the same month in the previous year. London, also, as indicated in her amount of $132,334, representing a gain of 26 per cent., experienced a busy time of it, and as much can be said for Preston, where the volume of work amounted to $110,300. Other substantial gains noted are—Berlin, 36 per cent; St. Thomas, 31 per cent., and Windsor, 354 per cent.

In this conuection it might be said that there are numerous secondary towns and cities throughout the Province that are prospering to an unusual degree, but in many cases as no permits are required, and hence no system of record kept, the totels for these places are unavailable.

As regards the West, operations were exceedingly brisk in many centres. Winnipeg, however, by a loss of 17 per cent., again sustains a decrease, and Vancouver, whose tremendous activities have so far this season attracted widespread attention, meets its first reversal in a loss of 18 per cent. Brandon, on the other hand, extended its stride and registered a gain of 58 per cent.; while most places in Saskatchewan, judging from the returns to hand, forged ahead in a striking manner. Saskatoons' investment amounted to $808,040, as compared with $292,956 in April of last year; Regina registered a total of 562,490, representing an increase of 83 per cent.; and Prince Albert has an amount of $102,355, netting a gain of 825 per cent., the highest percentage increase noted for the month. An advance of 59 per cent. is also announced from Moose Jaw, where permits amounted to $244,534, which is $170,424 in excess of the amount registered in the previous month.

In Alberta, Calgary surpasses the high total of the previous month by a slight margin, the exact figures being $1,127,256, which is a gain of 86 per cent. over the corresponding period. Edmonton, also with an increase of 42 per cent., moved well ahead, permits being issued for new work amounting to $359,027; although Lethbridge, in the same Province, is 6 per cent. behind her former figures. This decrease, however, is due to the miner's strike, which is responsible for a number of projects being laid over for the present time. In British Columbia, aside from Vancouver's decrease previously mentioned, a slight falling off is noted at Nelson, which is 10 per cent. behind. Victoria, on the other hand, is to the front with a gain of 45 per cent., the value of permits issued amounting to $280,110.

Of the Eastern cities reporting, St. John is the only one on the "upside," the investments there aggregating $78,900, which represents an advance of 51 per cent. Halifax and Sydney were both behind with respective decreases of 62 and 63 per cent., although in these two places developments have been somewhat retarded by weather conditions. Montreal also suffered a slight loss, having failed to equal her former amount by 3 per cent., while Quebec City sends in an amount of $13,000 without comparative figures. Montreal's total was $1,711,971, the third largest amount registered for the month.

While the prosperity of the month was, perhaps, less evenly distributed than in the period immediately preceding, the general expenditure, nevertheless showed a marked improvemnt.

Conditions throughout the country give every promise of a busy summer Montreal has sufficient work ahead to more than offset her present deficit; Vancouver reports that the pace so far established will be fully kept up, while as for Winnipeg it is safe to predict that on the whole the volume of work this year will be equally as great as that of 1910.

SPLENDID ADDRESS ON PERSIA AND ITS CUSTOMS

Mr. A. E. Kochaly Delighted His Audience at the Park St. Baptist Church Last Night With His Able Descriptions.

ENJOYABLE EVENT

A very enjoyable evening was spent at Park Street Baptist Church last night, when Mr. A. E. Kochaly, the Persian Missionary, gave his lecture on Persia and its customs.

The Rev. W. C. Riddiford opened with a short address and introduced the speaker, who aby interested the assembly with the following:

It is a great pleasure for me to be present with you to-night, to give you a little information about Persia and our Christian work there.

It is an Oriental custom for men when visiting, to leave their boots at the door and keep their hats on, and women wear no hats at all. Persia is one of the most ancient countries in the world. Cyrus the Great founded Persia 560 years B. C. It had forty million people and an area of two million square miles. To-day it has only an area of 30 square miles, and a population of fifteen or sixteen millions. Two hundred and fifty-six kings have ruled in Persia. It was an absolute monarchy for many centuries, but it has now a constitutional government. This is a good thing, because religions of all denominations are quite free. The temperature of Persia in the north is from ninety to ninety-five degrees in the shade, and in the south, one hundred to one hundred and ten, and there is hardly any frost in winter time in the South. Persia is, on the whole, a plain country, with comparatively few mountains. It is a good place for raising crops. We raise the best wheat in the world in Persia. We have fruits of forty varieties and make vinegar, whiskey, and wine out of them, and all of the wines are pure.

The doctrine of Mohammedanism teaches the people they must not drink, but this teaching is sometimes departed from When a Mohammedan is found drunk he is taken by a priest and a police constable to the main streets of the city, where the people look and laugh at him until he becomes sober.

We cannot travel in Persia as the people of this country do, as there are only six miles of railway in the whole country.

The farms are very small and have to be rented from the Lords. The farmers cannot live in the country because of the robbers. They have to return to the City at night. The roofs of the houses are flat and occasionally the people sleep on the house tops. They have very few chairs in the houses; the people sit on the floor, amongst rugs and cushions.

The worst race in Persia is the race of Kurds. There are about five million of these people, and their chief occupation is robbing. There is not a small tribe in the universe so cruel. When a Kurd is praying his wife may not touch him. If she should touch him the punishment is death. These people have as many wives as they wish, sometimes they marry four at a time, and send them away or divorce them at their leisure. The children of these unfortunate, deserted wives are (unless the father has means to keep them) often forced to beg at the street corners.

We have many religions in Persia. The first were Fireworshippers, founded 560 years, A. D.; there are about 8,000 Jews, Armenians, and Devil Worshippers, but there is very little missionary done. The Mohamedans number about fifteen millions, and this church was established 570 years after Christ. There are in all the world at the present day over twenty-four million Mohammadens. While our Church persuades, Mohemmadenism forces, people to worship according to their ideas. It is not heathenism htat Christians will have to fight, but Mohammadenism. They pray five times a day, in Arabic and many of them do not know what they pray.

The Mohammadens treeat their women shamefully. If a man goes out his wife will follow him at a distence and is not allowed to walk with him, hey are altogether treated like slaves. They need education and Christianity, and the women will thoen be treated in a proper manner.

We have Presbyterians, Lutherans, Methodists, Anglicans, Roman Catholics, and Baptists. The Baptist church was started twelve years ago. My parents were Presbyterians. I first went to a Presbyterian school and from there to college. I then taught Presbyterianism two years, after which I taught for a similar period for the Baptists. I now intend travelling through Canada to tell the people of our work, and to finish my arts course, and return to Persia to carry on the mission work, which is so much needed, and I want your prayers for that project.

After his excellent address Mr. Kochaly sang in his native tongue "Onward Christian Soldiers" set to a native tune.

SPLENDID DEMONSTRATION

A large number of ladies attended the demonstration at St. Alphonsus' Lyceum, last night, where Miss McPhee, a graduate of the McDonald Institution, gave a demonstration of the qualities of Ogilvie's Royal Household flour. It proved extremely interesting, as Miss McPhee went through all the baking and cooking performances on the platform in plain view of those present, at the same time explaining the easiest and simplest methods of cooking of the Royal Household flour. She baked bread and cakes and when they were cooked, a number of little girls served them around, accompanied by tea, to the audience. The demonstration will be continued every day at 2.30 until Tuesday. Miss McPhee took pains to make every detail clear to the audience, and gave the opportunity to those who wished to ask any questions they desired after the meeting. A number of ladies embraced the opportunity. She stated that cooking was a science, as well as an art, and that no recipe could tell how much flour to put in a cake on account of the different grades of flour. Miss McPhee was so explicit in her lecture that it was very interesting to the audience. All present were well pleased and expressed their extreme thanks to the demonstrator for answering their numerous questions. It is expected that a much larger crowd will attend to-morrow, and there is ample room for all.

Memo

The conversion of this business into a Joint Stock Company, after 13 years of progressive merchandising since opening in Peterboro, marks another step forward.

From a very small begining the business has grown steadily year by year until to-day it has become one of the largest distributors of general merchandise in the province.

Not a year has passed since the inception of the business in 1898 that some material advancement has not been made. The addition one by one of the many departments now handled has been systematic, until to-day a very large variety of goods can be purchased under one roof.

Plans for the future have in view larger and better business. The buying has been systematized and put on a very progressive basis. It's interesting to our customers to know that the business in every case reaches the first point of production, which means buying at the least possible price, all lines that are dealt in.

The Bargain Annex originated by us six years ago—open Wednesdays only, has become a marked feature of this business, and we have a pardonable pride in knowing it is the equal of any bargain department in the province and occupies a unique position in the dry goods trade. Covered by government patent the name is the sole property of this business.

Business building will continue to be the business of the new firm which will be known as the Cressman Company Limited.

QUALITY NEEDED MORE THAN QUANTITY IN THE MISSION FIELD

PORT HOPE, MAY 31.—Dr. N. Burwash, Chancellor of Victoria College, told the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference to-day that quality was needed more than quantity in the missionaries sent to foreign fields. Men who were unprepared to face the new problems confronting them were sent to China and Japan. At a conference of representatives of the evangelical churches yesterday it was proposed to cope with this problem by starting a movement for the establishment of a special school of instruction for missionaries. Its course of training would embrace the religious, moral and social conditions of the people to be evangelised, the best methods of presenting Christianity to them, the history of missions and the best methods of endeavouring to educate them.

The sittings to-day were confined to ministerial sessions. Rev. R. A. Whattan read the pastoral address. It advised special efforts to assimilate the foreigners flocking to Canada, to conserve the spiritual life of the children, and the strengthening and enlarging of the church by the education of the individual.

The following will receive special ordination on Sunday, June 4; R. J. Merriam, R. M. Patterson, Robert Stalker and M. L. Hinton.

Representatives were appointed by each district to secure contributions to the Burwash memorial fund.

Those transferred into the Conference were: Revs. Joseph Archer, G. C. Workman, E. C. Laker, John Line and W. R. Archer. Those transferred out of the Conference were: Revs. G. Robinson, J. C. Wilson, V. H. Emery, to Toronto; D. S. Houck, to Hamilton and R. H. Leitch, to Alberta. Rev. H. E. Graham resigned and abandons the ministry. Rev. Dr. G. F. Metzler, who has been called to New York, resigned. Rev. G. G. Gall was accepted from the Congregational church.

In the draft for the conference the only change that effects Peterborough is at the Mark street Methodist church where Rev. E .C. Cragg succeeds Rev. C. H. Coon, the latter being transferred to Trenton.

Any Hat will look well for a while.

To-Day's Developments In The Stock Markets

Examiner's Daily Letter

NEW YORK, N.Y., JUNE 1.—It is not likely that the same reversal of form from the cue furnished by the other side as happened Wednesday, will be witnessed, since sentiment in Wall street is less pessimistic, following due consideration of the situation. The bear party has been increased by the attack and the technical position strengthened to the same extent, which makes it easier to bring about a recovery in the market. The news over night is rather favourable than otherwise, the Bank of England rate is unchanged at 3 per cent., reflecting the ease in funds abroad, the same as here. Paris, it is reported, has closed a deal for the purchase of $20,000,000 M K & T bonds, showing that the demand for American securities is still active in Europe. The railroads are taking advantage of the favourable money conditions to provide for financing, the latest plan being the issue of great northern bonds to take over the Burlington and make other improvements. Our corporations are gradually getting over their fright because of the government activities in the shape of legislation and litigation, though the industrials still labour under the ban of the probable results of the late decisions. The steel situation is very mixed, the independents threatening to cut wages, which may lead to strikes, although this is an opportune time for the unions to make trouble. We feel the outlook has brightened and should take on stocks at the recessions for the pull.

New York, N.Y., June 1.—Irregularity and a mixed fluctuation seems probable in the stock market to-day. We see signs of very strong buying of good rails. They show a tendency to break away from the industrials, and should be bought confidently now on any weak spots. High grade operators are taking a trading position for the moment, but with a preference for the long side-on declines.

New York, N.Y., June 1.—Cotton acreage is 83.8 against 80.2 last year. Bull the southern stocks. C.P.R. will continue to go up. B.R.T. will come in for its own. Average Beet Sugar and St. P.

BURGLAR SENTENCED IN TORONTO WAS FORMERLY PETERBOROUGH RESIDENT

Hans Waldheim, who recently served a seven-year term in the penetentiary, and who was given three years at Toronto on Monday, by Magistrate Kingsford, for breaking into the Gladstone hotel, is well known in Peterborough. By the Toronto police, Waldheim is supposed to be the man who attempted to shoot a constable on Brunswick avenue recently, when he was attempting to enter the Brunswick hotel. Owing to darkness he could not beidentified and this charge was not laid.

Waldheim, it will be remembered, was at one time employed in the Canadian General Electric Company's plant here and was very popular in the city, being known to a very large number of people. Afterwards it was discovered he was a crook.

BURNING THE CANDLE AT BOTH ENDS

The Penalty of Overwork is Kidney Trouble—Here's Your Remedy:—

It has been man's lot since the creation to toil. The modern tendency is to overwork, to turn night into day and thus tear down faster than nature can rebuild. An unnatural strain is thrown upon the vital organs and more especially upon the kidneys, which have the work of filtering the blood free of waste and poison.

The present-day rush is too great. If it is to continue nature must be assisted with a good kidney tonic. When the kidneys begin to fail in their work Booth's Kidney Pills are needed. They quickly disperse the poisonous matter collected in the system.

Pain in the back is only a timely warning of trouble in the kidneys. An inflammation has set in and a disordered condition of the urine soon becomes apparent.

Too much or too little urine, with a constant desire to void the secretions, any noticeable deviation from the normal colour;; the appearance of a sandy sediment, proves a disordered condition of the kidneys that needs quick attention.

If your work seems hard for you; if you have a lame, weak or aching back; if you are tired and listless and seem to be running down without apparent cause, begin at once with Booth's Kidney Pills, the great kidney remedy that has cured so many of your neighbours. It has given thousands of working men and women strong, sound backs for their daily work.

Chas. Reid, of Main Street, Markdale, Ont., says: "My back had been sore and tender; a heavy dull pain had settled in the small of my back and in the region of the kidneys. My limbs would puff up with dropsical swellings and leave me in a miserable and painful condition. The urine was highly coloured and odourless and contained a quantity of brick dust sediment. Nothing had relieved my condition in any way and I had begun to think nothing would. I read of Booth's Kidney Pills and procured a box and commenced their use. I had not finished the first box when the urine cleared and the dropsical swellings had gone down. I found more relief in Booth's Kidney Pills than in all else I had used and I am stronger and better in every way and can thank only Booth's Kidney Pills for it."

PHENOMENAL GROWTH

Western Maple Shoot, Forty-two Inches Long on June 1st

As an example of the phenomenal growth due to the unusually warm weather in May, the Examiner was to-day shown a shoot from a Western maple, grown by Mr. Jas. Middleton, Division street, which is exactly forty-two inches in length—this year's growth. Everything has advanced at an abnormal rate, during the past month and May usurped the place of leafy June this year.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor Daily Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I beg to draw to the attention of those in authority, through the columns of your paper, the fact that the city's popular pleasure resort ,the Jackson Park, has not been opened to the public this season yet. I think it is now time that this be done. Numerous citizens have driven up to the park with the intention of driving through and were confronted by a fence across the gateway.

Hoping that some action will be taken at once, and thanking you, Mr. Editor for your valuable space, I beg to remain,

"For two years and seven months," says Mrs. McRea, "I was a sufferer from Kidney Disease brought on by a strain and a cold. My eyes were puffed and swollen, my muscles cramped, and I suffered from Neuralgia and Rheumatism. My back ached and I had pains in my joints.

"For two years I was under the doctor's care, but he never seemed to do me any lasting good. Then I was advised to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Two boxes made a new woman of me."

Were Given Send-off

The Examiner learns that the Peterborough members of the Coronation contingent fell in for an unexpected send-off as they were passing through Belleville last week, to join the composite Regiment. It is said that the Belleville Regiment were saying farewell to their, representatives with appropriate ceremony and that the Peterborough boys participated, which caused the Mayor, in his speech to remark that this was the second send-off the Peterborough contingent had had, as he had no doubt that they had been tendered a similar one at home. The Peterborough representatives preserved a discreet silence about the latter end of the episode.

POST CARD COLUMN

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—I wish to reply through your paper to some of the statements made at a meeting of the committee of the Whole Council on Tuesday night in reference to the Brock street Roller rink. As manager of the rink, I wish to state emphatically that there has been no rowdyism or unseemly conduct within the rink; in fact it is one of the best conducted rinks in the province and the slightest sign of ungentlemanly conduct results in the expulsion of the offender. The statement was made that we have only three tunes for our band organ. As a matter of fact we have nearly thirty. Once again, it was stated that one of the police force had opened and closed the rink the other night. This is an impossibility, as I alone carry the key to the rink and open and close the building myself every evening. Hoping that these explanations will show that the statements in question were rather long drawn ,I remain,

Yours truly,
L. E. PITCHER.

IMPORTANT NEW POST

Several Educational Appointments Are Announced by the Ontario Government—Chief Inspector Fills New Position

COWLEY SUCCEEDS HIM

Toronto, June 1.—A number of important educational appointments were announced by Sir James Whitney yesterday. The first is the appointment of Dr. F. W. Merchant as director of industrial and technical education for the province. It is understood that the Government will, later on, allow Dr. Merchant to spend some months abroad, with a view to his acquiring such other knowledge as he may require in his new position. He will combine with this office the inspectorship of normal and model schools, a post which he at present occupies.

As chief inspector of public and separate schools, Dr. Merchant is succeeded by R. H. Cowley, M.A., at present continuation school inspector.

The growth of continuation schools, which last year numbered 136, has necessitated the appointment of a second inspector, for which provision was made by the Legislature last session. The Government has appointed Dr. John Waugh of the Ottawa Normal School staff, and formerly inspector of Ontario County, to succeed Mr. Cowley, and the additional inspector is G. K. Mills, B.A., now public school inspector for North Simcoe.

H. A. Dorrance, Orangeville, Dufferin County; F. M. Clement, Dutton, Elgin County; H. C. Duff, Markdale, Grey County; J. E. Smith, Simcoe, Norfolk County; W. E. Edwards, Newmarket, York County; and E. S. Hopkins, Norwood, Peterboro County, have been named teachers of agriculture in high schools.

BANK ATTACKED.

Clerks Exchange Fusilade of Shots With Robbers.

Danville, Que., June 1.—A daring attempt to rob the Danville branch of the Eastern Townships Bank was made at an early hour yesterday morning by three masked men, who are believed to be part of a gang of yeggmen, who crossed the line from the United States some weeks ago. Shortly before three o'clock two of the bank clerks, Thorbe and Greenshields, who were sleeping on the premises, were awakened by the sound of breaking glass. On examination of the front entrance of the bank, the two clerks saw three men, closely masked, attempting to gain an entrance into the office.

Screening themselves behind the desks, Thorbe and Greenshields opened fire on the intruders with their automatic revolvers and for a time there was a fusilade of shots exchanged, the burglars returning the fire with alacrity as they retreated from the building. The sound of the shooting soon aroused the residents of the neighborhood, but by the time any appeared on the scene the yeggmen had decamped in the direction of Richmond, leaving no trace of their identity.

Chief McCaskill of the provincial detective department, was notified of the attempt early yesterday morning and despatched one of his men to Danville on an early train to work in conjunction with the local authorities in the attempt to trace the gang.

Acting on information recently communicated to him by Chief McCaskill, J. P. Knight, of the Canadian Bankers' Association, had warned bank managers throughout the province that a well-organized gang of safe-breakers was believed to be making for this part of the country and advised unusual vigilance in the safeguarding of branch banks at night. The advice of Mr. Knight was followed by the manager of the Eastern Townships at Danville, and two clerks were detailed to sleep on the premises. The unsuccessful attempt of yesterday morning shows the wisdom of the step.

ADRIFT ON LAKE.

Three Toronto Boys Spend Unhappy Time In Boat.

Toronto, June 1.—After being tossed to and fro in a little 14-foot dinghy on Lake Ontario, without food and with the sparsest of clothing, for one day and two cold nights, G. E. Macklem, aged 19, of 345 Indian road; Edward Fleury, 29 Brooklyn avenue, and W. G. Harvey of Roncesvalles avenue, were cast ashore yesterday morning near Grimsby. Sighting a farm house they lost no time in securing a good country breakfast, and in phoning to Toronto relatives of their safe, but hardly timely landing on soil far from where they had set sail.

The unfortunate trio left Toronto Monday afternoon about 4.30, and sailing out the western gap followed the course taken by the wind. Little did they realize the peril they were in until their skill proved insufficient to steer their little craft against the stiff gale which had taken them far from city lights by the time the red glow in the western sky had vanished.

Helplessly they tossed all night on the waves, living in the hope that some steamer would pass their way.

The light came, but no vessel appeared within hailing distance. The night again fell and with the warm morning light appeared the land of some distant shore. Hope revived and the three struggling seamen made a last and successful effort to reach safety.

Refused to Punch Clock.

Port Arthur, June 1.—Refusing to be governed by an order of the City Council, that all city employes must punch the clock on going to and leaving work, City Engineer Antonisen yesterday resigned.

SEVEN ARE KILLED

London, Eng., is Visited by a Death-Dealing Storm—The Worst Electrical Disturbance in Many Years

CLEVELAND SUFFERS

London, June 1.—The exceptionally high temperature that prevailed during the month of May culminated last evening in a terrific thunderstorm in London and the southern and western suburbs. Many persons were killed by lightning, which also struck numerous churches and other buildings. An electric wire fused in the building of the Royal Exchange and started a fire, which, however, was speedily quenched.

The storm was accompanied by a deluge of rain, which caused a landslip on the Southeastern Railway near Merstham, blocking the line and flooded the Great Western Railway at Ealing, severely deranging traffic. The full fury of the storm was felt at Epsom shortly after the horse races had ended, and thousands of the spectators were drenched.

The storm was the most severe that has visited London in many years. The thunder crashed and vivid lightning played with terrifying effect along the rails of the railroads and in the telephone and telegraph instruments, while the deluge of rain stopped motor vehicles, causing great inconvenience.

Altogether seven deaths as the result of the storm have been recorded. Five of these — two policemen and three civilians—occurred in the neighborhood of Epsom Downs.

Four Die at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., June 1.—Four dead and a score injured was the toll of the terrific wind and rain storms which swept over Cleveland and vicinity yesterday, wrecked buildings, overturning boats in Lake Erie, breaking down wire poles, tearing up trees and smashing windows and signs on the streets. The storm was general in Northern Ohio and very destructive. Henry J. Render, 40, was fishing in the lake when the storm broke. His boat capsized and he was drowned. The body was recovered. Anton Malico, Gaisoni Cinnico and Marani Giovannis were rowing off Edgewater Park. All went down but Giovannis, who clung to the boat and was rescued, only to die a half hour later in a hospital.

Twenty bathers at Edgewater Park, who took shelter in the bath house, were buried, when the roof fell on them. George Richards, 14, and Frank Heinberger, 11, were so seriously injured that they will probably die. E. A. Wright had both legs broken when a wagon was blown on him. John Grazini was struck by a piece of cornice, blown off a 11-storey building down town, and his skull was fractured.

Pittsburg Suffered Severely.

Pittsburg, June 1.—With wind blowing 64 miles an hour, as recorded by the weather bureau, and rain that fell in torrents, a storm swept over this section of the state late yesterday, dealing death and damage in its track. Ethel Makrauer, aged 9, dropped dead from fright. George A. Martin, president of the Pittsburg Tube Co., is lying in a hospital with a fractured skull caused by a falling sign.

Will Not Turn Out.

Brantford, June 1.—Lieut.-Colonel Ashton of the Dufferin Rifles issued the statement here yesterday that the regiment would not turn out and assist in the mayor's gala day celebration on June 22, on account of the treatment accorded the Dufferin Rifles band. Recently the City Council divided the summer park concerts among three local bands, a citizens' organization, the Brant Dragoons and the Dufferin Rifles, the latter being the pioneer band of the city and having always had civic patronage. Col. Ashton contends that the city owes its support to the military band, the members of which receive no pay for services. The demonstration will be gone on without military features.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Several Chatham capitalists have decided to form a company with $20,000 stock, to manufacture motor trucks.

A little boy playing with matches was responsible for the destruction of Beales barn on the West Ward, St. Mary's, by fire.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Historical Society will open in Brantford to-day, with an attendance of 50 delegates from all over Ontario.

A bylaw prohibiting the exposure of foodstuffs in front of stores and elsewhere, will shortly be presented to the London City Council for approval.

Thomas Kennedy of Huron Township, a farmer, who was trampled by a runaway team of horses on Saturday, died yesterday as a result of his injuries.

A large acreage of fall wheat in the Strathroy district has been plowed under and potatoes planted in its stead. The snow last October smothered the wheat.

Tony Pallmutter, employed at the Canadian Canneis' factory, Simcoe, fell from the roof, 15 feet, yesterday, and sustained a compound fracture of the arm and serious internal injuries.

The Western Association of Baptist Churches yesterday denounced the ne temere decree as "of a nature which fails to creat the kind of a home essential to the wellbeing of both church and state."

Prince of Monaco Coming.

Quebec, June 1.—The Prince of Monaco is expected to pay a visit to Canada this summer, when he will come out to see his friend Henri Menier, known as the "Chocolate King," and who is the owner of the Lilas dof Anticosti, it is announced will pay a visit to his possession down the gulf this summer in order to look over the many works of improvement and development which are now in progress there.

CANADIANS ARE DINED

Lord Strathcona Presided at Distinguished Gathering—Premier Ward Urges a Better System of Communication

LAURIER'S SPEECH

London, June 1.—There was an exceptionally large gathering at the Canadian Club dinner here last night. Lord Strathcona presided, and among those present were Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Sir Joseph Ward (Premier of New Zealand), the Right Hon. Lewis Harcourt (Secretary for the Colonies), Hon. Richard McBride (Premier of British Columbia), Hon. W. J. Bowser (British Columbia), Sir Edmund Walker, G. J. Desbarats, Col. Sam Hughes, Dr. J. A. Macdonald, Sir William Mackenzie, Sir Donald Mann, Hon. Walter Scott (Premier of Saskatchewan), Hon. A. L. Sifton (Premier of Alberta), and Chairman Smithers of the G.T.R.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, responding to the toast of "The Dominion," delivered a lengthy eulogy on Lord Strathcona. Referring to the growth of Canada, Sir Wilfrid continued: Canada was really only discovered within the last twelve years as a new constellation in the western sky, a land fit for hardy men, and offering to all the British institutions which Canada cherished as the apple of her eye.

"Canada," concluded Sir Wilfrid, amid applause, "is the pride of the twentieth century, a gem in the British crown."

Sir Joseph Ward, Premier of New Zealand, said he regarded Canada as the halfway post across the Pacific between New Zealand and the United Kingdom. They realized fully that in future years there would be much closer associations between Canada, Australia and New Zealand. He wanted the distance between these countries and the United Kingdom annihilated. If they were within twenty-one days of London and within thirteen days of Canada it would draw the people of these countries closer together. They wanted all parts of the Empire to be one in reality.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had already negotiated a direct steamship service across the Pacific, continued Sir Joseph Ward, and now Britain should help in the same way across the Atlantic.

"In the great galaxy of countries under the British Crown," concluded the speaker, "there is one under-current directed to the bringing about of practical co-operation between the different part of the Empire and so making the whole irresistible."

Sir Edmund Walker said the great problem before Canada was the making of the immigrants of various nationalities part of the British people "Probably for the next half century," continued Sir Edmund, "Canada will have to rely upon British credit and will have to look to Britain for the money for further development."

Sir James Off to London.

Toronto, June 1.—Sir James Whitney will leave for New York to-night to take steamer for the coronation. The Premier stated yesterday afternoon that he expected to be back by July 15. He will meet Hon. Adam Beck and Hon. J. S. Duff in London.

Sir James was at the Parliament Building this morning. Hon. J. J. Foy will be acting Premier.

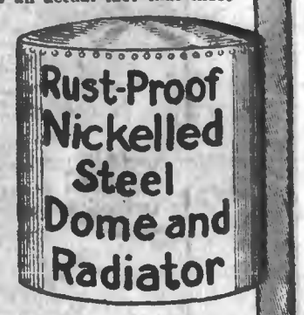
How does your furnace stand the summer?

That's the real test for durability

When your furnace is not in use, the cool, damp air in the cellar, coming into contact with the steel or iron dome and radiator, causes the metal to "sweat." This "sweat," or moisture, attacks the metal and quickly makes it rust. It's an actual fact that most furnaces would give TWICE as many years of service if they did not have their long summer vacations but were in use continually.



However, the Sunshine furnace is now equipped with a Nickelled Steel Dome and Radiator. Nickelled Steel is an exclusive McClary invention. It has been subjected to the most severe tests and has demonstrated it is absolutely rust-proof. It does not gather rust during the "idle" summer. The Sunshine is built to give you lasting service.

You pay no more for the durable Sunshine than for an ordinary furnace. Besides, the Sunshine is guaranteed by us. Phone or call on our agent in your locality and get further interesting information.

Business Boys' Baseball League

Every business boy who wants to play baseball should take advantage of this opportunity, whether you know the game or not, a place will be made for you. A Business Boys' League will be started—all games to be played in the evening. A practice is called for to-night at the Central School yard. The League will be for business boys only.

The two baseball teams, comprised largely of Business Boys, which met last night at the Central School yard impressed the small number of interested spectators most favourably, and demonstrated that when they clash there will be something doing. The Dewdrops were the first to bat, and while they hit the ball hard, were unable to score on account of the way in which the Whirlwinds ate up everything that came along. In their first innings the Whirlwinds managed by good hitting and fast base running, to get one man across the pan. The Dewdrops evened up, however, in their third, and from then on the game was very fast, largely due to the snappy fielding. The final score was 3-3.

Batteries—Dewdrops, A. Trull, T. Quinn; Whirlwinds, O. Cavanah, A. Darling.

City Juvenile game to-night at Oval—Midgets at Lights; umpire, Mr. Neale; time, 6.40.

POINTS TO CHINESE ARMY.

Novoe Vremya Warns Countrymen Against Danger.

St. Petersburg, June 1.—In a leading article yesterday The Novoe Vremya points warningly to the Chinese armament in Manchuria, which, it says, calls for the greatest vigilance on the part of Russia.

The paper declares that 6,500 European trained troops are being quartered in the towns and villages within a three days' march of Harbin, and that auxiliary troops are being maintained in the same area; that 9,000 so-called rural guards have been drafted along the Chinese Eastern Railroad, and that four divisions of regular troops have been stationed at the various strategical points in the province.

Russia, The Novoe Vremya says, can place in opposition to this force only the feeble ranks of the railroad police, which now are scarcely able to cope even with Chinese bandits.

The newspaper ironically speaks of "beginners in diplomacy," referring to Premier Stolypin, who, since Foreign Minister Sasonoff's illness, has taken over the actual charge of the Foreign Ministry. Russia for decades, the paper says in conclusion, has not faced a foreign event in full armor, and as a consequence her unpreparedness and irresolution are exemplified by the recent episode with Turkey.

To Recognize Portugal.

Lisbon, June 1.—An official note issued yesterday says that Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, on Tuesday communicated to the Portuguese representative in London that the British Government was ready definitely to recognize the Portuguese republic as soon as the constitution was voted.

Foreign Minister Machado announces that the constituent assembly will open its session on June 19, and that the constitution will be voted by the end of that month. The chamber will elect a President of the republic.

Kidnapped His Son.

Galt, June 1.—John Mayes of Toronto came here on Tuesday, walked to Sheffield, a village six miles out, and kidnapped his 15-year-old son, who was placed out with a farmer by the Children's Aid Society. The father was taken in custody on his arrival here, and the boy sent back to his foster home. The parents denies having placed the boy in the care of the Children's Aid Society, and an adjournment was taken for a week, he having his liberty in the meantime.

Dedicated Masonic Temple.

Colborne, June 1.—A large number of members of the Masonic lodges in the district assembled with Colborne Masonic Lodge No. 91 here to unite with them in the ceremony of dedicating the new Masonic Temple, a fine structure, which has been erected here. Among those present were Grand Master Judge D. F. McWatt, Barrie; A. Shaw, Kingston; District Deputy H. H. Post, Wellington; Past District Deputy C. A. Lopp of Brighton.

More Jobs Than Applicants.

Montreal, June 1.—"No person need be without a job and any able-bodied man who complains that he is without work, can be put down as an idle loafer, too lazy to work." This is the emphatic statement of Mr. Francis Payette, superintendent of the provincial employment bureau.

"Yes," he said, "you can state without fear of contradiction, that, notwithstanding the constant arrival of immigrants from the old country, we have here in Montreal more vacancies than applicants.

Attacked Total Stranger.

Kingston, June 1.—While drinking heavily, James Blake, a young man, attacked Joseph Friend, aged 40 of Brooklyn, N.Y., on the street without provocation and almost killed him. He pleaded guilty to assault and was fined $15 and costs. Friend came from Ottawa a few days ago, where he had been confined in St. Luke's Hospital seriously ill. He was sent to Kingston to recuperate. He never saw Blake until the time he was attacked.

WILL REFUSE CHANGES.

Democrats Will Not Accept Amendments to Reciprocity.

Washington, D.C., June 1.—Democratic leaders of the House of Representatives have notified President Taft they will not accept the proposed Senate amendments to the Canadian reciprocity agreement. The Democrats informed the President they will stand by the reciprocity proposition, as it was negotiated, and it was adopted by the House.

This action on the part of the House leaders means there will be a deadlock between the upper and lower branches of Congress, and that the extraordinary session will be prolonged until late in the fall. In the event of the reciprocity measure being amended by the Senate, it will be necessary to send it to a conference committee. The House members of the conference will be men who stand out against the Senate amendment indefinitely, or until the upper branch of Congress is forced to yield.

A canvass of the House has developed that the regular Republicans who voted for the reciprocity measure will support the Democrats in their efforts to force the adoption of the reciprocity proposition as negotiated, thus obviating any amendment on the part of the Canadian Parliament. President Taft, who is beginning to realize the obstacles in the way of his pet scheme, is hopeful that the attitude of the House Democrats will have great influence in winning his contest against the Senate amendment.

Vote Next Wednesday.

Washington, June 1.—The Senate finance committee decided yesterday to vote on the Canadian reciprocity bill on Wednesday. It had been planned to end the hearings last night, but additional witnesses will be heard on Monday.

Fisherman Drowned.

Cayuga, June 1.—A drowning occurred near Selkirk early Tuesday morning, the victim being Jonas Hoover, aged 35, and married, son of Abraham Hoover, of the Township of Rainham. The victim, accompanied by Eli Murphy, was out at Sandusky Creek on a carp spearing expedition, when the boat in some manner capsized. Murphy swam ashore, and he saw Hoover swimming towards the opposite shore. Murphy waited some time, expecting Hoover to reach the shore and right the boat. Being unable to see in the darkness, and not hearing a sound, Murphy aroused residents in the neighborhood. Hoover's body was recovered about 4 a.m. Mrs. Hoover was at Rodney, Ont.

Hon. Mr. Fielding Leaves.

Montreal, June 1.—Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, sailed for England at daybreak yesterday morning on the Royal George, accompanied by his wife and three daughters.

The Minister was looking in fairly good health, but it was evident that the facial paralysis, which he contracted some time ago, is still causing him trouble.

New Buildings for Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, June 1.—The Winnipeg Electric Railway Co. is preparing plans for the erection of a ten-storey building on the site, 100 feet square, recently acquired at the corner of Notre Dame and Albert streets. So soon as the company moves out of their present building at Portage avenue, the Quebec Bank will erect a new building there.

Boy Fatally Hurt by Auto.

Toronto, June 1.—William Dyce, 11 years, 136 Geoffrey street, ran from behind a street car in front of an auto to Geoffrey street and Roncesvalles avenue at 9 o'clock last night. He was knocked down and injured internally. He was taken to the Hospital for Sick Children. The auto belonged to W. D. Emery, 388 Avenue road.

Deported Elopers.

Brockville, June 1.—The services of the Canadian immigration officer were brought into effect here yesterday in connection with the visit of two women from Syracuse, N.Y., Mrs. Wm. Webb and Miss Lena Silkey, both aged eighteen. On Saturday, they suddenly left Syracuse in company with a man named Foley of Athens, Ont. The trio put up at a hotel in Brockville, and yesterday when Mr. Webb, accompanied by his father-in-law, Z. A. Klotz, arrived here in search of the elopers, the women were found at a private residence. Mrs. Webb and her companion flatly refused to return. The aid of the immigration inspector were enlisted and the women were placed aboard the ferry steamer and sent back to the other side as undesirables. Foley has left for parts unknown.

NEW SERIAL COMMENCES ON SATURDAY

The Examiner's new serial story, "One Way Out" by William Carleton will commence in the Saturday issue of this paper and the Examiner has no hesitation in commending the attention of its readers to this remarkable narrative. It will be found widely different from anything the Examiner has ever published and if studied carefully is bound to result in material benefit to the reader. If it does not do anythingelse it cannot fail to inculcate a spirit of economy and saving and that in itself is a consummation devoutly to be wished. At the same time the story is fascinatingly interesting and entertaining, and once commenced the reader will not be satisfied until the finish is reached. The story begins on Saturday, and generous instalments will be given each day until completed.

TO BEGIN RAILWAY

Tenders Are Asked for the First Part of the Hudson Bay Line —Government Advertises For Bids

EXTENSION OF I.C.R.

Ottawa, June 2.—Advertisements for tenders for the first 185 miles of the Hudson Bay Railway, starting from the present terminus of the Canadian Northern Railway at The Pas, on the west side of the Saskatchewan River, were sent out yesterday by the Railway Department. Contractors are given until August 1 to submit tenders. The contract will be let as speedily as possible after that date, and it is expected that by the end of next year steel will be laid on nearly all of this first half of the line to the Hudson Bay terminal.

Tenders for the remaining portion of the road will be called for early next year, as soon as the route is finally located. The Railway Department will supervise the construction of the road. Chief Engineer Armstrong who has had charge of the Government survey of the road for the past two years, will be the chief engineer in charge of construction, with headquarters at Winnipeg.

Tenders for the construction of the Halifax & Eastern Railway and for the line round the north shore of the Bras d'Or Lake in Nova Scotia, the extension of the Intercolonial system provided for before the adjournment of Parliament, will be called for in a week or so. The surveying of the lines is now nearly completed.

"DO NOT INTERFERE" IS ADVICE OF THE PREMIER

Sir Wilfrid Says the Colonies Should Let the Mother Country Use Her Own Discretion in Making Treaties.

THE LONDON PACT

London, June 2.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the Imperial Conference Premier Fisher moved a resolution regretting that the dominions were not consulted prior to the acceptance of the terms of the declaration of London, that it was undesirable for Great Britain to adopt the inclusion of article 24, on foodstuffs, in view of the fact that a large part of the trade of the Empire was in these articles, that it was undesirable for Great Britain to adopt the provisions of the articles permitting the destruction of neutral vessels.

He attached the most importance to the first part of the resolution. Being part of the family of nations, he thought that the time had arrived when they should be informed, and, if need be, consulted before arrangements were entered into with other countries, by which their interests were affected. Their sole desire was to enlarge their power by means of communication between the self-governing communities. This step, if taken, while not weakening the Mother Country, would strengthen the dominions and make them feel they were sharers in all that was done for the protection of the best interests of the Empire.

Batchelor said that if alterations could be made in reference to certain points which would be for the good of the Empire generally, it would bring about a feeling of safety, contentment and satisfaction, where the greatest apprehension was now felt.

Sir Edward Grey said that with regard to foodstuffs there had hitherto existed a state of chaos. When aggrieved they had to depend for redress on the decision of the prize courts of belligerents, which were never satisfactory tribunals for a neutral to appeal to. The Government agreed to a certain extent that there should be no seizure of goods which were conditional contraband, when consigned to a neutral port, even though they might be destined to an enemy. One result of this concession, if they found a difficulty in clearing the whole Atlantic of the enemy's corsairs, would be that all possible goods would be consigned to neutral ports in Europe, and all we would have to do would be to protect the passage of goods across the channel to one of our ports.

There was only one thing that could secure safety in war time, the supremacy of the British fleet. That being maintained, other points were of comparative insignificance. The consultation of the dominions would have been difficult, seeing that they were not consulted by The Hague Conference. A prize court convention of the dominions would have to be consulted before the next Hague Conference.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said it was a far-reaching proposition that the Dominions should be consulted in regard to treaties negotiated by the Home Government. Canada had claimed the liberty of negotiating her own commercial treaties, which liberty had been given them. Regarding other treaties it might seriously embarrass the Home Government if it had to consult the dominions. If a dominion insisted on being consulted in regard to matters which might result in war, it would imply the necessity that they should take part in the war. He thought on the whole it would be better to leave the matter entirely to the discretion of the Home Government. The declaration itself was an immense step in advance. It was the first step towards arbitration between nations, which Canada entirely favored.

Sir Joseph Ward and Dr. Findlay both supported the declaration.

Ignored Protest of Typos.

Toronto, June 2.—The Trades and Labor Council held their regular meeting at the Labor Temple last night and discussed many matters, although little action of any kind was taken.

The report of the legislation committee declared that the Government inspectors had disregarded the Typographical Union's letter protesting against poor lead gas protectors in some local printing houses. One of the members had heard that one of the Government inspectors had asked: "What fool wrote that letter?"

The Work of a Lunatic.

Chatham, June 2.—The wrecking of passenger train No. 9 on the M.C.R., near Ridgetown, when Engineer Quinlan and Fireman Oaks were killed, is now believed to have been the work of a lunatic, and not a job put up by disgruntled railway employes.

TAFT IN DILEMMA

President is Trying to Keep His Forces in Line as the Crisis is Now at Hand—Tactics of the Republicans

RECIPROCITY'S CHANCES

Washington, June 2.—The crisis in the Senate fight on Canadian reciprocity is expected when the farmers' free list bill is offered as an amendment to the bill carrying the bill into effect. That such an amendment will be offered to embarrass the Democratic supporters of reciprocity seems certain. Toward this contingency President Taft is devoting his attention. He is holding daily conferences in an effort to keep Republican and Democratic Senators alike in line for the pact.
